

Arms and the Woman.

By HAROLD MACGRATH.

When I went up stairs to my room, it was my belief that a week or so at the inn would not hang heavy on my hands. I had forgotten for the moment the princess or that I was hunting for Hilaris. It is strange how a face may upset one's plans. Gretchen's likeness to Phyllis, whom I loved, upset mine for many days to come.

As I gazed from my window the next morning I beheld the old innkeeper and Gretchen engaged in earnest conversation. He appeared to be pleading.

"May, entreating, while she merely shook her head and laughed. Finally the old man lifted his hands to heaven and disappeared around the wing. When I came down, Gretchen was in the garden culling roses. She said they were for the table.

"Very well," said I. "Give me one rose."

"You may have them all at the table."

"But I shall not want them then." She gave me an enigmatical glance, then cut a rose for me which was withered and worm eaten.

"Gretchen is unkind," I observed.

"What matters it whether the rose be fresh or withered? It dies sooner or later. Nothing lasts, not even the world itself. You wish a rose not because it is a rose, fresh and fragrant, but because I give it to you."

"You wrong me, Gretchen. I love a rose better than I love a woman. I never smiles falsely, the rose, or plays with the hearts of men. I love a rose because it is sweet and because it was made for man's pleasure and not for his pain."

"That sounds like a copy book," laughed Gretchen. "The withered rose should teach you a lesson."

"What lesson?"

"That whatever a woman gives to man withers in the exchange—a rose, a woman's love."

Said I reproachfully: "You are spoiling a very pretty picture. What do you know about philosophy?"

"What does he know about roses?" defiantly.

"Much. One cannot pick too many fresh ones. And let me tell you a lesson which you should have learned among these roses. Nature teaches us to love all things fresh and beautiful—a rose, a face, a woman's love."

"Here," holding forth a great red rose.

"No," said I; "I'll keep this one."

She said nothing, but went on snipping a red rose here, a white one there. She wore gloves several sizes too large for her, so I judged that her hands were small and tender, perhaps white. And there was a grace in her movements, despite the ungainly dress and shoes, which suggested a more intimate knowledge of velvets and silks than of calico. In my mind's eye I placed her at the side of Phyllis. Phyllis reminded me of a Venus whom nature had whimsically left unfinished. Then she had turned from Venus to Diana, and Gretchen became evolved, a Diana slim and willowy. A sculptor would have said that Phyllis might have been a goddess and Gretchen a wood nymph had not nature suddenly changed her plans. What I admired in Phyllis was her imperfect beauty. What I admired in Gretchen was her beautiful perfections. And they were so alike and yet so different. Have you ever seen a body of fresh water ruffled by a sudden gust of wind, the cool blue green tint which follows? Then you have seen the color of Gretchen's eyes. Have you ever seen ripe wheat in a sun shower? Then you have seen the color of Gretchen's hair. All in all, I was forced to admit that, from an impartial and artistic view, Gretchen the barmaid was far more beautiful than Phyllis. From the standpoint of a lover it was altogether a different matter.

"Gretchen," said I, "you are very good looking."

"It would not be difficult to tell her nationality."

"Which means?"

"That the American says in one sentence what it would take a German or a Frenchman several hundred sentences to say." Gretchen was growing more interesting every minute.

"And your mother and I are not the only ones who have told you that you are as beautiful as Hebe herself?"

"I am not Hebe," coldly. "I am a poor barmaid, and I never spill any wine."

"So you understand mythology?" I cried in wonder.

"Does he think that all barmaids are as ignorant as fiction and ill-meaning novelists depict them? I have had a fair education."

"If I ever was guilty of thinking so," said I, answering her question, "I promise never to think so again."

"And now will he go to his breakfast and let me attend to my duties?"

"Not without regret," I said gallantly. I bowed to her as they bowed in the days of the Venus, while she looked on suspiciously. At the breakfast table I proceeded to bombard the innkeeper. I wanted to know more about Gretchen. "Is Gretchen your daughter?" I began.

"No; I am only her godfather," he said. "Does he wish another egg?"

"Thanks. She is very well educated for a barmaid."

"Yes. Does he wish Rhine wine?"

"Yes. Has Gretchen seen many Americans?"

"Few. Perhaps he would like a knoblauch with salt and vinegar?"

It occurred to me that Gretchen was not to be discussed, so I made for another channel. "I have heard," said I, "that once upon a time a princess was born in this inn."

The old fellow elevated both eyebrows and shoulders—a deprecating movement. "They say that of every inn. It has become a trade." If I had known the old man, I might have said that he was sarcastic.

"Then there is no truth in it?" I disapprovedly.

"Oh, I do not say there is no truth in the statement. If he will pardon me, it is something I do not like to talk about."

"Ah, then there is a mystery!" I cried, with lively interest, pushing back my chair. But the innkeeper shook his head determinedly.

"Very well," I laughed; "I shall ask Gretchen."

He smiled. The smile said, "Much good it will do you." Gretchen was in the barroom arranging some roses over the fireplace. Her hands were bare; they were small and white and surprisingly well kept.

"Gretchen," said I, "I want you to tell me the legend of the inn."

"The legend?"

"Yes; about the princess who was born here."

Gretchen laughed a merry laugh. The laugh said, "You are an amusing person."

"Ah, the American is always after legends when he has tired of collecting antiquities. Was there a princess born here? Perhaps. At any rate it is not a legend. History nor peasantry makes mention of it. Will he be so kind as to carry the ladder to the mantel so I may wind the clock?"

I do so. Even at this early stage I could see that Gretchen had the faculty of making persons forget what they were seeking and by the mere sound of her voice. And it was I who wound the clock.

"Gretchen," said I, "time lags. Make a servant out of me this morning."

"Herr does the barmaid too much honor," with lowered eyes.

"I am in the habit of doing anything I please."

"Ah, here is one of those millionaires I have read about!"

"Yes, I am very rich," I laughed, but Gretchen did not see the point.

"Come, then, with me, and you shall weed the knoblauch patch." She was laughing at me, but I was not to be abashed.

"To the patch be it, then!" I cried. "An onion would smell as sweet under any other name."

So Gretchen and I went into the onion patch, and I weeded and hoed and hoed and weeded till my back ached and my hands were the color of the soil. Nothing was done satisfactorily to Gretchen. It was "There, you have ruined the row back of you!" or "Pull the weeds more gently!" and sometimes, "Ach, could your friends see you now!" I suppose that I did not make a pretty picture. The perspiration would run down my face. I would forget the condition of my hands and push back my hair, which fell like a mop over my brow, whereat she would laugh. Once I took her hand and helped her to jump over a row. I was surprised at the strength of her grasp.

"What does he do for a living?" He works so badly as a gardener."

"I am a journalist," I answered, leaning on my hoe and breathing heavily.

"Ach, one of those men who tell such dreadful stories about kings and princes, who cause men to go to war with each other, who rouse the ignorant to deeds of violence—one of those men who are more powerful than a king because they can undo him?" She drew away from me.

"Hold on!" I cried, dropping the hoe. "What do you know about it?"

"Enough," sadly. "I read the papers. I always look with fear upon one of those men who can do so much good and yet who would do so much evil."

I had never looked at it in that light before.

"It seems to me, Gretchen," I said quietly, "that you are about as much a barmaid as I am a weeder of knoblauches." The color of excitement fled from Gretchen's cheeks, her eyes grew troubled, and she looked away.

"Gretchen has a secret," said I. "It is nothing to me what Gretchen's secret is. I shall respect it and continue to think of her only as a barmaid with—with a superior education."

I shouldered the hoe. "Come, let us go back. I'm thirsty."

"Thank you, herr," was the soft reply. Then Gretchen became as dumb, and our return to the inn was made in silence. Once there, however, she recovered. "I am sorry to have put you at such a disadvantage," glancing at my clothes, which were covered with brown earth.

"Let that be the least of your troubles!" I cried gayly. Then I hummed in English:

"So, ho, dear Gretchen, winsome lass,

But amber nectar bring to me,
Whose rich bouquet will cling to me,
Whose spirit voice will sing to me
From out the mug divine!

So, here's your toll—a kiss—away,
You Hebe of the Rhine!
No goblet's gold means cheer to me;
Let me cut glass get near to me;
Go, Gretchen, haste the beer to me
And put it in the stein!"

I thought I saw a smile on her lips, but it was gone before I was certain.

"Gott im himmel!" gasped the astonished innkeeper as I went into the barroom. I still had the hoe over my shoulder.

"Never mind, mein host. I've been weeding your knoblauch patch as a method of killing time."

"But!" He looked at Gretchen in dismay.

"It was I who led him there," said Gretchen in answer to his inquiring eyes.

A significant glance passed between them. There was a question in his, a command in hers. I pretended to be examining the faded tints in the stein I held in my hand. I was thinking, "Since when has an innkeeper waited on the wishes of his barmaid?"

There was a mystery after all.

CHAPTER IX.

I took my pipe and strolled along the river bank. What had I stumbled into? Here was an old inn with rather a feudal air, but it was only one in a thousand, a common feature throughout the continent, and yet why had the gods, when they cast out Hebe, chosen this particular inn for her mortal residence? The pipe solves many riddles, and then sometimes it creates a density. I put my pipe into my pocket and cogitated. Gretchen had brought about a new order of things. A philosophical barmaid was certainly a novelty. That Gretchen was philosophical I had learned in the onion patch. Hitherto I had held the onion in contempt; already I had begun to respect it. Above all, Gretchen was a mystery, the most alluring kind of mystery—a woman who was not what she seemed. How we men love mysteries which are given the outward semblance of a Diana or a Venus! By and by my journalistic instinct awoke. Who are those who fear the newspapers? Certainly it is not the gullible. Of what was Gretchen guilty? The innkeeper knew. Was she one of those many conspirators who abound in the kingdom? She was beautiful enough for anything. And whence came the remarkable likeness between her and Phyllis? Here was a mystery indeed. I had a week before me. In that time I might learn something about Gretchen even if I could solve nothing. I admit that it is true that had Gretchen been plain it would not have been too heavenly a trouble. But she had too heavenly a face, too wonderful an eye, too delicious a mouth, not to note her with concern.

I did not see Gretchen again that day, but as I was watching the moon climb up, thinking of her and smoking a few pipes as an incense to her shrine, I heard her voice beneath my window. It was accompanied by the bass voice of the innkeeper.

"But he is a journalist. Is he safe? Is anything safe from them?" came to my ears in a worried accent, a bass. So the innkeeper, too, was a socialist!

Said an impatient contralto, "So long as I have no fear why should you?"

"Ach, you will be found out and dragged back!" was the lamentation in a throaty baritone. Anxiety raises a bass voice at least two pitches. "If you would but return to the hills where there is absolute safety!"

"No, I will not go back there, where everything is so dull and dead. I have lived too long not to read a face at a glance. His eyes are honest."

"Thanks, Gretchen," murmured I from above. I was playing the listener. But, then, she was only a barmaid.

"And it is so long," went on the contralto, "since I have seen a man—a strong one—I wish to see if my power is gone."

"Ah!" thought I. "So you have already laid plans for my capitulation, Gretchen?"

"But," said the bass voice once more, "supposing some of the military should straggle along? There might be one who has seen you before. Alas, I despair! You will not hide yourself; you will stay here till they find you!"

I fell to wondering what in the world Gretchen had done. "I have not been to the village since I was a little girl. Dressed as I am, who would recognize me? No one at the castle, for there is no one there but the steward. Would you send me away?"

"Get forth!" said this American? You say you can read faces. How about the other one?"

Silence.

"Yes, how about him?"

Said Gretchen: "We are not infallible. And perhaps I was then much to blame."

"No, we are not infallible. That is the reason why you should take no chance," was the final argument of the innkeeper.

"Fush!" said Gretchen.

"Confound the pipe!" I muttered. It had fallen over the window sill.

Five minutes passed. I heard no sound. Glancing from the side of the window I saw that Gretchen and the innkeeper were gone.

Yes, there wasn't any doubt about it; Gretchen was a conspirator. The police were hunting for her, and she was threatened with discovery. It was beyond my imagination what she could have done. Moreover, she was rather cunning. The military post was only five miles down the river. The one thing which bothered me was the "him" who had suddenly intruded upon the scene, invisible, but there, like Banquo's ghost. Perhaps her beauty had lured some fellow to follow her fortunes, and his overzeal or lack of it had brought ruin to some plot.

"Gretchen," said I as I jumped into bed, "whoever he was, he must have been a duffer."

Her serene highness the Princess Hildegarda was in Jericho, and Hilaris along with her, where I had consigned

Next morning Gretchen waited upon me at breakfast. She was quiet and answered my questions in monosyllables. Presently she laid something at the side of my plate. It was my pipe. I looked at her, but the depths of my eyes could not plumb the depths in hers.

"Thanks," said I. "It dropped from my window last night while I was playing the disgraceful part of eavesdropper." I dare say she had expected anything but this candid confession. It was very cunning in me. She knew that I knew she knew. Had I lied I should have committed an irreparable blunder. As it was she lifted her chin and laughed.

"Will you forgive me?"

"Yes; for you certainly wasted your time."

"Yes, indeed; for I am just as much in the dark as ever."

"And will remain so."

"I hope so. A mystery is charming while it lasts. Really, Gretchen, I did not mean to play the listener, and I promise that from now on—"

"From now on!" cried Gretchen. "Does not he leave today?"

"No; I am going to spend a whole week here."

There was a mixture of dismay and anger in her gaze.

"But, as I was going to say, I shall make no effort to pry into your affairs. Honestly, I am a gentleman."

"I shall try to believe you," said she, the corners of her mouth broadening into a smile.

She condescended to show me through the rose gardens and tell me what she knew about them. It was an interesting lecture. And in the evening she permitted me to row her about the river. We were getting on very well under the circumstances.

The week was soon gone, and Gretchen and I became very good friends. Often when she had nothing to do we would wander along the river through the forests, always, I noticed, by a route which took us away from the village. Each day I discovered some new accomplishment. Sometimes I would read Heine or Goethe to her, and she would grow rap and silent. In the midst of some murmurous stanza I would suddenly stop, only to see her start and look at me as though I had committed a sacrilege, in that I had spoiled some dream of hers. Then again I myself would become lost in dreams, to be aroused by a soft voice saying, "Well, why do you not go on?" Two people of the opposite sexes reading poetry in the woods is a solemn matter. This is not appreciated at the time, however. It comes back afterward.

In all the week I had learned nothing except that Gretchen was not what she pretended to be. But I feared to ask questions. They might have spoiled all. And the life was so new to me, so quiet and peaceful, with the glamour of romance over it all, that I believe I could have staid on forever. And somehow Phyllis was fading away, slowly, but surely. The regret with which I had heretofore looked upon her portrait was lessening each day, from active to passive. And yet was it because Gretchen was Phyllis in the ideal? Was I falling in love with Gretchen because she was Gretchen, or was my love for Phyllis simply renewing itself in Gretchen? Was that the reason why the portrait of Phyllis grew less holding and interesting to me? It was a complex situation; one I frowned over when alone. It was becoming plainer to me every hour that I had a mystery all of my own to solve. And Gretchen was the only one to solve it.

I shall never forget that night under the chestnuts on the bank of the wide white river. The leaves were gossiping among themselves. They had so much to talk about, and then they knew so much! Had not they and their ancestors filtered the same moonbeams century on century? Had not their ancestors heard the tramp of the armies, the clash of the saber, the roar of the artillery? Had not the hand of autumn and the hand of death marked them with the crimson sign? Ah, the leaves! It is well to press them in books when they themselves have such fine stories to tell.

"Gretchen," said I, echoing my thoughts, "had I been born a hundred years ago I must have been a soldier. Napoleon was a great warrior."

"So was Blucher, since it was he who helped overcome the little Corsican."

The Germans will never forgive Napoleon.

"But war is a terrible thing," went on Gretchen.

"Yes, but it is a great educator. It teaches the vanquished how little they know."

"War is the offspring of pride. That is what makes it so abhorred."

"It is also the offspring of oppression. That is what makes it so great."

"Yes. When the people take up arms, it is well. War is the torch of liberty in the hands of the people. Oh, I envy the people, who are so strong, yet know it not. If I were a man, I would teach the people that a king has no divine right, save when it is conferred upon him by them."

"Gretchen, I'm afraid that you're a bit of a socialist."

"And who is not who has any love for humanity?"

"A beautiful woman who is a socialist, Gretchen, is a menace to the king. Sometimes he fears her. At large she is dangerous. He seeks her, and if he finds her he takes away her liberty."

All this was said with a definite purpose. It was to let Gretchen know that I knew her secret. "Gretchen, you are an embryo socialist, a chrysalis, as it were."

"No, herr," sadly. "I am a butterfly whose wings have been clipped." I had not expected this admission.

"Never mind," said I. "Gretchen, I do not want you to call me herr; call me Jack."

"Jack!" she said. It became an uncommon name now.

"Whatever your true name may be, I shall never call you anything but Gretchen."

"Ah, Jack!" she laughed, and the lurking echoes clasped the music of that laughter in their wanton arms and hurried it across the river.

"Sing to me," said I.

Then imagine my surprise—I, who had heard nothing but German fall from her lips—when in a heavenly contralto she sang a chanson from "La Fille du Madame Angot," an opera forgotten these ten years!

"She sang that melody innocently!"

She had risen, and she stood there before me with a halo of moonshine about her head. The hot blood rushed to my ears. Barmaid, socialist or whatever she might be, she was lovable. In a moment I was kissing her hand, the hand so small, so white and yet so firm. A thousand inarticulate words came to my lips, from my heart!

Did the hand tremble? I thought so. But swiftly she drew it from my clasp, all the joy and gladness gone from her face and eyes.

"No, no!" she cried. "This must not be! It must not be!"

"But I!"—I began eagerly.

"You must not say it; I command you! If you speak, Gretchen will be Gretchen no more. Yes, the king seeks Gretchen, but will you drive her away from her only haven?" with a choking sound.

"Gretchen, trust me. Shall I go tomorrow? Shall I leave you in peace?" Somehow I believed myself to be in danger. "Speak!"

There was an interval of stillness, broken only by the beating of hearts.

"Stay. But speak no word of love. It is not for such as I. Stay and be my friend, for I need one. Cannot a woman look with favor upon a man but he must needs become her lover? I shall trust you as I have trusted other men, and though you fall me in the end, as others have done, still I shall trust you. Herr, I conspire against the king. For what? The possession of my heart. All my life I have stood alone—so alone!"

"I will be your friend, Gretchen. I will speak no word of love. Will that suffice?"

"It is all I ask, dear friend. And now will you leave me?"

"Leave you?" I cried. "I thought you bade me stay."

"Ah," putting out her hand, "you men do not understand! Sometimes a woman wishes to be alone when—when she feels that she—she cannot hold back her tears!"

Gravely I bent over her hand and kissed it. It seemed to me, as I let the hand fall, that I had never kissed a woman on the lips. I turned and went slowly down the path. Once I looked back. I saw something white lying at the foot of the tree. Heaven knows what a struggle it was, but I went on. I wanted to take her in my arms and tell her that I loved her. When I reached the inn, I turned again, but I saw nothing. I sat in my room a long time that night, smoking my pipe till the candle gasped feebly and died in the stick and the room was swallowed in darkness.

I did not know, I was not sure, but I thought that, so long as I might not love Phyllis, it would not be a very hard task to love her image, which was Gretchen. You see, Phyllis was so very far away, and Gretchen was so near!

TWO TRAINMEN KILLED.

Engineer Mirra and Brakeman Stone Die in a Collision.

Gananque, Aug. 28.—At 3 a. m. yesterday an eastbound and westbound freight collided at Thousand Island Junction on the G. T. R. Two of the trainmen were instantly killed.

An eastbound freight on down track was crossing to up track, to give clear track to No. 8 train, the Eastern Flyer. When about half way on the cross-over a freight was seen coming on the up track. The morning was very foggy. The conductor of the eastbound freight signalled the approaching train, which was coming at a great rate of speed. The brakeman was also signalling the westbound train. Neither of these signals were answered until the westbound was about 100 feet away, when Engineer Mirra applied the emergency brakes, but it was too late. He crashed into the eastbound train, demolishing ten cars, containing flour and merchandise.

The body of Brakeman Stone was found near the tender of the engine. Engineer Mirra was also killed. His body is now, at 2 p. m., pinned under the engine, with from the waist up exposed. The fireman jumped and is uninjured.

WILLIAM DOXTATER SHOT.

Chief Henry of the Muncieys Arrested and Held.

London, Aug. 30.—William Doxtater, a well-known young Muncie Indian, was shot, possibly fatally, by John Henry, the chief of the Muncie tribe, Tuesday evening. Henry was arrested and lodged in the County Jail, where he will be held pending the result of Doxtater's injuries.

The shooting was the outcome of a too intimate relationship between Doxtater and Henry's young daughter. For some time past the young Indian had been living with the girl, although they were unmarried. Henry made repeated efforts to induce his daughter to leave Doxtater, but she turned a deaf ear to the paternal advice. However, on Monday night, matters reached a climax when the girl went home.

The following night Doxtater appeared at Henry's house and demanded his property. An altercation followed, and, seizing a revolver, Henry fired at the younger man. The ball struck him in the forehead, just above the nose, but glanced off, fracturing the skull and making a gaping wound.

Chief Henry was arrested in the city yesterday. In the meantime the condition of Doxtater is critical, and, should he die, Henry may have to stand trial on the charge of murder.

VARIOUS AGRICULTURAL TOPICS.

Inevitable Poultry Losses.

Beginners in poultry-rearing are often discouraged by the losses which they sustain. They find themselves unable to rear all of the chickens hatched and they discover that some fowls die. But they should not be discouraged, because such is the common experience.

It is difficult to understand why, out of a brood of chickens all apparently of the same vigor, some will live and thrive and some will die. But such is a fact. There is probably a difference of constitutional vigor, though no difference is apparent. The student of nature knows that there is going on an endless conflict, by means of which the weaker specimens are eliminated and only the stronger survive. Through this conflict, with the enormous losses entailed, nature keeps up a standard of constitutional vigor and prevents the deterioration that otherwise would ensue. Even when the fostering care of man intervenes, this conflict does not wholly cease. Man may reduce the severity of the struggle, but he cannot wholly prevent it. If he could, the average vigor of the plants and animals under his care would deteriorate. A friend of the writer, at one time an extensive breeder of Indian Games, used to say that his practice was to turn his hens and chickens into a large enclosure and let nature weed out the weaklings. If a chicken was not strong enough to survive, he was glad to have it die. His stock had a reputation for strength of constitution and hardiness that made it much sought after.

Even the chickens which arrive at maturity will differ in strength of constitution. At moulting-time, when the growth of new feathers makes a great draft upon the strength of the fowl, natural selection weeds out some of the weakest fowls. It is not strange that some should die at this time. A large breeder of Light Brahmas used to offer at reduced prices many fowls for sale just before they moulted. He was led to do this because he found that it paid. Some of the fowls would not be so finely marked after they had moulted, and some of them would die during the process. But after the moult had taken place, he put up his price again.

Of course much can be done to prevent the loss of chickens and fowls by special care, and by the use of food adapted to their special needs. But after all has been done which human skill can do, it is well to remember that some losses will occur. Fortunately the percentage of losses need not be large. If the percentage of losses is large, it is evidence that something is radically wrong. The breeding stock may be lacking in vigor, or the care and food may be deficient. When large losses occur, the breeder should seek to ascertain the cause and to prevent the future occurrence of such losses. But when the percentage of losses in chickens is not above 10 or 15 per cent., and in fowls is not above 5 per cent., there is no cause for special anxiety.

The practice of killing off old fowls just before they moult, in view of the fact of the possibility of the loss of some of them during the process, and the fact that during moulting they are more susceptible to disease, is financially commendable. By so doing, food and labor are saved, and the number of marketable fowls is larger than it would be after moulting. Room, too, is secured for the more perfect growth and development of the young stock. Except in the case of a very few especially valuable breeding or exhibition fowls, which of course the breeder will desire to retain, it ordinarily pays to kill the old stock before moulting. There may be cases where, by keeping the fowls enough more to do this, but as a general rule, the one advised is the most profitable course. It what had been said has a moral, it would be something like this: Inevitable losses will occur; they need not be reckoned as discouragements, but should be recognized as a necessary part of the debit side of the account in poultry-raising; they are not wholly bad, as they serve to preserve the constitutional vigor of the flock by eliminating the weaker specimens; good management will keep the percentage of losses down to a small figure; some of them can be anticipated by the sale of the old stock before moulting.

The Dress Improver.

The return of the dress "improver" is no longer prophesied, but its advent is announced among both French and English fashions. The most fashionable modistes are putting small narrow pads of cushions at the back of the dress skirts, these doing away with the look of flatness so conspicuous in many figures. In accepting the innovation, it is to be hoped that it will remain the diminutive size it now is, and not become the hideous exaggeration that it is former days gave such a scope for the exercise of humorous, sarcastic, or satirical whims. "It is better than crinolines," say those who were aware of a change of style was imminent. Fashions are quite likely to appear in the train of the small tournure and they will be well received by the large class of tall, slim women of to-day.

FOR THE HOME CIRCLE

MATTERS FOR DISCUSSION AT THE TEA TABLE.

Has this Finnish Wife Placed a Good Thing?

The following contribution from the pen of Miss Colla Dyer, of this town, recently appeared in the Ladies' Journal, of Toronto, and we reproduce it for the benefit of the readers of Lindsay, who may thereby be made to see the errors of their ways:

"It is not good for man to be alone," said the great Creator, who made all things well, and so woman was made as man's best companion. The ideal wife must be neat, tidy and clean, her housekeeping and cooking in all its various details above the criticism of a capable, fair-minded judge. She must be wise and charitable, willing to sacrifice her wishes for those of her lord and master. Truthful, loving, kind, thoughtful for her family, as also for her friends, a gossip not a scandal-monger she must not be, and jealous, so like the sun which warms the rose, must be far from her. Selfishness, which mars the beautiful in life, she shuns, but cultivates a cheerful, happy disposition, which wins for her love and esteem. A sensible wife is a great help to a worthy husband, and some of the greatest men's successes were due to their sensible wives, so the ideal wife must possess this good ability. Such a wife will be a treasure, and will be appreciated for her true value, because the husband sees it in the same light as Solomon of old, "he that findeth a wife findeth a good thing," and he notices that "his home she enters, there to be a light, shining within, when all without is dark."

A guardian angel o'er his life presiding. Doubling his joys and his cares dividing. Winning him back, when mingling in the throng. From a vain world, we love, alas, too long. To fireside happiness and hours of ease. With that that charm, the certain to please. How oft her eyes read his! her gentle mind. To his wishes, all his thoughts inclined. Still subject—ever on the watch to borrow. Mirth of his mirth and sorrow of his sorrow."

Functuality in the Home

When a woman recognizes the absolute necessity of forethought in the housekeeper, her lesson is more than half learned. She will try to put so much of it into actual use, and the rest will come to her through experience. Besides forethought, the housekeeper must have executive ability.

Mrs. A— has a regular hour for her meals. They are ready on time, and every member of her family is expected to be punctual. If they are not, the meal is eaten and the dishes cleared away, just the same, and only a very good excuse for tardiness prevents the delinquent from going hungry until the next meal. Mrs. A— is considered very strict unyielding and disliking by those who do not like to be punctual, but the person with good executive ability realizes that one cannot be complete every day, and one's work done on time. If Mrs. A— waited for all the tardy ones, she would seldom have her work out of the way, and then she would not only have to suffer the subsequent annoyance, but would be criticized as one having no management.

Mrs. B— has her meals ready quite punctually, but her family seldom sit down to the table together. They come straggling in, one or two at a time, and often the dishes are not cleared away until it is time to set the table again. Mrs. B— is often heard complaining about it, for her work is dreadfully delayed by the thoughtlessness of her family. She does not see that her family is thoughtless, because she allows them to be so. Mrs. B— has forethought, but no executive ability. She knows what ought to be done, and does her share of the work as well and as promptly as she can, when hampered by the dilatory ways of her household, but she cannot work to the best advantage, and she is always hurried, worried and nervous.

Of the household where there is neither forethought nor executive ability let us say nothing. There are many such, and they form more barriers to the progress of civilization than can be counted. The housekeepers who have forethought and executive ability are respected, and a home imposed upon. They usually enjoy their work, for they do it instead of being driven by it, and so they do not grow old prematurely, or divide into mere household machines—Home Journal.

Salt Rheum

You may call it eczema, letter or milk crust, but no matter what you call it, this skin disease which comes in patches that burn, itch, discharge a watery matter, dry and scum, owes its existence to the presence of humors in the system. It will continue to exist, annoy, and perhaps agonize, as long as these humors remain. It is always radically and permanently cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla which expels all humors, and is positively unequalled for all cutaneous eruptions.

SUGAR REFINERIES IN CANADA.

$4,000 Awarded for the Loss of a Leg—The Toronto Review Before Royalty to Be Held at the Exhibition Park—New Finance Minister in British Columbia—Gum Chewer's Fate.

Miss Henrietta Homeier of Ingle-side, L. I., dislocated her jaw on Friday chewing gum.

It was Historical and Pioneers' Day at the Industrial Fair at Toronto. The attendance was not large.

Four persons were killed and seven seriously injured in a tenement fire in Brooklyn, N. Y., on Friday night.

J. C. Brown of New Westminster is said to have been appointed to succeed Finance Minister Turner in the British Columbia Cabinet.

The facetiousness of Herr Lemberg, an actor, at Frankfurt, at the expense of Count Von Waldersee, has caused him to be fined ten crowns.

For several weeks King Edward has personally superintended much of the work of destroying huge quantities of the private correspondence of Queen Victoria.

Mr. John Spence, principal of the Clinton street school, Toronto, shot himself in the wrist while striding a kingfisher at Lake Scugog, on Friday.

The National Rifle Association of America began a ten-days' shooting tournament on the New Jersey State camp ranges at Sea Girt on Friday. Canada and Ireland will have teams present.

Major-General O'Grady-Haly said in Ottawa on Friday that it had been practically decided to have the Toronto review before the Duke of Cornwall take place at the Exhibition grounds, instead of the Woodbine.

The Sultan's first retaliation against France is the publication of an irade withdrawing the concessions and tax exemptions from the French religious community at Beyrout, Syria. The French communities at Jerusalem are also taxed.

William McAuley, one of the C. P. R. brakemen, who was so severely scalded by steam some three weeks since in the railway accident at Proton, has sufficiently recovered to enable his friends to remove him from Owen Sound to the General Hospital at Toronto.

Chief Justice Falconbridge on Friday gave judgment in an interesting Sault Ste. Marie case, directing the entering of a verdict of $4,000, the amount a jury found Harry Meyers was entitled to for the loss of his leg while in the employ of the Sault Ste. Marie Pulp and Paper Co.

Shamrock II. shook herself out at New York on Friday, and with Sir Thomas Lipton and Designer Watson on board passed outside for a spin. Although there was quite a ground swell on, the ocean yacht went through the water with less fuss than a sharp-proved torpedo boat.

A Philadelphia charter has been given of which the incorporators are: Frank M. Spencer, Adam Kaufman, William J. Douglas and H. R. Vandusen of Scranton, Pa. The company is capitalized at $600,000, and will build a number of beet sugar refineries in Canada at once.

A fatal collision occurred on the C.P.R. at Guelph Junction, early Friday morning. A freight train, driven by Engineer W. W. Jones of Toronto Junction, was coming east, but owing to the heavy fog resulting from Thursday night's deluge of rain, Jones was unable to see a freight train ahead of him and crashed into the rear car. The other members of the crew jumped, but Jones stayed at his post and was fatally injured. He died a few hours after the accident. The road places the damage to the rolling stock at $50,000.

Fruit Packing Inspectors.

Ottawa, Aug. 31.—Inspector Sidney Fisher has made a number of appointments in connection with the marking of fruit. Mr. Alex. McNeill of Walkerville and Mr. Wick of Ottawa will be chief inspectors of fruit, in connection with farmers' institute work, and Mr. Lick is a graduate of the Ontario Agricultural College. Mr. P. J. Carey of Cobourg, Mr. D. H. Wharton of Kingston, and Mr. Scriver, son of Julius Scriver, M. P., will be employed on inspection work in Montreal. There will also be a French-Canadian inspector, but he has not yet been chosen.

The Minister of Agriculture is not desirous of putting into force any vexatious restrictions, or to do anything to hamper or check the fruit trade. He hopes to receive the hearty co-operation of fruit growers, and believes they will work harmoniously with the department to improve and build up the great industry whose success means so much for Canada.

An American Newspaper Story.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 29.—Enquiries at Government House, showed the fact that there is not the slightest foundation, so far as those in Government House are concerned, for the rumor sent from Ottawa that the Duchess of Cornwall and York will not accompany the Royal Duke on his Canadian tour. The statement is said to have originated with an American paper.

A Regular System to Exterminate the Armenians by Kurds.

London, Aug. 30.—The Daily Mail publishes to-day an article written by Ali Nouri Bey, former Turkish consul in Rotterdam, declaring that the massacre of Armenians by Kurds, which has just been recommenced, is part of a regular system of extermination. He says: "The number of Armenians killed will depend upon the outcry raised in Europe and the pressure brought to bear upon the Sultan. The same horrible process will be repeated year by year until all are killed."

O.A.C. DAIRY BUILDING

Struck by Lightning and Cheese Maker Was Shocked.

DESTRUCTIVE ELECTRIC STORM.

Mrs. Anthony Roudon Killed by Lightning at Farham—Her Daughter Rescued From the Shock—Guelph Residents Suffer Therefrom—Church and House Wrecked in Kincardine Township.

Guelph, Aug. 31.—Guelph and vicinity were visited by another destructive electric storm Thursday night and yesterday morning. The houses of Jas. Cormack and George Keogh, on Waterloo avenue, were struck, but no damage was done in either case. During the heaviest part of the storm lightning struck the dairy building at the O. A. C., and the building took fire, but some of the employees were near at hand, and quickly extinguished the flames. Mr. Stratton, the cheese maker, received a severe shock.

About 4 o'clock the barn of R. Dickerson, on the Elmhurst road, was totally consumed, with the season's crops and a number of implements. It was owned by Miss Bella Hood, Insurance $1,200.

In Paisley Block, the barns of John Barber were struck, without any very serious damage being done. In Paisley Township, the barn of James Laird was shattered and a valuable stock killed.

Killed by Lightning.

Parham, Aug. 31.—While at work preparing breakfast yesterday a. m. Mrs. Anthony Roudon was struck and killed by lightning. A twelve-year-old daughter is partly paralyzed from the shock. Other members of the family escaped injury. The house was badly damaged.

Church and House Wrecked.

Kincardine, Aug. 31.—During a gale of wind, which prevailed here about midnight, Thursday night, Chalmers' Church, on the seventh concession of Kincardine, in course of erection, the foundation having been laid with Masonic honors some two months ago, had the western wall blown down. A mile farther east, the residence of Mr. Murdoch McIver, the brick work having just been completed, was also badly wrecked, the east wall being blown in. The storm only lasted for a few minutes. Winds of this nature are rarely experienced in this neighborhood.

Crops Badly Damaged.

Simcoe, Aug. 31.—A very heavy electric storm passed over this section at noon yesterday. Many trees were uprooted or broken by the force of the gale. A few miles north of this place, the hail simply washed all the wheat out of the stocks. The winter apple crop, as well as the pear and plum crops, were destroyed. Reports are to hand last night advising that some buildings as well as stock were struck by lightning.

Several Barns Burned.

Chatham, Aug. 31.—The dwelling of J. W. Roseburgh, on lot 17, concession 13, Harwich, together with the barns, farm implements, crops and stock, were destroyed by fire. One hundred and fifty dollars in cash is also gone. The entire loss will be heavy, partly covered by insurance.

Farmer A. C. Wright, concession 10, Raleigh, Thursday lost his barns by fire, including 400 bushels of wheat, 500 bushels of oats and a quantity of hay. Insurance and loss not known.

The origin of both fires is a mystery.

Drowned at Smith's Falls.

Smith's Falls, Ont., Aug. 28.—A very sad drowning accident occurred here yesterday afternoon, when Lloyd Currie, the 17-year-old son of R. C. Currie, an employee of the Frost & Wood Co. of this place, lost his life. He was last seen going toward his bathhouse about 8.45. At 4.30 he was discovered by two young men on their way up the river. He was lying on his back in about a foot and a half of water. He was partly dressed, his wet trousers, boots and stockings being found lying on the bank as if he had fallen in and placed them there to dry. How he fell in again is a mystery. When found life was extinct, although the doctor worked with him for over an hour.

The Dead Will Number Thirty.

Philadelphia, Aug. 31.—Another body of a victim of Wednesday's steamboat disaster was recovered yesterday from the Delaware River. It is supposed to be that of Harry Johnson, 38 years, a grocer of Hulmeville, Pa., who was on his way home from Philadelphia. He leaves a widow and five children. This makes the tenth body recovered, of which eight have been identified. Two bodies, those of a woman and a small girl, are unidentified. Nineteen are missing, and it is almost certain that all of these are dead. Of the eight persons remaining in the hospital two are almost certain to die. Thus far the net result of the awful explosion will be in the neighborhood of thirty deaths.

Does Not Propose to Submit to Unreasonable Demands of France.

Vienna, Aug. 29.—The Tagblatt yesterday publishes mail correspondence from Constantinople, which says the Sultan will go to war rather than yield to unreasonable demands; that he is studying plans for defence, and that he has ordered three hundred guns from Germany.

Flag Pulled Down.

Constantinople, Aug. 29.—The French flag was hauled down from over the Embassy of France after the departure of Ambassador Constans, and it will not be hoisted again until diplomatic relations shall have been restored. The staff of the Embassy remains here, but there is no change in the situation. The French Consuls in Turkey have been directed to continue to protect French interests.

Both Men Drowned.

North Bay, Aug. 30.—Word reached here yesterday that Robert Allan of Pittsburgh, Pa., companion of Cooke Bausman of the same place, and Joseph Restoule, Indian guide, were both drowned on Wednesday, Aug. 28, in Five-Mile Rapids, French River. The body of the Indian has been recovered, but Allan's still remains in the rapids.

The arrival of four Mormon missionaries in Japan is causing great comment in Yokohama. They arrived on the Empress of Japan on the 12th and at once began an active campaign.

Wednesday was Children's Day at the Toronto Industrial Exhibition. At the Directors' luncheon the fair as an educator was the subject of the speeches. About 25,000 children were present.

The thirty-fourth annual session of the Canadian Medical Association opened at Winnipeg, Man., on Wednesday morning. Dr. H. H. Chown, president of the association, occupied the chair.

Among the passengers who arrived Wednesday per steamer Servia from Liverpool and Queenstown, at New York, were 13 members of the Irish rifle team, which will compete with the all-American team at Sea Girt, N. J.

Superintendent Charleson, who is superintending the construction of telegraph lines in the west, wired the Department of Public Works at Ottawa, on Tuesday that the line would be completed through to Dawson by Sept. 15.

Miss Bessie Campbell, daughter of Gabriel Campbell, Professor of Psychology at Dartmouth College, was drowned in Lake Morey near Fairlee, Vt., at noon on Wednesday by falling from a wharf. Miss Campbell was about 20 years of age.

David McGee is under arrest at London, Ont., charged with abducting the 15-year-old daughter of A. G. McIntyre, 509 West Queen street, Toronto. The girl has also been detained pending instructions from the authorities in Toronto. She was employed in the T. Eaton store.

Harry Lithgow, a young man about 20 years of age, was killed early Wednesday morning about two miles west of Cobourg on the Grand Trunk Railway. The remains were conveyed to Cobourg and there identified as those of Harry Lithgow of Port Hope. The deceased was the only son of Mrs. Lithgow.

Asa Choate, proprietor of "Belmont," was going to Port Hope with a young horse, and when passing over the bridge at the Electric Light and Power House the train whistled and frightened the colt. It backed against the railing of the bridge, which gave way, horse, buggy and occupant falling some 15 feet on the rocks below. Mr. Choate's hip was broken and the main artery severed. That was at 10.30 a. m. on Wednesday and death came about 2.30 in the afternoon.

Our Timber for Greece.

Bob. Independent: Mr. Conrad W. Schinay, a gentleman from Athens, Greece, was in town for a few days looking for hardwood lumber for shipment to Greece. Mr. Schinay is not yet proficient in the English language, but manages to make himself understood, and was quite eloquent in his praise of the Kawartha Lakes. Should he find the lumber that he requires it is possible that a large trade may be opened with the classic capital of historic Greece.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Canada is making a bid for the butter trade of Britain. We have in May and August sent to the British market 40,000 more packages than in the same months last year. It is a trade worth striving for.

Canadians who have visited the Glasgow Exposition speak in glowing terms of the prominence of Canada and things Canadian there. Never before was so much attention centered on Canada and its products, and great good is expected to result.

The C.P.R. strike is over, the terms announced being satisfactory to both sides. Now, why could not such an arrangement have been made weeks ago? The men are now just where they would have been had the Conciliation Committee's terms been accepted. Conciliation is the proper course in such cases.

Mayor Morris, of Ottawa, who is said to be a Tory, has this to say of Hon. Mr. Tarte: "If you wish to become acquainted with a genuine live hustler, you should meet the Hon. Mr. Tarte, Minister of Public Works. It is simply wonderful how he deals so promptly with all matters relating to the important department of which he is head. Owing to the manner in which Mr. Tarte deals with business of a public character I have grown to like and respect him very much.

It is commonly believed that most of the good farm lands of the United States available for homesteading have been taken up. According to a Philadelphia paper, of the original public domain of 1,900,000,000 acres there now remains nearly 500,000,000 belonging to the government. This is roughly estimated to amount to 266,000,000 acres of pasture land; 50,000,000 acres of forest; 75,000,000 acres of woodland other than forest; 65,000,000 of desert and 70,000,000 acres of the land that can be reclaimed by irrigation. It adds that these lands are being most wastefully dealt with, and are rapidly passing into private hands with little or no compensation to the government.

A Saginaw despatch of Thursday, says: The last pine log to come from Canada to the United States reached the Saginaw river last night, when a raft containing three and a half million feet arrived from Little Current, Ontario, consigned to the Saginaw Lumber and Salt company. This company has brought over this season between 22 and 25 million feet and one raft of three million feet went to Detroit. Since the rafting of logs to Michigan mills was inaugurated, one billion, six hundred and forty-one million feet have been brought over. Mr. (Charles), the well-known lumberman, in the course of an interview in Toronto yesterday, said the law prohibiting the export of logs may in the end result to the injury of Canadian lumbermen, as American operators are now establishing huge mills at Sarnia and elsewhere, and will sell freely in Canada.

The fact that the trouble between France and Turkey should arise through French initiative just on the eve of Czar's visit to France raises the question whether France is acting in collusion with Russia. The Turk gave himself away when he yielded to the importunities of the United States and conceded to President McKinley what all the powers of Europe failed to wring from him—payment of a debt. By thus yielding he tempted France to a like course of pressure and, being enormously indebted to other nations, it is possible that each of them in turn will put on the screws. A recurrence of Armenian massacres also comes at a good time for Russia, if she wants an excuse for interference beyond the Caucasus. Continental jingoes have long been remarking that this is a favorable time to arrange matters in the Levant to suit the schemes of the Franco-Russian alliance.

ance, while Great Britain has her hands full in South Africa. The Triple Alliance is not trammelled in any way, and its interests are as much concerned in the fate of Turkey as are those of Great Britain. The Turk is, undoubtedly, an anachronism in Europe, but no more so in some respects than Russia. At any rate there is a great deal more religious liberty in Turkey than in Russia.

A commission is to be sent to Syria by the Perh Conference of the Methodist church to find out just what sort of a time those two ministers had there. It should also travel incog., and leave its valuables in the hotel safe.

Toronto retail merchants are antagonizing the assessors just now for putting up values to the top notch. Last year they organized to run up Eaton's assessment, and the standard of values thus set is now being used in their own cases—much to their disgust.

The New York Herald figures out that there are still nearly 1,100,000 square miles of wooded area in the United States, and that last year's cut was 23,500,000,000 feet of saved lumber and about $30,000,000 worth of timber, ties, posts, laths, etc. The work of denuding the land of timber goes on rapidly.

Few Canadians have any adequate idea of how our trade with Great Britain increases, or what a hold Canada is taking on the people of the mother land. The London Canadian Gazette points out that whereas five years ago only 7 per cent. of Britain's imported food came from Canada, last year the proportion was 16 per cent, and it expects that to be doubled in another five years. It says: "In cheese alone we now derive 70 per cent. of our imports from Canada, and we know that the butter trade has increased fifteen-fold and the bacon trade twenty-fold in ten years. In 1890 Canada exported 162 shiploads of produce to Great Britain and last year 480 shiploads. And perhaps the most important fact of all is that the exports of Canadian wheat were last year 30 times greater than they were ten years ago. "It must not be forgotten," says the Glasgow Herald, commenting upon these significant figures, "that the ports of Canada are nearer to us by sea than those of the United States."

Mail and Empire: Judge Sutherland, of Rochester, N.Y., who made a rumpus at Port Hope because the Canadian Customs officer asked him what was in his lunch-basket, was clearly in the wrong. On both sides of the line lunch-baskets pass the Customs without difficulty. The traveler has but to say "lunch," and to open his basket, and there is no trouble. The judge, however, when the Customs officer appeared, indulged in violent language, and refused to name the contents of his package, or to submit them to the customary inspection. Under the circumstances the package was stopped, and the judge became even more savage. There is no international question in this case. The judge should have been the first to set an example for the law.

The City Clerk of Montreal, Mr. L. O. David, ex-legislator, author political philosopher, is a gentleman whose opinions on social questions merit attention and respect. He has just addressed a letter to La Presse on the census question, and a paragraph in it should be printed as extensively as possible in the Ontario papers. Though he refers especially to Quebec what he says is equally applicable to Ontario, especially in view of the falling birth rate and the decrease in the number of souls in families. He says: "The census proclaims highly that the future belongs to the race that has the most children and clears the greatest number of acres of land." Domestic colonization, and a higher sense of social duties, and less shirking the sacred duties of maternity, must be

There are people who say that the benefit derived from the use of put-up medicines is imaginary. It is not the case with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which makes weak women strong and sick women well. A woman may imagine she's weak, or may fancy she's sick, but her imagination can't add forty pounds to her weight. The positive proof of the curative power of "Favorite Prescription" is found in the restoration of health which is recorded in face and form, and weight which can be registered in pounds and ounces.

The general health of women is so intimately connected with the local health of the womanly organs, that when these are diseased the whole body suffers loss. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures womanly diseases. It establishes regularity, stops weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"I am very glad to let other poor sufferers know what Dr. Pierce's medicine has done for me," writes Mrs. Edwin H. Gardner, of Beechwood, Norfolk Co., Mass. (Box 70). "You know I wrote to you last summer. I read what your medicine had done for other people, so I thought I would try it, and I found it was a blessing to me and my family. I began in June and took six bottles of your medicine, and three vials of 'Pelle's.' I took your medicine a year when I had a ten-pound girl. I had the easiest time I ever had with any of my three children. I took three bottles of 'Favorite Prescription,' three of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and three vials of 'Pelle's.' I had no appetite and could not eat much without it distressing me before I took your 'Favorite Prescription,' and I only weighed 135 pounds. Now I weigh 175."

Leslie's Weekly sounds an alarm about the growing use of so-called food preservatives and propounds the very reasonable doctrine that "no food product containing a preservative should ever be offered for sale without a plain statement on the label of the package showing the character of the preservative and the amount employed." That much surely a consumer has the right to demand. If he wishes to eat regular doses of borax, boric acid, saltpetre, formalin, formaldehyde, or any other of the substances used, let him do so, but it is unfair to dose the general public without notice. It should be borne in mind that while some of the drugs named are useful in certain diseases when properly prescribed, they are all deleterious to health when used as a steady diet. Let us have our food fresh; food that has to be embalmed is not fit for mankind.

A New Use for Old Straw Hats.

Chicago Record-Herald: Often we find that old straw hats are subjects of grave consideration. Many of them we hear it said, are too good to be thrown away, too fanciful to be given to the poor, and yet not quite molish enough to tempt their owners into trimming them up for another season. This, then, is the time when it is best to transform them into lamp shades. Most charming as lamp shades they become, especially for summer houses and verandahs. To carry out the scheme is a simple matter. First should the top of the crown be cut out, when already, as can be imagined, the hat will assume somewhat the shape of a lamp shade. Underneath it should then be wired up and down as well as about the top and bottom, that it may be held in shape and bent gracefully, for above all else these shades must have a free, floppy appearance. They do not look well if at all stiff. The trimming consists mostly of artificial flowers and grasses which many women have on hand from hats of preceding summers. Long, deep, green grasses are usually hung about the lower edge as a fringe. If, however, the edges are not in good condition, it looks very well to put about them a raff of pinked out taffeta ribbon, either to match or contrast with the color of the straw. A leghorn, for instance, would be most effective with a grass green raff about the edges and a few large red poppies scattered over the surface. Sometimes flowers that one has in the house are faded, but even then their colors can be intensified by painting them afresh with either tapestry dyes or water-colors. Many old straws can also be helped by touching them up judiciously. On the other hand, so pretty are these straw lamp shades that it is quite worth while to buy the hats, should they not be forthcoming in any other way. Late in the season many decorative ones are sold at remarkably low prices. To be effective they should always be large. Deep yellow ones of rough straw trimmed with buttercups and grasses are unusually pretty and cast a golden glow when the lamp under them is lighted. The wholly green ones are restful and attractive. When a particular style or color of straw is desired, it were best to buy it by the yard, and then sew it together over a wire frame. It is also in this way that the similar and very small shades for candlesticks are made, and which are quite enchanting, as they decorate the top corners of a table or cast a glimmer from some dim corner of the verandah.

ARRESTED IN LONDON

Dr. Krause Taken Into Custody on Charge of High Treason.

BOER SHOT HIM POINT BLANK.

Particulars of the Death of Col. Vandeleur—Women on the Train Blown Up—Were Wounded—Moving the Concentration Camps—Boers Will Be Placed in Garrisoned Frontier Towns.

London, Sept. 3.—Dr. Krause, former Governor of Johannesburg, and local official of the late Transvaal government, was arrested in London last night on a charge of high treason. He will be arraigned to-day at Bow-street Police Court.

For the past four months Dr. Krause has been living in Great Britain. It is alleged that after signifying his allegiance to the British crown he secretly forwarded information to the Boers. It was Dr. Krause who handed to Lord Roberts the keys of Johannesburg on the occasion of the surrender.

Sept. 15, the Limit.

Washington, Sept. 3.—Ambassador Choate has cabled the State Department from London, under date of Aug. 31, as follows: South African commission will receive no further claims after Sept. 15. This commission is dealing with claims of foreigners on account of damages in the Boer war.

With Boer Prisoners.

St. Vincent, G.V.L., Sept. 3.—The steamship Montrose, which sailed from Cape Town for Bermuda, Aug. 16, carrying 201 English troops and 937 Boer prisoners, has arrived here and will proceed for her destination to-day.

Reopening the Mines.

Cape Town, Sept. 2.—The military administration has determined, it is said, to deport all the Boers in the reconcentration camps, numbering upward of one hundred thousand, to garrisoned towns on the coast, where food is more readily available. The railways, thus relieved, will suffice to supply food for the population of Johannesburg, which is as large as before the war, and permit the reopening of all the mines.

Compensation Commission.

London, Sept. 3.—Major-Gen. Sir John A. H. Smith, representative of the British Foreign Office before the Transvaal compensation commission, presented to the commission yesterday as part of the British case against the American and other claimants, the report of Capt. Carl Reichmann, who was United States military attaché with the Boers. From this it appeared that the Irish-American ambulance originally consisted of 53 men. On their arrival at Pretoria 46 of them threw away their Red Cross badges, and took up mausers. Capt. Reichmann was quoted as saying that the works of the Netherlands Railroad and the dynamite factory at Johannesburg were turned into Boer arsenals. Consequently the claimants who had worked therein could not be entitled to damages for exportation.

Boers Blow Up a Train.

London, Sept. 3.—A despatch from Lord Kitchener, dated Pretoria, Sept. 1, says: "A train was blown up yesterday between Waterval and Haman's Kraal by 250 Boers, who at once fired on the train, setting it on fire. Lieut.-Col. Vandeleur of the Irish Guards—a most promising officer—was killed. Nine persons were killed and 17 others wounded in the blowing up and derailing of the train."

AT THE SIGN OF THE HAND.

Negro Raised His, and Discharged Two Mines Under a Train.

London, Sept. 3.—The Pretoria correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, in a despatch describing the blowing up of a train between Waterval and Haman's Kraal Saturday by Boers, when Lieut.-Col. Vandeleur of the Irish Guards was killed, says: "The train carried several passengers, among them two ladies with babies and a nurse. As it toiled through a cutting a negro was seen to raise his hand. Instantly a Boer discharged two mines, derailing the train, while a body of Boers poured in a heavy rifle fire."

"Lieut.-Col. Vandeleur shouted to the women to lie down under the seats and ordered his men to return the fire. As he was proceeding along the corridor a Boer burst into the carriage and fired, killing him, after it is supposed, his refusal to surrender. Another Boer deliberately fired upon and wounded the nurse, and bullets were flying in all directions, although the Boers were aware that women and children were there."

Not to Meet Kruger.

London, Sept. 3.—The Czar, having made engagements with the French President and with Edward VII., is importuned by Dr. Leyds for an interview with ex-President Kruger. It is not probable that he will grant this request. Mr. Kruger has been in Europe a year without meeting any European sovereign except Queen Wilhelmina, and she was powerless to support a demand for intervention against Great Britain.

Piet Delarey Captured.

London, Sept. 1.—Lord Kitchener, telegraphing from Pretoria yesterday, says: "Garratt has captured Piet Delarey, brother of the Assistant Commanding General."

Trooper Busby Dead.

Ottawa, Sept. 3.—The Militia Department has received a cablegram stating that Trooper Charles Tupper Busby of Moncton, N.B., died of his wounds at Bloemendal, Aug. 29.

Helium Steamer Founders.

Constantinople, Sept. 2.—The Belgian steamer Norquay, whose loss while towing the ship "Suzanne" was reported yesterday, foundered in the Black Sea during the night of Aug. 25, in a severe storm. The solitary survivor of a crew of 40 was picked up four days later in an open boat and was landed at Rizeh, east of Trebizond. Nothing is known as to how the others met their fate.

Duffy and Ole Olsson Arrive.

Toronto, Sept. 3.—Martin Duffy and Ole Olsson, the boxers, arrived to-day from Chicago for their bouts Thursday night with Tim Kearns and Pat Kilty at the Crescent Athletic Club.

MUNIR WAS RECKLESS

His Actions Caused Him to Leave France Suddenly.

GERMANY WILL ADVISE PORTE.

The Advice Will Be Good and to the Effect That the Sultan should Settle With France as Soon as Possible.

—France Will Force Turkey to Fulfill Obligations to the Very Letter.

Paris, Sept. 2.—The result of Munir Bey, the Turkish Ambassador to France, coming to Paris in spite of the rupture of Franco-Turkish relations, and holding a fête in the most open way at the Turkish Embassy yesterday, in honor of the anniversary of the Sultan's accession to the throne, was that the French government sent him a request to leave France immediately. Munir Bey departed for Switzerland in the evening, where he will remain till the controversy between the two countries shall have been settled.

Kaiser Will Advise the Sultan.

Constantinople, Sept. 2.—The report that the Sultan has appealed to Germany to use her good offices to settle the dispute with France is confirmed. Germany, it is understood, will advise the Porte to settle with France as soon as possible.

M. Basset, Councillor of the French Embassy, and the other members of the Embassy staff took the opportunity of an excursion on the Sea of Marmara in order to avoid dressing the vessel as the other warships in the harbor were dressed, in recognition of the anniversary of the Sultan's accession to the throne, which was celebrated yesterday. The members of the Embassy did not participate in the congratulations of the diplomatic corps, nor was the anniversary illuminated. Turkish officials received only 40 to 60 per cent. of their salaries on the anniversary of the Sultan's accession.

Will Force Turkey.

Paris, Sept. 2.—Advices received here from Turkey indicate a disquieting internal situation; disorders and military uprisings are reported in Armenia, Macedonia and the neighborhood of Mecca. The son of a high functionary was carried off by brigands near Adrianople. The brigands fought a bloody engagement with the troops sent out against them. A despatch from Salonica says that Nouri Bey, aide de camp of the Sultan, who was sent to investigate the brigandage in Albania, has been killed by Albanians.

It is also said that the Turkish troops at Fez, Albania and Ushak are rioting because they have not been paid.

M. Constant, the French Ambassador at Turkey, had another conference today with the French Foreign Minister, M. Delcasse. The government of France is determined to compel Turkey to fulfill her entire obligations. Unless the Sultan yield soon he will find the bill against him increased by a number of other outstanding claims of France, which will make an appreciable addition to the sum now demanded.

Sultan Will Not Yield.

Paris, Sept. 2.—The Matin announces that it has received from a source alleged to be authoritative in Constantinople, information to the effect that the Sultan, relying upon the assurance of great power that France will not proceed to force and will refuse any concession in the Constantinian affair.

It is rumored tonight that a naval division will be ordered to Turkish waters tomorrow.

Munir Bey will only return to Paris against the wishes of the French government, unless the dispute is settled.

KAISER YIELDS.

Emperor William Has Decided to Waive the Ceremony of Kotowing.

Basle, Switzerland, Sept. 2.—At 11 o'clock tonight Prince Chun and his entourage left for Berlin by the Imperial special train. The Emperor, who was the mission said that Emperor William had decided to waive the ceremony of kotowing, and that the only persons to be received by him in ceremonial audience would be Prince Chun and Ying Chang.

CALLED AFTER MR. TARTE.

Launch of the New Hydraulic Dredge at the Polson Iron Works—Mr. Tarte on Canadian Shipbuilding.

Toronto, Sept. 3.—The hydraulic dredge, "J. Israel Tarte," built by the Polson Iron Works for the Dominion Government, was launched under most auspicious circumstances at the Polson shipyard yesterday afternoon. This dredge is the largest and most powerful in Canada. It will be tested in Toronto. The dredge went through the launching ceremonies in a most creditable manner, and slid down the ways into the slip quite gracefully. There was no hitch, and Mrs. Frank Polson christened it with a bottle of champagne.

Hon. J. Israel Tarte was present, and after the launching he made a brief and bright speech. With other guests, he was aboard Mr. Polson's steam yacht, the "Cruiser," after the launching. He paid a glowing compliment to the Polson Company and intimated plainly that Canada could eventually attend to all her own shipbuilding. This dredge is to work in the St. Lawrence River, and by the Polson Company will be used in British Columbia. Mr. Tarte told why the big dredge was made in Toronto, and criticised the Wolvin proposition, whereby the dredges might have been built in the States.

American capitalists were the interested parties, and Mr. Tarte thought their proposition meant really a loan being made at 5 per cent. to enable them to build an elevator. They really wanted complete control of the basin at Montreal, and also wanted the use of the jetties at Port Corbore and a site on which to erect an elevator which they proposed should be taken over by the Government after a number of years. Capt. Wolvin had a proposal, too, to build ten ships for the grain carrying trade, but they would not be built in Canada. The intention was to have them constructed in Cleveland, and the Government had been coolly requested to admit them to Canada free of duty. Mr. Tarte hoped to see the shipbuilding industry flourish in Canada, and from what he had seen he was satisfied that it would. "Canada first" was his theme throughout.

At P. E. Polson and Capt. Miller followed with brief speeches, after which the party enjoyed a short cruise around the Bay.

The dimensions and capacity of the vessel may be briefly described to be: Steel hull, 100 ft. long, 42 ft. beam, 12 ft. 6 inches deep, capable of working to a depth of 50 ft., and will discharge material any distance up to 2,000 feet by means of floating flexibly connected pipe.

MOB WAS DESPERATE

Demanding That Negro Non-Union Man Be Lynched.

BIG LABOR DAY DEMONSTRATION

Steel Officials Look Upon the Amalgamated Association's Failure to Cripple the Carnegie Plant at Duquesne the Death Blow of the Strike.

—McKay & Co's Plant Being Disamalgamated.

Pittsburg, Sept. 2.—The big Labor Day demonstration monopolized the attention of workmen and strikers here and in the surrounding towns, but steel manufacturers went on making preparations for the opening of plants that are shut down by the strike already in partial operation. Public interest in the strike itself is lagging, as the contest seems to have settled down to an issue of endurance. The officials of the Steel plant claim the today the pickets about their mill held a special delivery boy from the postoffice with a letter for the office, while he was coming down 12th street, and inspected the letter before he was allowed to proceed. The matter will be reported to the postal authorities at once. It is also charged that the strikers stoned the company's carriage on Pennsylvania avenue, this morning, but did no special damage to the occupants. The aggressiveness of the strikers was further demonstrated late this afternoon, when a mob surrounded William Jones, a colored man, who was mistaken for a non-union man from the Star Works. He had a narrow escape from serious injury and possibly death, by the appearance of Police Lieutenant Crossman, who came to his rescue. Before Crossman could secure additional aid he was almost overwhelmed by the large crowd that had gathered. The prompt arrival of a large force of officers probably saved Jones from being lynched, as the mob appeared a desperate one, and many demands were made that he be strung up.

The failure of the Amalgamated people to cripple the Carnegie plant at Duquesne this morning is looked upon by the steel officials as the death blow of the strike in the Carnegie mills at least. Last night the strike managers at McKeesport announced that a march would be made this morning to Duquesne, and predicted confidently that the men would not go to work and the entire plant would be tied. This morning no paraders appeared, the men went to work and the plant is in operation as usual.

The men who recently struck at the McKay & Co. chair works were treated to a surprise to-day, when the management put a force of men to work dismantling the plant. The company has erected a much larger plant at McKees Rocks, and will abandon the Lawrenceville plant.

PRIOR MURDERED BY MONKS.

Had Defended Them By Publishing Their Wrongdoings.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 2.—The prior of the famous Russian Monastery, near Nijni Novgorod, has been murdered, and his murderers, it is thought, may be found among the monks. The prior had a premonition of death, and the hour before his murder he spent before an icon praying that he might be spared a violent death.

The safe in which he kept the monastery funds was robbed.

The prior had made himself disliked by the monks by condemning their vicious lives and imposing heavy penances.

Revolutionary Movement.

Cologne, Sept. 2.—A despatch to The Cologne Gazette from Teheran, dated Aug. 31, says: "A widespread revolutionary movement is going on in Persia, fostered by discontent with the government, on account of the new loan negotiations with Russia, in which the Grand Vizier is accused of selling the country and failing to make reforms. Martial law has been proclaimed in the capital and environs. The agitation, it is said, proceeds from the entourage of the Shah, who frequently sends threatening letters upon his writing table."

Sensational Case.

London, Sept. 2.—Marie Josephine East, wife of Philip East, was arraigned in the Guild Hall Police Court today, charged with having forged a railway certificate of the value of £100,000.

The defendant, who is of slight build and apparently belonging to the middle classes, was somewhat shabbily dressed. She was accompanied with a chair and sat listlessly in the dock the whole time.

LABOR DAY.

Celebration Throughout All Canada and the United States on Monday.

Toronto, Sept. 3.—Yesterday the Trades and Labor Council here had a big parade, with the Industrial Exhibition as an objective point. Here they ran off the program of sports and games. Throughout Canada there were monster parades, the holiday being strictly observed. The holiday being strictly observed. The holiday being strictly observed. The holiday being strictly observed.

Drowned at Hamilton.

Hamilton, Sept. 3.—Richard Wyndham, a 13-year-old son of William Wyndham, commercial traveler, was drowned while bathing at Burlington Beach, about six o'clock yesterday evening. The accident happened in the lake, near the canal. Wyndham stepped into a hole and went down. A companion, Addie Murphy, went to his assistance and got him by the hair of his head and brought him to the surface. Wyndham seized him, and to save himself Murphy had to shake him off and swim to shore. The body was recovered shortly afterwards.

Matthew Sweetnam Dead.

Toronto, Sept. 3.—Matthew Sweetnam, ex-Chief Postoffice Inspector of the Dominion, died on Saturday morning at the family residence from the result of a stroke of paralysis. Mr. Sweetnam suffered a paralytic stroke on March 8 last, but recovered sufficiently to be about. Last Tuesday he suffered a second stroke. He was conscious, however, until a few hours before his death. When the end came he was surrounded by his family. Mr. Sweetnam was born in Toronto on Oct. 17, 1831, and was, therefore, in his 70th year.

Carrie in New York.

New York, Sept. 3.—Mrs. Carrie Nation came to town yesterday to lecture and be stared at, and the day furnished more excitement for her than any previous day she has had since she abandoned the saloon-smashing crusades that made her famous. She lectured the bartenders of half a dozen saloons, visited several dance halls, was placed under arrest and was released again before she reached the police station.

MARKET REPORTS.

Wheat Futures Declined in Liverpool and Continue Sagging in Tendency—The Latest Quotations.

Monday Evening, Sept. 2. In Liverpool to-day wheat futures declined 1/4d since Saturday. Corn futures were steady at an advance of 1/4d to 3/4d. In Paris cash wheat rose 20 centimes higher than on Saturday.

All the grain and produce exchanges on this continent were closed to-day.

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, SEPT. 8, 1901

Council Committees Meet

ONE OF THE FIRE HORSES IS TEMPORARILY DISABLED.

Gas Co. Ready to Comply with Agreement. Tenders for Waterworks and Fire Hall Improvements not yet opened.

Three committees of the council met and transacted business last evening. The members present were Aldermen Touchburn, Jackson, Robinson, Sinclair and O'Reilly; absent, Mayor Ingle and Ald. Hors.

Ald. O'Reilly, acting chairman of the Board of Works, read a number of accounts. McLennan & Co's and W. Webster's were recommended for payment; one from W. A. Goodwin for $65.71, balance of town hall contract, was held over at Commissioner Chalmers' suggestion. In reply to a question the latter said he was unable to give the probable cost of the furnishing of the town offices owing to the absence of the Mayor.

On motion of Mr. Jas. McWilliams was heard relative to the use of one of the town scrapers for 3-1-2 days. Commissioner Chalmers said the scraper had been taken out of the gravel pit without his permission and had been some six weeks. Ald. Jackson pointed out that the Commissioner was liable for the use of the scraper. After a further discussion Mr. McWilliams agreed to pay $1.25 for the use of the scraper. Mr. O'Neill, driver of the fire team, informed the aldermen that one of his fire horses had a sore foot and would have to be kept in the stable for a few days. He was authorized to secure another horse from a local livery and to arrange for a substitute accommodation for the disabled animal while being treated for the injury.

On motion Mr. B. F. Reesor, manager of the Light Heat & Power Co., was heard relative to the purchase of affixing cards, signs and notices of various kinds to the Company's poles. The telephone and telegraph poles were also complained. In addition to the defacement the lack of care in the wood endangered the life of the limbs of the repairs. The justice of the protest was admitted by the aldermen, and the Town Solicitor will be instructed to prepare a by-law forbidding the practice.

Barrister F. A. McDiarmid was heard with respect to a fine recently imposed by the Police Magistrate, and was told that the council would consider the matter.

Under date of Aug. 29th Messrs. Sims and Burgess, of the Lindsay Gas Co., stated that they were in a position to comply with the agreement to start work on the system by Sept. 1st, and would commence Saturday. After some discussion Commissioner Chalmers was told to put the town's streets when pipe-laying began, as provided for in the contract. In reply to a question Ald. O'Reilly said he understood the company had purchased the Scully lot on Kent-st., opposite Ald. Robinson's block as a site for their works, whereupon Ald. Sinclair said the Council should enter a protest because of the objectionable smell sure to be generated. Ald. Jackson held that the Council would not be justified in interfering—it was not certain that the plant would prove objectionable to the neighborhood, but if it did it would then become the duty of the Board of Health to take action.

An account from the County for $240 for crushing 192 cords of stone was passed on the Town Commissioner's warrant that it was correct. The latter reported that the crusher was again needed at once, but that Foreman Gordon and men were not available. He was instructed to apply for permission to operate it under his own supervision.

The Finance committee dealt with a number of accounts, and then passed on to Sam Terrill's request for aid owing to inability to pay. A suggestion was made that he be sent to the Home, but action was deferred. On motion the Treasurer was instructed to pay Mr. P. G. Pickie $10 for measurement plans of Bond-st. sewer furnished by him.

WORKINGMEN CONVE.

Local Champions of the Cause of Labor are Becoming Active.

A public meeting of the mechanics and workmen of the town was held in the council chamber Aug. 29, and was fairly well attended. Mr. P. G. Pickie took the chair, and stated briefly that the object of the meeting was to discuss the formation of a labor union in Lindsay, and to appoint a committee to draft a report setting forth the workmen's grievances so that they could come to some decision thereon. He further stated that another meeting would be held shortly, when a competent speaker would be here to discuss matters concerning their interests. Mr. David Sharpe thought the workmen had not been fairly treated as the wages were small, and they had no protection whatever. If the meeting was a step towards advancing their interests it would meet with his approval. He had understood that a speaker from Peterborough would be present to address the meeting.

After a little further discussion the following committee was named: Messrs. P. G. Pickie, J. H. Lennon, Jas. Sharpe, D. Sharpe, Geo. Henderson, W. C. Morfield, Frank Shaw, Dan Scully, John Wilson and J. Rickaby. At a subsequent meeting of the committee Mr. Morfield was elected secretary and Mr. Jas. Sharpe treasurer.

THE PORT HOPE FATALITY.

Horse, Buggy and Occupant Fell Fifteen Feet onto the Rocks Below.

(Port Hope Guide, Aug. 28.)

A most dreadful fatal accident occurred this morning about 10:30. Mr. Asa Choate, proprietor of "Belmont," was coming to town with a young horse, and when passing over the bridge at the Electric Light and Power House, the train going north whistled and frightened the colt. It backed against the bridge, which gave way; horse, buggy and occupant falling some fifteen feet on the rocks below. Mr. Choate's head was broken and a main artery severed.

Dr. Corbett, who happened to be at the Electric Works, saw the accident, and immediately rushed to Mr. Choate's assistance and stopped the flow of blood. Drs. Powers and Chas. were also called, who did all they could to allay his sufferings, but there was very little hope of his recovery from the first. Death came about 2:30 this afternoon.

It was thought that the only chance for life would be the amputation of the leg at the thigh, and a specialist (Dr. Primrose, of Toronto), was telegraphed for, but arrived too late to be of service.

A sprained ankle is not an uncommon accident. Pain-killer relieves and cures almost as if by magic. The greatest household remedy. Avoid substitutes. There is but one Pain-Killer, Perry Davis'. 25c. and 50 cents.

An East Ward Blaze.

A stable owned by Mr. John O'Leary, grain buyer at the market, was destroyed by fire Aug. 29th. The fire is supposed to have been started by a spark from a neighbor's chimney. The stable was situated in front of box 43, and the brigade was promptly on hand and did good work. We understand Mr. O'Leary's loss is covered by insurance.

Victoria Co. Sugar Beets.

Mr. James Keith expressed last week to the Guelph Model Farm 700 pounds of sugar beets grown by 22 farmers in this district. The beets will be tested at once by the College experts and Mr. Keith expects to be able to announce the results in a few days. The report must come from Victoria County, because it is made apparent that we can grow first-class sugar beets in this section. It is almost certain that the establishment of a beet sugar factory will follow.

Stolen Goods Recovered.

From time to time for several months past complaints have been made to the police by parties who have had parcels and other property stolen from their vehicles when left in hotel sheds. Chief Neilson has been on the lookout for a clue, and his patience has at last been rewarded. Last week he located the whereabouts of some of the stolen goods. The supposed thief is absent from town or in hiding, but will probably be arrested ere long. That sort of thievery is especially annoying, and Magistrate Steers will do the public a service by imposing a stiff sentence.

Lindsay's Public Institutions.

Mr. J. Mann, of Toronto, Deputy Inspector of Prisons, Asylums and Homes, was in town last Friday, 30, and visited the County Gaol and the Home for the Aged. In the gaol at present are confined five males and three females; the offences marked against them on the register being larceny, larceny, assault and vagrancy. Mr. Mann found the gaol and surroundings in apple-pie order, and complimented Gaoler Jackson upon the fact. In the Home for the Aged he found sixteen inmates—thirteen males and three females. Here again he found everything in irreproachable condition, and the inmates comfortable and happy, thanks to the ceaseless care and attention of the Matron, Miss Cameron.

Board of Health Meeting.

The Board of Health met last Thursday week at four o'clock in the Town Clerk's office. Present, Chairman Keith, and Messrs. Kylio, Mills, McDonald, Duck and Staples. Medical Health Officer Dr. McAlpine and Sanitary Inspector Douglas. The minutes of the former meetings were read and confirmed. Chairman Jas. Keith said the meeting had been called to consider the fumigation of the Public Schools. Mr. Staples stated that some of the rooms in the schools had been painted instead of fumigated, and asked the board's approval of the same. This Mr. O expressed approval of painting the rooms instead of fumigating them. Moved by Mr. Staples, seconded by Mr. McDonald, that the first motion of the Board of Health of Aug. 13th as to fumigating be rescinded—Lost. A motion endorsing the action of the School Board and committee of the Board of Health, was then put and adopted, after which the Board adjourned.

An Enjoyable Outing.

The third moonlight excursion to Sturgeon Point, Aug. 29th, under the auspices of the Kawartha Club, was a most enjoyable affair, and was well attended despite the somewhat unfavorable weather conditions at time of leaving. When the lake was reached a blast of the steamer's whistle was a signal for the lighting of huge bonfires at Pleasant Point and Sturgeon Point, and the illumination of the cottages owned by Messrs. J. D. Flavell, W. A. Goodwin, and J. H. Hopkins and a few others displayed bright lights. On arriving at the Point the Citizens' band paraded Lakeshore, and later on rendered half a dozen of their choicest numbers at the foot of Second-st. The trip home was particularly pleasant owing to the bright moonlight. We trust it will not be taken amiss by the good people of the Point if we suggest that when they are next treated to a free concert they might at least arrange themselves from their summer lethargy long enough to raise a cheer or two.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

The weather man deserves something for good behavior.

Toronto has been selected as the meeting place for next year's C.M.B.A. convention.

Many a Lindsay woman judges her neighbors by their back yard display on wash day.

A branch of the Western Bank of Canada, with headquarters in Oshawa, has been opened in Sunderland.

The government seems to be making light of the Duke of York's visit. It has ordered 20,000 Chinese lanterns.

The man who eats clover may disguise his condition; But he's never quite free from the breath of suspicion.

The Peterboro Examiner boasts of a stalk of white corn measuring 12 ft. 2 inches in height. Surely the fertile fields of Victoria County can produce something better than that!

Guelph Mercury: If the Canada Truss and Electrical Company decide to remove from Toronto to Guelph it will be the first time that this city has been known to get ahead of Houghton in the matter of brass.

Mr. Alex. Cullon's new steamer was given a trial spin down the river last Thursday week, returning at 7 o'clock a.m. The craft behaved well and her speed surprised the few who were on hand at that early hour.

A new section school building will be erected near Elford, township of Manvers, this fall. The new building is now being placed on the grounds. Lindsay brick, being the best in the province, will be used in its construction.

The Standard Chemical Works at Fenlon Falls are doing a large and increasing business. The company find it necessary to erect an addition to their present building, and fifty thousand Lindsay brick will be used in its erection.

Mr. J. A. Courtois and Mr. Warren, of Warren & Steele, liverymen, were in Peterboro, Aug. 27th, and 28th looking for a party who stole an overcoat and some money belonging to Mr. Courtois. He also left his livery bill unpaid.

Engineers effected an entrance into Burnt River post office one night recently and stole $16.50 in money and $7.45 in stamps. The same night the Pattie house at Cobocook was entered and about $40 abstracted from the bar cash register.

Mrs. J. W. Gould, who has been carrying on a general business in the village of Goodham since the death of her husband a year and a half ago, has made an assignment for the benefit of her creditors. Mr. J. P. Cunnings, town, is the assignee.

A very severe thunderstorm passed over the country north of Lindsay Thursday, Aug. 29th. Rain fell in torrents at Sturgeon Point, and in Fenlon Falls the lightning struck and killed a valuable horse owned by Messrs. Mounsey & McCall, liverymen.

Orillia's tax rate should be 28 mills this year in order to give a clear sheet, but it is likely that only 26 mills will be levied. Last year the rate was only 22 mills, but the smallness of the rate, and other special expenditures, necessitate an increase.

A jolly wheeling party comprising eight persons from town, left Aug. 28th, for Cambray, where they spent a few pleasant hours in games and other amusements at the common residence of Dr. and Mrs. E. P. Smith. They returned about 11 o'clock.

Montreal Herald: When Sir Wilfrid told the Toronto fair people he hoped "that every man here feels, as I do, the pride of being a Canadian," he scored a possible. If all our hopes could be as easily realized as that one this life would be one long, sweet dream of bliss.

Mr. R. Hepburn, who works for Dr. McAlpine, was rather roughly handled on Wednesday week by one of the Doctor's customers. He was sent to collect an account and some hot words followed. Finally the debtor lost his temper and gave Hepburn a few knocks which caused the blood to flow freely.

The excursion lately under the auspices of the Kawartha Club to Strawberry Island, Lake Simcoe, was largely attended. The special train, comprising five coaches in charge of Conductor Geo. Adams, passed through Lindsay at 9 o'clock. The excursion was from Keene, Campbellford, Hastings and other points east.

Dog fighting on the public street is one of the leading amusements of Cannington citizens, according to the Glasgow. The editor remonstrated on a recent occasion, and was warned not to mention the affair under penalty of getting his head punched. In the last issue of the Glasgow, we published the names of parties who figure at the next scrap.

By a recent amendment to the Voters' List Act, anyone who will be twenty-one within thirty days from the date fixed for hearing "appeals" to the county council is entitled to have his name placed on the voter's list. This applies to both town and townships. Every young man who can qualify under this new regulation should see that his name is not left off.

During the last couple of weeks a large number of cattle and sheep have been shipped from Cobocook, Victoria Road and Kirkfield to the Toronto markets. Mr. Wm. Welton, stockman, near Cambray, shipped three carloads of stock Friday and assigned a couple more loads on Tuesday. He is getting the price for butchers' cattle on the Toronto markets is fairly good.

Large shipments of stock have been made from north country points last week. Miss McLaughlin, Brandon & Austl, of Fenlon Falls, shipped three carloads of cattle and sheep to the Toronto market. The same firm also shipped a couple of loads of hogs to the Matthews Co., Peterboro. Messrs. R. Lynn, P. B. McIlhargy and W. J. Moore, local stockmen, have shipped several loads of stock to the Toronto markets.

We're striving to make this store indispensable to rich and poor. Our preparations for Fall are almost beyond the needs of this section—gigantic and startling to even those who sell clothing.

We are spurred forward—not by competition, but by our own splendid records of the past, and the knowledge of what you are expecting of us.

THIS SEASON'S LINES OF Ready-to-wear Fall Suits, Trousers, Vests

Are Better, Fuller, Completer—Quality is Higher, Prices are Lower than ever before—the best opportunity of the season.

Fall Hats and Caps, Underwear, Shirts, Hosiery, Neckwear.

We have secured for you in the matter of Style, Quality and Price, the pick of the leading makers.

Responses should be quick to have our cut prices. Come and tell your friends of the goodness of our new Fall Stock.

A. J. GRAHAM,

The King Clothier, Lindsay and Kirkfield

—Miss Edith Workman is visiting friends in Cameron.

—Mr. John Hall, of Creswell, was in town last week.

—Mr. A. Smith, of Beaverton, was in town last week.

—Miss Lundy, of Chicago, is visiting friends in this vicinity.

—Miss Mabel Magwood left lately to visit relatives in Toronto.

—Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Weeks, of Woodville, were in town Saturday.

—Miss L. Pyman, of Grand Rapids, Mich., is visiting friends in town.

—Miss Cora Watkins is the guest of Miss Ida Thurston at Sturgeon Point.

—Mrs. E. E. Sharpe and son, Master Neville, are visiting friends in Toronto.

—Messrs. J. M. Hogg and W. Wilkison, of Sunderland, were in town lately.

—Mr. O. Weese, of Montreal, is at present spending a few days with friends in town.

—Mr. J. A. Gillespie, who had been visiting his brother, returned to his home in Oshawa on Saturday.

—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Walters left town Saturday for Buffalo and the Pan-American.

—Mr. Sid. Smyth, of Toronto, reached town Saturday evening to spend Sunday and Labor Day with friends. Of course he enjoyed a go at the ducks Monday morning, and was fortunate in securing a couple.

—Mr. Albert Gassien, of Carleton Place, Ont., arrived in town Saturday night after an absence of three years, to spend Labor Day with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Gassien, east ward. That town seems to agree with him, as many friends in town failed to recognize his portly form. He now weighs the scales at 210, which represents a gain of nearly a century since his departure.

—Miss Till: Goodwin returned last Thursday week from a six weeks' holiday trip, the course of which she visited Hamilton, Guelph, Rochester, Buffalo and Cobourg friends.

WIT AND WISDOM.

—Don't lose any sleep on account of slander. It will rub off when it gets dry.

—It is all well enough to give credit where credit is due, but it is better still to pay cash.

—Flint—"Fine chap that clerk of yours, Steel?" Steel—"Yes, slow and sure." "He looks it." "Yes, slow to learn, and sure to forget."

—He—"Are you still living at the same address in town, Mrs. Jones?" She—"Yes, but since I've become a widow I've been looking for another flat!"

—My wife makes me stand round "I can't deny that." "Doesn't it humiliate you?" "No; our baby is the dead image of me; and he makes her stand around."

—Phr nologist—"My friend, I find you have a most remarkable memory." Mr. Mulcahy—"Professor, wud yez mind puttin' that down on a bit o' paper so's Ol' won't forget it?"

—First Tramp—"Did you ever come near takin' a bath?" Second Tramp—"Well, I was once in a pool room."

—"My, my," said the golf stick, as Potter made a miserable stroke. "Does he often use such funny language?" "Well," returned the golf stick, "half-time I can't tell what he's driving at."

—"Nell—"So she's engaged to him?" Belle—"Yes."

—"Nell—"But she doesn't love him."

—"Nell—"Of course not, but she found out that another girl wanted him."

—Doctor—"To little girl who is rather unwell—"Now, my dear, put out your tongue." Little Patient (timidly)—"Certainly not! Mamma says it is very vulgar to put out one's tongue to anybody."

The only reliable remedy for all ailments of infants and children.

Astronomical Rarity.

An interesting astronomical phenomenon, which is not likely to occur again during the course of several centuries, will be witnessed in the skies during the next few evenings. The sun, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn and the moon are to be seen in a direct line with one another. At 7:30 Venus can be seen, and at 7:45 the moon. Mars appears, both in the west, and about 300 degrees apart. Jupiter and Saturn can be seen after 8 o'clock, directly south, and about five degrees apart. The moon appears in the east. All, except Mars, can be seen with the ordinary eye, and the latter can be seen with the aid of a pair of opera glasses.

Many Deaths Largely Due to Ignorance on the Part of Mothers

The disorders of children seem to the rugged and hearty grown persons a simple and not particularly dangerous.

This point of view on the part of parents has been the cause of the loss of thousands of baby lives.

You will always find that the mothers who are successful in bringing up families of healthy, happy children with scarcely a day's sickness, are always those who are careful to note the slightest evidence of illness and to check the difficulty at once.

They do not belong to the class of mothers that stuffy their children with sleeping draughts and similar medicines containing opiates.

They stick to the purely vegetable healthful medicines which cure infantile disorders quickly, and of these Baby's Own Tablets are the best of all.

For colic, simple fevers, croup, constipation, diarrhoea, irritation with a teething, indigestion and sleeplessness, these tablets are a quick, effective remedy.

Dissolved in water the smallest baby will take them without the slightest objection. Do not trifle with medicines concerning which you know nothing, when here is a time-tried remedy which is used constantly and with the best result in thousands of homes.

Mrs. H. H. Fox, Orange Ridge, Md., says: "I have found Baby's Own Tablets a perfect medicine for my children and would not be without them in the country. They are truly a baby comfort and mother's friend." Baby's Own Tablets can be found at drug stores, or will be sent prepaid upon receipt of price, 25 cents, enclosing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Dept. T., Brockville, Ont.

MERRILL'S SYSTEM TONIC

The Merrill Medical Co.
BRANDT, ONTARIO

Fac-Simile of Genuine.

WHY WOMEN

Like Merrill's System Tonic.

The first reason is that the use of this valuable medicine produces a clear complexion, rosy cheeks and ruby lips. You can easily tell a well woman. Her step is light and buoyant, her complexion as described above, and there is a complete lack of that don't-care-to-live air about her. These results can be obtained by any woman, no matter what her complexion may now be, and no matter how old or care worn she may feel, if she persists in using a few bottles of Merrill's System Tonic. It cures constipation and liver troubles, which causes the sallow and muddy complexion. It restores the blood to its naturally healthy condition and this gives the tint to the skin without the use of face powder. It cures female trouble and regulates the female functions, and restores the vivacity of girlhood. Used according to instructions it cures falling of the womb, whites and leucorrhoea. No medicine in the world to-day is more valuable to make sick women well, than Merrill's System Tonic.

Give it to young girls who are pale and nervous. Give it to women who expect to become mothers. Give it to women in all conditions of life and it will more than substantiate its claims. Merrill's System Tonic purifies the blood, builds up the system, strengthens the nerves and cures constipation.

Each 50c bottle contains 50 pleasant-to-take doses, and is sold

A MUNICIPAL UNION

Canadian Municipalities Unite for Mutual Support

A DRAFT OF THE CONSTITUTION.

Deliberations of Municipal Convention Result in Organization Upon a Broad Basis of Better Government and Promotion of Municipal Interests — Coming Discussion on Municipalization of Franchises.

Toronto, Aug. 30.—The only business done yesterday at the Mayors' Dominion Municipal Convention was the adoption of a portion of the constitution. Proceedings did not commence until nearly 4 o'clock. After the chairman had explained that pressure of committee business had caused the delay, the result of the committee's labors was submitted for approval. The report was as follows:

Scheme of Organization.

"The name shall be the Union of Canadian Municipalities."

"The membership shall consist of all municipalities of Canada, which by vote of their Councils declare their intention of joining the union."

"The objects of the association shall be general improvement and facilitation of every branch of municipal administration by the following means:

"First, the perpetuation of the organization as an agency for the co-operation of municipalities. In all questions pertaining to municipal administration."

"Second, in particular, the guidance and improvement of the legislation of both the Dominion and the Province upon municipal questions, and the betterment of municipal government and the promotion of municipal interests generally."

"Third, the holding of annual conventions for discussion, information and resolutions on the above subjects."

"Fourth, the securing of united action for the protection of individual municipalities and municipal interests as a whole against legislative or other encroachments of corporations."

"Fees—The following shall be the scale of fees to be paid by members: Townships, parishes and incorporated villages $ 2

Counties 5

Towns and cities with a population under 10,000 5

Do, over 10,000 10

Do, over 50,000 25

"Annual meeting—The annual meeting shall be held at such place as shall be determined by vote of the previous annual convention, and shall be held at such time as the Executive Committee shall determine."

"Representatives—Each member shall be entitled to send its Mayor, or Mayor pro tem, or such additional representatives as its Council may appoint. Votes in the convention may be taken by a show of hands, unless any member calls for a vote by members, in which case each member by its representative or representatives shall cast but one vote."

"So far, the constitution drafted by the organization met with favor, but there was a lengthy discussion when the following additional clauses were submitted for consideration:

"Officers—The officers of the association shall be a president and a vice-president for each province represented."

"Executive—There shall be an Executive Committee, which shall be composed of the president and vice-presidents. The Executive may elect a chairman and secretary from its own membership. The chairman so elected shall be the central officer, through whom meetings, conferences and the action of the Executive may be taken. When the representation of any province becomes vacant after the time of the annual convention, the subsequent appointment of a vice-president for that province shall rest with the Executive Committee for the year. The Executive may confer by correspondence, and shall be a general administrative committee."

"During the convention such members of the last year's Executive as are members of the convention shall form a Committee on Resolutions with such members as may be added by the convention at its first session for the session only. The Executive shall meet on the day before the annual meeting of the convention. Vacancies in the executive may be filled by the executive for the remainder of the year, and until the next annual meeting."

"Amendments—Resolutions for the amendment of the constitution or for any other purpose shall in the first instance be referred to the Resolution Committee to report thereon to the convention, unless by a two-thirds vote of those present and voting, the rule is suspended."

"Ald. Urquhart urged that the Executive Committee be more general and suggested that it be composed of the president, provincial vice-presidents and other members, two from each province, to be elected by the convention, and the vice-president and two other members of the executive from a province to form a provincial committee to watch the interests of the municipalities in that respective province, three to constitute a quorum, to meet at the call of any three municipalities, and, if necessary, to consult with the central executive, no expense to be incurred without the consent of the president and provincial vice-president."

"The suggestion was received with favor, and it will take the form of a resolution. A motion to refer the latter clauses in the proposed constitution back to the committee, was passed."

An adjournment was made till 10 a. m. to-day.

The following is a resolution submitted to the committee by Ald. Urquhart, Toronto, seconded by Ald. Richardson:

"That we desire to emphasize the principle that any undertaking which requires the use of the streets of a municipality for the purpose of carrying on its business, shall be deemed a public utility, and all such undertakings shall be owned and operated by the municipality concerned for the benefit of the citizens thereof."

ed and operated by the municipality concerned for the benefit of the citizens thereof."

TWO MEN ARE DEAD.

Twenty-Seven Others Were Injured and Some May Die as Result of Railway Wreck at Fairville, N.Y.

Newark, N. Y., Aug. 30.—The accommodation train leaving Sudus Point over the Northern Central Railroad, and which arrives in this village at 6 o'clock, was last night derailed at the station at Fairville, about 10 miles north of here. One was killed and 28 injured. Their names are: Dead—William Mosher, Sudus Point.

Fatally injured—Howard Lubbs, Elmira, ticket agent at Lake Shore, badly scalded and severely injured about the head; will die.

Libbie Ford, Newark, badly scalded; will probably die.

Two, and possibly more, of the injured will die during the night.

The train was made up at Sudus Point, and consisted of four coaches, a baggage car and engine, with William Mosher at the throttle.

Chester Engler was driver, Conductor J. S. Merriman of Sudus Point was in charge of the train.

The train was running at nearly 40 miles an hour. Approaching the station at Fairville, there is a curve and gravel pit. For some reason the engine jumped the tracks while passing the gravel pit. The force of the accident turned the engine completely around, throwing the five cars on their sides. The train load of about 150 passengers was thrown into the ditch, and it is a wonder that the number of fatally injured is not greater.

The engine and all the cars were badly broken up, and the steampipes running under the cars were broken in several places. This accounts for the large number of persons scalded. Aid was quickly summoned from the neighboring houses, and all the assistance possible was rendered.

Work was sent to Sudus and Newark or physicians and a special containing five doctors left Newark at 6.45 o'clock. Upon its arrival the Newark passengers were placed aboard and hastened to Newark hospitals.

Rev. Dr. Burgess, one of the injured, was 25 years pastor of the Park Presbyterian Church at New York, and is the father of W. C. and E. H. Burgess, editors of The Arcadian Weekly Gazette of this place.

He is 73 years old, and it is doubtful whether he will recover. Mrs. Burgess is also among the seriously injured.

Coroner E. P. Thatcher took charge of Mosher's body, and will hold an inquest.

Howard Tubbs, the ticket agent at Sudus Point, who was on the engine with Engineer William Mosher, was badly scalded and otherwise injured. He died shortly before 11 o'clock on the hospital train at Newark.

A Fatal Railway Wreck.

Elmira, N. Y., Aug. 30.—The breaking of a coupling pin caused a wreck at Roaring Branch, Pa., on the Northern Central Railroad yesterday morning, which resulted in the death of Engineer J. J. McKay of Elmira, and a fatal injury to Elmer J. P. Arty, who leaped from the engine in time to avoid the crash, which derailed several cars and demolished the engine.

Justice in the Yukon—O'Brien the Murderer. Pays the Penalty of His Crime—History of the Case.

Dawson, Y. T., Aug. 23, via Seattle, Aug. 30.—George O'Brien, the murderer of Clayton, Olson and Relfe, was hanged at 7.30 o'clock yesterday morning. He declared his innocence to the last, and cursed the prosecutor, the judge and the jury as he mounted the scaffold. Death was instantaneous.

History of the Case.

Clayton and Relfe, two of the three murdered men, were gold-diggers, and the third, Olson, was an employee of the Government telegraph line. On Dec. 17, 1899, a year and eight months ago, Clayton and Relfe started to get out of the Yukon, each carrying a few thousand dollars in gold, besides some nuggets, in a sack. On the Christmas Eve following they arrived at Minto Road House, situated in a wild and lonely spot about two hundred miles from Dawson. Here they were joined by Olson. He had come from a station above called Hutehiku to work a break in the line. His work was finished, and he remained over night at Minto, and on Christmas morning, after a hearty breakfast, the three men started out on their Christmas Day journey on the trail to Hutehiku, which under ordinary conditions they should have reached at nightfall. They never arrived at Hutehiku, nor were any of them ever seen alive. But six months later when the Yukon waters were low, three dead bodies were found on the sandbars some distance below Minto. All had bullet wounds in their skulls, and there was no difficulty in identifying them as the bodies of the three missing men. The Northwest Mounted Police worked unremittingly for many months on the case. O'Brien had been early arrested as a suspect, and gradually a chain of circumstantial evidence was built up which was amply sufficient for conviction. The case cost the Canadian Government $100,000 from first to last. Since his conviction O'Brien had behaved very badly, cursing his guards and all who have had to do with him. He made a desperate attempt at suicide on August 1st by trying to choke himself with a handkerchief, but was detected by his guards. His outcries in his cell were so dreadful that for some weeks before the execution the ladies of Dawson refrained from passing near the jail.

Koch Will Inoculate Dr. Granauit.

COL. GIBSON'S LUNCH.

The Great Event of the Day at D. R. A. in Ottawa.

MINISTER OF MILITIA SPEAKS.

Hon. Mr. Borden Discusses Militia Topics — Summary of Speech at the D. R. A. Matches—Hon. Mr. Tarte's Nervous Evidence in Shooting Dangerous Rapids—East Lambton Liberal Nominations.

Ottawa, Aug. 29.—The great event of yesterday at the capital was the luncheon given by Colonel the Hon. J. M. Gibson, President of the Dominion Rifle Association, in the commodious headquarters of the association on the Rockcliffe rifle range. Col. Gibson occupied the chair, having on his right His Excellency the Governor-General, and on his left Colonel the Hon. F. W. Borden, Minister of Militia. The remaining seats were occupied by a representative attendance of the leading riflemen of Canada. After full justice had been done to the excellent menu, a short toast list was honored.

The Toasts.

The health of the King and members of the Royal Family was drunk with enthusiasm, after which the chairman proposed the toast of the Governor-General.

In reply His Excellency, who was heartily cheered, expressed his warm sympathy with the work conducted by the Dominion Rifle Association.

The chairman next gave the toast of the Minister of Militia. In doing so he warmly eulogized Col. Borden and said that the Minister not only entertained a correct view of the necessities of the militia but succeeded in getting from his colleagues in the Cabinet all that he asked for. Since Col. Borden assumed office there had been a veritable revolution in militia matters, and the Dominion Rifle Association had derived the benefit.

Col. Borden's Reply.

Col. Borden, on rising to respond, was greeted with musical honors and round after round of cheers. The Minister in the course of an eloquent speech gave his predecessors the credit of having done their best for the militia, and said that it had been his good fortune to be confronted with splendid opportunities. In 1897 the Government sent a contingent to London to take part in the greatest demonstration the world has ever seen, on the occasion of the Diamond Jubilee of her late Majesty. Then a little later on we sent a contingent of a couple of hundred men to the Yukon. Some speaking about the wisdom of the proceeding was expressed at the time, but I venture to say that no more difficult operation was undertaken and accomplished than that of sending those men through that wilderness into the gold territory, and no task was ever better carried out. (Applause.) Then came the crowning effort of the Canadian militia, the greatest opportunity they have ever had, of sending a small army to South Africa to assist the Mother Country. (Applause.) But to turn to our affairs of the Dominion Rifle Association, His Excellency has told you that his distinguished predecessor, Lord Lorne, pointed this out as a suitable range, but I am bound to say that Col. Tilton is the man who first called my attention to the Rockcliffe rifle range, and it is due to his perseverance aided by Col. Gibson and the other members of the committee that we owe the fact that we have this rifle range to-day. Someone said to me to-day that this was the best, although not the largest, rifle range in the world. Possibly that is a little exaggerated, but I venture to say there is no better rifle range as far as it goes, and we shall take care it is made as good as money can make it. (Loud applause.) The Minister went on to speak of the commercial advancement of Canada, and pointed out that during the last three years not only had there been a capital expenditure of $75,000, but from $25,000 to $50,000 additional had been expended in providing the country with rifle ranges. Not only that, but a school of musketry, which was largely due to the efforts of General O'Grady-Haly, had been inaugurated at Ottawa. This school had just completed its first course and a very successful one it had been, thanks to the director, Lieut.-Col. Cartwright. The Minister believed that the establishment of the School of Musketry would prove to be one of the most useful measures ever of this country. He was in entire accord with those who said that it was most important to teach the Canadian militia the use of the rifle, but he did not agree with those who held that the ceremonial features of militia training should be dispensed with. If they did that they would dispense with things that were dear to the heart of the soldier wherever he might be. He proposed, so far as the money at his disposal would permit, to teach every able-bodied man in Canada how to use a rifle. (Applause.) Events during the last few years had brought them closer and closer to the heart of the Empire. God grant, said Colonel Borden, in conclusion, that this Empire may remain as solid and united as it is to-day, and that it may go on growing and increasing in power. It will be a blessing to the Empire and the world at large that this condition of things should continue. (Cheers.) Lieut.-Col. Tilton proposed the toast of "The Major-General Commanding."

General O'Grady-Haly, who was received with musical honors, emphasized the fact that the first and most important thing for the soldier was to know how to use his weapon. The soldier must also be thoroughly trained and disciplined.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 31.—It is understood that Lord Minto is of opinion that the Royal party will arrive at Quebec on time, the 16th of September.

Compare the Lindsay stores of ten or fifteen years ago with the stores of to-day. You will find that the old stores which were not advertised (if they exist at all) are no bigger or busier than they used to be, while the stores which were well advertised have had to be enlarged to accommodate their increasing business. Even young firms have started and outstripped the old ones by sheer force of advertising.

London, Aug. 28.—Lord Kitchener, in a despatch from Pretoria yesterday, says:

A convoy on its way from Kimberley to Griquatown, was attacked near Rooikopje. The attack was repulsed by Captain Hump's escort of the 74th Imperial Yeomanry, who lost nine men killed and had 23 men wounded. The convoy was brought in safely.

Rawlinson caught 18 Transvaalers after a 40-minute gallop in the open, east of Edenburg.

Merriman on a Farm.

Cape Town, Aug. 27.—J. X. Merriman, the Parliamentary leader of the Afrikaner Bond, has been arrested on a farm 31 miles from Cape Town. He has given his parole not to leave the farm.

Unshakable Determination.

Cape Town, Aug. 27.—Lord Milner, the British High Commissioner in South Africa, arrived here to-day from England. He met with an enthusiastic reception. Replying to an address of welcome, he said there was no doubt whatsoever of the unshakable determination of the people and Government of Great Britain to adhere to their South African policy.

Boers Headed Off.

Cape Town, Aug. 26.—Two Boer commandoes, totalling 700 men, were headed off in an attempt to cross the Orange River into Cape Colony to-day.

Czar Disposed to Intervene.

London, Aug. 28.—The St. Petersburg correspondence of The Daily Mail confirming the report that Emperor Nicholas and Emperor William will meet at Dantzig, Sept. 10, and the King at Fredensberg, says:

"I have learned also on the best authority that the Czar is now disposed to intervene with regard to the Transvaal, and that the war will be discussed with M. Loubet, King Edward and Emperor William."

TWENTY PERSONS ARE LOST.

Eleven Found and Identified, But Nine More Are Yet Missing.

Philadelphia, Aug. 30.—Eleven known dead, nine missing and thirty-two injured is the record made by the explosion of the boilers of the steamboat City of Trenton on the Delaware River Wednesday afternoon. All night long city firemen, policemen and employees of the Wilmington Steamboat Company, which owned the boat, worked in and around the burned and blackened hull, searching for bodies of victims. Hundreds of men dragged the river bottom with grappling irons yesterday, and they will continue to do so until every person is accounted for. Of the eleven bodies that have been recovered, ten have been identified.

Mr. Shaughnessy a Director.

Montreal, Aug. 31.—A despatch from St. John's, Nfld., yesterday announces that Mr. Thomas G. Shaughnessy, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, has been elected a director in the Reid Newfoundland Company, and that the re-organization of the company has been completed. Mr. R. G. Reid is president, with Messrs. Thomas G. Shaughnessy, W. D. Reid, H. D. Reid and R. Q. Reid, Jr., as fellow directors.

OAKWOOD.
(From Our Own Correspondent.)
On Monday evening a number of friends of W. H. McLaughlin, (who has lately resigned the post of mail carrier between Oakwood and Mariposa stations, which duty he performed for over quarter of a century), paid him a rather unexpected visit. When the old gentleman became convinced that they had not pounced on him in such an unceremonious manner with evil intent, Mr. G. B. Reardon, principal of Oakwood school, read an address, at which Mr. McLaughlin was present with a very handsome can mounted with gold, and engraved thereon was the following: Presented to W. H. McLaughlin by Oakwood Friends. Not being satisfied with naming him to show their further thoughtfulness, they brought forth a very handsome easy chair and placed the old gentleman therein, we presume feeling confident that after exercising himself with a good walk, the cane having performed its duty, the chair would do the balance and be a fitting place for Mac to rest himself and spend many a pleasant hour, thinking of the many incidents which had transpired during his long service. To say that our friends were surprised would be drawing it much, as he so overcome that he found it almost impossible to find those present his sincere thanks, but the will was taken for the deed, and after enjoying a good lunch, provided by the ladies who were present, all dispersed to their homes leaving Mac, happy.

Our townsman, T. H. King, must be congratulated on his new bus, which is now carrying passengers between Oakwood and Mariposa station.

FENELON FALLS.
(From Our Own Correspondent.)
On Saturday evening during the past two weeks the inhabitants of this place have been given an exhortation on Colborne-st. The speaker (to use his own words) goes by the name of Geo. Henely, and he belongs to the denomination known as the Latter-Day Saints. George's interpretation of the life is not what most people living here would call orthodox, is given with such emphasis that all will agree he is in dead earnest. Still George is a funny fellow. When the Salvation Army goes to the trouble of getting a crowd to go up to the barracks he steps in, starts to sing a hymn, and then gives a lecture which has more evidence of lungs than grammar and holds the people while the Army go over to the barracks with quite a small crowd. George's chief object seems to be to tell the people that the churches are all wrong. His mission is well attended, too, while he is speaking, as the different churches come in for a liberal share of criticism and he demonstrates to his own satisfaction, if no one else's, that he is giving them quite a knock-out when they get to the gates.

Poor George, he is doomed to disappointment as far as this village is concerned, and if he wishes to do effective work he had better resume his trade and this village will furnish him with lots of work that is more congenial than forcing on people opinions which they are at variance. This is a pointer for you, George.

During the heavy electrical storm on Thursday of last week, lightning entered the livery stable of Moncey and McCall, killing one of their best horses. The electric light was in front of Mr. McCall's was broken and partly pulled from his dwelling at the same time.

Read What Gough Can Do for Your Boys in the Clothing Line

Spare yourself the labor of making up your boy's clothing, or making over for the little kids the old clothes that the bigger boys have worn. COUCH has made a mighty slash in prices of Boys' Suits. Actually you can purchase them this week at prices that won't pay you to bother making them at home.

COUCH'S Boys' Section is one of the busy departments of this great clothing store. When one considers the great variety of styles always kept on hand, and the matchless cheap prices, no wonder that parents make COUCH'S their headquarters for Boys' Clothing. We have said several times that this store sells as many Boys' Suits as all the other stores in Lindsay. The assertion is not quite accurate; to be nearer the truth we should have said "more than all the other stores in Lindsay." Why is this so? Come in, look at the Suits and compare the prices—your question will answer itself.

FATHERS! MOTHERS! GUARDIANS!

All who are preparing to send their Boys back again to School—Come and See these Neat and Durable Suits in the Latest New Styles.

COBOCONK.
(Special to The Post.)
Miss Bertha A. Suter, of Rochester, is at present the guest of Mrs. A. Clifford, Cobocank.

Mr. A. B. Clifford, manager of the Kirkfield Roll Mills, is at home in Cobocank on a vacation for a short time.

CAMBRAY.
(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Mr. H. B. Fair, miller, was united in holy wedlock to Miss Pouchon on Wednesday last.

Miss Patient Byam left on Monday last for St. Catharines to resume her position as a teacher in Demill College.

Mr. W. Berkeley, of Chicago, arrived here last Friday.
Miss E. Lansing and Miss L. McDonald left on Thursday to attend the Ladies' College at St. Catharines for another term.

Say, if you want a marriage license at any time, go to H. Rogers'. The Cambray Public Library is being moved to H. Rogers' store.

OMEMEE.
(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Farmers have about completed cutting and threshing is the order of the day. The yield is very fair and prices promise well. Already a lot of oats and peas have been marketed at good prices.

Our High and Public Schools are again open, with a good attendance. A number have gone to the Model School at Lindsay, including Miss Jardine, daughter of the High School principal, Miss McConnell, Miss Post, and others.

His Honor Judge Harding, presiding at the Court of Revision, gave the assessors a very severe reprimand for stuffing the Voters' list with all sorts of voters for the Tories. 900 of a fine will be imposed if the offence is repeated.

Mrs. J. Rea, mother of Lieut. Rea, is now fairly well, after a lingering illness.

Our No. 4 Co., 45th Regiment, are beginning to prepare for the Duke's reception in Toronto on Oct. 10th. Mr. J. R. McNally, Co. Treasurer, and Mr. Graham, Warden, met our township council here this week relative to the government good roads grants, etc.

Rev. G. O. Sherwood, Anglican minister, of Buffalo, formerly an old Omemece boy, is visiting his parents here.

Duck shooting has been fairly enjoyable, though more birds than formerly on Pigeon Creek waters.

A large and influential lodge of the "Woodmen" is being organized here by Mr. Ramplin.

Monument to be Erected to the Father of Lacrosse.

The lacrosse clubs of the Dominion are invited to help this fund, and it has been suggested that all clubs throughout the country arrange to play a match for the benefit of the fund either on Wednesday, the 25th September, or Wednesday, the 2nd October, or between these dates if possible. If the clubs of Canada will take this matter up the committee in charge of the fund feel positive that their hopes will be realized, and an amount raised sufficient to meet all requirements.

It is a well-known fact to lovers of the game of lacrosse, that Dr. George Beers was the father of the game. His active mind saw the glorious possibilities which the game possessed in observing the crude efforts of the "Red Man" to shape its destiny, to mould and fit it for the White Man's costume. His master judgment was set to work to evolve from its chaotic state, our modern game of lacrosse, and in course of time, through dint of hard work and unwavering faith in final success, he was enabled to produce the first laws governing the game.

He created an interest in lacrosse all over Canada by his personal influence, on various travels to different parts of the country, and the committee appointed to look after this fund, feel that the attention of the clubs only have to be brought to the matter when a general response will follow. We trust the clubs everywhere will accept this notice and immediately make arrangements with each other to play matches as suggested above.

Please send drafts, cheques or money orders to the order of P. E. Nelson, trustee Dr. Beers' Memorial Fund, care of M.A.A.A. Office, Montreal, P.Q., and they will be duly acknowledged in the Montreal Daily Star.

President McKinley's Condition

There is now good cause to hope that President McKinley will recover. The only danger to be feared is that arising from risk of peritonitis or blood poisoning, and this risk is lessened by the improvement brought by every hour. Dr. McBurney, a physician of great eminence, assures the world, however, that the President cannot be pronounced out of danger and convalescent until another week has passed, and this week will be one of anxiety to many millions. Because of his conduct at the time of the attempted assassination and afterwards, William McKinley's figure has assumed heroic proportions in the eyes of the world, and all his good qualities are now seen in such a light as never would have been focussed upon them but for the tragic happenings of the past few days. In the words of the Nichols of Russia, the universal world joins in wishing him a speedy recovery.

THE PEOPLE HONOR REV. FATHER PHELAN.

LINDSAY'S TRIBUTE OF LOVE AND RESPECT.

Addresses and Presents from the People of St. Mary's—Rev. Father Phelan's Feeling Reply—Sentimental and Substantial Evidences of Esteem

Rev. Father Phelan has reason to feel proud of the honors he has received since his elevation to the priesthood about six years ago. These honors do not consist in preferment in office, but in the love and esteem which his faithful and earnest discharge of his priestly duties have engendered, both in his brethren of the clergy, in the hearts of the people among whom he has labored as a pastor, and in the estimation of our citizens as a body.

For the past three years and seven months he has been assistant to Rt. Rev. Mgr. Laurent. A practical evidence was last week afforded of how Rev. Father Phelan has endeared himself to the people of Lindsay during his brief stay amongst them. His Lordship the Bishop having transferred Rev. Phelan to Peterboro, he promptly responded to the call of duty. The position of a Priest resembles closely that of the soldier mentioned in the gospel: "Go and he goeth, come and he cometh, do this and he

Cheese Rejected by Buyers

STORMY DISCUSSION AT THE CHEESE BOARD MEETING.

Mr. Rolins, of East Emily, makes a charge of unfair treatment against Mr. Bailey, by whom fifty cheese were rejected. A motion that the buyer be expelled.

(Peterboro Review, Wednesday.)

The regular meeting of the Peterboro Cheese Board was held this morning, the buyers present being Messrs. Cluxton, Kerr, Fitzgerald, Cook, Wilson, Rollins, Wrighton, Bailey and Saue. In all 4907 boxes were boarded by 37 factories.

Mr. C. Switzer began what proved to be a rather stormy discussion. He represented East Emily cheese factory, which had patronized the Peterboro Board for some eighteen months, and up to a few weeks ago had enjoyed fair treatment therefrom. In Mr. Cluxton's death, he said, the Board had lost a valuable member, for he had always kept it up to the right path so far as observation of rules was concerned. Mr. Switzer then made reference to what he considered an injustice which had been done both East Emily factory and the inspector, Mr. Wrighton, in that Mr. Bailey, a buyer, rejected fifty cheese which formed part of a lot that had been sold him at a previous board meeting. The cheese had been inspected by Mr. Wrighton. The buyer, Mr. Bailey, had been to cheese factory and rejecting the cheese, had refused to pay half of the price. The buyer had then referred to the cheese at one cent a pound less, Mr. Switzer that night drove to Peterboro and met Mr. Bailey. He also had the cheesemaker take samples of the cheese complained of and submit them to Mr. Wrighton's inspection. That gentleman upon examination, declared their rejection was something of a humbug. During the 18 months East Emily had been on the Board, only four of its cheese had been complained of.

Upon Mr. Switzer meeting Mr. Bailey at the hotel, the buyer said he would not accept Mr. Wrighton's inspection of the cheese—that he was not a competent judge. The salesman offered to ship Mr. Bailey the 85 accepted cheese, but this was refused. The buyer being unwilling to consent until his employer, Mr. McGrath, inspected the East Emily factory. No similar complaint had ever been made of the factory before, and Mr. Switzer was indignant that Mr. Bailey should take an unjust initiative. He proposed to read a report of alleged cheese board, at which he alleged complaint had also been made of this particular buyer.

Mr. Cluxton—"One man should not take up all the time at this Board. Let him put his trouble in a nutshell."

Mr. Bailey—"I don't think any outside report should be brought in here. I am willing to meet this gentleman in fair discussion. Newspapers can very often illustrate only one side, and was done in this matter here. If there is a charge made against me at the last Lindsay Board it is false. These buyers will uphold me in what I am saying, and what is more, I have not bought cheese in Lindsay for four or five weeks."

The report was that Mr. Bailey had bought from two or three factories, but had never gone to inspect them or to take them away. Mr. Flavelle had not wished to make any direct charge at Lindsay Board, pointing out that Mr. Bailey, one of those principally concerned, was not present."

Mr. Bailey—"I wish to give direct contradiction to the implied charge. It is false, and I will make Mr. Flavelle take it back. The buyers here will back me up in the statements I am making in regard to my actions."

Mr. Wrighton stated that if 20 per cent. of any lot of cheese was radically wrong the buyer had no right to purchase them. It was, moreover, not for the buyer to say as to whether or not he was "unqualified."

Mr. Cook favored the appointment of a Board arbitrator among the buyers.

Mr. Bailey said he was perfectly willing to have the charges rejected at East Emily. Inspected by Mr. Wrighton. He himself would also send an inspector and would accept no cheese that was 20 per cent. radically wrong. It was, moreover, very easy for the factory people to slip a couple of cheese into the good ones at times; this, in fact, was very often done.

Mr. Whitton thought the buyer as well as the factory should be "protected," and moved the appointment of Mr. Rolins as arbitrator for the buyers.

Bidding commenced with Mr. Rolins' offer of 9c. Mr. Fitzgerald followed with 9 1/2c. and Mr. Wrighton 9 1/4c. This bid held and Mr. Wrighton selected Keene, Shearer, Villiers, Westwood, Long, Ormonde, and was accepted.

Mr. Cook at 9 1/2c. was accepted by Norwood, Melrose Abbey, Lakefield and Cavendish. At 9 1/3c. called Cavendish, Smith, Fraserville, Bensford, and Otonabee Union, and was refused.

Mr. Rolins at 9 1/8c. called Warrington, North Smith, Warsaw, Oakfield and Cavendish. At 9 1/8c. called Cavendish, Smith, Fraserville, Bensford, and Otonabee Union, and was refused.

Mr. Bailey at 9 1/8c. was accepted by Bensford, Fraserville, Otonabee Union, Mount Pleasant and Myrtle. At 9 1/8c. called Westwood, Oak Leaf and Missing Link.

GO SLOW.

Some Good Advice on the Beet Sugar Question.

Of the 23 different propositions in various parts of Ontario to establish sugar plants, very few of them have the faintest chance of succeeding. Most of them have very little, if anything, to recommend them, and it seems a waste of energy to even consider them. It has recently come to our notice of a case wherein one party was offered $5,000 in stock for the use of his name in connection with a project. Another case, where large commissions (10 per cent. in some cases) is offered to parties to sell the stock. Such propositions are not good for the shareholders, and it is advisable to look carefully into these matters when asked to subscribe. No business of such magnitude as a sugar factory can be started with great expense, but when outsiders are offered such a large commission as ten per cent., and there are the promoters and others ahead of him also to be paid, it would look as though the shareholders are paying too "dear for their whistle." Don't be lured away by the promises of very large dividends; investigate the matter and find out where you are at before signing your name to any stock sheet. A business that will cost $50,000 in expenses for securing stock must indeed be a good one. The sugar business will not stand it.—Farming World.

The Trent Valley Canal.

In reply to a request of a subscriber, the following information is given in regard to the Trent Valley Canal: This waterway of 200 miles in length can be completed for $8,500,000. When complete it will give continuous barge navigation of 500 tons burden—and of twice the capacity of the Erie Canal from Montreal to Sault Ste. Marie. It will shorten the distance between all the great western lakes ports and Liverpool by 727 miles. It is capable of being operated during a season of seven months in the year, and of transporting 200,000 tons of grain per annum. By means of the numerous locks and rivers which it utilizes and intersects, it will give a shore of 100 miles and lay under tribute six million acres of agricultural forest and mineral lands capable of yielding from 50 to 100 tons of freight per acre. It will utilize the finest continual system of water powers on the globe, 140 miles of this waterway is now completed, but both up and down ends, yet it is giving employment for local commerce and tourist travel to 50 steam boats, besides numerous small craft.

Dishonest Practices in Exhibits.

Now that the Toronto Exhibition is over, and our attention reverts to our local fair, the dishonest practices which have been perpetrated in other years at Toronto, and successfully coped with by the directors and judges of this year's exhibition, should also demand the consideration and attention of those at the head of the Lindsay Central. Especially would we call their attention to the practice of adulteration of grain. For the purpose of carrying away the coveted red ticket some exhibitors at Toronto Exhibition have resorted to whitening the grain on exhibit with sulphur, and the adulteration escaped the eyes of the judges until their attention was called to the matter. With the object of doing away with and avoiding the deception named a sample of the grain in the lot has been recommended to be left alone, the exhibited grain in bags, and thus the judges are enabled to compare the grain in the bag with that in the ear. If deception is the price of the coveted red ticket, then it is an unjust practice. Our judges should keep their eyes open for any such fraud, and mete out justice to the offenders. A general shaking up of the grain has brought much trickery to light, the top peck often being superior to the grain underneath. It is the old story, "big potatoes on top," and the offenders are not only undeserving of a prize, but should not be admitted to membership in the Association in future years.

HIS SOUTHERN LIMIT

Scheeper's Commando Has Reached It in Cape Colony.

HIS MEN HAVE TURNED NORTH.

Three British Were Killed and Five Were Wounded in the Derrailment of an Armoured Train at Tanga Station on Monday Last—British Casualties Now Reported Over 100,000.

Cape Town, Sept. 5.—Scheeper's commando, consisting of three hundred men and 600 horses, appears to have reached the limit of its southern raid and turned to the northward after having gained some recruits. One hundred mounted men have been following, endeavoring to unite with Scheeper's commando, but have been unable to overtake it.

An armored train was derailed at Tanga station Monday last, three British being killed and five wounded.

Women as Peace Agents.

London, Sept. 6.—Lord Kitchen-er's proclamation has as yet had little effect, says a Pretoria despatch, so far as the surrender of burghers is concerned, but in response to an earnest appeal the authorities have given permission to many wives of Boers in the field to go to warn their husbands of further resistance.

Sir Albert Hume, Premier of Natal, in the course of an election speech at Pietermaritzburg yesterday, announced that the Natal Government was advocating a considerable expansion of territory by addition of large areas of the Transvaal and Orange River Colony.

On Portuguese Territory.

Lisbon, Sept. 6.—An official despatch received here from Mozambique announces the seizure by Portuguese Government officials, near Ressano Garcia on the Transvaal frontier, of a large supply of ammunition and dynamite intended for the Boers.

THE BRITISH CASUALTIES.

100,183 Is the Total Just Given Out by the War Office.

London, Sept. 6.—The official report of the War Office on the casualties in South Africa says the total casualties number more than 100,000. The report reads:

Officially admitted 71,383
In hospitals in South Africa, 14,000 Government figures 6,000
Colonial invalids 5,000
Civilian deaths 2,000
Casualties since August 1 1,800

Total 100,183

In addition, the Boers have captured and released about 21,000 British prisoners.

The total official loss for July was 1,579 killed, wounded, diseased, prisoners, invalids.

CAPT. BENNETT'S CAPTURE.

Plucky Vancouver Boy Led a Detachment of 90 Against 4,000.

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 6.—Particulars have been received here of the capture of Capt. Bennett of the South African Constabulary at the hands of Gen. Dewet himself on July 11 last. Capt. Bennett left Vancouver a few months ago to accept a captaincy in the Constabulary. In the fight, Capt. Bennett's command, consisting of 90 men, was confronted by a Boer force of 4,000, losing four killed, six wounded and 24 captured. The Boers reported seven killed and 24 wounded. The Constabulary consisted of two detachments of 30 each from the 10th and 15th troops, recruited in England, and 30 Western Canadians. The Canadians had the right flank and opened fire first.

The Canadians lost: Sergt. Major Chalmers, N. W. M. P., was killed; Trooper Sproule, Golden, B. C., killed; Trooper C. Beggs, Okanagan, B. C., killed; Trooper G. L. Merchimer, Rossland, B. C., seriously wounded in the head. The other wounded were: Trooper Jack Gravelle, Nelson, B. C., recovering; Trooper Thomas Curtis, Nelson, B. C., recovering; Trooper McIntyre, Fort Steele, recovering.

WILL REJECT THE TERMS.

Strike Officials Expected to Act on Company's Proposals.

New York, Sept. 6.—A conference of the members of the Conciliation Committee was held at the Ashland House at 5 o'clock and continued till 8.30, during which time the conference adjourned. Mr. Mitchell explained the point reached in the negotiations to be that the proposition of the Steel Corporation has not yet been acted upon by the Amalgamated Association, but that the board will probably reject it today.

Grand Master's Condition.

London, Sept. 9.—The condition of W. W. Bro. R. B. Hungerford, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Canada, A. F. & A. M., who was stricken with paralysis recently, while still regarded as serious, is somewhat improved, the patient pulse being stronger yesterday than for some time past. His recovery depends on perfect rest and quiet, but months must elapse before the hoped-for result can be reached. He was removed to Victoria Hospital yesterday afternoon.

Boy Drowned at Sharbot Lake.

Kingston, Sept. 9.—A drowning accident occurred at Sharbot Lake Friday, when a ten-year-old son of J. Donnelly, blacksmith, met death in the water. He and a companion were out in a skiff swimming, when the lad seems to have become exhausted and sank. W. Cannon, grocer, dived for the body and recovered it few minutes after the accident. Dr. Gaultie worked with the body for over an hour, but was unable to restore animation.

WINNERS AT SEA GIRT.

New Canadians Won From the All-American Team in the World Championship Competition.

New York, Sept. 6.—The Canadian and American riflemen had a long session yesterday on the State rifle ranges at Sea Girt, N. J., in the contest for the American Centennial Palma trophy, emblematic of the world's championship, and the Canadians won by a margin of 28 points, the final score being: Canada, 1,522; American, 1,494.

The utmost good fellowship prevailed throughout the match, which was very close up to the last stage. Two of the members of the Ulster Rifle Association of Belfast, Ireland, W. T. Braithwaite and Thomas Robertson, acted as coaches for the Dominion representatives, and the Americans had Gen. B. W. Spencer with some of his officers attending to them in a similar capacity.

The conditions of the contest called for the use of the national arm of the country represented by the teams, so that it was practically a duel between the American Krag and the English Lee-Enfield weapons. The Canadians used Orthoscopic sights, while the Americans had the service sights.

Lieut. Leiser of Washington, D. C., made the highest collective and best individual score in the match, which was shot in three stages, 800, 900 and 1,000 yards. Each of the teams of eight men had 15 shots at each of these distances.

The carbine team match was won by the men from the First Troop of National Guard of New Jersey. This match was shot over the 200 and 500 yard ranges and resulted in a tie between the Essex men and the Pennsylvania squadron, each having a total of 205.

But, as the Jersey riflemen had a better aggregate score over the lower ranges the Pennsylvanians had to take second place. Squadron "A" of New York was next with 184 and Troop "A" of Maryland fourth with 180.

The following is a summary of the Canadian-American match:

Canadians.
Lieut. Ross	185
Capt. B. J. Davidson	178
Private Fleming	176
Private Paubst	183
Capt. W. H. Davidson	194

The Canadian team is as follows: Captain W. E. Davidson, 8th Royal, Quebec; Captain R. J. Davidson, 8th Royal, Quebec; Lieut. R. H. Robertson, 13th, Ontario; Lieut. W. L. Ross, 13th, Ontario; Sergt. Skeddling, 13th, Ontario; Pte. Paubst, 77th, Ontario; Pte. A. Fleming, 5th R.C.A., B.C.

MR. MARTIN'S POSITION.

Leader of the Opposition in B.C. Will Resign That Post.

Victoria, B. C., Sept. 6.—The political situation underwent no change yesterday, the only new feature in connection with it being the advent of the one-time leader of the Opposition, who finds himself, through the peculiar changes that have been made, relieved of his duties. In an interview yesterday Mr. Martin frankly admitted that his occupation was gone, and that he will abdicate his anomalous position as leader of the Opposition.

Mr. Hugh Gilmour, M. P. P. for Vancouver, came over with Mr. Martin last night, and is understood to share the views of the chief in regard to the new arrangement. The names of Messrs. Gilmour and Hall are frequently heard in connection with filling the vacancy in the Cabinet, but no active steps seem to have been taken to install a successor to Mr. McBride. In the meantime Mr. Eberts is acting Minister of Mines.

Mr. Martin yesterday said he was fully in accord with the Government as at present constituted.

"You will resign your post as leader of the Opposition?" was suggested.

"Yes, certainly," he replied. "There is no Opposition that I am aware of, with the exception of the Haps, Messrs. Smith Curtis and B. C. Smith."

Drowned at Port Bruce.

St. Thomas, Sept. 7.—A drowning accident occurred at Port Bruce Thursday night. Joseph Stephens of Port Bruce went in bathing just west of the pier in a most treacherous spot. It was noticed by the boarders of the hotel near by that he did not return. A search proved fruitless. The lake was dragged and the body found in four feet of water. Mr. Stephens was 73 years of age, and, as he was a good swimmer, it is supposed the accident was the result of cramps.

SULTAN MENACES BRITAIN.

Thinks Stopping of Corvette Incompatible With Friendly Relations.

Constantinople, Sept. 6.—The Turkish Ambassador in London has been instructed to inform Great Britain that the action of a commander of the British warship in the Persian Gulf, in preventing the Turkish corvette "Sehob" from entering Koweyt, is incompatible with friendly relations. The British side of the controversy is that the Sehob was trying to land Turkish troops on the territory of a Sheikh, who was independent of Turkey.

The German Ambassador on Monday communicated to the Porte the Kaiser's declaration to intervene, and advising the Porte to come to an understanding with France.

It appears that M. Delcasse's letter requesting Munir Bey to leave the country expressed astonishment that Munir Bey should illuminate the Embassy and give a banquet on the anniversary of the Sultan's accession, in view of the rupture in relations between France and Turkey.

LOTTERY ROUNDED UP

Major Scobell Captures His Entire Commando.

TWELVE BOERS WERE KILLED.

There Was a Total of 133 Boers Killed, Wounded and Taken by the British, Who Lost Ten Men—Two Prominent Rebels Were Killed, and Two Commandants Were Among the Prisoners.

Middleburg, Cape Colony, Sept. 6.—Lotter's entire commando has been taken by Major Scobell, south of Petersburg. One hundred and three prisoners were captured, 12 Boers were killed and forty-six wounded. Two hundred horses also were captured.

Nineteen Killed.

London, Sept. 7.—Lord Kitchen-er's report from Pretoria to the War Office covering the capture of Lotter's commando gives the figures as nineteen killed, fifty-two wounded and sixty-two captured unarmoured. The prisoners include Commandants Lotter and Bredt, Field Cornets Kruger and W. Kruger, and Lt. Shoeman. Among the killed were the two Vasters, notable rebels. The British casualties were ten killed and eight wounded.

Kelly-Kenny's Appointment.

London, Sept. 7.—Lieut. Gen. Kelly-Kenny has been appointed Adjutant-General to the forces in succession to Sir Evelyn Wood.

Will Finish His Task.

London, Sept. 7.—"I am authorized to state," says the Pretoria correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, "that Lord Kitchen-er is not going home, but will finish the task assigned him here. Gen. Lyttleton will replace General Hildyard, who is going to leave."

Another Canadian Dead.

St. Catharines, Sept. 7.—Mr. Jamieson Black received word yesterday that his son, Sergt. Black, who was wounded in South Africa about ten days ago, died on Thursday from the effects of his wounds.

WHEAT IS GRADING UP WELL.

Large Percentage of That Inspected Registered No. 1 Hard.

Winnipeg, Sept. 7.—Reports from the railroad companies as to the progress of threshing and wheat deliveries will amount up to nearly 100,000 bushels. Inspector Horn's daily report of cars inspected here shows a steady increase each day. The first of the week started with 20 cars graded No. 1 hard; Tuesday had 54 cars, with 30 No. 1 hard; Wednesday 70 cars, with 39 No. 1 hard, and yesterday 98 cars were inspected, 46 grading No. 1 hard and 42 No. 1 northern. For the month of August 507 cars were inspected, 78 cars, or 64,740 bushels, grading No. 1 hard, 41 cars of this being raw wheat. The percentage of No. 1 hard wheat is shown up by Mr. Horn to be large and very satisfactory. On the lighter soil the grade grown is generally No. 1 northern. This discrepancy in statement made by some grain buyers that a large percentage, in fact the bulk of the wheat, would grade No. 1 northern instead of No. 1 hard.

A number of farmers have made indignation protests, but so far as the mere statement went no harm otherwise has been done, as they are getting fair play at the hands of the inspectors.

ACCIDENT ON THE C.P.R.

Six Cars Went Off, and Fifteen Persons Received Injuries.

Winnipeg, Sept. 7.—A serious accident was reported on the Canadian Pacific yesterday morning. Six cars, a baggage car and five coaches, on the second section of the train which left Winnipeg for the West on Thursday, were derailed near Rush Lake, a station about twenty-one miles east of Swift Current, at 6.45 a. m. Fifteen persons were reported injured. They are mostly from the United States. The cause of the accident is reported as a broken rail.

Famine in Russia.

London, Sept. 7.—"Russian newspapers are forbidden to refer to famine conditions in Russia," says the St. Petersburg correspondent of The Daily Mail, "because hunger-typhus and anarchy are devastating many districts and hundreds are dying daily."

Bought Rails in England.

Montreal, Que., Sept. 7.—Manager Russell of the International, who arrived here last evening en route for Buffalo, stated that the Guelph works at Sault Ste. Marie being unable to deliver rails as soon as they will be required for the section between New Glasgow and Straits of Canoe, 15,000 tons of 80-lb rails had been purchased in England, and that this work will be proceeded with as soon as the rails arrive.

Municipal Ownership.

Port Arthur owns its own street railway, being the first town in Canada to install a municipal trolley system; owns its own lighting system and has not given away its water franchise. The town recently refused to entertain a proposition to turn the plants over to him, to enrich private individuals at public expense. The people are beginning to realize that they get better service for less money by public ownership than by private owned public service.—Port Arthur Chronicle.

PETERBORO'S WATER POWER.

The Mail and Empire's statement that a syndicate headed by Hon. J.
R. Stratton had obtained from the Dominion Government a lease of water power on the Trent Canal works, near Peterboro, for 60 cents per horse power, though $4 per horse power was demanded from the Town of Peterboro, is promptly denied by the Examiner, which says that Mr. Stratton has never applied directly or indirectly for any water power on the Otonabee River or Trent Canal, and is in no way connected with any syndicate that has applied for water power at No. 3 dam. The only interest Mr. Stratton has in the enterprise referred to is the interest every good citizen of the town has in the promotion of the welfare and progress of the town as represented by an action looking to the providing of cheap and available motive power for manufacturing purposes, and the Mail's paragraph is only a sample of the reckless lengths the conservative organ will go to try to injure the reputation and influence of public men politically opposed to it.

The Otonabee Power Company has obtained the lease of the surplus water at the rate of $2 per horse power, the price of $4, which was at one time mentioned, being considered excessive. The power to be developed will be needed to the extent of about 400 horse power by the Cordage Company, the Shovel Company and the Central Milling Company. If there was not this power to give them they would have to go elsewhere. The Examiner adds that the citizens of Peterboro should heartily approve of the government's action in thus reducing the rental price for power, a circumstance which will doubtless encourage applications for the development of power; and it is to be hoped this town, or other persons will take advantage of the opportunities presented at the remaining three dams of developing cheap motive power to offer to industries looking for the most favorable sites for location.

Single Fare Tickets
to Lindsay can be purchased on Oct.
5th (the day of the Reform Convention) good to return on 7th, at any agency of the Grand Trunk Railway, where the ordinary single fare does not exceed $2.50.

The Bidding and Sales.

Mr. Fitzgerald led off with an offer of 83-4c. Mr. Whitton raised to 87-8c.
Mr. Flavelle called 91-8c. Mr. Flavelle to 91-10c, and Mr. Fitzgerald called 91-8c. This was not bettered, and Star, Dunlop, Mariposa and Bobcaygeon were named and accepted the offer. Total, 508 boxes.

Mr. Flavelle offered 9c. for the second selection, but there was no takers. He then raised to 91-8c.
and cleared the board with the exception to Lorneville and Palestine, concerning which factories there is always a hitch over the cost of inspection, they being isolated from others. Red Rock, Onemee, Fenelon Falls and North Verulam will pay freight to Lindsay.

The next sale will be held on the second day of the Central Fair—Sept.
27th.

REFORM CONVENTION.

Hon. S. C. Wood, not having been able to accept the nomination tendered him by the Liberal convention held on June 5th last, it becomes necessary to assemble a convention of the Liberals of West Victoria at as early a date as possible for the purpose of selecting a candidate to contest the riding in the coming Provincial election, and also for the purpose of organizing the West Riding for the campaign.

Arrangements have been made with the Grand Trunk Railway whereby all wishing to visit Lindsay on the 5th of October can secure tickets at single fare from all stations on the Midland Division, or from any point covered by a single fare of $2.50 Tickets good from 5th to 7th Oct. inclusive.

It is expected that a very large number of our liberal friends, whether delegates or not, will be present at the convention on Oct. 5th.

BABY IN THE HOME.

A Joy and Treasure When Good Natured and Healthy.

All children in every home in the country need at some time or other a medicine such as Baby's Own Tablets, and this famous remedy has cured many a serious illness and saved many a little life. Mothers insist upon having it because it contains no opiate or harmful drugs, it is purely vegetable, sweet and pleasant to take and prompt in its effect.
For simple fevers, colic, constipation, disordered stomach, diarrhoea, irritation accompanying the cutting of teeth and indigestion, Baby's Own Tablets are a certain cure. In fact, in almost any disorder common to children these tablets should be given at once and relief may be promptly looked for.

Never give the babies so-called soothing medicines which simply put them to sleep, and thus prevent the tablets from doing their work. These tablets are small, sweet, pleasant to take and prompt in acting. Dissolved in water, they will be taken readily by the smallest infant.

Mrs. John McEwan, Bathurst Village, N.B., writes: "My baby was constantly troubled with cholera before I gave him Baby's Own Tablets, but since giving them to him he has not since suffered. Every mother should keep these tablets always at hand."

They cost 25 cents a box. You can find them at your druggists or if you do not, forward the money direct to us, and we will send the tablets prepaid. The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Dept. T., Brockville,

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A commission is to be sent to Syracuse by the Per-Church Conference of the Methodist church to find out just what sort of a time those two ministers had there. It should also travel incognito, and leave its valuables in the hotel safe.

Since the death of Miss Elizabeth Mackenzie in St. Luke's hospital, Chicago on Sunday last, the only two members of the family of William Lyon Mackenzie yet living are Mrs. Charles Lindsay and Mrs. John King, of Toronto.

Whitney says the land through which the Algoma Central is to run is "uninhabitable." That is not Mr. Ciergie's belief. He has bound himself to place a thousand settlers a month in it. Before slandering Ontario Mr. Whitney ought to look into its resources.

The Canadian Medical Association has approved the scheme for a system of medical reciprocity all over the Dominion so that a Canadian physician would be a qualified practitioner in any province. That is a sensible move and it is to be hoped it will result in definite legal action.

Nova Scotia is to have a Provincial general election on October 2nd, the intention being to have the ballots counted and the dust cleared away before the arrival of the Duke of Cornwall. The retention of the liberal government in office is regarded as a certainty, as Hon. George Murray, the premier, had an almost unanimous support in the legislature that has just been dissolved.

British sportsmen will appreciate the kindly desire which has found expression in New York that Sir Thomas Lipton may succeed this year in carrying off the 'America' Cup. The trophy has been held for fifty years by the United States, and it is feared that if he should not succeed after his two plucky and hugely expensive attempts, there will be an end to international yachting, at least under the conditions which govern the 'America' Cup races. If the race should be run alternately in British and American waters the chances would be more even. The contestants know their own seas, the currents and other peculiarities, and so long as one of them is always at the disadvantage of sailing unaccustomed waters the essential element of equality of opportunity is lacking. Apart altogether from the matter of national feeling, it would be a good thing in the interests of international sport if the cup should change hands. It would be easier at least to make new and better arrangements for future contests without out casting reflections on either side.

Bishop Potter, of New York, has been giving his views upon the great labor strike and the natural rights of the two parties to the conflict. He looks to the ballot as the final protector of labor against combinations of capital, and remarks that there are times when legislatures are not bought.

"The extremists of both sides do not represent the mass on either side. As the extremists on the labor side are often those put in the place of power, so the extremists of corporate capital are often the spokesmen of the employers, but it is the conservatives who finally decide the men willing to listen to reason."

"The man who does not wish to join a union must not be forced to, but neither must the man who is a unionist be compelled to give up his union while the employer is at liberty to join a trust. No employer will continue his business if he does not make a profit. While human nature remains as it is the workman will insist that he get in wages some share of increase of profit, and capital should be content that this is so, for its means enthusiasm in work, which must exist where progress is looked for. Unionism which would break down all workers to a dead level of skill and effort would be as harmful as the corporate management that beat down all workers to the level of unskilled laborers."

May Get Carnegie Library

MAYOR INGLE WILL APPLY FOR A GIFT OF $10,000.

The Matter was Discussed at Saturday Night's Meeting of Committees—Other Business Transacted

Several of the Council committees met Saturday evening to clear away arrears of business, and spent about two hours at the task. Mayor Ingle and all members of Council were present.

A Carnegie Library.
On motion His Honor Judge Harding, Chairman of the Public Library Board, and Mr. E. A. Hardy, secretary, were granted permission to address the members. His Honor referred to the well-known philanthropy of Mr. Andrew Carnegie, the multi-millionaire, and to his wide-spread benefactions in the cause of education. He was devoting a portion of his vast wealth to the establishment of free Public Libraries and the cause of education, and a number of Canadian cities and towns had already taken advantage of his generosity. The members of the local Library Board realized what a grand thing it would be if the town possessed a modern fire-proof library building, and were in favor of asking Mr. Carnegie for a grant of $10,000, feeling that the condition of a free site and 10 per cent. maintenance fund—could be complied with.

Mr. Hardy pointed out that Mr. Carnegie was devoting the balance of his life to giving away his money, but was finding it difficult to bestow it faster than it accumulated. Lindsay was already fulfilling the requirements for a $10,000 grant, such as Collingwood has received. Some people professed to be squeamish and inclined to refuse Carnegie money because he had made it in the States, but that was nonsense. He hoped the Council would sanction the application for a grant.

Judge Harding—"As for the patriotic sentiment at stake, it should not be for-otten that Carnegie made some of his wealth out of Canadians, he being the manufacturer of nearly all the structural steel consumed in the Dominion. Barring the editor of the Mail and Empire, I do not think there is a man in Canada so sensible as to refuse a grant for such a purpose."

In the subsequent discussion it was pointed out that the whole of the $10,000, if secured, would have to be expended on a fire-proof building. The half-million now raised for library purposes would fulfill the condition of a free site and 10 per cent. maintenance fund, while the building could be erected on one of the lots owned by the town.

On motion of Ald. Jackson, seconded by Ald. O'Reilly, Mayor Ingle was authorized to consult with the Public Library Board and take what steps might be deemed necessary in making application for the suggested grant.

Judge Harding said that in the meantime the Council should proceed with the fitting up of the Licensed quarters in the old Council chamber, because the lease of the present rooms in the Dominion Bank block would expire on Nov. 1st and unless they left by that date the Board would become liable for another year's rent. Under the circumstances the room should be furnished as cheaply as possible; a new floor and counter would be required, also a number of revolving book-cases.

Police and Lighting Committee.
Ald. Robson, chairman, took up the application of Mr. Patterson, of Toronto, for a billiard license, and started in to read a sheet of testimonials.

Moved by Ald. O'Reilly, seconded by Ald. Hore, that the application be not granted.

Ald. Robson—"You think, then, that it would not be desirable to have a billiard room."

Ald. Jackson—"There's a motion before the committee, Mr. Chairman."

The resolution was put and carried. Ald. Sinclair, who supported the application when first made, recording his vote against it.

About a Cent. Walk Petition.
Messrs. B. F. Reesor and H. McNeill appeared before the Board of Works committee in connection with the petition sent in for a granolithic walk on south side of Francis-st. between William and Cambridge-sts., which was turned down by Council last Thursday evening.

Ald. Jackson—"Did you or any of the petitioners say the walk was not needed?"

Mr. Reesor—"No." Mr. McNeill returned the same reply.

Ald. Jackson—"Well, Ald. Hore so reported at last Council meeting."

Ald. Hore—"I only referred to Mr. McNeill—he told me he was not particular."

Mr. McNeill—"You certainly must have misunderstood me, as I wanted the walk."

Mr. Reesor—"I fancy Mr. Hore has been opposed to the walk from the first."

Ald. Hore denied being actuated by such a feeling. He had certainly got the impression from Mr. McNeill and other persons that they were not particular about having the walk built this fall, and as there was a great deal of work on hand he thought it as well not to press the walk in face of opposition, especially as the stone could be procured at a cheaper rate in winter.

Ald. Touchburn—"There would be no saving."

Ald. Jackson—"Oh, yes there would; the stone could be drawn and piled wherever wanted along the route of any proposed walk."

Mr. Reesor said he had been told that the petition had been thrown out, when would necessitate the getting up of another one next spring. He didn't think it was fair to give that trouble, the petition should be revived and held over if necessary.

Ald. Hore—"I'm willing to support that."

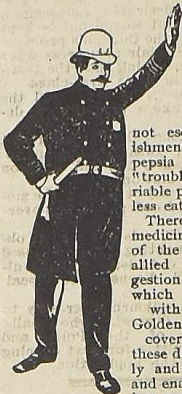

A discussion then took place as to whether the walk should be 4 ft. or 5 ft. in width.

Mr. Reesor—"We don't care which but I notice a number of towns are making their walks 5 ft., and in Berlin they have torn up some of the narrow ones."

In reply to a question Commissioner Chalmers said the difference in cost on the walk in question between the 4 ft. and 5 ft. widths would only amount to about $26, of which the town's portion would be only 60 per cent.

The Law

Of health has no uniform guardians of its peace. If it had there would be arrests innumerable in every restaurant every day of the year. Both in the quantity and quality of the food they eat and in the manner of its consumption men and women sin each day against the laws of health.

Those who will not heed Nature's warnings cannot escape her punishments, and dyspepsia or stomach "trouble" is the inevitable penalty of careless eating. There is no other medicine for diseases of the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition which can compare with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures these diseases perfectly and permanently, and enables the building up of the whole body into vigorous health.

I took two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for stomach trouble," writes Clarence Carney, Esq., of Taylorstown, Loudoun Co. Va. "It did me so much good that I didn't take any more. I can eat most anything now, I am so well pleased with it I hardly know how to thank you for your kind information. I tried a whole lot of things before I wrote you. There was a gentleman told me about your medicine, how it had cured his wife. I thought I would try a bottle of it. I am glad I did for I don't know what I would have done if it had not been for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation.

Ald. Touchburn said he was going to introduce a by-law at next meeting to require if the aldermen were looking after the interests of the town or the interests of private individuals. He thought it unfair that the people at large should have to pay 60 per cent of the cost of walks when the property owners concerned would thereafter be exempt from assessment for similar work.

Ald. Sinclair—"We'll have to be careful or high taxes will drive the people away."

Ald. O'Reilly—"The Commissioner says it costs 60 per cent to lay plank walks while cement put in and which would last five times as long."

Ald. Touchburn—"The debt-burden for Local Improvements is growing very rapidly, and we'll have to be careful."

Ald. Jackson—"The people want Local Improvements and we can't stop them."

Ald. Sinclair—"Make it difficult to get them by raising the proportion to be paid by property."

Ald. Jackson—"All right introduce your by-law."

Board of Works Matters.
Ald. Jackson—"About the steam roller—when will we take it up?"

Ald. Sinclair—"I think after hearing the statement made by the representative of the Hamilton 10-ton roller we should all feel that he is not prepared to guarantee it."

Ald. Jackson—"Did you meet the representative of the Buffalo-Pitts roller, which is now made in Canada and of which there are over 100 in use? It seems to be the thing weights are 10, 12 and 15 tons, and the price from $3,200 up."

The matter will be dealt with at a subsequent meeting to be held for the purpose.

On motion of Ald. Sinclair, seconded by Ald. O'Reilly, the Presbyterian church authorities were granted 180 feet of cedar plank and the necessary posts for curb and boulevard.

Mr. Marshall Lindsay's request relative to an obstructed ditch was handed to the Commissioner to be reported upon, and Mr. Geo. Brooks' application for a stretch of new walk to his house on Colborne-st. was granted.

A number of accounts were read and recommended for payment.

Cement Gutter for Model Road.
Ald. O'Reilly suggested that a cement gutter be installed on the sidewalks, instead of the cobblestone kind, which had proved a failure in Kent-st.

Commissioner Chalmers—"The cost would be about $65 for 200 feet on the south side, or about $20 more than cobblestone."

On motion of Aldermen Touchburn and O'Reilly, the decision was left with the Commissioner.

Finance Committee Matters.
Ald. Jackson, chairman, explained that several tenders had been sent in for the Kent-st. sewer, but another was on the way from Sault Ste. Marie. It was decided to defer action until it had been received.

Ald. Jackson next read a report from the Town Solicitor, who held that the town need entertain no fear of trouble with the Provincial Board of Health because of the construction of Kent-st. sewer.

Ald. Sinclair—"Do you intend to go on with the sewer this fall?"

Ald. Jackson—"Yes, we propose to push it as far as we can."

Ald. Sinclair—"No one wants it to go ahead this season."

Ald. Jackson referred to the collection of taxes, and said the members should devote more thought to the situation created by having two receivers—the Collector and the Town Treasurer. It was a most unsatisfactory arrangement.

Ald. O'Reilly—"What proportion of the taxes does the Collector receive last year, and how much was paid to the Treasurer? If we pay $300 for the collection of $5000 or $6000 it comes high."

Clerk Knowlson—"I can't tell off-hand how much the Collector handed in."

The following accounts were then recommended for payment:

Joseph Burke.....$ 5.22

Joseph B. Parkin.....75.00

Committees then adjourned.

COMMUNICATIONS

Room for an Explanation.

(To the Editor of The Post.)

Dear Sir,—In your report of minutes of City Council, issue of September 7th, we notice a communication from the Flavell Milling Co., which contains the following paragraph: "It would also become necessary in the near future to have the tannery discharge diverted or filtered."

Now by said paragraph they have created an impression in the minds of at least a portion of the citizens that something is wrong with the discharge from our tannery, and in the interests of the community and ourselves we would ask the Flavell Milling company to specify their grievance.

We are anxious to comply with anything reasonable and right, but we certainly are not aware of anything existing detrimental to the good health of the town.—Yours truly

THE COUPLING PARTED

Mishap on the Down Trip of the Port Hope Mixed Train Yesterday.

Conductor J. W. Britton and those on board the Port Hope mixed train on Monday morning, figured in a somewhat exciting episode just as Somewhere was reached. The coupling of the rear coach parted and when the front end was halted the detached car bore down upon it at a good rate of speed.

Mr. M. Mulvihill, G.T.R. carpenter, was one of those in the coach, and realizing the nature of the mishap he ran out and applied the brakes with a promptitude that resulted in materially lessening the force of the collision. However, the bump was a severe one and everyone on board felt it more or less. Conductor Britton, who was making his way to the rear to see what was the matter, was thrown against a door and had his head cut and bruised while Mr. Adam Schwartz, who was sitting in the baggage car, was thrown from his seat and sustained some painful contusions.

The coupling mechanism having been knocked out of gear in the collision, the coach was made fast by means of chains, which answered the purpose very well.

DOMESTIC HINTS.

—Give your cat with mange a thorough rubbing over with warm castor oil. The animal will lick some of this off, and probably sicken a trifle, but the effect both external and internal is good.

—Any unusual disturbance in telegraph wires is an infallible index of bad weather, and the nature of the changes in the atmosphere may be learned from the sound which the wind makes when passing through the wires.

—The most digestible fruits are ripe grapes, peaches, strawberries, apricots, oranges, very ripe pears, figs, dates, baked apples and stewed fruits. A dietary consisting wholly of fruits is a valuable means of overcoming biliousness.

—Geraniums in deep shades of red and delicate pink are among the newest flowers for millinery. In velvet they are effective, and in chiffon or silk very pretty. Of the fruits, for some time cherries have become most popular; new ones have given place to the red currant.

—Many people fail to realize that dust ground into the sole of the feet does far more harm in the long run than anything else. Keep the linoleum clean, then, with sweeping as much as possible, and lay mats where dirty feet are apt to tread. Have felt mats under the door so that uneven boards and cracks do not work a hole through layers of brown paper answer the same purpose as felt.

STURGEON POINT JOTTINGS.

Interesting Notes from Lindsay's Popular Summer Resort.

—Revere J. D. Flavell has had posters issued offering a reward of $20 for the conviction of a thief who stole a canoe last Monday from the wharf opposite Mr. Hugh O'Leary's cottage. That is right—such acts should be frowned upon, and if the offer of the sum mentioned does not lead to the detection of the guilty party, then the council would be justified in doubling the reward.

—We have some clever lady swimmers here, and others are learning fast. Among the experts are the Misses Allan, Goodwin, Neelands, Barr, and Blaxter. Several seasons ago Miss Neelands swam from Pleasant Point to her father's boat-house; here, a distance of about a mile and a quarter, and the other day Miss Allan almost duplicated the feat, doing a mile with ease.

—Miss Bell Owen, of Chicago, who has been holidaying for the past two weeks at Kawartha Club Cottage, holds the record for lady fishermen for this season. On Friday morning last, accompanied by a gentleman friend, she left at 5 o'clock for the weed beds at Graham's Landing. After holding the line in vain for over an hour she looked on to what she first imagined to be a 25 pounder. After a sharp tussle, in the course of which Miss Owen had to call for her companion's assistance, she finally landed her prize, which tipped the scales at 12 pounds, 3 1/2 oz.

—On Saturday last a young lady visitor from Chicago, Miss Cora Gimpey, got beyond her depth while in bathing at Goodwin's Point. Her cries for help were quickly answered by Miss May Goodwin, who, regardless of danger, swam to the rescue. The half-drowned girl clung closely to her preserver, whose arms, fortunately, were left free, and with half-a-dozen well directed strokes landed her burden on terra firma, not much the worse for her incautious experience. Our council should acknowledge Miss Goodwin's brave act in some suitable way.

A Clever Gardener.

Mr. John Hay and David Burley, judges of the best garden in the township, awarded 1st prize to Mr. John Everson, of Dunsford. Mr. Everson presented his neighbor Mr. J. Kennedy, with a pumpkin weighing 37 1/2 lbs. at five weeks' growth. John also left two large pumpkins at this office which place ordinary prize pumpkins several degrees in the shade.

Thursday was not so oppressively warm—at least such is the opinion of those who gathered about in the open air enjoying the cooling breezes and the music wafted from the band stand. The members of Council and others who were confined in the upper portion of the town hall building, with windows sealed in order that the speakers might be heard,—these poor unfortunates sweltered and sweated for some three hours in the performance of their duty, and never wilted even when their collars set the example.
If voters only realized the extent of the sacrifices made in their behalf they would treat their civic representatives with more consideration

The Style of Gas Lamp.

ronto style of gas post as the kind to that effect was moved by Ald.

Robson, seconded by Ald. Jackson, and adopted.

The Schools Muddle Again.

On motion Rev. Father Phelan and Mr. Kingsley, representing the Separate School Board, were granted permission to address the Council.
Father Phelan was the first speaker. He said they had already—early in the summer—explained very fully the facts in connection with his board's demand for the payment of the sum of $181.77 withheld by the town in 1899. The amounts were also due for previous years, but they were not pressing their claims with respect to the far past. The whole question had already been pretty thoroughly threshed out, as the members of Council would no doubt remember very clearly. In June last, as the result of a careful audit, the Town Clerk had presented to Council a certified statement that the sum of $193 was due to the board on account of the 1899 levy. The board had waited patiently and long for the settlement of this acknowledged liability, and therefore should be no further delay. It was time that the school muddle was disposed of and he hoped that in future school matters would be conducted properly, which had not been the case in the past.

Ald. Sinclair—"It is true that Separate School supporters paid in one year half a mill in excess of the Public School levy."

Fr. Phelan—"Yes, in '96 or '97, and I've never heard a satisfactory explanation of the same."

Clerk Knowlson—"I think that has been made plain—the half mill was levied just for the same reason that the Separate School rate is higher than the Public School rate this year."

Ald. Jackson—"The levies must necessarily vary somewhat, not being based on the same valuation. The Council simply raises the amounts asked for by the respective school boards. The trouble has been that the Separate School business has never been properly attended to."

Fr. Phelan—"In '96 we did not receive the full proceeds of the 6 mills levied on Separate School supporters."

Ald. Sinclair—"I feel that we may as well settle this matter now."

Fr. Phelan—"That's the way to look at a business matter—aldermen should act as they speak. Ours is a just debt, and the money we should have received has gone into the general funds of the town."

Ald. Robson—"I think our Clerk and Auditor should have known the facts
all along."

Fr. Phelan—"I claim that when your clerk certifies to an account it is passed; our claim was certified by him some months ago, yet the members of Council hesitate to take action thereon."

Clerk Knowlson—"I certified to a balance of $193 due your board for '99, but I could also certify that your board had been over paid in other years, which would about balance accounts."

Fr. Phelan—"I am surprised indeed to hear your Clerk say that in view of what has taken place and our moderate course throughout."

Ald. Jackson—"The trouble is that we are suffering for the misdeeds of our predecessors. Owing to the situation of affairs I propose that we hand the account and all documents and information to our solicitor and be guided by his report."

Ald. O'Reilly—"Do you mean that we will not pay if he declares that the claim is outlawed? If we owe the Separate or Public School boards
we should pay them without quibbling or legal action, and if it is necessary to have a general audit in order to get at the facts I'm willing to vote for one."

All Hore said he was ready to support Ald. Jackson in moving for a general audit, but was told that the latter had only advised a reference of the claim to the Town Solicitor.

Mr. Kingsley was next heard. He had been surprised to hear the Clerk and Chairman of Finance (Alderman Jackson) speak as they had done. It was true the account submitted by his board was not correct—they only claimed $181.77, while the Clerk had certified to a liability of $198.

The speaker referred to the "laminous" report presented to Council by the Auditor, who had been paid for 12 days work on a statement which should have been furnished in five or ten minutes. If the town owed the Public School Board some $800 and the Separate School Board $128, as the auditor stated in his report, those figures should have appeared in the annual report issued by the auditor for the information of the ratepayers, but they did not. It had been shown that the taxes of such well-known Catholics as John Kennedy, some years ago treasurer of the Separate School Board, Michael O'Brien, the former principal of the Separate School, Spratt & Killen, and others, had been diverted to the Public Schools unknown to them, and the loss had seriously reduced the Separate School levy. The mistake was difficult to account for.

Ald. Jackson—"Mr. Mayor, we're not bound to listen to arguments in that tone."

Fr. Phelan regretted that Ald.
Jackson had cast a slur on the members of the Separate School Board by stating that they had been careless in looking after their affairs, while he did not see fit to blame the Town Clerk for neglecting to keep his accounts in proper and business-like shape, and not alone the school accounts, but the town business generally. It will be recalled that he took that course, and it ill behooved the Clerk to attempt to burk a just settlement after the considerate treatment accorded him by the Separate School representatives.

Ald. Jackson—"I'm perfectly willing that everybody should get every cent that is due them."

Ald. O'Reilly—"Has the Public School Board made a demand for the amount of their claim?"

Ald. Jackson—"I believe so, I feel inclined to move a resolution that the Separate school claim be dealt with at once if Ald. Jackson had not proposed to secure the Solicitor's opinion."

All Robson—"We're in a dilemma and can't do anything till the matter is pushed further."

Fr. Phelan—"The position of affairs seems to be that our board will have to enter an action to secure our rights."

Ald. Jackson's resolution to refer the claim to Solicitor Hopkins was seconded by Ald. Robson and adopted.

Communications.

From Jas. Keith, on behalf of St.
Andrew's congregation, asking for ing purposes.—Board of Works, with power to act.

From Thos. Beall, with reference to 1896 assessment.—Finance committee.

From Jas. O'Connell, asking payment for trees planted according to contract.—Referred to chairman of Town Property committee, trees to be paid for on his certificate.

From W. Patterson, making application for a billiard license, and enclosing a batch of testimonials from a local party.—Police and Lighting committee, with power to act.

From R. Lindsay, with reference to the condition of a ditch.—Board of Works.

From G. Brooks, asking for a sidewalk.—Board of Works.

From Provisional Hospital committee, trustees of the County Council grant for $1600 for hospital purposes, expressing their willingness to pay the money over to the town upon the completion of a proper building.—Laid on table.

From J. D. Flavelle, enclosing a letter from Mr. Jas. Ross, of Montreal, doctor of the hospital, with reference to the suggestion to corner stone the building. Mr. Ross expressed a desire that the ceremony be arranged for the time for the formal opening.
—Fried.

From J. McSwyn, noting the abandonment of the first position taken by the Council with respect to the sewer, and Sinclair's sewer, and warning the members against proceeding on the authority of the Board of Health's endorsement of the sewer as a sanitary necessity.—Fried.

From the Flavelle Milling Co., proposing to install a sewer, because it would empty into the river, over above their dam, and expressing the belief that the Provincial Board of Health would not sanction that outlet if informed of the objections. It was also become necessary in the near future to have the laundry discharge diverted or filtered.—Ald.
Jackson—"It will be an unfortunate thing if the people in the western part of the town can get sewers, while those whose properties are tributary to the river above the locks must be shut off from relief."

Mr. O'Leary—"A wrong idea is entertained about the Chipman plan
—the understanding at first was that all sewers would be trapped and the effluents be purified at the outlets, there will be trouble in the near future."

From Dr. Bryce, Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health, under date of Sept. 4th: "I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of 22nd ult. and in reply to inform you that the change of a sewer from Georgian-st. to Simcoe-st., thereby making an alteration in the plans approved of by this Board for the sewerage of the town. In reply I would say that several very strong arguments have been forwarded to this Board in regard to this matter;
as also the neglect of the town to purify the sewage before it goes in to Georgian river, I think it would be well, owing to the several differences of opinion as regards this matter, for your Board to investigate these sewerage matters, as I can see that trouble, possibly of a legal character, will result unless all parties are reasonably satisfied.
Yours truly, Peter Bryce.—Referred to Board of Health."

From V. McIlhargy, enclosing declaration that he is not the owner of a dog.—Finance committee.

From Thos. O'Neill, deliverer of the fire to town, applying for two weeks leave of absence in October.—Laid on table.

From Magistrate St. John, relative to a fine recently imposed by him under the Shops Regulation Act. The law fixed a fine of $20 or $50, and he had no option but to impose the lowest penalty, which he felt was excessive under the circumstances, and he recommended that $15 of the amount be returned by the town to the defendant.—Finance committee,
power to act.

From Jas. Healey, complaining of the condition of a ditch on St. Patrick-st.—Board of Works.

From Jas. Fowler, Toronto, stating that his attention had been directed to Lindsay's commanding position as a location for a beet sugar factory, and offering his services in cases the Council or citizens proposed to take any action along that line.—Mr. N. Hocken explained that he knew Mr. Fowler, who was a promoter of industries.—Alderman Touchburn—"Refer the letter to the County Council; it is a county matter."—Ald. Robson—"I have a letter on the same subject—not from a promoter, but from Hugh Blair, of Ely, Blair & Co., a responsible person who asks for particulars as to what the town would be willing to offer."—On motion of Ald. O'Reilly, both communications were referred to the Board of Trade.

A number of accounts were read and referred to the respective committees.

Don't Want Gas Works too Near.
R. Sylvester, Wm. Reazin, and about a dozen other property-owners, joined in protesting against the erection of the gas plant on the site chosen, near the corner of Kent and Jackson-st., west side, alleging that it was likely to be objectionable as to smell and would therefore retard the growth of the town in that direction.

All Jackson—"Mr. Mayor, we can't act on that, as we have no proof that there will be a nuisance, but if that is the case the Board of Health can act."

Ald. Sinclair—"But the property-owners are trying to do now what will be very difficult to do later on.
I propose that the Clerk forward
the protest to the Company."

Ald. Touchburn—"There's no use wasting time, we have nothing to act upon, and not one of the men who signed that petition would make an affidavit that the gas plant will be a nuisance. We would be laughed at if we took any action."

Ald. Robson supported the protest and moved that it be sent to the Board of Health, but failed to secure a second.

On motion Clerk Knowlson was instructed to write the petitioners to the effect that the Council had no control of the matter referred to.

Market Fees.

Market Clerk Callaghan's report for August showed receipts of $90.70 in weighing fees and tolls.—Fried.

The Auditor's Statement.

Auditor Engelson in his monthly report touched upon a number of matters. The collector had made a return of the rolls for 1899-1900, and Ald. Jackson's statements relating thereto, to which were in conformity with the plan always followed by the auditor, but not in accordance with the statutes. Attention was directed to several accounts paid without proper authority, and it was pointed out that several of the appropriations had already been expended, also that the County rate being $408 in excess of the sum estimated, that sum remained to be provided for.—Referred to Finance committee.

In Support of Sewers.

A letter was read from Dr. Mc-Alpine, Medical Health Officer, advising and supporting the construction of Kent, Russell and Simcoe-st.
sewers as necessary to the sanitary welfare of citizens in the localities to be served.

The Clerk read the minutes of the last meeting of the Board of Health, including a motion passed that the above sewers be proceeded with as works of sanitary necessity, providing the consent of the Provincial Board be obtained.—Laid on table.

Ald. Jackson then presented a petition from Andrew Robertson and others, asking that a sewer be built on Kent-st. from Cambridge-st. to a point 156 feet east of Angellus-st.
(the western boundary). The petition having been favorably reported upon by the Clerk and Town Commissioner, it was endorsed on motion of Aldermen Hore and Jackson, and Ald. O'Reilly—"There's one thing we want to be careful about: Chipman's original report calls for a sewer only as far as Adelaide-st., while the big map shows the line against Angellus-st.
We should guard against any further mistakes. Judge Dean's sewerage rate does not take in Kent-
st. beyond Adelaide-st."

Ald. Robson—"We're not changing Chipman's plan—we're extending its scope."

Ald. Touchburn took the same view of the matter. Even if some property-owners were not liable for the sewer, so long as the money was paid in from another source it would be a legal proceeding.

An amendment to hold over was again moved by Aldermen Touchburn and Sinclair, and carried.

A Couple of Reports.

Town Commissioner Chalmers presented a report recommending the construction of Kent-st. sewer as speedily as possible.—Adopted.

Another report from the same officer, recommending the building of a granolithic walk on west side of William-st. from Kent to Russell-sts., 10 ft. wide. Total cost, $788, property-owners, $304, town portion $484.

Ald. Jackson—"Well, we will certainly not let a contract till we are absolutely sure of our position."

More Granolithic Walks.

A petition signed by Messrs. B. F.
Reesor, A. H. H. McNeil and others asked that a cement walk be constructed on south side of Francis-st., between William and Cambridge-sts., width to be 5 ft.

Ald. Sinclair—"Five feet is too wide."

Ald. Jackson—"Well, that is what they ask and I move that the request be granted."

Ald. Hore—"I don't really believe the majority of the petitioners want the work done, at least this year."

Mayor Ingle—"Why then did they sign the petition? That sort of thing is child's play."

Ald. Touchburn—"Mr. Mayor, even if ratepayers do sign these petitions we're not bound to grant them—we are supposed to exercise our discretion. There's no use passing more work than we can handle this season. By extending the present board walk 20 rods we will satisfy the petitioners for the present, while if we proceed with the cement walk it will mean an expenditure of $200

by the town."

Ald. Robson—"I think those who were promised board walks in the spring should receive some consideration."

Ald. O'Reilly—"I will not vote for a sewer for cement walk on any back street; we have to pay 90 per cent.
of the cost, and the extra cost of the wide walks will eat up our available funds."

All Touchburn—"Let the petition stand; we can't do the work this year."

Ald. Jackson—"We're not bound to execute all the work we pass, but the petition is in proper form and should be complied with."

Ald. Touchburn—"I feel that the rate of taxation will have to be arranged before long, so that property-owners will pay 60 per cent.
and the town 40 per cent. In Pet-tboro the town pays only 25 per cent.
and property 75 per cent."

Ald. O'Reilly—"I'm willing to move the adoption of the petition on the understanding that the width will be 4 ft." Ald. Jackson offered as second.

In amendment it was moved by
Ald. Touchburn, seconded by Ald.
Sinclair, that the walk be not built this year.

Ald. Jackson—"There are two similar petitions here and we should not put ourselves in a false position by making a choice."

Ald. Touchburn—"I don't think we should be studying ourselves every member in the room at the moment working to get a walk from Russell-
st. to the station, but have taken no interest in the Francis-st. walk."

The amendment was then put and was adopted.

Ald. O'Reilly presented a petition for a granolithic walk on east side of William-st., from Russell-st. to the G.T.R. station, to be 7 ft. wide and built outside the trees, to be proceeded with as speedily as possible to town to pay for three crossings.

Ald. Touchburn—"The petition has nothing about the kerb. I'm afraid, also, that a walk 7 ft. wide outside the trees will crowd the street."

Commissioner Chalmers—"The street is 66 ft. wide, therefore 30
ft. can be taken up by the walks without narrowing the road too much."

The petition was adopted.

Ald. Jackson presented a petition for a granolithic walk on north side of Francis-st. between William and Cambridge-sts., to be either 4 or 5 feet wide. The signers were Thos.
Stewart, Jas. Keith, D. McGribbin and A. Hore.

Ald. Touchburn took the ground that the usual 7 per cent. should be charged for engineering fees; the town at large should benefit by the reduced percentage paid to the Commissioner in preparing the plans.
This was agreed to and the report
was adopted.

Reports of Committees.

All Hore, chairman of Town Property Committee, reported that the Board of Works, and Ald. Jackson, Finance, presented reports dealing with matters already placed before the public. A paragraph in the Board of Works report dealt with the matter of King-st. drain crossing the river across private property, and Aldermen O'Reilly and Robson took exception thereto as being a very faulty arrangement, and one that should be remedied at once.

Ald. Jackson—"I know nothing about it and would certainly prefer to change the outlet at once, rather than be subjected to private ownership."

Ald. Sinclair—"Who gave the Commissioner authority to go upon private property?"

Ald. Jackson—"I don't know; I presume he did it for the best."

Closing a Man Trap.

Ald. Robson called attention to the fact that the big map of the town park had not been covered over, as ordered some time ago. Commissioner Chalmers said he had forgotten to do so, but would attend to the matter at once.

Mayor Ingle—"We might as well change the outlet at once."

Ald. Touchburn contended that there was little danger of the outlet being damaged for years, and that the change could be made without tearing up the roadbed. This Alderman O'Reilly held would not be possible.

Finally Ald. Robson, seconded by Ald. O'Reilly, moved that the report be amended and that the outlet be carried to the river near the bridge along town property. The resolution was adopted.

Will Take a Holiday.

Aldermen Hore and O'Reilly, that Driver O'Neill be granted two weeks' leave of absence on providing a capable person to perform his duties.—
Carried.

The Final Touch.

On motion Council went into committee to consider a by-law authorizing the construction of Kent-st.
sewer. Alderman O'Reilly occupied the chair. By-law was then read without amendment, and was given a third reading when Council resumed.

Railway Crossing Gates.

Moved by Ald. O'Reilly, seconded
by Ald. Jackson, that the G.T.R. Co. be notified by the Town Solicitor that this Council requests and requires them to place gates at Lindsay-st. and Kent-st. crossings at once, both being dangerous points.

Ald. O'Reilly—"There have been a number of narrow escapes, two having been recorded inside of a month."

Ald. Touchburn—"You understand, of course, that the town will have to pay one-half of the gatetenders' salaries?"

Ald. O'Reilly—"Not a cent—I asked Peterboro's solicitor about that."
Mayor Ingle—"I fancy that will be settled by the Privy Council."

The motion was adopted.

Good Roads Inspection.

Ald. O'Reilly moved, seconded by
Ald. Jackson, that the Clerk request
Mr. A. W. Campbell, Provincial Road Roads Commissioner, to visit Lindsay about the middle of next week to inspect King-st. model road.—
Carried.

Economy the Word.

Mayor Ingle on being asked the probable cost of fitting up the Treasurer's offices in the town hall, said the work could be done for $50 or $60, according to the quality of the furniture. The Council thought the smaller sum would suffice.

Matters of Detail.

Moved by Ald. Hore, seconded by Ald. Jackson, that the Commissioner's report re-granolithic walk on west side of William-st., from Kentst. to Russell-st., be adopted, and that Clerk advertise Court of Revision for that work and Kent-st.
sewer at once.—Carried.

Thanks Billiards all Right.

Ald. Robson asked for a prompt decision relative to Mr. Patterson's application for a billiard room license. He thought billiards a necessary and desirable amusement, and the applicant should not be kept in doubt as to the Council's probable action. Ald. Sinclair also pressed for prompt action, saying that the testimonials sent in were first-class.

Ald. Jackson—"It's late and the matter may take a long time to decide."

Ald. O'Reilly moved an adjournment until Monday, 16th, to appoint a collector of taxes, and Ald. Jackson seconded the motion.

Ald. Sinclair objected that the motion was out of order, but was overruled.

Ald. Hore—"There's one serious objection to granting the proposed license to an outsider—we have already refused licenses to local parties."

Council then adjourned, greatly to Ald. Robson's disgust, who called a meeting of the Police and Lighting committee for next evening to deal with the application.

A Quiet Wedding.

Port Hope Guide, Thursday: Mr.
James J. Glass and Miss Marguerite Jackett, of Little Britain, were joined in the bonds of wedlock on Wednesday evening, at the residence of Rev. T. R. Hull, Walton-st. They went to Toronto on Thursday on the Argyle to enjoy the sights of the Queen City before returning home.

There's more Olan-rh in this section of the coun-the last few years was up to the neck in incurable. For great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by not failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven that it is a general systemic disease, and therefore requires a general treatment. Hall's Backache Kidney Tablets, man-

The Sweet and Sour of Life

"SOME PEOPLE I'VE MET."

A Pleasing Lecture by Rev. J. J. Rae, of Oshawa.

The basement of Cambridge-st. Methodist church was filled to its utmost capacity last Monday by citizens desirous of hearing Rev. J. J. Rae's address on "Some People I've Met." The lecturer started out by referring to the importance of that personal pronoun, "I." Some men are all "I's" when in conversation, and while I was the important personage to which every attention should be paid, yet such men were a source of annoyance because of their extremes along this line. Other people he had met were annoyances by their very indifference, others by their baseness. The speaker said there was no one day of his life that he would sooner blot out than that day when a man under whom he was employed made one studious effort to debase his young life. There is, he said, no greater crime than that which takes away innocence and simplicity from childhood.

Other classes he had met were those who annoy you because their words sting, while others buzz about and don't sting. There is another class which is the worst kind of all—they that turn sour. If they have been defeated in a political election, or have striven for some office, or things do not just please them, they sour—noting satisfied then. They are the most hopeless creatures in the universe. Never do they see the bright side of human life. These are the class of people who annoy us and they become problems that we are left to work out.

There are people that amuse us. Some of the richest benefactors of the men and women that can lift sadness from human lives by a smile, or by their ability to turn sadness and gloom into laughter and joy. Earth has its sorrows, but we are to get ready for a heaven of laughter. Some people amuse us unintentionally; others amuse us by their inability to be amused and pronounced to settle down to welcome the gloom. They have met disappointment, and fall under it. But the strong men and women are the moral heroes who have risen up out of their unpleasant surroundings and by great effort have taken their place in society. They have built up a name and stand responsible for it.

Another class of people are those who inspire us. The man who will help to climb up the ladder of possibility, the man who will enable you by word or act to stand over a conquered self, is an inspiration to your life. The play idea coming into your life of work is an inspiration. The man who can make you feel you are "digging" but, whereas you are digging, he becomes an inspirer to your life. The man who gives you a "boost," a helping hand, and awakens you from a state of lethargy, the man who has the ability to give a vision to mankind that they may see what lies within the range of human possibility and achievement, is a blessing to humanity because of the spirit of helpfulness in his life.

The lecture was most entertaining, the rev. gentleman citing many amusing incidents in the course of his remarks touching on the characteristics of some people he had met. His vein of humor and sympathetic nature form a combination that gives strength to him as a pastor, and has won for him the popularity and esteem he enjoys.

WEDDING BELLS.

Young-Burke.

A pretty and happy wedding took place at the Bishop's Palace in Peterboro on Wednesday morning last, at which the Very Rev. Archdeacon Cagney officiated. The contracting parties were Mr. Joe Young and Miss Margaret Burke, two of the most popular young people of this town. The bride was attended by Mr. T. Burke, and the groom by Mr. T. Burke. The happy couple left on the morning train for Toronto, Chatham and other points, carrying with them the best wishes of a large circle of friends in this city.

Shelly-Brown.

(St. Catherine's Journal, Sept. 5.) An event which proved to be an exceedingly pretty, interesting and brilliant one, was the marriage of J. Webster Shelly, one of St. Catherine's most promising and enterprising young merchants, to Miss Ida Brown, niece of Mr. J. Comstock, a young lady who is well and favorably known to a large circle of friends in this city.

The ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon by the Rev. W. H. Harvey, the pastor of the Welland-ave. church, in the cozy parlor of Mr. Comstock's residence on Welland-ave., and in the presence of friends and immediate relatives of the bride and groom. The room had been decorated in a manner which called no attention to the attention of all present. Palms, roses, potted plants and many different varieties of cut flowers were strewn about in the most bewitching fashion, and the impression of the pretty scene long be remembered by those who witnessed it.

The bride was assisted by Miss Elsie St. Yves, who performed her duties in a very pleasing and lovable manner, while the duties of best-man were very ably carried out by Mr. Wm. Shelly, brother and partner to the groom. A rather pretty part of the ceremony was the part taken by little Reta Brown, of Lindsay, the bride's niece, who acted as maid of honor.

The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome gold watch which was presented to her by the Rev. Mr. Harvey, after the ceremony had been performed. The happy couple were accompanied by a large number of beautiful and costly presents from their friends, among others a handsome armchair from the choir of the Welland-ave. church, of which Miss Brown was a member. After partaking of a sumptuous wedding feast, the newly married couple left on an extended honeymoon for Toronto, Lindsay and Kawartha Lakes, after which they will take up their residence in this city.

Among the guests from outside places were the bride's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown and family, Mr. Will Brown, Mrs. Alex. Black, Miss Annie Kellett, all of Lindsay; Mr. and Mrs. Aaron and Miss Sarah Comstock, Peterboro; Mr. and Mrs. Mansel Campbell, Chatham; Mr. D. Conklin, Kendall; all relatives of the bride, and friends of Mr. Shelly.

Rich and poor alike use Pain-Killer.

Taken internally for cramps, colics and diarrhoea. Applied externally cures sprains, swollen muscles, etc. Avoid substitutes, there is but one Pain-Killer, Perry Davis'. 25 cents and 50 cents.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The famous little signature is on every bottle of Castoria.

Like Old Times in Lindsay. Whitty Chronicle: If a rat-payer wishes to tie his cow on the street so as it can enjoy a mouthful of sweet grass we have no fault to find if the rope is not long enough to reach the other side of the street and become entangled with passing rigs when an attempt is made to drive over the rope lying on the road.

Ignorant of Nature's Laws.

If not ignorant, stupid—else why attempt to treat catarrh, bronchitis and asthma by snuffs, tablets or atomizers. Such remedies can't cure, for the medication must be carried to the diseased parts by the air you breathe. Catarrh is inhaled into the lungs, throat and nasal passages. Kills the disease from its very roots. Catarrh is a chronic complaint by doctors and druggists a never-failing cure. Try it, 25c. and $1.00.

Board of Health Meeting.

The Board of Health met in the Chairman's office last Friday at 8 p.m. Present: Chairman Keith, and Messrs. Kyle, Duck, Staples, McDonald, Mills, the Medical Health Officer and Sanitary Inspector. A report from the Sanitary Inspector was read stating that the East and South Ward Schools had been painted and of fumigated, that the other public schools would be attended to later, and that the Separate School and Convent had been fumigated. Moved by Mr. Mills, seconded by Mr. Kyle, that the report be received and adopted, and that the Board approve of what has been done to the East and South Ward Schools and request the Board to fumigate the other schools with sulphur forthwith, under the supervision of the Sanitary Inspector. The Chairman stated that the Sanitary Inspector complained of stagnant water on Elgin-st., James-st., and Durham-st., and stated that the same was being run to health. Moved by Mr. Mills, seconded by Mr. McDonald, that the Secretary be instructed to notify the Council to have the water removed from the localities mentioned in the Sanitary Inspector's report. Carried. The Board then adjourned.

LOCAL BREVITIES

—Nothing short of a snowstorm will call in all the straw hats.

—We are enjoying "truly remarkable weather and should be grateful.

—The rich man is thankful if he has a good digestion, and the poor man is thankful if he has something to digest.

—A man's busy day is when he stays at home to rest and his wife gets him to do a few little odd jobs around the house.

—The potato bug alarms Britain.

—Cable dispatch. Good for the potato bug. It has done something that Russia can't do.

—A local fisherman had his canoe stolen a few days before the duck hunting season opened and has not yet got trace of his craft.

Hail to September, harbingers

Of Autumn, the land 'tis cooler, and the oyster comes to town.

—Mrs. Carrie Nation persists in informing a gaping world that she doesn't wear corsets. Doesn't need 'em. What she wants is a muzzle.

—When a woman accuses her husband of having poor judgment, his mind slowly wanders back to the time when he asked her to marry him.

—The Str. Alert, of the Stony Lake fleet, sunk in a collision with the Subham on Friday of last week, has been raised and is undergoing repairs.

—Vegetarians are conducting an aggressive campaign in London. If they can convert John Bull from his roast beef to the rest of the world should be easy.

—In a recent issue we stated that Mr. Jas. McWilliams had been charged $1.25 for three and a half days' use of the town scraper. He will have to put up a quarter more.

—There is a very brisk demand for tank in all parts of the province, and large quantities are being taken out by lumbermen and settlers up north.

—For the benefit of local sports we hasten to inform them that ducks are very numerous on Pigeon Creek, east of Omemee and on the St. Clair marshes.

—The C.P.R. train in which the Royal party will travel is so gorgeous with gold that if you brush up against any of the decorations your clothes will assay about $8 to the ounce.

—Minden Echo: Mr. D. J. Hartle, general merchant here, shipped one thousand dollars' worth of butter on Wednesday last to Dundas & Fawcett Bros., Lindsay. This is Mr. Hartle's fifth large shipment since May last.

—Mr. P. G. Pike is at work on a $500 contract for the Lindsay Gas Co., calling for the construction of two large concrete vats in what will be the basement of the new gas house. He has a number of men employed.

—Express Agent Wilder is handling immense quantities of fruit these days—not to mention the departmental store purchases made by Lindsay visitors to the city. A glance at the names on some of the tags affords much food for thought.

—The massive dredge being built at Beaverton for the Lake Simcoe section of the Trent Valley Canal is nearing completion, and will be placed in operation next week. The engine is a forty-horse-power. Every portion of the machinery is strong and durable.

—Boatmen complain that for some reason only one of the lights near the mouth of the river has been in working order of late. As a consequence several steamers and yachts have missed the channel and gone aground.

—A telegram received last Thursday, Aug. 23th, announced the death of John J. Creighton, of Uby, Michigan. Deceased was a brother of the late Thomas Creighton, and also a brother of Mrs. M. J. Mulvihill, of the south ward.

—Th. McDonnell homestead on the corner of York and Peel-sts. has been leased and is now occupied by Mr. Parker Davis, of Noyes's Creek. Harvey, who is a member of the Kennedy & Davis Co. He intends to take life easy for a time at least.

—Arthur Cullon, messenger boy in Mr. Wilder's office, met with a painful mishap Wednesday of last week. While on his way to deliver a telegram he was thrown from his bicycle and now bears some nasty cuts and bruises as reminders that the road is wider than the sidewalk.

—A large crowd turned out last Thursday to listen to the band concert. As usual the complaint of the ladies was, "Why can't we have some fathers?" We pass it on to our city fathers, who have provided a bread and butter but no facilities for enjoying it.

—There appears to be a misapprehension as to the date at which the close season for speckled trout commences in Ontario. Mr. S. T. Bastard, Deputy Commissioner of Fisheries says that fishing may be continued under the law till the 14th of September, inclusive. The close season starts on the 15th of September.

—An attempt was lately made to raise the Rathbun Co. steam punt, Flying Dutchman, sunk in the Fenelon river in 65 feet of water. The punting hooks caught in the bow of the boat, but when the men began to lift on the winch the timbers parted and the craft settled back in its watery bed, where it is likely to remain.

—Mr. Thos. McConnell, of the Royal hotel is having the floors of his commodious cellar and about a foot of the walls from the ground up, covered with a thick coating of cement. This has been laid underneath, and the basement will be kept clean and sweet by turning on the hose at intervals.

—A death notice which appeared in last week's Toronto papers was read with deep regret by many Lindsay citizens. It told of the death on Sunday last at Winnipeg, of Robert M. H. Hudspeth, son of the late Adam Hudspeth, M.P., of this town, at the early age of 29 years. The cause of death was typhoid fever. The body reached town on Thursday.

At last week's council meeting Ald. Jackson said he hoped the by-law to prohibit the posting of signs and notices on street poles would be ready for next meeting. The Bell Telephone Co. poles are being painted and we understand the Light, Heat & Power Co. will follow suit as soon as the by-law is enforced. Then a little persuasion may induce the C.P.R. and G.N.W. Telephone Companies to follow the same example.

—Mr. John Simons, of the T. Eaton Co., Toronto, is enjoying a vacation in town. Jack was born and raised in this vicinity, and was in business in Lindsay for a number of years hence his friends are legion. Mrs. Simons also spent a week in town lately.

—Our many friends will be pleased to learn of the improved condition of Mr. M. J. Carter and Dr. Walters, under treatment in Toronto for typhoid fever. The former left the hospital on Monday and expects to be able to return to town this week. The latter has a mild attack, and is making satisfactory progress towards recovery.

A BIG HANDICAP.

A man with a lame back does not feel much like working and you cannot blame him. Jeremiah Rodden, carpenter, No. 7 Cowdy St., Kingston, Ont., suffered with rheumatism in his back (lumbago) for two years. Five bottles of Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure completely cured him. This great blood purifier is put up in bottles containing ten days treatment. Price 50 cents at all drug stores or Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston.

WHEN FILLING PRESCRIPTIONS

We give our undivided attention to the matter in hand—that is, the only safe way.
We dispense drugs only of known purity, holding that when human life is in the balance it is a poor time to economize by using "cheap" ingredients and trusting to luck for results.
This is an important matter and one worthy of serious thought.

—The overcoat problem is next on the program.
—Straw hats are ripe enough to pick and put away.
—Omenec correspondence arrived too late for this week's issue.
—Marrying for love is a lottery—but marrying for money is downright gambling.
—Since the high price of coal is no longer a joking matter, we may conclude that this is to be a no-pun winter.
—Mr. J. Carow has still a million and a half feet of lumber to cut, complete his contract with the Gilmore Co. of Toronto.
—The secret of a doctor's success is in knowing how long he can keep a wealthy patient alive without disgusting him with the mode of treatment.
—Rev. Dewitt Talmage said he wished someone had dashed Czar's brains overboard. As far as we can see, however, Czar hasn't got any brains to dash.
—Fresh-mined coal of all sizes and kinds; Dry, Soft and Hard Wood, 2-ft., 4-ft.; also Charcoal, always in stock at R. Bryans & Co., phone 56.
—Peterboro will send a party of one hundred and six violinists to join the Royal Chorus, which is to welcome the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall at Toronto next month.
—Mr. Wm. Pym, proprietor of the Dairy House, is making preparations to pave with cement the lane leading from Kent-st. to the hotel yards and stables. It will be a marked improvement when completed.
—Of the 777 municipalities in Ontario 525 have reported to Dr. Bryce, secretary of the Provincial Board of Health, concerning the outbreak of smallpox. The number of cases was 675.
—A young lad tumbled off the wharf at Ops swing bridge last morning while fishing, but was rescued by a companion. Names are withheld, the lad's mother being very ill.
—The Toronto papers state that Alexander McEnroy, a Haliburton County farmer, was committed for trial the other day on a charge of having tried to pass off bogus money on an Italian fruit vendor.
—Mr. Eugene Fee is doing a brisk business in baled hay. He has already shipped five carloads of this season's crop to Liverpool on contract, significant for a prominent Western Ontario dealer.
—Sergeant Major Martin is doing his share in building up the town. He has just let a contract to Carpenter James Miller, of the south ward, to raise his dwelling house another story and add a cottage roof.
—We understand that Lindsay is soon to have another drug store, making half-a-dozen in all. Mr. W. G. Dunlop, late of Perth, an old Lindsay boy, is about to lease the Long store formerly occupied by Mr. Geo. A. Milne.
—Mr. R. A. McEwan, business manager of the Market Bros. No. 1 Co., was in town Tuesday arranging for the appearance of the company here next week. Mr. McEwan assures us that the company is much larger and stronger than ever before.
—A number of new books will shortly be added to the G.T.R. Library, and many old volumes are being rebound. Railway men and their families show a deep and growing interest in the privileges placed within their reach by this excellent institution.
—The residents of Lindsay-st. are anxiously awaiting rain to settle the dust. As it is, they will require a term at house-cleaning this fall, as their residences inside and out are fairly buried under a dust. Why not have a water-cleaning cart take an occasional trip as far as the railway crossing?
—The Toronto World notes that "Bob" Harrison, G.T.R. constable at the Union Station, and formerly of Lindsay, is suffering from "punch" rheumatism in his hand. The constable is now punching tickets at the entrance to the station tracks. Bob has the satisfaction of knowing that he gave "punch" rheumatism to the other fellow many a time in sparring matches.
—The very best fresh mined Lehigh Valley coal, direct from mine, steam and egg at $7 per ton, delivered in town, discount of 25c. per ton will be allowed off above price for cash orders. R. Bryans & Co.—dwf.

—Many citizens are wondering why the new crossing on York-st., near Dundas & Flavelle Bros' store, has been covered with fine sand. It is dust clinging to the shoes and attire of all who pass that way, and when it rains the sand will be carried into nearby stores. If the crossing needed protection while it hardens it should have been covered with some less objectionable material.
—The annual excursion to Port Hope of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Midland Methodist church will be held this year on Sept. 29th, regular morning train only. Tickets good returning regular train Monday, Sept. 30th. Excursion tickets sold at all stations between Midland and Lindsay, inclusive. Fare from Lindsay for adults 70c., for children 50c. For information see posters or G.T.R. agents.—w2.

It is dust clinging to the shoes and attire of all who pass that way, and when it rains the sand will be carried into nearby stores. If the crossing needed protection while it hardens it should have been covered with some less objectionable material.

—The annual excursion to Port Hope of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Midland Methodist church will be held this year on Sept. 29th, regular morning train only. Tickets good returning regular train Monday, Sept. 30th. Excursion tickets sold at all stations between Midland and Lindsay, inclusive. Fare from Lindsay for adults 70c., for children 50c. For information see posters or G.T.R. agents.—w2.

—The residents of Lindsay-st. are anxiously awaiting rain to settle the dust. As it is, they will require a term at house-cleaning this fall, as their residences inside and out are fairly buried under a dust. Why not have a water-cleaning cart take an occasional trip as far as the railway crossing?

—The Toronto World notes that "Bob" Harrison, G.T.R. constable at the Union Station, and formerly of Lindsay, is suffering from "punch" rheumatism in his hand. The constable is now punching tickets at the entrance to the station tracks. Bob has the satisfaction of knowing that he gave "punch" rheumatism to the other fellow many a time in sparring matches.

—The very best fresh mined Lehigh Valley coal, direct from mine, steam and egg at $7 per ton, delivered in town, discount of 25c. per ton will be allowed off above price for cash orders. R. Bryans & Co.—dwf.

—Many citizens are wondering why the new crossing on York-st., near Dundas & Flavelle Bros' store, has been covered with fine sand. It is dust clinging to the shoes and attire of all who pass that way, and when it rains the sand will be carried into nearby stores. If the crossing needed protection while it hardens it should have been covered with some less objectionable material.

Harvest Home Services.

The people of Queen-st. Methodist church are preparing for their annual harvest home services and tea, which take place Sunday and Monday, Sept. 22nd and 23rd.

Will Parade Before the Duke.

The 275 officers and men comprising the 45th Victoria Regiment are eager for the coming of the 8th of October, on which day they expect to entrain for Toronto to take part in the great review of 10,000 troops by the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York. Col. Hughes is expected home from the West in time to make final arrangements.

Gentlemen, If you are Bald, see Prof. Dorenwend's Art Coverings in wigs and toupees, worn on thousands of heads. They are a protection against colds, catarrh, etc., and give a most natural and younger appearance to the face.

Trying on and demonstrating the superior art of these goods free of charge.

He will be at the Benson House, Lindsay, Saturday, Sept. 28th, last day of fair.

He is Superannuated.

The Dominion government has abolished the office of Inland Revenue Inspector at Lindsay, and the duties pertaining thereto will hereafter be performed by Customs Collectors at the Port Hope and Lindsay offices.

Other Places After It.

Toronto Mail and Empire: The Ontario Beet Root Sugar Company held an organization meeting yesterday at the Board of Trade. It is understood that while Dunville is pressing to have the factory located there, other places have not been in hope, and are pressing their claims. Among the places mentioned are Aylmer, Lindsay and Whitby. Shipping facilities and a large supply of beets are the great requisites of a site for the factory.

His Birds are Winners.

Mr. D. C. Trew, our famous poultry fancier, returned Saturday morning last from the Toronto Exhibition. He exhibited in the Houdan class and swept everything, capturing five first and four 2nd prizes, in addition to all the honors. His record was: 1st for cock bird; 1st and 2nd for pens; 1st and 2nd for cockerels; 1st and 2nd for pullets; 1st and 2nd for breeding pen. Mr. Trew refused $250 offered by Mr. Bogart, of New York, for a pair of birds only 4-1-2 months old, but may yet part with them if his price of $80 is accepted.

Church Notes.

—Large congregations waited on the ministrations of Rev. A. J. H. Strike, pastor of Queen-st. Methodist church, at both services on Sunday, which was very encouraging considering counter attractions. The rev. gentleman's "Railway Sermon" last evening was thoroughly enjoyed by all, and especially by the young people.

—Rev. W. M. Martin, B. A., of Canington, occupied the pulpit of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church on Sunday and administered the sacrament at the morning service. He is an earnest and forcible speaker, with a pleasing delivery. The rev. gentleman was thoroughly enjoyed by all, and especially by the young people.

—Rev. J. J. Rae is popular with Lindsay Methodists. This fact was attested yesterday by the large congregations at both services. This is the third time Rev. Rae has occupied Cambridge-st. pulpit. Both addresses were practical, and his clear voice commended the closest attention. His morning address on "Covenanting the best gifts," was a masterly exegesis.

AN ANARCHIST'S SHOT

Lays Low the President of the United States of America.

A TERRIBLE CRIME AT BUFFALO.

Stricken While Holding a Reception in the Temple of Music at the Pan-American Exposition—The Would-Be Assassin Proclaims That He Was Chosen to Do the Dastardly Deed.

THE LATEST BULLETINS.

Buffalo, Sept. 7.—The following bulletin was issued by the President's physicians at 10:40 p. m. yesterday:

"The President is rallying satisfactorily and is resting comfortably; temperature 100.4 degrees, pulse 124, respiration 24."

Patient free from pain.

The President's physicians issued the following bulletin at 1 a. m.:

"The President is free from pain and resting well. Temperature 100.2, pulse 120, respiration 24."

(Signed), P. M. Rixey, Roswell Parke, George Cortelyou, Secretary to President."

Surgeon General.

Buffalo, Sept. 7.—Secretary Cortelyou last night gave out the following statement:

The following bulletin was issued by the President's physicians at 7 p. m.:

"The President was shot about 4 o'clock. One bullet struck him on the upper portion of the breast bone, glancing and not penetrating; the second bullet penetrating the abdomen five inches below the left nipple and one and a half inches to the left of the median line."

"The abdomen was opened through the line of the bullet wound. It was found that the bullet had penetrated the stomach. The opening in the front wall of the stomach was carefully closed with silk sutures, after which a search was made for a hole in the back wall of the stomach. This was found and also closed in the same way. The further course of the bullet could not be discovered, although careful search was made. The abdominal wound was closed without drainage. No injury to the rest of the crowd was given when the President's carriage arrived. He saw the President pass through the gate to the special train, which was to take him to the Falls.

Czolgosz waited for the President's return. In the afternoon he went to the Temple of Music and was one of the first of the throng to enter. He crowded well forward as close to the stage as possible. He was there when the President entered through the side door; he was one of the first to hurry forward when the President took his position and prepared to shake hands with the people.

Czolgosz had his revolver gripped in his right hand, and about the hand and the revolver was wrapped a handkerchief. He held the weapon to his breast so that anyone who noticed him might suppose that the hand was injured.

He reached the President finally. He did not look into the President's face. He extended his left hand, pressed the revolver against the President's breast with his right hand and fired. He fired twice and would have fired again and again but for the terrific blow that drove him back.

That was all there was to his story.

"Did you mean to kill the President?" asked the District Attorney.

"I did," was the reply.

"I am a disciple of Emma Goldman," he replied.

Gradually the story was secured. In the end Czolgosz talked freely. At midnight the complete story had been secured. No illegal methods were used to extract the story from him. No inducements were offered and no threats made.

President's Brother Arrives.

Buffalo, Sept. 9.—Abner McKinley, brother of the President, reached here at 12:20 a. m. yesterday. He was admitted to the house at once.

R. FERGUSON, M.P.P., DEAD.

Represented East Kent in the Legislative Assembly—A Prominent Western Liberal, Wealthy and Popular.

Thamesville, Sept. 9.—Mr. Robt. Ferguson, M. P. for East Kent, died here Saturday night at his home, whence the funeral will take place on Wednesday at 2 p. m. The deceased was born in Stirlingshire, where he also received his education. Mr. Ferguson was one of the many who have entered the wider political arena by way of municipal politics, having been a Councillor, Reeve and Warden of his county before his election in 1885, on the death of the sitting member, Mr. McCraney, as representative of East Kent in the Legislative Assembly. Since then Mr. Ferguson has three times successfully contested the riding in the Liberal interest, at the general elections of 1886, 1890 and 1896. As a lumberman he was in close and constant touch with the business community, and his loss will be severely felt, not only in his constituency but throughout a large portion of the Province. By his unostentatious manner, by a kind and judicious use of his wealth and by the rugged honesty of his character he acquired an influence and popularity that made him invincible as a candidate. Never was a harsh word uttered against him in a campaign, and many Conservatives also voted for him. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church and made liberal donations towards the erection of many new churches, Presbyterian and others, during recent years. He was never married. One brother and three sisters survive him.

Answers in Butter Competition.

Toronto, Sept. 5.—The following award was made in the butter competition for professionals at the Industrial Fair, yesterday, which, by the way, was largely attended: Miss McAllister, Coventry, 1; Miss Hewson, Mayfield, 2; Miss Green, Loyal, 3; Robert Ireland, Beachfield, 4.

GAUDAUR BEATEN.

Towns Wins the Sculling Championship by Five Lengths.

Rat Portage, Ont., Sept. 9.—This town is in the dumps. Its idol has been shattered. Ever since he came here, three years ago, Gaudaur has been regarded as the wonder of the world—an invincible oarsman at over 40 years of age. But Gaudaur once too often faced the starter, and demonstrated that he was no longer able to retain the championship. The water was smooth on Saturday, but a light wind was blowing. Towns won the race by five lengths in 20:32.

Mac's Willard's Body Found.

Niagara Falls, Sept. 9.—Carlisle D. Graham and Miss Maud Willard kept their promise and made their voyages through the Gorge on Saturday, but Miss Willard lost her life in doing it.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Sept. 9.—The body of the woman, Maud Willard, who lost her life navigating the whirlpool rapids and whirlpool in a canoe on Saturday afternoon, was brought up on a diving and taken to Undertaker Butler's rooms. It will be taken to Niagara Falls, N.Y., for interment.

President McKinley Shot.

Assassination Was Attempted at 4 O'clock Friday While the President Was Holding a Reception.

Buffalo, Sept. 7.—The scene of excitement and anxiety displayed on Buffalo's streets last night never had a parallel in the city's history. The Pan-American was abandoned, and the entire population, including the thousands of temporary visitors, congregated down town, blockading the streets while they awaited the frequent reports of the condition of the stricken head of the nation.

The President was first reported dead, but it was soon made known that he still lived, after receiving the two bullets from the revolver of the would-be assassin, and each succeeding announcement was more encouraging, until about 9 o'clock it was given out that the probabilities were quite favorable for the President's recovery.

It was not until this development that Mr. McKinley, who has been an invalid for several years, was made aware of the attempt on her husband's life. He was removed to the home of Mr. John G. Milburn, President of the Pan-American, whose house has been occupied by the Presidential party since their arrival here.

It was a few moments after 4 p. m. while President McKinley was holding a public reception in the great Temple of Music on the Pan-American grounds that the cowardly attack was made, with what success time alone can tell.

Standing in the midst of crowds numbering thousands, surrounded by every evidence of good will, pressed by a motley throng of polyglot peoples, showing with expressions of love and loyalty, besieged by multitudes, an eager to grasp his arm amidst those surroundings, and with the ever recurring plaudits of an admiring army of sightseers ringing in his ears, the blow of the assassin fell, and in an instant, pleasure gave way to pain, admiration to agony, folly turned to fury and pandemonium followed.

Last night a surging, swaying, eager multitude thronged the city main thoroughfare, choking the streets in front of the principal newspapers, scanning the bulletins with anxious eyes and groaning or cheering in turn each succeeding announcement as the nature of the message sinks or buoy's their hopes.

Down at police headquarters, surrounded by stern faced inquisitors of the law, was a medium sized man of commonplace appearance, with the fixed gaze directed on the floor, who presses his lips firmly together and listens with an air of assumed indifference to the persistent stream of questions, arguments, oburgations and admonitions with which his captors seek to induce or compel him to talk. It was just after the daily organ recitals in the splendid Temple of Music that the dastardly attempt was made. Planned with all the diabolical ingenuity and fineness of which anarchy or nihilism are capable, the would-be assassin carried out the work without a hitch, and should his designs fail and the President survive, only to Divine Providence can be attributed that beneficial result.

The President, though well guarded by United States and city detectives, was fully exposed to such an attack as occurred. He stood at the edge of the raised dais, upon which stands the great pipe organ, at the east side of the magnificent structure.

Thronging of people crowded in at the various entrances to gaze upon their well beloved executive, perchance to clasp his hand, and then fight their way out in the good-natured mob that every minute swelled and multiplied at the points of ingress and egress to the building.

The President was in a cheerful mood, and was enjoying to the full the hearty evidences of goodwill which everywhere met his gaze. Upon his right stood John G. Milburn of Buffalo, President of the Pan-American Exposition, chatting with the President and introducing to him especially persons of note who approached. Upon the President's left stood Mr. Cortelyou.

It was shortly after 4 p. m., when out of the throng which surrounded the Presidential party a medium sized man of ordinary appearance, and plainly dressed in black, approached as if to greet the President. Both Secretary Cortelyou and President Milburn noticed that one of the man's hands was swathed in a bandage or handkerchief. Reports of bystanders differ as to which hand.

He worked his way amid the stream of people up to the edge of the dais, until he was within two feet of the President.

President McKinley smiled, bowed and extended his hand in that spirit of geniality the American people so well know, when suddenly the sharp crack of a revolver rang out, loud and clear, above the hum of voices, the shuffling myriad of feet and vibrating waves of applause that ever and anon swept here and there over the assemblage.

There was an instant of almost complete silence, like the hush that followed a clap of thunder or momentary silence that ensues after the discharge of a bombshell.

The President stood stockstill, a look of hesitancy, almost of bewilderment, on his face. Then he retreated a step, while a pallor began to steal over his features.

The multitude, only partially aware that something serious had happened, paused in the silence of surprise, while necks were craned and all eyes turned as one toward the rostrum where a great tragedy was being enacted.

Then came a commotion. With the leap of a tiger three men threw themselves forward as with one impulse, and sprang toward the would-be assassin. Two of them were United States Secret Service men, who were on the look-out, and whose duty it was to guard against just such calamity as had here befallen the President and the nation.

The third was a bystander, a negro, who had only an instant previously grasped in his dusky palm the hand of the President.

As one man the trio hurled themselves upon the President's assailant. In a twinkling he was borne to the ground, his weapon was wrested from his grasp and strong arms pinioned his arms.

Then the vast multitude, which thronged the scene began to come to a realizing sense of the awfulness of the scene of which they had been unwilling witnesses. A murmur arose, spread and swelled to a hum of confusion, then grew to a babel of sounds and later to a pandemonium of noises.

But of the multitude, which witnessed or bore a part in the scene of turmoil and turbulence, there was but one mind which seemed to retain its equilibrium, one hand which remained steady, one eye which gazed with unflinching calmness, and one voice which retained its even tenor and faltered not at the most critical juncture. They were the mind and the hand and the eye and the voice of President McKinley.

After the first shock of the assassin's shots, he retreated a step, then, as the detectives leaped upon his assailant, he turned, walking steadily to a chair and seated himself, at the same time removing his hat and bowing his head in his hands.

In an instant Secretary Cortelyou and President Milburn were at his side. His waistcoat was hurriedly opened, the President meanwhile admonishing those about him to remain calm and telling them not to be alarmed.

"But you are wounded," cried his secretary, "let me examine."

"No, I think not," answered the President, "I am not badly hurt, I assure you."

Nevertheless his outer garments were hastily loosened, and when a trickling stream of crimson was seen to wind its way down his breast, spreading its tell-tale stain over the white surface of the linen, their worst fears were confirmed.

The President was removed to the home of Mr. Milburn at 7:25 p. m. The prisoner is locked up in the jail.

Just after the arrival of the President at Mr. Milburn's house, at 7:30 p. m., Mr. Milburn gave out a statement, saying that, while the President's condition was serious, the wounds were not necessarily fatal.

Dr. John Hammett of Baltimore, specialist on stomach troubles, saw the President. He stated that he did not believe the wound would prove fatal.

Third in Illustrious Line

April 14, 1865, President Lincoln, fatally shot in the back by John Wilkes Booth; died the next morning.

July 2, 1881, President Garfield, shot by Guiteau in the back, lingered on till September, when death relieved him of his sufferings.

Sept. 6, 4 p. m., President McKinley, shot in breast and stomach by Nieman of Detroit (whose real name is known now to be Leon Czolgosz).

His Career.

Twenty-fourth January. Born in Miles, Ohio, Jan. 23, 1843. Served in the army of the North during the civil war, and rose to rank of captain and brevet-major. A member of the bar, and of Congress from 1871 to 1891, when he was elected Governor of Ohio. In 1896 elected by a plurality of over 600,000 votes over Mr. Bryan; last fall again successful for a second term.

Secretary of State in Charge.

Toronto, Sept. 7.—Col. Sewall, the American consul of Toronto, after expressing his sorrow, stated that the Secretary of State will take charge of affairs now and remain in charge until the worst comes to the worst or the President gets better.

NIEMAN CHOKEN BY REDS.

The Would-Be Assassin of President McKinley and His Career.

Detroit, Sept. 7.—At 7 o'clock last night the local police started out to look up Nieman, the would-be assassin of President McKinley. Details of officers were sent out to investigate every man by that name in the city directory.

At 11:15 p. m. the police had learned definitely that Nieman was of German descent, a blacksmith by trade, and had always resided in or around Detroit. He was in the city up to a month ago, when he disappeared, leaving no trace as to his whereabouts or probable destination. The police believe he was selected from a national society of "Reds" to assassinate the President.

Selected to Do the Deed.

Buffalo, Sept. 6.—(9:15 p. m.)—Nieman said to a detective to-night at Police Headquarters that he was recently in Cleveland and had been selected to kill President McKinley.

Real Name Leon Czolgosz.

Buffalo, Sept. 6.—(12 a. m.)—The police have just learned that the real name of the would-be assassin is Leon Czolgosz. He was born in Detroit and came here from Cleveland.

Fatal to Mrs. McKinley.

London, Sept. 7.—The news of the attempt upon the life of President McKinley spread slowly in London. The first ticker reports were discredited, then with the confirmation and general dissemination of the news arose a far-reaching feeling of sorrow and indignation, which, wherever Americans were gathered, almost gained the proportions of a panic, accompanied by feverish anxiety for further details. The thousands of Americans now in London express their unspeakable indignation at the cowardly act, the deepest sympathy with President McKinley, and hopes for his recovery.

And to this personal patriotic sentiment was the dread whatever the outcome of the outrage upon the President, it would perhaps react fatally upon Mrs. McKinley.

Hanna's Foreboding.

Cleveland, Sept. 7.—"My God, it can't be possible," cried Senator Hanna, yesterday afternoon, when the despatch was read to him saying that President McKinley had been shot. "It is terrible, and I am too shocked to express my feelings," he added.

The Senator was prostrated by the news, and begged that all despatches relating to the condition of the President be telephoned to him as fast as they arrived.

Nelson, B. C., Sept. 7.—At the Provincial convention of the British Columbia Union Christian Endeavor yesterday, the first bulletin of the attempted assassination of President McKinley was read and prayer was immediately offered up that he would recover. A telegram was sent to the general secretary of the Union in the United States, offering the sympathy of British Columbia Union to the United States members.

SUNDAY'S BULLETINS.

Buffalo, Sept. 9.—The latest reports from Milburn house state that the President is resting comfortably and that no alarming symptoms had developed on Sunday. These bulletins were issued throughout Sunday.

9 p. m.: The President is resting comfortably and there is no special change since the last bulletin. Pulse 130, temperature 101.6, respiration 30. (Signed), P. N. Rixey, Roswell Parke, Horman Mynter, Eugene Masdin, Eugene Wasdin, Charles McBurney, George B. Cortelyou, Secretary to the President.

4 p. m.—The President has slept quietly since the last bulletin, four hours altogether since 9 o'clock. His condition is satisfactory to all the physicians present. Pulse 128, temperature 101, respiration 28.

Noon.—The improvement in the President's condition has continued. Pulse 128, temperature 101, respiration 27. Dr. McBurney, an eminent surgeon from New York, is here and meets other physicians in consultation at 3 o'clock.

9 a. m.—The President passed a good night and his condition this morning is quite encouraging. His mind is clear and he is resting well. Wound dressed at 8:30 and found in a very satisfactory condition. There is no indication of peritonitis. Pulse 131, temperature 102.8, respiration 24.

A REASSURING SUNDAY.

How the Day Was Passed by the President and His Watches—No Unfavorable Symptoms.

Buffalo, Sept. 9.—Throughout Sunday every word that came from the big vine-clad house in Delaware avenue, in which the stricken Chief Magistrate of the nation lies battling for life, was reassuring, and last night the chances of his recovery are so greatly improved that all of those who have kept the patient vigil at his bedside feel strongly that his life will be spared. Not an unfavorable symptom showed. Five times during the day the eminent doctors and surgeons assembled for consultation and each time the verdict was unanimous that what change had occurred was for the better.

And yet, despite all this optimism, the President of the Republic is by no means out of danger. Not one of his physicians, not one of his advisers, who are admitted to the inner councils, has the temerity to go so far as that. But if the President continues to improve for one more day, the danger of peritonitis, which is most dreaded, will have practically disappeared.

All the efforts of the ether which was administered when the operation was performed on the Exposition grounds, had disappeared yesterday morning, and the President's mind was perfectly clear during the time he was awake yesterday. For the first time he enjoyed natural sleep. While he was still more or less under the influence of anæsthetic his slumber was restless and disturbed and did him little good. Yesterday between 9 and 4 o'clock he had the balance of natural slumber for about four hours, and the physicians stated unofficially that his sleep had been quiet and restful and had helped the sufferer a great deal.

Sunday also for the first time nourishment was administered: It was in liquid form, and was injected hypodermically to avoid the possibility of irritating the walls of the stomach, where the sutures are healing. The exterior wound was dressed in the morning, and is progressing satisfactorily.

All the members of the Cabinet are now here except Secretaries Ray and Long. The former telegraphed yesterday that he would start from Newberry, N.H., to-day, probably in time to be here to-night. Secretary Long also signified by wire that he was coming, but did not specify the time. The Cabinet officers feel it to be their duty to be here in this crisis to meet any emergencies. They are holding no formal meetings, although there are some matters of public business which they daily discuss informally, and the possible consequences should the President grow worse are also thoroughly canvassed.

Last night was included within the time critical, to the President. He is holding his own, as Secretary Cortelyou expressed it, and if he successfully passes the night without loss of strength or the intervention of threatening conditions his ultimate chances of recovery will be increased. He was seen last night by all of the physicians and surgeons who are treating him, and their opinion, as expressed by the night bulletin, was favorable. They found his general condition to be unchanged, and their examination did not disclose anything of an unfavorable nature. They believe that the President is in a serious condition, and that the crisis will not be passed for another 48 hours.

FOR STATE REASONS.

Physicians State in Demand That the President Will Not Die.

Buffalo, Sept. 9.—For reasons of State it became necessary Saturday afternoon to secure, at the demand of Vice-President Roosevelt, a definite statement as to whether the President would live or die from the effects of his wound. The physicians hesitated, in view of the boundless uncertainties surrounding such a case, but the order for a conference and verdict was issued in such a manner as to brook no refusal, evasion or equivocation.

Five surgeons joined in the consultation. Drs. Mynter, Wissner, Mann, Wasdin and Park. Every phase of the case was examined, discussed and discounted. All possibilities, as far as medical skill can diagnose, were taken into consideration in formulating the opinion of the consultation to be officially rendered. After scanning the President's condition from every viewpoint, a unanimous verdict was reached by the consultation of surgeons which was reported to the high official who had demanded the pronouncement, in the following words:

"A careful scrutiny of the President's condition, taking into consideration all developments, actually occurred or liable to occur, our conclusion is that His Excellency's chances of recovery are the brightest, an extremely remote possibility of peritonitis being the only element of danger."

Hardly satisfied with the careful wording of the report of the conference the administration official demanded imperatively:

"Will he live or die?"

"With five," was the answer of the surgeon who had conveyed the report of the consultation.

THE PRESIDENT'S ASSAILANT.

Czolgosz Makes a Confession and Admits That He Planned to Kill—Declares He Is Alone.

While the full text of Czolgosz's signed confession will not, for a time at least, be given out, its substance is known. Czolgosz says that his parents came from Russian Poland, and that he was born in Detroit 26 years ago. He received some education in the common schools of that city, but left school when a boy and went to work as a blacksmith's apprentice. Later he went to Cleveland, where he worked for a while and then went to Chicago.

After returning to Cleveland from Chicago he went to work in the wire mills in Newburg, a suburb of Cleveland. He was working there up to the time he started for Buffalo, eight days ago.

About two weeks ago Czolgosz attended a lecture given by Emma Goldman, the woman whose anarchistic doctrines have made her notorious all over this country. The extermination of the rulers of people is a part of her creed. It was this lecture by a woman given in the City of Cleveland, the metropolis of the State in which is the President's home, that instilled in the heart of the Pole the poison of assassination.

He went back to his lodging from the lecture, with fever in his brain. His mind was filled with the terrible preaching of this woman. The doctrine that rulers had no right to live was burned into his soul. He awoke in the morning with the lecture of Emma Goldman running through his mind.

A few days afterward he read in a Chicago paper that President McKinley was to visit the Pan-American Exposition, and to remain in Buffalo for several days. The lecture of Emma Goldman and the projected visit of the President to Buffalo were linked in his thoughts.

Eight days ago he packed a small telescope valise with a few of his belongings and took an early train for Buffalo. Upon arriving in Buffalo he went at once to John Nowak's hotel at 1078 Broadway. He went there because he knew Nowak was a Pole. He told Nowak he had come to see the Exposition and that his stay would be indefinite. He inquired of Nowak about the visit of the President, when he would arrive, how long he would be in the city, what he was to do here, and whether the people would be able to see much of him. Nowak told him what the plans were.

The next day Czolgosz went to the Exposition. He went there on the next day and the next. The idea that he might kill the President when he came was in his mind, but the purpose was but half formed.

On Wednesday morning, the day of the President's arrival, Czolgosz had his mind made up. His mission to Buffalo was clear to him then. He determined to shoot the President. The first thing he did was to buy a 32-calibre revolver.

He arrived on the grounds shortly before noon. He knew that the President would not arrive before the early evening. He had read the papers carefully and knew every detail of the plans. But he was anxious to be on the scene.

He remained at the Exposition all day, and followed the President that day and the next, but did not get the opportunity he wanted.

Friday morning he was at the Exposition again, and was in the crowd at the railroad gate when the President arrived. That point after crossing the grounds from the Lincoln Park entrance. But with the ingencies should the President grow worse are also thoroughly canvassed.

Last night was included within the time critical, to the President. He is holding his own, as Secretary Cortelyou expressed it, and if he successfully passes the night without loss of strength or the intervention of threatening conditions his ultimate chances of recovery will be increased. Facts about your Liver

The liver is a large gland, the largest in the body. Its work is to secrete bile and also to destroy certain poisonous compounds in the blood as the bile passes through it. It stores the bile thus obtained in the gall bladder from where it is conducted by two ducts, one leading into the stomach and the other into the intestines. The bile thus made is the most important factor in the process of digestion, for without a certain definite proportion of it none of the solvents or digestive fluids are sufficiently active enough to do their work. The liver occasionally dries up, so to speak, and no bile is secreted. This soon becomes apparent by a feeling of torpor or laziness, yawning and a yellow appearance to the skin, and in bad cases a pain in the side. The liver being a gland requires an alternative medicine, as alternatives are medicines which promote glandular secretion. In Merrill's System Tonic is found a combination of the best mineral and vegetable alternatives known and when you take it the liver is quickly restored to its proper condition. Then, too, System Tonic purifies the blood of all accumulated poisons and acts on the bowels, unloading the foul matter that has accumulated through lack of bile. The use of half a dozen bottles will give to those persons known as sallow complexioned, a clean, rosy skin.

TO PREVENT FRAUD.

Fruit Inspection Act to Be Enforced at Once.

Toronto, Sept. 9.—The inspectors who have been appointed by the Dominion Government for the enforcement of the "fruit marks act" in Ontario and Quebec met Professor Robertson, the Government specialist, on Friday and Saturday last, in this city, and received their final instructions. The gentlemen who will be responsible for the enforcement of the act are Alexander McNeill, Walkerville; Elmer Lick, Oshawa; J. P. Carey, Cobourg; E. W. Wurtman, Kingston, and John Scribner, Hemmingford, Quebec. Those who are to be appointed by the Maritime Provinces will meet at some other point to receive instructions. The act is primarily intended to prevent fraud and not to interfere in any way with packers or shippers who are carrying on business honestly. The main purpose of the act is to insure that the name of the packer and address are put on every closed package of fruit, and that the fruit is not branded as finest, best or extra good unless of a quality that may be designated by these or similar terms. Then the fruit shall not be fraudulently packed by having the package faced by fine specimens while the bottom or middle of the box is filled with inferior fruit. The act will apply alike for fruit for export and for sale on the home market. The inspectors will begin their duties at once, and while at first they will be occupied primarily in giving information regarding the act and its enforcement, they will also take action in any cases of evident fraud.

Mr. Thomas Russell, one of the largest fruit importers of Glasgow, also had an interview with the inspectors on Saturday, and told them the conditions under which the fruit trade was handled in Scotland. He pointed out that most of the fruit from Canada was handled in an honest manner, and Canadian fruit had the highest reputation there for both quality and packing. Some few men, however, sent inferior fruit over, to the injury of the trade.

Killed by a Train.
Delhi, Sept. 9.—Yesterday afternoon a young man named Newell of Cornell was struck by the fast Horse Special on the M.C.R. at Hawtrey and died twenty minutes afterwards. He had been working on the extra line and was to have quit work last night. As the train approached the gang quit work to let it pass, and when the train was about 100 feet from the crossing Newell was on the track, and before he could gain step forward the train struck him.

SIX VESSELS BEACHED.
One of the roughest nights on Lake Huron was Saturday.

Port Huron, Mich., Sept. 9.—After one of the roughest nights ever known on Lake Huron, made worse by a heavy fall of smoke that overhung the water, six vessels are wrecked on the beach, three miles north of here. The crews of four of them were rescued by the life-saving crew, during the night, thirty-eight all told, and the crews of the other two are still on their vessels, but in no danger. Several other crafts were in grave danger during the night, but were extricated yesterday morning. The wrecked crafts are the Watnam and consort, whaleback 102; Pauley and consort, Ameranth; barque Paige and tug Sarina. In the smoke and gale their masters lost their bearings.

Sea Girl Shooting.
Sea Girt, Sept. 9.—The serious condition of President McKinley prompted the association to abandon the sailing trip yesterday and banquet on Monday night in honor of the Irish and Canadian teams.

Eight of the best riflemen of Ireland defeated a picked team of Americans Friday on the Sea Girt rifle range and won the challenge cup offered by the New Jersey State Rifle Association. The Americans were beaten by 62 points.

Women at the Pella.
Christiana, Sept. 7.—Women are entering the campaign for the coming municipal elections, at which they hope to obtain an extended franchise and eligibility to sit in local bodies. As all the candidates are men, the women will put up a ticket, and conduct an active fight for it. It is believed to be the first time that the women of this country have united against the men's ticket.

VOLUNTARY REFORMS

China Grants and Guarantees Them by Signing Protocol.

END OF A YEAR'S NEGOTIATIONS

Ministers of the Powers as well as the Plenipotentiaries of China Sign the Document—The Sincere Tribute, Which Was a Sink of Corruption, Abolished—Examinations That Have Been Abrogated.

Peking, Sept. 7.—(8 p. m.)—The protocol was signed to-day by the Ministers and Chinese plenipotentiaries. This is the result of one year of negotiations. China has agreed to make two voluntary reforms. The first one is the recent abolition of the rice tribute, which for a long time has been a sink of corruption. The second, in regard to a reform in the system of examinations, has just been authorized by an Imperial edict. This edict, which approved the preliminary edict and delayed the signature of the protocol, was approved yesterday. It annulled the old system of essays, which are changed to the western style of answers to questions, in place of the traditional essay in eight divisions. The old order of military examinations is also abolished. The latter action is the most significant reform of all, and shows that the new Board of State, which is charged with the reorganization and reform of the Government, will not act until the return of the Court of Peking and the functions of the Chinese plenipotentiaries cease. The negotiations will now have to deal with the new Chinese Foreign Office, which has taken the place of the old Tsung li Yamen. Prince Ching, the present of this, and Chu Tsung Chi, one of the two Ministers now here, Wang Wen Shao and the other Minister are at Singanfu.

According to the highest foreign authority this institution, which was created by the protocol, will be less capable of working reforms than the old Tsung li Yamen, unless the spirit of reform dominates the court. The literati members being barred, the other members may be incapable. The members of the Tsung li Yamen were specialists, and, being members of the various boards, were conversant with all the affairs of the Government.

BOAT TRAVEL ON SUNDAY.
Dominion Executive of the Lord's Day Alliance Will Appeal to the Dominion Government to Prohibit It.

President McKinley visited the Pan-American on Thursday and inspected the Canadian exhibit. Charles V. Parke, merchant, of Wiarion, has been appointed sheriff of Bruce County in succession to the late F. S. O'Connor.

The Dominion Executive of the Ontario Lord's Day Alliance will appeal to the Dominion Government to prohibit Sunday travel by boats. It was Pan-American Day at the Toronto Industrial Fair on Thursday. At the directors' luncheon Hon. James Stratton spoke at some length.

William Wheldon of 228 Corsol street, Ste. Cuneo, Montreal, was killed at 1 o'clock Thursday as a result of a fall from the third story of his residence to the sidewalk, almost thirty feet.

CHEN NOT A TUGGIST.
His Diplomatic Mission Is at an End—Scant Attention Paid.

Berlin, Sept. 6.—Prince Chun and his suite arrived here yesterday from Potsdam and were conducted by Gen. Von Hoepfer to apartments in the Thiergarten. The envoys were accorded no reception, except by the members of the Chinese legation. Prince Chun and the new Chinese Minister, Kien Chang, were formally presented to the Empress yesterday. This ends all official recognition of Prince Chun's presence in Berlin. Hereafter he will be merely a distinguished tourist.

The German newspapers are, by desire of the Government, it is understood, paying scant attention to the presence of the Chinese mission in Germany. Most of the papers discussed yesterday's audience with a prefatory paragraph. Prince Chun's further stay here will probably be brief.

A Willy Scheme.
Peking, Sept. 5.—Li Hung Chang to-night notified the Foreign Ministers that the Imperial edicts provided for the signing of the peace protocol had arrived. This announcement, made immediately after the settlement of the difficulties which Prince Chun experienced before going to Berlin, confirms the impression here that the Chinese used the protocol to induce Emperor William to waive the kowtow ceremony.

Reception Was Chilly.

Tokio, Sept. 5.—No Japanese officials to-day met the Chinese mission of expiation for the murder of Sugiyama Akira, chancellor of the Japanese legation in Peking, prior to the "Boxer" uprising, on its arrival at Tokio. The members of the mission hunted up a hotel, where they established themselves.

Aged Farmer Killed.

Stratford, Ont., Sept. 6.—While John Latimer, aged 67, a farmer living in the city, was building a load of oats Wednesday evening the front of the wagon, both wheels passed over his chest, nearly cutting him in two. He was taken to the hospital, where he succumbed to his injuries at 3 o'clock yesterday morning.

RULED OUT OF ORDER

Mr. Joseph Gibson Makes His Presence Felt in Old London.

REV. DR. POTTS LIKEWISE SPEAKS

The Latter's Patriotic Reply Was in Answer to Sir Charles Skelton's Assertion That "It Is Let Loose in South Africa"—Archbishop's Letter to Conference Could Not Be Read.

London, Sept. 6.—The Ecumenical Methodist conference yesterday unanimously declined to hear the secretary read the message of the Archbishop of Canterbury, in which he expressed a hope that some day the Methodists would be united with the Episcopalians and on similar import the message of the Bishop of London, on the ground that they had been addressed to the editor of a religious newspaper and not to the conference.

The Rev. I. Bowman Stephenson of England, in moving that the messages should not be received, said that the conference would not have had cause to complain had the prelates been approached in a proper manner.

The proceedings were interrupted by an ardent pro-English speech, delivered by the Rev. Joseph Gibson of Ingersoll, Canada, who defended the action of the British in South Africa.

Frequent interruption arose from the English delegates, one of whom finally declared that if Mr. Gibson proceeded he would have to be answered in a controversial strain, as he was voicing sentiments by no means shared by many present, whereupon the chairman ruled Mr. Gibson out of order.

Rev. J. P. Coucher of Baltimore, Md., read a paper on "The Present Position of Methodism in the Western Section."

Rev. J. D. Hammond of Nashville, Tenn., reported on Methodism in the South, and Rev. W. Johnson of Belleville reported for Canada.

Discussing the present position of Methodism, Rev. T. E. Dukes of King William's Town, Cape Colony, went into the relations between the South African natives and the Europeans. He said he believed the war would purify the administration of the natives.

Bishop Hartzel, missionary bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Africa, said that the present time was the beginning of another Empire of Anglo-Saxon civilization. The war was merely an incident.

Dr. Leonard of New York thanked God for what Great Britain was doing in South Africa, and expressed the hope that the war would soon end, with the Union Jack floating.

Another incident which attracted comment was a declaration of Sir Charles Skelton, formerly mayor of Sheffield, who, in welcoming the Americans, severely criticized the war in South Africa, exclaiming: "Hell is let loose in South Africa!"

He appealed to the visitors to go back and, by preaching and example, make such wars impossible. Dr. Potts of Toronto, replying in behalf of Canada, protested, in a heated patriotic speech, against the statements made by Sir Charles Skelton.

GR IN COMING EAST.

First Two Days Saw 210,000 Bushels Handled by C.P.R.—Sir Wm. C. Van Horne Says 100,000,000 Bushels.

Montreal, Sept. 6.—Advices received by Mr. G. M. Bosworth, freight traffic manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, show that the movement of this year's wheat crop has already commenced. On the 2nd there was marketed 22,000 bushels, and on the 3rd 120,950 bushels, which is over twice as much as the quantity marketed during the month of September last year. The actual cars on the 2nd were 49, and on the 3rd 77.

New York, Sept. 6.—The Herald prints the following: Sir William C. Van Horne, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Canadian Pacific Railway, estimates Wednesday that the grain crop in the Canadian Northwest would reach a total of 100,000,000 bushels. "This is a bumper crop," said Sir William, "and will allow the farmers a surplus for export trade."

More Harvesters Needed.

Winnipeg, Sept. 6.—The local Agricultural Department is being besieged with inquiries from farmers throughout the Province for help in the harvest fields, where good men in stacking and threshing can command $1.50 to $3 per day.

Forty farm laborers arrived from England yesterday. They state that in England the newspapers advertised for 20,000 farm laborers for Canada to assist with the harvest and that the wages would be 10 shillings per day for several months' work. They were disappointed to find that from $30 to $40 per month was all that was offered for harvesters, but all accepted engagements in various parts of the Province. Eighteen new engines have reached the C. P. R. western division from Richmond, Va., and Montreal, and 18 more are expected within the next week or two. These will be engaged in the extra work of hauling the big crop to the Port William elevator, where there are now 270 engines on the western division of the C. P. R.

Sale of Sheepskins.

London, Sept. 7.—A sale of sheepskins was held here yesterday, and will be continued to-day. There are 3,850 bales, and 192,470 skins offered. The attendance was large. The quality of the stock was fairly satisfactory, and there was unlimited demand. Merinos sold at 7 1/2 per cent. and cross-breeds 5 per cent. Long woolled grades were 4d. to 4 1/2d. and short woolled a farthing to 4d. dearer.

THE ROYAL SALUTES

Cannon Will Thunder in Welcome to the Duke of York.

TIME WHEN THEY WILL BE FIRED

Hours and Dates at Which the Reviews at Quebec, Toronto and Halifax Will Take Place—A Detachment of 400 Men From North American Squadron Will Be at Quebec and Halifax.

Ottawa, Sept. 6.—When the Ophir will be the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York arrives at Quebec on the 16th instant a Royal salute of 21 guns will thunder out from the fleet and from the batteries at the Citadel. On the official landing of the Royal visitors the salute will be repeated. There will also be similar salutes when the Duke and Duchess leave for the review and return, and on their departure for Montreal. At Montreal, Ottawa, Winnipeg, Vancouver, Toronto, Hamilton, Kingston, St. John and Halifax Royal salutes will be fired when their Royal Highnesses arrive at and depart from the respective cities. In Toronto and Halifax guns will boom the same as at Quebec when the Royal party pass to and from the review grounds. The Quebec review will take place at 7 1/2 a. m. on the 17th instant, the Toronto review at 11 a. m. on October 11th, and the Halifax review at 3 p. m. on October 19th. A detachment of 400 men from the North American squadron will participate in the reviews at Quebec and Halifax.

Warships in Royal Salute.

At Montreal, Quebec, Vancouver and Halifax warships will join the garrison batteries in the Royal salute. In the other cities visited the salute will be fired by the local batteries. His Excellency Lord Minto will receive a salute of nineteen guns at every place he visits. The Governor-General will travel in his own train, which will precede the Royal train by half an hour. This is the following procedure adopted in Australia: During the Royal stay in Montreal the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York will occupy the mansion of Lord Strathcona. The residence of Mr. James Allan has been placed at His Excellency's disposal. Both houses are on Dorchester street. While the Duke and Duchess are in Montreal two British warships will be moored in the harbor.

The Royal Procession.

The following will be the order of the Royal procession wherever formed: Three mounted police, interval of 25 yards, two troopers, one sergeant, interval of 50 yards, one staff officer, No. 1 troop escort, interval of 50 yards, carriages of Royal suite, headquarters staff, Canadian militia, interval of 50 yards.

Royal Carriage.

Lieut. Duke of Roxburghe, officer second in command of escort, Capt. Viscount Crichton, escort trumpeter; No. 3 troop escort, interval of 50 yards, No. 4 troop escort, interval of 50 yards, one sergeant, interval of 25 yards, three mounted police.

Rear-guard escort—One Sergeant, interval of 50 yards, two troopers; interval of 25 yards, three mounted police. The guard of honor will consist of a field officer or captain, two subalterns and 100 rank and file, with the King's color on occasions of review, and the band of the regiment.

Ophir Heads for Quebec

St. Vincent, Cape Verde Islands, Sept. 6.—The Royal yacht Ophir, with the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York on board, escorted by the British cruisers Diadem and Niobe, sailed for Quebec yesterday.

ACCIDENT AT BRIDGEN.

One Has Terminated Fatally and the Other May.

Bridgen, Sept. 6.—An accident resulting fatally to George Branton of Wallaceburg occurred half a mile west of here on the Fourth line, at Bear Creek hill, Wednesday afternoon, by his horse turning suddenly when driving down the hill, throwing Mr. Branton out down the embankment, and breaking his right shoulder. Dr. Fisher was in attendance soon after the accident and the injured man was brought to the Queen's Hotel here, where everything was done to relieve his suffering. He did not regain consciousness and died during the night.

During the afternoon Mr. Branton was driving through Main street with Hiram Hales in the buggy, and when near the corner at the Commercial Hotel, the horse turned down Jane street, while going very fast and overturned the rig, throwing both men out. The doctors found that Mr. Hales' skull was fractured, and he is seriously injured about the shoulders. At present writing his condition is considered very serious, but not fatal.

Close Down or Move.

Ottawa, Sept. 6.—Mr. J. R. Booth, speaking to a press representative yesterday about his summons to the Police Court for throwing sawdust into the Ottawa River, said he would be fined and would keep on paying the fine as long as he could, and the mill would close down or be moved.

Damaged by Storm.

Montreal, Sept. 9.—A terrible storm of wind and rain burst down Saturday evening upon Lake St. Louis, and the whole north shore was raked fore and aft, making almost a complete wreck of the St. Lawrence Yacht Club's fleet. A good deal of damage was also done on the south shore, but fortunately no fatalities are reported.

Nova Scotia Elections.

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 9.—Hon. A. McMillan and C. P. Osholeman will again be the Liberal candidates in Antigonish at the local elections.

Compare the Lindsay stores of ten or fifteen years ago with the stores of to-day. You will find that the old stores which were not advertised (if they exist at all) are no bigger or busier than they used to be, while the stores which were well advertised have had to be enlarged to accommodate their increasing business. Even young firms have started and outstripped the old ones by sheer force of advertising.

The Canada Life Assurance Co.

A Business Proposition.

We offer you a better investment than Government Bonds.

Better for three reasons.

1st.—Canada Life 5 per cent. Gold Bonds yield a much higher rate of interest than Government Bonds.

2nd.—They are paid for by instalments—thus placed within the reach of men without capital.

3rd.—They are insured. That is, should the investor die after paying only one instalment on his bonds, all his future payments to the Company would be immediately cancelled and the benefits of his investment would at once become available.

Add to all these advantages the very material one that the investor shares in the surplus earnings of this leading Company, and you have an opportunity for safe and profitable investment rarely equalled. A handsome booklet, giving a full explanation, will be sent on request.

Rev. H. Garbutt, of Fenelon Falls, exchanged pulpits with Rev. G. Robinson, of the Methodist church. He is a clever speaker and one of the rising young men of the day.

Considerable excitement prevails over the shooting of Pres. McKinley. We learn that some of those here who attended the Pan-American were at the President's reception, and shook hands with him just a few minutes prior to the affair.

FENELON FALLS.
(From Our Own Correspondent.)
H. H. there. One of the very best combined or grandest things being done in suspense at Munro, Victoria and High Parks, Toronto, and drew more people than ever before, will give their entertainment on the fair grounds at Lindsay during the Exhibition on Sept. 26th, 27th and 28th.

Mr. Percy Knox and Miss Knox entertained their friends on Monday by giving them a sail on the Dauntless to Bobcaygeon.

Eller H. only performed the ordinance of baptism on Sunday in the river near the railroad bridge. About 200 people gathered to see the ordinance performed in the proper mode, as on a tool by the latter day saints. One of the subjects for baptism was a man, and if a person can judge from looks, she regarded the whole affair as a huge joke. Eller H.'s success here so far has been of small dimensions, if he regards the tearing asunder the belief of other christian denominations as the road to success, he will find himself badly mistaken.

Work at the Standard Chemical Company's plant here goes steadily on, and in the course of three weeks they will be running at double the capacity lately used.

SANDRINGHAM-ELDON.
(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Come away with us to the Lindsay Exhibition on the 26th, 27th and 28th. Harry Rich is to be there. See Canada's foremost comedian in a series of very funny and amusing songs and sketches.

On the evening of the 4th inst., at the residence of John Torry, there occurred one of those pleasing events which sends a thrill of pleasure through young and old hearts, when his second eldest daughter, Miss Catherine A., was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Kenneth Ferguson, of "The Glen," North Manvers. Long before the hour appointed the majority of the invited guests had congregated on the lawn in front of the parlor, where the interesting ceremony was to be performed, all anxious to get a glimpse of the bride elect, who was highly esteemed by all in the community. At 4.30 the marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. N. A. McDonald, of Manse Grove, Eldon, who appears to be quite an expert at tying such knots. The bride was given away by her father, and was charmingly dressed in a color broadcloth suit, trimmed with pearl trimmings and chiffon. Her sister, Miss Mary, was bridesmaid, and looked handsome in white silk, trimmed with white ribbon and pearl trimmings. Little Miss Ruth Walker acted as maid of honor and looked sweet in white organdy. The groom was assisted through the trying ordeal, by his brother, Angus Ferguson. The wedding march was delightfully played by Miss Minnie McRae. The bride and bridesmaids each carried a bouquet of white asters, and the parlor was handsomely decorated with ferns and white asters. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful gold bracelet.

Seldom, if ever, have we seen such an array of costly and useful presents as the bride received, which shows plainly the high esteem in which she was held. After congratulations extended to the happy couple, all repaired to the tables, which were fairly groaning with all the delicacies of the season. Soon afterwards the sweet strains of the violin were heard and the light fantastic was tripped till the "wee sma' hours ayeont the twal." Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson left by the morning train for Toronto, where they intended to take in the exhibition, from there to journey to Niagara Falls and Buffalo to visit the Pan-American.

We wish the young couple long life, health and prosperity. Your reporter would naturally come to the conclusion, when he took an observation of the many young ladies and gentlemen who sat down to the tables, that there is a rich harvest in store for the Rev. Mr. McDonald in the near future.

We hear they are offering larger and better prizes for all stock at the Lindsay Fair this year. We may expect to see a very fine display in all classes.

LITTLE BRITAIN.
(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Come to Lindsay Fair with us to see the three year old speeding—a new feature. Nothing like bringing in young blood. Sept. 26th, 27th and 28th.

For bicycle repairing and bicycle supplies, go to Isaac McKee. He is a practical mechanic and can guarantee a first-class job. Bells, engines and fenders repaired promptly at reasonable prices. ISAAC MCKEE, Little Britain, Ontario.

Mrs. Perry and child, of Lindsay, were visiting at Mr. J. Trick's last week.

Let us go to the Lindsay Central. The Blissett children, the youngest and cleverest national dancers in the Dominion, winners of many prizes, are one of the special attractions at the fair.

Mrs. R. S. Robertson and daughters have arrived from Buffalo, where they were attending the Pan-American.

Mrs. R. Elker and Miss Stella Evans, who are guests of Mr. E. Z. Yerex on Friday, Sept. 6th.

We are glad to note that a new doctor has arrived, although he is very young yet. There is full time for him to grow.

Mrs. W. Glenny has presented her husband with a fine boy.

Miss Lily Hodgson, of Sunderland, was a guest of Mr. E. Z. Yerex on Sept. 4th.

Mr. R. Greenaway is improving his fine dwelling house greatly by erecting a new verandah and fence in front.

Mr. J. Blewett has painted his fence, which makes it more attractive.

We are glad to see the genial physician of Mr. D. Yerex in the mill again after his severe attack of typhoid fever.

Mr. A. Delle, one of our former ministers, has come back again for a visit, bringing his bride. We all heartily wish him much joy on his success.

A gang of ten men are seen driving away and coming back to the mill every night and morning. They are engaged in putting up a new telephone line, called the metallic system which enables the parties speaking to hear much more distinctly. We are glad we have got this improvement because it will be a great deal more satisfactory.

Mr. Leslie Hall, Mr. Sam Hall, Mr. Wes. Henderson, Mr. H. Henderson, Mr. F. Netherton and Mr. C. Netherton were over to Buffalo last week taking in the Pan-American. They say it is something grand and worth while going to.

On Sunday and Monday, Sept. 8 and 9, the E. L. C. Endeavor had a reunion. On Sunday morning Mr. Crows, of Toronto, gave us a splendid sermon, everybody being delighted with it. He also preached in the evening; the church was crowded, there being six hundred or over present, and no one went away without feeling that they had been benefited by his sermon. On Monday evening Mr. Down from Wilfrid, delivered a fine lecture on the Model League, after which Mr. Clarke, of Woodville, gave us a short talk, both of which were well received. The proceeds from collection on Sunday and Monday both were $27.50.

Mr. T. Bullivant, sr., has moved into the village.

Mr. Handcock is erecting a new dwelling.

The harvest home of the Christian church, which was held on Saturday evening, Sept. 7th, was very satisfactory, there being a large crowd and all enjoyed themselves greatly.

Mr. T. Broad, sr., has purchased the fine dwelling of Mrs. Whitside, and we hope to see him moving in soon.

Master Milton Yerex, who has been sick lately with typhoid fever, is out again.

MOTHERS..

Read What Gough Can Do for Your Boys in the Clothing Line

Spare yourself the labor of making up your boy's clothing, or making over for the little kids the old clothes that the bigger boys have worn. COUCH has made a mighty slash in prices of Boys' Suits. Actually you can purchase them this week at prices that won't pay you to bother making them at home.

COUCH'S Boys' Section is one of the busy departments of this great clothing store. When one considers the great variety of styles always kept on hand, and the matchless cheap prices, no wonder that parents make COUCH'S their headquarters for Boys' Clothing. We have said several times that this store sells as many Boys' Suits as all the other stores in Lindsay. The assertion is not quite accurate; to be nearer the truth we should have said "more than all the other stores in Lindsay." Why is this so? Come in, look at the Suits and compare the prices—your question will answer itself.

FATHERS! MOTHERS! GUARDIANS!

All who are preparing to send their Boys back again to School—Come and See these Neat and Durable Suits in the Latest New Styles.

BRUNSWICK AND PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND.
We hear that the directors of the Lindsay Central have erected an elegant and new poultry house 100 feet long, so there will be a fine display of birds at the Fair on Sept. 26th, 27th and 28th.

ELDON STATION.
(From Our Own Correspondent.)
The barn on the Mitchell farm was burned with its contents on Friday last at noon. The farm is run by Mr. M. McDonald. No insurance; loss about $1,000.

A garden party will be held at Eldon Station on Tuesday, Sept. 17th under the auspices of the Ladies' Foreign Missionary Society. A good time is expected. Come one, come all and enjoy the goodness of the Eldon Station ladies.

Mr. John McArthur, of this place, met with a very sad accident a short time ago, while working with Mr. A. Campbell's horses. One of them kicked him and he received injuries about the head.

BLACKWATER.
(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Lyons and Young are getting repairs done to the platform in front of their grain warehouse, and all will be in good order for this season's trade in two or three days.

Mr. Williams has leased his grain warehouse to Hogg & Lyle, of Oakwood, for this season.

Dr. and Mrs. C. Nelson Johnson and their two daughters, who had been spending a few days holidaying at the old homestead, returned to their home in Chicago this week. We are glad to know they are all looking better for the holidays.

Miss E. Richardson, of New York, spent a few days here, the guest of Mrs. Chant.

WOODVILLE.
(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Arno, the Contortionist, who performs feats which have mystified the medical profession in Canada and the United States, will perform at the Lindsay Fair on the 26th, 27th and 28th Sept.

The sick among our citizens are all improving and likely to be out again soon, with the exception of Mrs. McClunon, who is still confined to her room and very ill.

Misses Eliza and Mary Cameron visited with friends at Eden, Thorah, for some days and also went with the Public School excursion to Barrie.

Rev. J. McD. Duncan, Mrs. Duncan and Miss Reid returned from Bayville, Muskoka, on Friday last.

Nearly three thousand dollars was paid out here within the past week by Allan & Co., of Picton, to the farmers in this vicinity for peas especially grown for this company.

Mr. Kenneth Ure's team ran away from the residence of Mr. Beecroft on Monday, coming to the village at 2.40 rate, and in turning a corner on John-st. came to a stop suddenly with little damage.

EASTERN CANADA

As Seen by Members of the Ontario Press Association.

DELIGHTFUL TRIP THROUGH THE MARITIME PROVINCES.

Over 2,000 Miles by Rail and Steamer—The Grand Service afforded by the Intercolonial, the People's Railway.

On the 15th of August Mr. G. H. Wilson publisher of The Post joined a party composed of the leading journalists of the province, to take a trip through the Maritime Provinces in order to better acquaint themselves with the resources and possibilities of the eastern part of our great Dominion. The first stage of the journey was commenced by boarding the 10.40 train for Port Hope, where close connection for Montreal was made with the now famous train, the International Limited, on the main line of the G.T.R., which makes the run between Toronto and Montreal in six hours, that formerly took twelve. This train is composed entirely of vestibule cars, of the most modern construction. The train is made up of most elegantly furnished Pullman day coaches, several first-class cars, which are very little less elegant than the Pullmans, and a baggage car. Although the train necessarily runs at times faster than a mile a minute, no discomfort was experienced owing to the perfect condition of the roadbed. We left Port Hope at 1 o'clock and were landed in Montreal at 7 o'clock in time for supper and without that wearied feeling which usually accompanies a railroad journey of that length.

The morning of Thursday was taken up in preparing for the eastern journey, and the secretary of the Association, Mr. Law, and his assistants, were indeed very busy men. 12.30 on Thursday was the hour named for the departure. About 90 members of the Press Association, with their ladies, were early on hand. The party were welcomed by many of Montreal's newspaper men, Mr. Bill General Passenger Agent of the G.T.R., and many leading men of the city. The greater part of the distance to be covered by the excursion was the service of the Dominion government's only road, the Intercolonial Railway, to the kindness and generosity of whose officials is due the credit of giving the Ontario Press Association one of the finest trips ever enjoyed by that organization. We Westerners had been led to believe that the Intercolonial Railway was only a very despicable arrangement concerning where party lacks could be rewarded with remuneration positions for the rest of their lives, and the large annual deficit formerly attached to its operation was always very blithely explained away by the government. This halcyon dream has been rapidly dispelled since the advent of the present government to power, and the road has made such financial progress that the government have felt warranted in placing it in a first-class condition, equipping it with the best rolling stock and giving it the very best train service possible.

At Montreal the train placed at our disposal for the journey was said by railroad men to be the finest equipped passenger train that had ever been drawn out of that city. It was composed of four combination Pullman sleepers, just from the shops, built on the most modern plans and fitted with all the latest conveniences to make the life of the traveler a very comfortable one. A first-class dining car, with a chef and assistants, was a most inviting feature of the train. A baggage car and a Colonist sleeper for the emigrants were also provided, and the private car of Mr. The Traffic Manager, was attached. A start was made at 1.30 on Thursday, Aug. 15th, and we began to realize that we were fairly on the move when a splendidly official announcement that lunch was being served in the dining car, may be sure that it was not necessary to repeat the invitation. The dining car service, by the way, has only been established on the road about three years, but is now the pride of the officers. It starts in connection with the Maritime Express, which is said to be one of the very finest trains in every respect on the continent. One can but marvel at the variety and high quality of the meals served on these cars, and the large patronage bears evidence of the popularity of the service. The car is beautifully finished in mahogany inlaid with light r woods. The ceilings are of green and gold in the Empire style and the floors are covered with Wilton rugs. Movable leather-covered chairs, with plenty of room, are very desirable feature. A handsome mahogany sideboard with mirrors, cut glass and silver, adds very much to the appearance of each car. Mr. L. B. Archibald is superintendent of the sleeping and dining car service and evidently is a gentleman who knows his business, as both departments are as near perfection it is possible to have them. A feature of the I.C.R. system that recommends itself to the traveler is the almost entire absence of dust. The train flies along at the rate of from 45 to 60 miles an hour, yet even with the windows up there is no dust to annoy the tourist. This is accounted for by the fact that the gravel used over the whole system consists of seashore gravel, principally (Continued on page 7.)

LOCAL NEWS-LETTERS

JANETVILLE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.) Mr. Hollis McGill, a farmer residing near Valcartier, lost a valuable horse last week as the result of an accident. He was driving to Lindsay, and when approaching the bridge over the marsh a mile east of this village, one of the front legs of this animal went through a hole, and he was thrown. The leg was broken in two places. Mr. McGill, of Lindsay, was quickly summoned, but when he saw the nature of the fracture he advised the owner to kill the beast. Mr. McGill feels his loss very keenly, as he refused an offer of $150 a few days previous to the accident. It was one of the prettiest and best drivers in this part of the country. We understand Mr. McGill will come on the township for damages.

BOLSOVER.

(From Our Own Correspondent.) The Endeavor Society was well attended last Sabbath evening. The topic was taken up by Miss Sue Toller, and there was a lively response from the members.

It is a shame for the parents of an enlightened community, such as this, to stand by and witness their children—mere babies—staggering through a course of instruction in the use of strong drink.

Mr. and Mrs. McLean, of Woodville, were the guests of Mrs. D. McLean on Sunday last.

Our new school, which is almost completed, is adding quite a beauty to our town. We must congratulate Mr. Hurren on his splendid mechanical work.

The home of Mrs. D. McLean was completely taken by surprise on Monday evening, when a number of the young people met to tender their thanks and appreciation to Miss S. L. McLean for her useful services in the community. One of the guests, the Presbyterian church, was also present with a well-filled purse. The address was read by Mr. McDougall, and was signed by Sue McGilivray, Maggie McFadden, Bella Miller, Maud Hurren, Rev. Mr. Smith, pastor of the church, and a number of thanks on behalf of the congregation. Miss McLean made a suitable reply to both addresses.

FENELON FALLS.

(From Our Own Correspondent.) Hello there! One of the very best combination troupes that has held audiences in suspense at Munro, Victoria and High Parks, Toronto, and drew more people than ever before, will give their entertainment on the Fair grounds at Lindsay during the Exhibition on Sept. 26th, 27th and 28th.

Rev. Prof. Farmer, of McMaster University, occupied the pulpit in the Baptist church at Fenelon Falls on Sunday last. The afternoon service was devoted to the exposition of the Book of Revelations, and it is seldom that people have a chance to listen to so clever and concise a sermon as that given by the gentleman referred to. It seems to be master to his subject and his illustrations are beautiful, while his voice and clear-cut sentences are of such a character that he carries his audience with him from start to finish. On Monday evening the Professor and resident ministers addressed a crowded house of the Baptist church. The Baptist people are to be congratulated on the great success attending their undertaking.

What is the matter with the Fenelon Show? We have not seen any announcement yet as to when it is to be held. In other places have a long and arduous program, but have Fenelon in the list and have Peter Declare do the sailor's hornpipe to the music of Goose-quill Jack?

It is quite true that since the creation people have held different opinions and the same state of affairs have existed until the millennium. We find those differences of opinion, all the minor affairs of the country as well as in religion, science, medical, municipal and political jurisprudence; still, we have arrived at an age when we have learned to respect each other's opinions, and we agree to disagree. Two respectable citizens of Lindsay were of the opinion last week that they knew the best road to go from Goderich to Kincardine, but here again we find a difference of opinion—the residents of that romantic country think that the gentleman in question do not know the road worth a cent. The man who was supposed to know the road drove off along the Goderich year endowment side-line, and after passing over dale and hill, landed at Haliburton, where he and his companions found themselves no nearer Kincardine than when they started. But it is all right, for the difference is only a difference of opinion.

Last week's issue of the Watchman-Warder contained an account of a boating party from here on the 9th inst., by Steamer Daintless, in which the misanthropic excursionists were severely criticized for what was solemnly alleged to have been improper conduct at Strugan Point. According to the statement of the boating party, the report is quite unfair and should not have been made. The report says that

Arms and the Woman.

By HAROLD MacGRATH.

"Will her keep perfectly quiet if I take the handkerchief from his mouth?" he asked. I nodded, bewildered.

"What in tophet does this mean?" I asked. I did not say tophet, but it looks better in writing.

"It means nothing and everything," was the answer. "In the first place, her will fight no duel. The man with whom you were to fight was sent on an errand to this out of the way place as a punishment for his duelling at the capital. I know him by reputation. He is a brawler, but a fair swordsman. He would have you as I would a chicken. There is another who has a prior claim on him. If there is anything left of Herr Lieutenant at the end of the fray, you are welcome to it; yes, there will be a duel, but you will not be one of the principals. It is all arranged."

"But I do not understand," I cried. "It is not necessary that you should."

He laughed and rubbed his hands in pleasurable anticipation. "There is a young man down stairs who arrived a few moments before the lieutenant. He has a special affair. There were words. Herr Lieutenant is mad enough to fight a whole company."

"Then why in heaven's name am I up here in this condition?" I cried. "Let me go and be the young man's second, though I can't for the life of me see where he has come from so suddenly and I might say opportunely. Come, out me loose."

"It is too late."

"Too late?"

"Yes, Herr Lieutenant has been informed that you ran away."

"Run away!" I roared. "You told him that I ran away? Curse your insolence! I'll break every bone in your body for this!" I cried, straining at the ropes.

"The ropes are new," said he. "You'll hurt yourself."

"You told him that I ran away?"

This was too much.

"Yes. Ah, but you will be surprised. The duel will last five minutes. Herr Lieutenant will thrust. The thrust will be parried. He will feint; useless. Thrust on thrust, parry on parry. Consternation will take the place of confidence. He will grow nervous. He will try all his little tricks, and they will fail. Then his eyes will roll and his breath come in gasps. Suddenly he thinks he sees an opening. He lunges. Ah, the fool, it is all over!" The old man's voice quivered with excitement. He had passed his time in the barracks and had seen many a sword skirmish.

"Well, are you going to take off these ropes?"

"No. You would break every bone in my body."

I groaned in exasperation.

"You will soon be out of breath."

Oh, could I have but loosened those cords!

"Stahlberg, who left the service a year ago, will act in the capacity of second." Stahlberg was at the head of the vineyard. "I shall watch the affair from the window here. The scene of action will take place in the clearing beyond. It will be an affair worth witnessing."

"And where is Gretchen?"

"Where she should be—at the bar, a dutiful barmaid." Then I heard nothing but the deep cacklings of the innkeeper. There was something in the affair which appealed to his humor. I could not see it. For ten minutes my vocabulary was strictly unprintable.

"Will you kindly tell me what the meaning of all this is?"

"Herr Winthrop, the idyl has come to an end. The epic now begins."

CHAPTER XIII.

The golden summer moon was far up now, and the yellow light of it came in to the window and illumined the grim face of the innkeeper, throwing a grotesque shadow of him on to the floor. The leaves rustled and purred against the eaves. As the branches moved so did the light and darkness move over the innkeeper's visage. He was silent and meditative.

"An epic?" I said.

"An epic."

"Innkeeper," said I, "if I give you my word of honor not to molest you or leave this room will you let me be a witness?"

He passed into the gloom, then back into the light. "This is no trick?" suspiciously. "I have a deal of regard for my old bones, old as they are."

"On my honor."

"Well, I'll do it. It is in the blood of us all. But a false move on your part, and I promise you that this knife shall find a resting place in you."

He cut the ropes, and I was free. But my arms ached. The two of us took our stand by the window and waited for the principals in the drama about to be enacted in the clearing.

I confess that my conscience was ill at ease. Why I knew not. I was dreading something. I knew not what. The innkeeper's hand trembled on my arm.

"Sh! They come," he whispered.

As I looked beyond his finger I saw four figures advance over the sward. One of them, a slight boyish form, was new to me. The fellow walked briskly along at the side of Stahlberg, who was built on the plan of Hercules.

When they came to the clearing, they stopped. The seconds went through the usual formalities of testing the temper of the swords. Somehow I could not keep my eyes off the youngster who was going to do battle with the veteran, and I could not help wondering where in the world he had come from and why in the world he had chosen this place to settle his dispute in. There were plenty of conveniences.

places in the village in and around the barracks. He took his position, back to me, so I could not tell what he was like. The moon shone squarely in the lieutenant's face, upon which was an expression of contempt mingled with confidence. My heart thumped, for I had never seen a duel before.

"I do not know where you came from," I heard the lieutenant say, "but you managed nicely to pick a quarrel. It is all on your own head. It is too bad that cur of an Englishman had to run away."

The innkeeper's knife was so close that I could feel the point of it against my ribs. So I gave up the wild idea of yelling from the window that I hadn't run away. The lieutenant's opponent shrugged. He placed himself on guard. That was his reply. Suddenly the two sprang forward, and the clash of swords followed. I could not keep track of the weapons, but I could see that the younger was holding his own amazingly well. Neither was touched the first bout.

"Two minutes," murmured the old rascal at my side. "It will be over this time."

"You seem to have a good deal of confidence in your man," said I.

"There is not a finer swordsman in the kingdom, or on the continent for that matter. There, they are at it again!"

Step by step the lieutenant gave ground. The clashing had stopped. It was needlike work now. Gradually they began to turn around. The blades flashed in the moonlight like heat lightning. My pulse attained itself to every stroke. I heard a laugh. It was full of scorn. The laugh—it recalled to me a laugh I had heard before. Evidently the younger was playing with the veteran. I became fascinated. And while the innkeeper and I watched a curious thing happened. Something seemed to be slipping from the younger's head. He tried to put up his free hand, but the lieutenant was making furious passes. A flood of something dimly yellow suddenly fell about the lad's shoulders. Oh, then I knew! With a snarl of rage I took the innkeeper by the throat and hurled him, knife and all, to the floor, dashed from the room, thence to the stairs, down which I leaped four at a time. Quick as I was, I was too late. The lieutenant's sword lay on the grass, and he was clapping his shoulder, with the sweat of agony on his brow.

"A woman!" he groaned. "A woman!" Then he tottered and fell in the arms of his subordinate. He had fainted.

"This will make a pretty story!" cried the young officer as he laid his superior lengthwise and tried to stanch the flow of blood. "Here's a man who runs away and lets a woman—God knows what sort—fight his duels for him, the cur!"

I never looked at him, but went straight to Gretchen. Stahlberg gave me a questioning glance and made a move as though to step between.

"Stand aside, man!" I snapped. "Gretchen, you have dishonored me."

"It were better than to bury you," I lightly. "I assure you he caused me no little exertion."

Yet her voice shook, and she shuddered as she cast aside the sword.

"You have made a laughing stock of me. I am a man and can fight my own battles," I said sternly. "My God, breaking down suddenly, 'supposing you had been killed!'"

"It was not possible. And the man insulted me, not you. A woman? Very well. I can defend myself against everything but calumny. Have I made a laughing stock of you? It is nothing to me. It would not have altered my"—She was very white, and she stroked her forehead.

"It would not have altered my determination to take the sword in hand again."

She put her hand to her throat as though something there had tightened. "Ah, I am a woman, for I believe that I am about to faint. No!" Imperiously as I threw out my arms to catch her. "I can reach the door alone without assistance."

"How dare you, Gretchen, dear Gretchen!" I said. "I dare because I love you! I love you! What is it to me that you have dishonored me in the eyes of men? Nothing. I love you. Are you a barmaid? I care not. Are you a conspirator? I know not. Are you a spy? I know not. I love you. I know but are there. I love you. I shall always love you. Shall I tell you more? Gretchen, you love me!"

"No, no, it cannot be!" she sobbed, pushing me back. "I am the most wretched woman in the world. Do not follow me, herr. Leave me; I beg you to leave me. I have need of the little strength left. Leave me, leave me!"

And she passed through the doorway into the darkness beyond. I did not move from where I stood. I grew afraid that it was a dream and that if I moved it would vanish. I could not feel her lithe, warm body palpitating in my arms. My lips still tingled and burned with the dame of hers. An exultant wave swept over me. She loved me! She had not told me so, but I knew. She had put her heart before mine. My life was dearer to her than her own. I could have laughed for joy. She loved me! My love overwhelmed my shame, engulfed it. Then—

"I know you," said a harsh voice at my elbow. It startled me, and I wheeled swiftly. It was the lieutenant's brother officer. "I thought from what I heard of you that you were a man worth trouble and caution. Ach, you, the man we have scoured the country for? I should not have believed it. To let a woman fight for him! And she—she is more than a woman—she is a goddess!" with enthusiasm. "If I was betrothed to her, I'd find her if I had to hunt in heaven and hell for her. And what does she see in you?" He snapped his fingers derisively. "I warn you that your race is run. You cannot leave a railway station within the radius of a hundred miles. The best thing you can do is to swim the river and stop in the middle. The prince is at the village, and he shall know. Woe to you, you meddler!"

"Young man," said a voice from over my shoulder from the doorway, "you should by right address those impertinent remarks to me. I am Hillars, the man you seek."

And I had forgotten his very existence! What did he know? What had he seen?

"You may inform Count von Walden," continued Dan, "that I shall await his advent with the greatest of impatience. Now let me add that you are treating this gentleman with much injustice. I'll stake my life on his courage. The Princess Hildegard is alone responsible for what has just happened."

"The Princess Hildegard?" I cried. Hillars went on: "Why she did this is none of your business or mine. Why she substituted herself concerns her and this gentleman only. Now go, and be haughty to you and your prince and your count and your whole stupid country. Come, Jack!"

The fellow looked first at me, then at Dan.

"I apologize," he said to Dan, "for mistaking this man for you." He clicked his heels, swung around and marched off.

"Come," said Dan.

I dumbly followed him up to my room. He struck a match and lit the candle.

"Got any tobacco?" he asked, taking out a black pipe. "I have not had a good smoke in a week. I want to smoke awhile before I talk."

I now knew that he had been a witness to all or at least to the larger part of it.

"There is some tobacco on the table," I said humbly. I felt that I had wronged him in some manner, though unintentionally. "The Princess Hildegard?" I murmured.

"The very person," said Hillars. He lit his pipe and sat on the edge of the bed. He puffed and puffed, and I thought he never would begin. Presently he said, "And you never suspected who she was?"

"On my word of honor, I did not," Dan said, I, staring at the faded designs in the carpet. The golden galleon had gone down, and naught but a few bubbles told where she had once so proudly ridden the waters of the sea. The Princess Hildegard! The dream was gone. Castles, castles!

"I am glad you did not know," said Dan, "because I have always believed in your friendship. Yet it is something we cannot help, this loving a woman. Why, a man will lay down his life for his friend, but he will rob him of the woman he loves. It is life. You love her, of course."

"Yes," I took out my own pipe now. "But what's the use? She is a princess. Why, I thought her at first a barmaid—a barmaid! Then I thought her to be in some way a lawbreaker, a socialist conspirator. It would be droll if it were not sad. The Princess Hildegard!" I laughed dully. "Dan, old man, let's dig out at once and close the page. We'll talk it over when we are older."

"No; we will face it out. She loves you. Why not? So do I. He got off the bed and came over me and rested his hands on my shoulders. "Jack, my son, next to her I love you better than anything in the world. We have worked together, starved together, smoked and laughed together. There is a bond between us that no human force can separate. The princess, if she cannot marry you, shall not marry the prince. I have a vague idea that it is written. 'The moving finger writes and, having writ, moves on.' We cannot cancel a line of it."

"Dan, you will do nothing rash or reckless?"

"Sit down, my son, sit down. Pre-meditation is neither rashness nor recklessness. Jack, life has begun with you. With me it has come to an end. When there is nothing more to live for, it is time to die. But how? That is the question. A war would be a godsend. But these so-called war lords are a lazy lot or cowardly or both. Had I a regiment, what a death! Jack, do you not know what it is to fight the invisible death? Imagine yourself on the line, with the enemy thundering toward you, sabers flashing in the sunlight and lead singing about your ears. It is the only place in the world to die—on a battlefield. Fear passes away as a cloud from the face of the sun. The enemy is bringing you glory—or death. You must give a good deal for a regiment and a bad moment for our side. But the regiment non est. Still, there is left!"

"Dan, what are you talking about?" I cried.

Death—grim, gaunt and gray death, whose footstep is as noiseless as the fall of snow; death, the silent one, as the Indian calls him."

He knocked the ash from his pipe, and stuffed the brier into his pocket.

"Jack, I am weary of it all. If I cannot die artistically, I wish to die a sudden and awful death. What! Do I look like a man to die in bed, in the inebriates' ward? For surely I shall land there soon! I am going to pieces like a sand house in a windstorm. I suppose I'm talking nonsense. After all, I haven't as much to say as I thought I had. Suppose we turn in? I'm tired. You see, those fellows moved me around today."

"I know you," said a harsh voice at my elbow. It startled me, and I wheeled swiftly. It was the lieutenant's brother officer. THE BEET SUGAR INDUSTRY

POSSIBILITY OF A FACTORY BEING ESTABLISHED IN LINDSAY.

Overtures to that end made by Leasing Capitalists—The Town's Superior Advantages Readily Admitted—The Board of Trade will Push the Negotiations.

The meeting of Board of Trade members and citizens last Thursday evening to discuss the establishment of a beet sugar factory in Lindsay was a large and representative one, and the question was taken hold of in a business-like way.

President J. D. Flavell, in opening, briefly referred to the object of the meeting, after which Secretary Scott read the following letter, which had been referred to the Board by the Town Council, also a paragraph from the Farming World giving some details of the industry:

Mr. N. Hockin, Lindsay, Ont.

Dear Sir,—Our attention has been called to your town as a suitable point for the location of a beet sugar factory by the display of sugar beets made at the exhibition. We have in contemplation the establishment of a factory east of Toronto and would be pleased to know what, if any, inducements your town would hold out for the establishment of such an industry in your town. If anything is done for next year it will have to be closed within the next few days. If you think there is any possibility of accomplishing anything there I would be pleased to have you take the matter up vigorously with your Town Council, and Board of Trade, very early date. I shall be pleased to hear from you with regard to this matter.

Mr. N. Hockin, Lindsay, Ont.

Dear Sir,—I am sending you by mail several sample copies of the Farming World, in which you will find a list of undersigned some items which will give you an idea of some of the advantages that would accrue from the establishment of a factory in your town. I might say that the company has a capitalization of one million dollars, is composed of the most prominent men in the province of Ontario, and anything they undertake will be carried out in the very best possible manner. The factory we propose erecting would cost not less than $400,000 to $750,000. Everything in connection with it would be carried out upon the same scale. It is necessary for the successful operation of such a factory that we secure from 60 to 75 thousand tons of beets of the right quality for sugar purposes. From the samples sent to the exhibition here we are satisfied that the quality can be secured, but the question of quantity is another matter. If we should locate a factory in your town we should expect your Council or Board of Trade to secure for us contracts with the farmers to the extent of at least 5000 acres of beets. The matter is of such magnitude that it would require columns to explain or go into it in detail, but the few items which you have there in this paper will give you a slight idea of the magnitude of the business. Whatever you feel that you can do or are willing to do, set it forth in your proposition to us. Other towns have made handsome propositions both as regards bonus and stock subscriptions. Some of the propositions we could not possibly accept on account of the location and the soil surrounding it. There are a great many things to be taken into consideration in connection with an establishment of this kind, and it might be well if you would appoint a committee to go into the matter pretty thoroughly and meet us here to discuss the matter.

W. M. Robson, Com. Lindsay, Ont.

Dear Sir,—In continuation of our recent conversation, I beg to say that the features especially requisite in the best sugar industry may be briefly stated as follows: 1. The right kind of soil; 2. Farmers prepared to grow the beet root pulp; 3. Transportation facilities both for gathering in the raw beet and distributing the finished product; 4. An abundant supply of water; 5. Cheap fuel; 6. Cheap limestone of the proper quality. These are of course other minor features, but the above are the most essential. As mentioned, I would be glad to know how your locality is situated in these respects, and also what the municipality would be prepared to do in the event of the factory being established at Lindsay.

Speaking of what a factory will do for a town, Prof. Shuttleworth says: "In the first place, with a factory established, you have five hundred tons of beet root pulp, two hundred and fifty wagon loads, coming into the town daily during the season, and for these over $2,000 per day will be paid out. You would require cooping shops with a capacity of 400 beets, six to eight tons of coal, and large quantities of oil would be required for each season's operations."

President Flavell said it was hardly necessary to say that if Lindsay could secure this industry it would be a great thing for the town and district. The grain bestowed upon the beet sugar season proved that our soil can supply the most essential requirement—the raw material required. The next important point is—can we induce our farmers to grow the sugar beet? He believed that it could, as it would be a profitable crop. Then as to our shipping facilities—the G. T. R. would no doubt make every effort to conform with the requirements of our line system of navigation and our line system of navigation would make it easy to collect the raw material of a large portion of the district. Cheap fuel we have, limestone is available in unlimited quantities, and specimens from Bobcaygeon, Rattle, Station and Cobourg were under analysis.

Mr. Thos. Stewart said that if the industry could be secured for Lindsay it would remain a permanent institution as long as our farmers would grow the beet. When Prof. Shuttleworth visited the town earlier in the summer he remarked that the quality of the beets and limestone turned out to be all right.

Lindsay would be a choice location for a factory. He (Stewart) did not know if the Lindsay beets had been tested.

Mr. Stewart, continuing, suggested that a committee should be appointed to visit the capitalists, or that their representative should be invited to Lindsay.

President Flavell: "Does any one know if the farmers who took seed of the crop?"

Mr. Robt. Bryans: "I understand they are of opinion that they could grow them profitably. Of course the land was not properly prepared owing to the short notice, yet the beets shown at Toronto Exhibition were fully as good as those grown under the most favorable conditions. I approve of the appointment of a committee to take prompt action, and the assistance of the County."

Mr. Geo. Lytle, in response to a question from Mr. Flavell, who had grown sugar beets, was satisfied with the experiment—there had been only three failures, caused by defective seed or late planting. He believed that farmers would take portability, and that the quality of the beets would be good. If given an opportunity could also be financed.

Dr. Vrooman, M.P., gave some interesting details of the establishment and growth of the beet sugar industry in Germany, where some of the companies were used in their factories. The Dr. also referred to the discussions in parliament relative to the encouragement of the industry in Canada, and remarked that such factories are now in many countries. Their success is beyond question. Farmers would require special training in the cultivation of the sugar beet, and the promoters of the Lindsay factory would have to send out experts to do this. Unless beets contained a certain percentage of saccharine matter they were no good for sugar purposes. The price of the beets would be $4 or more per ton, and the yield from 15 to 30 tons per acre. It would require a big effort to secure contracts before for 5000 acres of beets; it could be done. If the farmers were made to see that the crop was profitable, they would grow it in preference to growing grain at a low price. Think what it would mean to have a factory using 500 tons of beets per day! The proposition was the best ever broached in Lindsay.

Dr. Herriman referred to the importance of the beet root pulp to the sugar beet along Lake Huron. Immense quantities of beets are shipped to Marine City, Michigan, where there is a huge factory. Eighteen large vessels are kept busy for two months transporting cargo to the city. At this point, speculators are buying up land and going into beet raising for the money to be made in the business—the crop is worth from $60 to $90 per acre. Prof. Shuttleworth had stated that the Michigan beet was worth 15 per cent. of saccharine, while 14 per cent. was considered to be very profitable. A factory built in Lindsay could receive beets by rail and boat from all points within an area of 50 miles. It was important to know that beet root pulp is the waste product—made excellent feed for cattle, one pound of it being equal to a pound of roots. It was claimed that the growing of beets exhausted the soil, but farmers would be able to afford the use of fertilizers. The tops, or green parts, of the beets were ploughed under the waste would be repaired to a great extent.

Mr. H. J. Lytle: "I think the discussion so far has been foreign to the subject—the capitalists ask us what we are willing to do."

President Flavell: "It is necessary to know that we can grow the beets, and to my mind the discussion has been profitable and calculated to help us materially when we meet the members of the County Council."

When we have arrived at a full knowledge of what we have to offer we can meet the capitalists."

Moved by Mr. R. Kennedy, seconded by Mr. Richard Sylvester, that President Flavell, Mayor Ingle, Warden Graham, Alderman W. M. Robson and Mr. N. Hockin be appointed a committee to visit Toronto and to interview certain capitalists relative to the establishment of a beet sugar factory in Lindsay, said committee to report to this board at the next meeting.

The meeting then closed.

THE ASSASSIN'S CONFESSION.

Czolgosz, at First Would Tell Nothing, But Succumbed to Torture.

New York, Sept. 13.—The Herald gives the following special from Buffalo:

It is not denied by the police of Buffalo, N. Y., in a preliminary manner, that Czolgosz has been tortured since his arrest.

The confession, which is now in the hands of District Attorney Penney, was forced from Czolgosz by torture.

When the would-be assassin of the President was first taken before Superintendent Bull he was asked to tell how he had come to make the attack upon President McKinley.

"I will not tell," said Czolgosz.

Superintendent Bull looked at the prisoner, then, turning to the two stalwart guards, who had brought him in, said: "Take him away. It is not known that any sign was given; it is not known that the policemen had any authority for their strenuous actions; but when Czolgosz was again brought before Superintendent Bull he was glad to confess."

"Did we give him the third degree?" One of the policemen who had handled Czolgosz repeated the question.

"I cannot tell you what was done to him, but sufficient was done to persuade him to talk. He thought he was lucky to get away alive, and he was right. Yes, Czolgosz was tortured. He was given a rigorous treatment, and it is probable that he has not told all that he knows. This is a peculiar case, and it demands peculiar treatment. I believe that the public will uphold us in using force to bring the enemies of society to justice."

EMMA GOLDMAN REMANDED.

Endeavored to Get Freedom on Bonds, But Did Not Succeed.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—Magistrate Prindiville yesterday granted a continuance until Sept. 19 in the case of the Anarchist lecturer, Emma Goldman, who was arrested here Tuesday. Chief Prosecutor Owens stated that the prisoner was charged with conspiracy to murder the President, and, therefore, he desired that she be held without bail.

No lawyer appeared to represent her, but, with a determined snap of her teeth, she said she was ready to proceed without counsel. When the court granted the continuance, she said she wanted to be allowed her freedom under bond. The magistrate said that as the latest bulletin indicated that the distinguished patient in Buffalo was on the high road to recovery he would consider the matter of bail further on and would announce his decision at noon.

After Miss Goldman left the court Lawyer Browne called on the prisoner and informed her that he would ask for a writ of habeas corpus. In her behalf during the afternoon, Justice Prindiville, therefore, consented to a further postponement of the bail matter until 5 p.m.

Captain Collier has received a message from Chief Bull of Buffalo, stating that requisition papers for Miss Goldman will be forwarded as soon as possible.

Later the magistrate decided that Emma Goldman should be held without bail, pending the decision of similar cases in the Superior Court.

Buffalo, N. THE RESOLUTION WAS DROPPED.

Labor Men of Winnipeg Declined to Express Sympathy for President.

Winnipeg, Sept. 14.—At a labor meeting last night a delegate suggested a resolution of sympathy with President McKinley.

President Scott said: "In comparison with the general public, we deplore the crime, but there can be no doubt that the present conditions breed Anarchists, and lead to crime and violence. The way to remedy that state of things is not to censure the Legislative assembly, but to improve several conditions. At the same time, though I deplore the attempt upon the President's life, I am not in favor of passing a formal resolution."

The resolution was dropped.

THE ASSASSIN'S CONFESSION.

Czolgosz, at First Would Tell Nothing, But Succumbed to Torture.

New York, Sept. 13.—The Herald gives the following special from Buffalo:

It is not denied by the police of Buffalo, N. Y., in a preliminary manner, that Czolgosz has been tortured since his arrest.

The confession, which is now in the hands of District Attorney Penney, was forced from Czolgosz by torture.

When the would-be assassin of the President was first taken before Superintendent Bull he was asked to tell how he had come to make the attack upon President McKinley.

"I will not tell," said Czolgosz.

Superintendent Bull looked at the prisoner, then, turning to the two stalwart guards, who had brought him in, said: "Take him away. It is not known that any sign was given; it is not known that the policemen had any authority for their strenuous actions; but when Czolgosz was again brought before Superintendent Bull he was glad to confess."

"Did we give him the third degree?" One of the policemen who had handled Czolgosz repeated the question.

"I cannot tell you what was done to him, but sufficient was done to persuade him to talk. He thought he was lucky to get away alive, and he was right. Yes, Czolgosz was tortured. He was given a rigorous treatment, and it is probable that he has not told all that he knows. This is a peculiar case, and it demands peculiar treatment. I believe that the public will uphold us in using force to bring the enemies of society to justice."

EMMA GOLDMAN REMANDED.

Endeavored to Get Freedom on Bonds, But Did Not Succeed.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—Magistrate Prindiville yesterday granted a continuance until Sept. 19 in the case of the Anarchist lecturer, Emma Goldman, who was arrested here Tuesday. Chief Prosecutor Owens stated that the prisoner was charged with conspiracy to murder the President, and, therefore, he desired that she be held without bail.

No lawyer appeared to represent her, but, with a determined snap of her teeth, she said she was ready to proceed without counsel. When the court granted the continuance, she said she wanted to be allowed her freedom under bond. The magistrate said that as the latest bulletin indicated that the distinguished patient in Buffalo was on the high road to recovery he would consider the matter of bail further on and would announce his decision at noon.

After Miss Goldman left the court Lawyer Browne called on the prisoner and informed her that he would ask for a writ of habeas corpus. In her behalf during the afternoon, Justice Prindiville, therefore, consented to a further postponement of the bail matter until 5 p.m.

Twentieth Century Tragedy

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 16.—President Theodore Roosevelt, in taking the oath of office Saturday afternoon, announced that his energies were all to be directed to continuing the policies to which President McKinley was committed, and to continue them as nearly as possible in the way in which he believed President McKinley would have done.

There was a Cabinet meeting immediately after the ceremony of the taking of the oath, after which it was authoritatively announced that President Roosevelt had asked the members of President McKinley's Cabinet to aid him in carrying on President McKinley's work by re-

President Flavell: "Something of the kind will be done later, but now the important thing is to secure the industry."

Ald. Robson: "Will the committee be able to give strong assurances of our ability to fulfill the requirements mentioned in the letter read by the Secretary?"

President Flavell: "I think so; I fancy there isn't a town in Canada that is better qualified."

Mr. H. J. Lytle, referring to our transportation facilities, said that steamers would be able to collect large quantities of the beets at points along the lakes, and would find remunerative employment till late in the season.

The meeting then closed.

REFORM CONVENTION

A Meeting of the Liberals of the West Riding of the County of Victoria will be held in

LINDSAY

—in the—

Academy of Music

SATURDAY, OCT. 5th

at 11 o'clock a.m., for the purpose of selecting a Candidate to contest the Riding in the coming Provincial Election. All Liberals are cordially invited to attend.

SINGLE FARE RATES, good to return on the 7th, can be purchased at any agency of Grand Trunk Railway when single fare to Lindsay does not exceed $2.10

GEO. JOHNSTON, President

The Weekly Post

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, SEPT. 20th, '01.

THE REFORM CONVENTION.

Our Liberal friends should keep before them the date of the Liberal convention at Lindsay Saturday, 5th Oct. The selection of the very strongest candidate to contest the riding in the coming Provincial campaign can only be secured by having a full representation from each subdivision.

If meetings have not already been called in some sub-divisions for the appointment of delegates, our friends should get together at once, the appointments made, and the names sent to the secretary.

Half-fares on the railway have been secured from all points in the riding. Tickets will be good until the Monday night following the convention.

COUNTY GOOD ROADS ACT.

The action of the Provincial government in setting aside a sum of one million dollars to aid municipalities in constructing good roads has met with general approval, but there is a difference of opinion in some counties concerning the provisions governing the administration of the fund. This is attributable in all probability, to the matter not having been sufficiently discussed, and not to any inherent fault in the act itself.

The question of a County system of good roads has been before the people of Victoria for some years, and the offer of government assistance comes at a most opportune time. Under the act the County's share of the million dollar grant would be $25,000, and to secure it the County would have to raise the sum of $51,000. Thus the total sum of $76,000 would be provided for a good roads system, and would have to be expended within 10 years.

The opportunity for the County appears to be a grand one. The broad features of the offer have already been explained to the councils of a number of municipalities by Warden Graham, and a special meeting of the County Council will be held Monday next, Sept. 23rd, at the Court House here, at which Mr. A. W.
Campbell, Provincial Good Roads Instructor, will clearly explain the provisions of the act. It is likely that the representatives of the municipalities will then decide either to accept or reject the proffered aid.

The people of the County should attend in large numbers to hear the discussion and keep an eye on the men who have it in their power to refuse a gift of $25,000.

COME TO THE CENTRAL

Before another issue of The Post reaches our subscribers the Lindsay
Central Fair will be in full swing.
The dates being Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 20th, 21st and 22nd.
If signs do not fail, the opening fair of the new century will be by long odds the most successful of the eight-teen exhibitions already held under the auspices of the South Victoria Agricultural Society. Shrewd, careful and economical management has been the aim of the directors from the outset, and the finances are now so healthy that they have felt warranted in adding largely to the already handsome premium list, while the attractions secured for this year's fair are unique, costly and worth a trip of many miles to witness. The Lindsay Central is the premier agricultural fair of the Midland district, and the people of the County can make it better still by attending in larger numbers. We trust they will make 1901 a record year for the Fair directors.

PASSED THE 7,000 MARK.

It will be remembered that a few days before the lists of the census enumerators for Lindsay were sent on to Ottawa. The Evening Post predicted that the published statement would show that the town had a population slightly exceeding 7-000. The calculation was based on close figuring and a study of the assessor's yearly returns, and while we were not very far astray it was a trifle humiliating to many of our citizens to find that the town was still classed in the 6,000 rank. To be precise, the town was credited with possessing a population of 6-094—close to the mark aimed at,
but still not a bullseye.

It is, therefore, with much pleasure we announce the fact that, as the result of a protest sent in by Mr. E. C. Taylor, to Chief Commissioner Cameron at Ottawa, the lists for Lindsay were carefully revised and compared, and an error was discovered that gives our town
a welcome addition of nine citizens.
They are small as yet, but—like the town—they will grow, and may figure largely in future counts.

Lindsay has increased 15 per cent.
in population since the last census, ten years ago, and during the last few years has gone ahead at a rate never before equaled. Our people believe implicitly in a bright future for the town, and we predict that the next census will give us a city's rating.

THE EMILY VOTERS' LIST
COURT.

The Watchman-Warder in its last issue declares that our account of the proceedings at the court of revision for the voters' lists of the township of Emily was the product of our imagination, and it has the audacity to say that the reform lawyer who attended the court, and the Judge who presided there, confirm this. The Watchman-Warder thereby published what was untrue, and did it most deliberately, knowing it was untrue.

The facts are that George McCar-rell, who is a lad of sixteen years of age, was placed on the assessment roll for the township by the assessor as a manhood franchise voter. The lad is a son of William McCarrell, who lives on lot 22, con. 4, of the township of Emily, and who is a strong conservative. The lad and his father and mother attended the Court at Omemee, and his name was struck off the list, he not being of age.

Afterwards Mr. McCarrell applied for his witness fees, alleging that the assessor had placed the boy on the list against the protest of his boy was only sixteen years old and not to put him down on the list,
but the assessor said it was all right,
and that if the writs didn't notice
it and get him struck off the boy could vote. She protested again, but the name went down all the same. The writs did notice it, and it cost the boy and his father a day's time coming to court. The Judge asked the assessor if this was true, and the assessor admitted that it was. Mr. McCarrell couldn't get his witness fees, as unfortunately there is no provision in the statute to make the assessor pay them.

Now this proceeding, together with the other cases referred to, are those which convince The Post that there was a deliberate attempt made by the assessor to stuff the voters' list of Emily with conservative names.
The language of the assessor to Mrs. McCarrell is sufficient proof of this.

What does the Watchman-Warder mean? It says, "We rejoice at this escape of the conservative party from disgrace," and at the same time it knew beyond all question that it was deliberately lying. The conduct of the town newspaper is worse than that of the assessor.

The party whose manager will insist on the appointment of assessors such as these, and whose local representatives instruct the assessors to place every conservative on the list regardless of age or other qualifications; who say, "Let the grits strike them off if they can,"

and then strive to bolster it all up by sheer delib'ration lying in the part newspaper is disgraced beyond doubt and its representatives and newspaper sunk beneath contempt.

We are authorized by His Honor Judge Harding to state that nothing which he said to the interviewer of the Watchman-Warder could possibly be construed into what was published.

Now it is in order for the Watchman-Warder to write an apology for itself in one column and a screed about the corruption of the Town government in another.

CAPES AND COATS

Perhaps you might travel all over Ontario and not find a store in a town as well supplied with fall and winter wraps as we are.
This season's selection is greater and better than ever. We've the best finished garments that money can buy.

INFANTS', CHILDREN'S, MISSES' AND WOMEN'S COATS

50 plain and mixed Cloth Capes, lined and unlined, plain and fancy checked backs, 40 to 45 inches long,

Oxfords, Black and Navy, Flounce,
Trains, fancy strappings, stitched
Skirts, from $4.00 to $8.00.

THE MEN'S STORE

WEST SIDE

There's a limit under which rightly made clothes cannot be sold. We always go to the limit, but our specialty is not cheapness, but quality. If we could attach a sample lot of the goods in our "Men's Fall $5.00 Tweed Suits" it would clinch the argument. We would like you to see these suits.
All our good suits are made from our own specifications, especially our $8.00 and $10.00 Navy and Black Serges. Our aim is good clothing, not the cheap kind.

FURNISHINGS

(Men's Store)

It has been our aim to have our Neckwear a little better in quality, greater in variety and more select in pattern and style than the average Neckwear shown. Our variety embraces prices from 15 cents each to $1.00. Special English Neckwear at 25c.

HATS AND CAPS

We have all the new fall shapes in stiff and soft goods, correct shapes in all grades. We call your attention to the best $2 hat in Lindsay. Come in and have a peep at them.

LADIES' GLOVES

A chance came our way to buy a large number of Kid Gloves at a big cut. We are now offering these gloves at a very special price.
The low line usually sells for $1.00 but we are going to offer them at 75 cents. The best glove is worth much more than our price, which is $1.00.

Ladies' Colored Kid Gloves
with fancy backs, colored welts and two dome fasteners, regular $1.00 line for 75 cents.

Ladies' Colored Kid Gloves,
"Pique Stitched" self-colored backs and welts, two dome fasteners, a glove worth $1.50 for $1.00.

FURS

SOUTH END

Many days of hard labor were spent to get this collection of furs together. If there's one thing we pride ourselves on, it is in having the best stock of furs in this district. Here's our way of doing a fur business, buy only from reliable makers, and buy only the very first quality of furs, sell them at a moderate price.

We sell furs made from Sable,
Seal, Astrakhan, Persian Lamb, Mink, Otter, Beaver, Skunk, Grey Lamb,
Coon, Hare, Opossum, Baltic Seal, Russian Lamb. We warrant good service from any of these furs. Furs for Children, Women and Men.

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, SEPT. 20th, '01

Kent-St. Sewer Contract

MR. P. G. PILKIE'S TENDER WAS ACCEPTED THURSDAY.

He Agreed to Abandon his Talked of Suit for Damages if Given the Contract and $25.

The Board of Works met Thursday afternoon at 4.30 to award the Kent-st. sewer contract. Mayor Ingle and all members were present, including Ald. Sinclair, whose absence Tuesday led to the decision being deferred.

Ald. Jackson—"I move that Mr.
Pilkie's tender be accepted."

In amendment it was moved by Aldermen Sinclair and O'Reilly that the contract be given to Mr. Pilkie.

Ald. O'Reilly said he supported the amendment because he was in favor of having the work done by a tried man, and also because Mr. P. had promised that if given the contract he would forego his suit for damages in connection with Colborne-st. sewer on receiving a nominal sum to cover his actual outlay. Perhaps $25 would be accepted.

Ald. Jackson—"I don't think that should enter into the matter at all,
in any event, if it is to be considered, the offer should be before us in black and white. However, there is no need to say more."

Mayor Ingle—"I will second it."

Ald. Sinclair—"I think Mr. Pilkie has made a fair offer."

Ald. Jackson—"We are here as trustees for the people, and should accept the lowest offer."

Ald. Sinclair—"Isn't it a fact that a low tender put in last year by Mr. Pilkie was not accepted?"

The statement was disputed, and Mr. Pilkie, on being appealed to, said his tender for the William and Elginst. sewer was $109 lower than the last year.

Ald. Touchburn explained that the cost of the inspector had to be taken into account when that tender was being awarded.

Ald. Hore enquired of Ald. Touch-burn if he had not expressed a strong opinion to the effect that Pilkie would get the contract.

Ald. Touchburn—"Yes, I gave my reasons for thinking so, but that is nothing. I will not submit the matter until Mr. Pilkie has placed his Colborne-st. sewer offer in black and white."

Ald. Robinson—"There is a rumor that White and Pilkie are in partnership."

Ald. O'Reilly—"I am informed that such is not the case."

Ald. Jackson—"I am told that the offer is separate and distinct. I will do what I said this morning.
I'll support the Pilkie contract if he agrees to forego any fancied claim in connection with the Colborne-st.
sewer."

On motion Mr. Pilkie was heard.
He would say, without prejudice,
that he expected pay for the work done by him on Colborne-st. sewer;
his men had put in a half-day's work, and he had to be paid for the unloaded and stored with the certainty of more or less loss by breakages.

Mayor Ingle—"What is the amount of your claim?"

Mr. Pilkie—"I'm willing to jump it at $50 on condition that I am awarded the Kent-st. contract."

It was proposed to send for the Town Solicitor to draw up an agreement to be signed at once, but when it was learned that the town's legal adviser had left his office for the day, Mr. Pilkie promised to attach his signature to the agreement when called upon to do so.

Ald. Sinclair—"Then he's to get $50 in addition to the contract."

Ald. Jackson—"What's that? I understood $25 was the amount, as stated by Ald. O'Reilly."

Ald. Touchburn—"I understood that if we gave him the contract at $34 above Mr. White's offer he would quit it square."

Mr. Pilkie—"I have been at considerable loss, gentlemen, as you all know, but I'm willing to do what's fair."

Finally, at Ald. Sinclair's suggestion, Mr. Pilkie expressed his willingness to accept $25 in settlement of the Colborne-st. sewer claim, and the resolution awarding him the contract was adopted.

Ald. Sinclair—"There is another point to be considered; I was told that that action would likely be taken to block the construction of the sewer this season. What about that?"

Ald. Jackson—"We'll have to take chances. So far as we are concerned, we have fulfilled every requirement; and we have the sanction of the Provincial Board of Health to proceed with the work. I don't anticipate any serious attempt at obstruction."

Mr. Pilkie—"Ten weeks is rather short time in which to lay the sewer.
If the gas company hire local men they may give me trouble, as laborers would prefer to work in shallow ditches."

Ald. Jackson—"There will be no trouble about the time limit if you push the work as you have done in the past. With good weather you may be able to finish on time; if conditions are not favorable you will not find us hard taskmasters."

The committee then adjourned.

BY BROTHER ODDFELLOWS

Was the Body of the Late John Hagerman Conveyed to the Grave at Port Hope.

Port Hope Guide, Wednesday: The funeral of the late John Hagerman, engine driver on the Midland Blackwater and Midland City, who was drowned at the latter place on Sunday last, took place to-day from the residence of his brother, Alderman Hagerman, King-st., and was under the auspices of Peterboro Lodge, No.
111, Independent Order of Oddfellows, of which deceased was a member.

The following brethren from Peterboro came to pay their last respects to the departed: L. W. Walker, secretary; J. Kidd, R. Mulligan, Joe Mitchell, L. McIntosh, G. Garlick, T.
Hooper, W. Adamson, A. McIntosh,
W. Battisley, from Lindsay; J. Mc-Mahon and S. E. Laidlaw, from Midland; Wm. Dudley, F. Preston, Wm.
McWaters and J. Hurst. A large number of the local brethren were also in attendance. Service at the residence and cemetery was conducted by the Rev. E. G. Dymond, rector of St. Mark's church. The officials of Peterboro Lodge conducted the burial service of the Order at the grave.

In addition to his sorrowing widow
the deceased leaves one daughter, (married), and three brothers,
Moore, Thomas R. Christopher and Robert, all residents of Port Hope.
The family have the sincerest sympathy in their sudden and sad bereavement.

The following gentlemen acted as paid bearers: S. Laidlaw, L. Mc-Intosh, Lindsay; Fred Preston, Wm.
Dudley, Midland; A. McIntosh, J.
Kidd, Peterboro.

Wants Better Writing.

The Kingston News urges the necessity of teaching writing more effectively in the schools. The Toronto World, in speaking of it, says:
Probably the News has had the same experience as other newspapers with illegible manuscript and speaks feelingly. "The time may come when type-writing will be taught in the public schools and then the trouble will be had spelling, which will be more difficult to overcome than bad writing. Phonetic spelling may be adopted, and then the musical capacity of the pupil will be taxed to get the right sounds. This life always was and always will be full of trial and worry anyway."

Pains in the Joints.

may be muscular or rheumatic. The joints are hard to get at, and it requires a powerful, penetrating remedy to reach the affected parts. Poi-son's Nervine exactly meets the requirements, for it is both powerful and penetrating. The pain is explained as if by magic, for one drop of Nervine equals in strength five drops of other remedies. You won't often call the doctor if Nervine is in the house. Price 25c.

Hay Fever.

The Editor of an Independent says:
Several persons are at present availing themselves of the freedom from the distracting complaint, hayfever, which exists on our Lakes. It is generally conceded that the cause of this affliction is the pollen of the ragweed or ambrosia, which fills the air wherever the weed flourishes and being inhaled sets up an irritation and inflammation of the bronchial tubes, in severe cases affecting the lungs. The height of this locality, 600 feet above Lake Ontario, and 300 feet above Georgian Bay together with the absence of ragweed, accounts for its immunity from the fever.

The Renewal of a Strain.

Vacation is over. Again the school bell rings at morning and at noon, again with tens of thousands the hardest kind of work has begun, the renewal of which is a mental and physical strain to all except the most rugged. The little girl that a few days ago had roses in her cheeks, and the little boy who lips were then so red you would have insisted that they had been "kissed by strawberries" have already lost something of the appearance of health. Now is a time when many children should be given a tonic, which may avert much serious trouble, and we know of no other so highly to be recommended as Hood's Sarsaparilla, which strengthens the nerves, per-fects digestion and assimilation, and aids mental development by building up the whole system.

The Picture of Health.

THE CONFIDENCE WAS NOT MISPLACED.

The Story of Lena Sinkler's Completion of a Cheerful, Light-hearted Girl.

Mrs. Hiram Sinkler, the wife of a respected farmer in South Pelham township, Welland county, Ont., says:
"It is with great pleasure that I give this tribute to the health-restoring virtues of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. When my daughter, Lena, (now thirteen years of age) began the use of your medicine, a little over a year ago, she was in a most wretched condition. In fact, we were seriously alarmed lest she might not recover. The first symptoms were a feeling of languor and weakness, gradually growing worse. She became pale, lost flesh, had little or no appetite and was apparently going into a decline. Finally, the trouble became complicated with a persistent sore throat, which gave her difficulty in swallowing. I gave her several advertised medicines, but they did not benefit her. Then she was placed under the care of a doctor, who said her blood was poor and watery, and her whole system badly run down. The doctor's treatment did not help her any, and then acting on the advice of a neighbor, I began to give her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The confidence which this medicine was urged upon us was not misplaced, as I soon noticed a distinct improvement in my daughter's condition. The use of the pills for a few weeks longer seemed to completely restore her, and from that time she has been a cheerful, light-hearted girl, the very picture of health. I will always recommend Dr.
Williams' Pink Pills to other sufferers, feeling that they will prove just as efficacious as they did in my daughter's case."

Mothers with growing daughters will make no mistake if they insist upon the occasional use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills; they will help them to develop properly; will make their blood rich and pure, and thus ward off disease and decline. The genuine pills are sold only in boxes bearing the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" on the wrapper around each box. None other is genuine, no matter what some selfinterested dealer may say. If in doubt send direct to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and the pills will be mailed postpaid at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50.

Fair Warning.

The Shamrocks would like to play
the final game for the junior championship of Lindsay with the Buffalo's. If this challenge is not accepted the Shamrocks will claim the championship.

Struck a Cow.

Last Friday evening, after leaving the station here, the express train for Port Hope struck a cow that had wandered onto the track at Sioux-st. Fortunately the speed was not great and the animal was pushed along the rails until the train could be brought to a standstill. Passengers gazed at the steep embankment a little further on and shuddered.

He Saved the President.

Since the shooting of President Mc-Kinley the police have been making constant efforts to locate the negro who was the first to seize hold of the assassin, their object being to bestow a handsome reward. Rev. J.
H. Hector, "the Black Knight" of his name, he lectured in Belleville the other evening, and told the story as follows: "I was standing behind Czolgosz," said Rev. Mr. Hector, "waiting to get a chance to shake hands with the President. I saw the assassin when the shots were fired, after the second shot I seized hold of Czolgosz by the neck and threw him to the ground."

County Road System.

Toronto Globe, Wednesday: The campaign in favor of good roads is being taken up actively by several of the County Councils of the province.
Mr. A. W. Campbell, Good Roads Instructor, will spend the next day or two in Wentworth county, assisting in the selection of a system of county highways under the recent ad-act, which the council favors. On the 24th Mr. Campbell will meet a convention at Shelburne of the county and municipal representatives of Dufferin County, and on the 24th a similar gathering from Victoria County at Lindsay. Several other councils have appointed special committees, who are now looking into the subject.

Remarkable Discovery for Bron- chitis.

Bronchitis, the precursor of Consumption, is no longer a formidable malady, because its distress and danger are now speedily averted by the dry air treatment which has so quickly won the support of medical men throughout the world. It is the only successful method of treatment, and that is why Catarrhoxone has received the endorsement of doctors everywhere. Catarrhoxone relieves congestion, promotes easy expectoration, cures the cough, and removes every vestige of the disease, speedily effecting a permanent cure. Never fails; always cures. At all dealers, 25c. and $1.00.

Built Altars for New Church.

Mr. M. H. McGeough, contractor, shipped Wednesday the fine altars which he built for the new Roman Catholic church at Vroomantown, Ont. The altars are three in number, and are fine specimens of workmanship. The main altar stands 17 feet 6 inches high, with a gothic top; the other two will stand on either side and are about 12 feet in height. The three are painted white, the ornaments being gilded.
The pillars which form the lower part are marbled and present a very fine appearance. The new church is a beautiful edifice, and is now in the course of completion. It will be opened on the 10th. The congregation and Rev. Fr. Cline, the popular pastor, are to be congratulated on the success of their efforts. Mr.
McGeough will leave in a couple of days for Vroomantown to place the altars in position.

STURGEON POINT JOTTINGS.

Interesting Notes from Lindsay's Popular Summer Resort.

Last Monday night the friends of Miss Petron Adam very much enjoyed a "musical" given for her friend, Miss Edith Mason, of Toronto, who had been spending a few days at the Point. Miss Mason is an exceedingly talented pianist and during the evening she played several classical selections which showed admirably the varied merits of her execution. A perfect technique, a delicacy and brilliancy of touch and true artistic sympathy are all combined in Miss Mason's playing. Mrs.
Hopkins, Miss Teresa Macdonald and Mr. Bayley interspersed the program with vocal numbers which were, as usual, most enjoyable. It is only to be regretted that Miss Mason's most attractive presentation from enjoying the too rare treat of listening to so finished a performer.

Saturday's Markets.

The market was very well attended and there were large quantities of butter, poultry and eggs offered for sale. Following were the quotations: Chickens, 40c to 50c per pair; eggs, 12c to 13c per doz.; butter, 20c to 21c per lb.; cream, 15c per lb.; milk, 5c per bunch; hay, $5.00 to $6.00 per ton.

An Anniversary.

Just 47 years ago on Sept.
14th, 1854, our old friends Col. Deacon and Sergt-Major Martin, first set foot on the shore of the Crimen and entered upon a campaign in which harsh and exposure proved far more deadly than the weapons of the brave and tireless enemy. Sebastopol was captured on Sept. 8th of the following year.

Injured her Foot.

Miss May Goodwin, who so bravely rescued Miss Pearl McGimsey from drowning at Sturgeon Point on Saturday last, has been laid up ever since with a sore foot. In jumping into the lake to the aid of the Chicago girl her toe was injured by coming in contact with some foreign substance. By Monday morning her foot had become badly swollen, and a couple of days later medical attendance was required, as there were indications of blood poisoning. Her many friends will be pleased to know that the dangerous symptoms are now passing away.

A Good Drink.

Now that the grape season is at hand the following recipe may interest our housekeepers: Take twenty pounds of Concord grapes, pick carefully from the stems and add three quarts of water, crush the grapes with a masher, and put the juice into a porcelain kettle. When nearly at a boiling point, strain with a colander, using a little more hot water, and then through a jelly
bag. Return the juice to the kettle, add four pounds granulated sugar, let sugar melt slowly, then bring the mixture nearly to the boiling point, remove and scum. Bottle while hot in clean jars. It must be kept dark. When using the wine add a little hot or cold water.

Hymeneal.

Friends in Lindsay and vicinity will be interested in the following, taken from the "On Dit" column in Friday's Mail and Empire: The marriage of Miss Georgia May Ellison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ellison, to the Rev. Alexander P. Kennedy, took place at Niagara-on-the-Lake, Wednesday. The Rev. J. B. Kennedy, B.
A., of Toronto, a brother of the groom, performed the ceremony. He was assisted by the Rev. W. Harris Wallace, of St. Thomas, a cousin of the bride. Miss Emma Kennedy, of Lindsay, was bridesmaid, and Mr.
Gage Greenwood, of Toronto, best man.

Sporting Notes.

The C.L.A. Intermediate semifinal match played in Port Hope on Friday resulted in favor of Port Hope over Beaverton by 5 goals to 4. It was one of the hardest fought battles that have been seen in Port Hope for a number of years. Each team played a good combination game, making a very pretty and exciting match for the spectators to watch. The games were as follows:
First quarter—Beaverton, in 13 mins.
Port Hope, 1 min. Second quarter—Port Hope, 10 mins.; Beaverton, 16 1-4 mins. Third quarter—
Port Hope, 5 1-2 mins.; Beaverton,
8 mins.; Port Hope, 3 mins.; Beaverton, 11 1-2 mins. Fourth quarter—Port Hope, in 8 mins.
The play in Beaverton next week

The Golf Colts Won.

Peterboro Review: Friday was an ideal day for golfing and the Lindsay visitors who came over to give the Peterboro Golf Colts a match, were more than delighted with the afternoon's sport, although the Colts proved too tricky for them to the extent of being 25 holes up at the finish. The visitors, who were strong, were dined at the Oriental and then driven out to the golf links, when, after enjoying a cigar, the match began, being finished in time for a few refreshments being served before the visitors left to catch the 5.40 train for home. The score was as follows:

HEALTHY BABIES.

Watchful Mothers Can Keep Their Babies Healthy, Rosy-cheeked and Happy.

Nothing in the world is such a comfort and joy as a healthy, hurdy rosy-cheeked, happy baby.
Babies can be kept in perfect health only by having at hand and administering when needed some purely vegetable, harmless remedy, and of all this class of medicines Baby's Own Tablets are conceded to be the best.

For constipation, colic, diarrhoea, simple fevers, soar stomachs, teething babies, indigestion and sleeplessness, these tablets are a wonderful cure. You can give them to the smallest baby without the slightest fear. Dissolved in water, they will be taken readily. They contain absolutely not a particle of opiate or other injurious drugs. They are small, sweet lozenges which any baby will take without objection, and their action is prompt and pleasant.
They will tone up the whole system, make the little one as hearty and free from infantile disorders as any mother could wish.

Mrs. Walter Brown, Milby, Que., says: "I have never seen any medicine for baby that did him so much good as Baby's Own Tablets. I would not be without them." This is the verdict of all mothers who have used these tablets.

They cost 25 cents a box. All druggists sell them, or they may be secured by sending the price direct and the tablets will be forwarded post paid. The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co.

Boathouse Burned.

About 1.30 this afternoon a boathouse owned by Mr. Alex. Brennan, of the east ward, and situated north of Dovey Bros' shingle mill, was seen to be on fire. An alarm was turned out and the brigade turned out, but in the interval the flimsy structure was destroyed, along with the contents—two canoes, tents and other camping accessories. No insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated from a spark thrown by a passing tug.

There is more Chills in this section of the country than at other places on the lake. In the last few years we have had to be inoculated. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Chills to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Chills Cure manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 to 20 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They have been found to be of great value in any case it fails to cure.

Part of Thumb Amputated.

Mr. Wm. Walsh, of the west part of the south ward, who is one of the staff of G.T.R. bridge carpenters for this division, met with a painful mishap at Port Hope yesterday. A new bridge is being placed in position there, and it was necessary for the men to work on the Sabbath in order that traffic might not be interfered with. While a heavy beam was being moved it fell on his left thumb, mangleing it so badly that it was found necessary to amputate it at the first joint. Mr. Walsh returned home this morning.

ally pebbles. This makes a perfect road bed and tends to lengthen the life of the sleepers.

Until a few years ago the I.C.R. was seriously handicapped in consequence of having no connection with the metropolis of Canada, but the present Minister of Railways and Canals, Hon. A. G. Blair, with his usual sagacity foresaw the necessity of extending the line to Montreal, and consequently arranged for and carried into effect the purchase of the Drummond County Railway, which puts the I.C.R. on a more equal footing with its competitors.

The Intercolonial between Montreal and Quebec passes through an excellent farming country almost entirely occupied by French farmers, whose farms strike the Westerner as being very peculiar, as they are only one field wide and run from one concession line to another. The social advantages claimed by the French, and each road presents the appearance of a continuous village. Cacouna Beach, the far-famed watering place, is situated six miles from River du Loup. Its seaside hotels are kept well-filled by people from Montreal and Quebec, and are also largely patronized by Americans. The sea bathing is said to be excellent at Cacouna. There are a great many cottages owned by the wealthy residents of Montreal and Quebec. There are a number of summer resorts along the St. Lawrence. Five miles from St. Pechal and 85 miles from Quebec is Kamouraska, a village beautifully situated on the river, which has many visitors. The climate is said to be very temperate and the sea water is warm owing to the sheltered position of the beach. At any point on the Lower St. Lawrence the summer climate is all that one could wish.

Shortly after passing Rimouski we entered what is known as the Metapedia Valley—the paradise of the sportsman. Moose are to be found in limited numbers, but are increasing from year to year. Caribou are numerous within a short distance of the railway track, and it only requires an indifferent hunter to secure all the law will permit him to take. The lakes and rivers abound with the finest kind of fish: salmon and speckled trout, the gamiest fish, are in abundance. It is an ideal camping country, as almost all parts are accessible by canoe. At the junction of the Metapedia and Restigouche is where Princess Louise captured a 40-lb salmon. There is a club situated at this point, the members of which are wealthy Americans who enjoy rare sport with the rod and gun.

The Metapedia Valley possesses singular beauty of scenery, and the charm of mountain, valley and winding river appeals to artistic imagination of the traveller. Campbelltown is the first place of importance reached in New Brunswick. It is a town of 4,000 inhabitants and is the end of the railway division. It is situated on the estuary of the Restigouche emptying into the famous Bay de Chaleur, which is worth a long trip to see. The situation is beautiful, as Campbelltown lies at a point on a broad river where it enters a bay that has no rival. The fame of the Restigouche salmon and its fishery is far-reaching. Salmon have been caught in this neighborhood that tipped the scales at more than 50 pounds.

The next objective point is Moncton, N.B., famous for its piecemeal tides, known as the "Bore." The peculiar movement is occasioned by the tide from the Atlantic being forced into the funnel-shaped Bay of Fundy and through the narrow mouth of the Restigouche River, where the water rises from 40 to 60 feet. Vessels are borne in on the waves and moored alongside the docks, and when the tide recedes they are left high and dry many feet from the water, then drags are drawn up alongside of them to recover their cargoes. At Moncton are the head offices of the I.C.R., and also the main workshops. The citizens of Moncton had arranged a luncheon and drive about the city, but owing to the detention of the train they gave up the line the Press party had to push along in order to make connections at Pointe du Chene, where the Steamer Northumberland was waiting to convey them across the Northumberland Strait to Summerside, Prince Edward Island.

There the party were met by Mr. Brennan, editor of The Journal, to whom they were indebted for many kindnesses in looking after their welfare and comfort. Mr. Brennan has one of the best equipped offices to be found east of Halifax, and it, with his other interests, make him a very busy man. At Summerside the party were taken in hand by the Prince Edward Island R. Co. and taken to York, where thence they were given a delightful drive of some fifteen miles to the Cliff house. For miles the road was close to the shore, and it is with out doubt one of the prettiest drives imaginable. The Cliff is a favorite resort for American tourists. A large summer hotel is erected near the beach and is well patronized by people from all over the continent. Mr. Sharpe, the superintendent of the Prince Edward Island Railway, like all other officials of the railroads over which the party travelled, accompanied the excursionists over the island and was most painstaking in his efforts to give the Pressmen a favorable impression of the country and the various places they visited.

The landscapes of Prince Edward Island is particularly attractive. The farms are well fenced and the fields are kept in a state of excellent cultivation. There are to be seen some of the best kept dairy farms to be found in the Dominion. The dairying interests have been receiving special attention from the Islanders the past few years, and they are meeting with remarkable success. Stock-raising is being found most profitable, and they realize that it does not pay to be continually cropping the land without restoring its lost fertility with manure. Sheep and lambs from Prince Edward Island all command the highest prices in the United States market. The breeds of cattle handled are Jerseys, Alderneys and Guernseys, and there are some very fine herds on the island.

Charlottetown, the largest city and capital of the island, has a population of 11,000. It has many fine buildings, which possess a quality that is very noticeable to a Westerner. There are some very fine gardens and public squares, and no city can boast of greener lawns or better kept private gardens. This is mostly due to the moist sea air. The city is not behind in modern roadbuilding, and the citizens evidently realize that money properly laid out in roads is a good investment. Charlottetown has a magnificent harbor almost land-locked. Steamers run great between Charlottetown and Montreal, Sydney and St. John's, Nfld. Twice a week steamers arrive from Boston, and at times during the summer season the hotels are filled with American visitors. The city has an excellent waterworks system, the water being of the very best quality.

We left Charlottetown at 9 a.m. and crossed the Straits of Northumberland to Pictou, Nova Scotia, where we were tendered a hearty welcome by the Mayor and Town Council. This 4,500 and has a first-class population of 12,000. The people of Pictou are looking forward to years of great prosperity, when the advantages of this town as a business centre is properly appreciated. Here we were met by our own I.C.R. train, which had been with us continually since leaving Montreal with the exception of our stay on Pictou Island, and it was almost like going home again. After we had breakfasted at lunch we were soon on our way east, and made stops at Westville, Antigonish and Stellarton, arriving late in the evening at Mulgrave.

Westville is one of the most important centres in Pictou County, N.S., and is the centre of the coal mining industry. One of its mines produces 500,000 tons annually. It is an up-to-date town of 4,500 population.

Antigonish is situated 180 miles from Sydney, and has a population of 2,000. It is quite a pleasant summer resort, as it is situated with a short distance from St. George's Bay. There are in this neighborhood some valuable iron deposits; coal is also found a short distance from this prosperous little town. At Mulgrave we were billed for supper, and one can appreciate the situation when we say we arrived at 5 p.m., ravenously hungry, and found a small hotel capable of seating 20 people, with 100 to feed before the job would be complete. We will not dwell on the anguish of the two hours' wait, but we were all finally fed. We were informed that we had eaten them out of house and home, and although billed for breakfast, the landlord could not fulfill his contract. The dining car conductor and his staff again came to our assistance. A ham was secured, and with a reasonable quantity of bread and coffee, served as the morning repast.

At Mulgrave we took the boat for a trip through the famous Bras d'Or Lakes. Cape Breton is usually spoken of as an island, but it is very similar to our Muskoka Lake region, abounding with beautiful lakes. To describe the beauties of these inland lakes would be a very difficult task. It took our smart steamer from six o'clock a.m. to eight p.m. to make the trip. There is only one small lock on the waterway of 120 miles. The trip is patronized freely by both American and Canadian tourists. Mr. Mason, of The Boston Globe, was met on these waters enjoying the trip; we also passed several pleasure yachts belonging to Americans cruising in these waters.

We arrived at North Sydney in the evening, where we had supper. This town has a population of six thousand people. Close by is the settlement of Sydney Mines, with a population of 3,000; this town has enjoyed in a measure some of the prosperity that has reached Sydney. It is situated about five miles by water from Sydney and seventeen miles by rail. We re-embarked after tea on the fine harbor of North and South Sydney—undoubtedly one of the finest and safest harbors in the world. The trip is patronized by ships from all parts of the world, which find it a convenient coaling station. Tramp steamers, also British, United States and French men-of-war are frequently coaled here, both in winter and summer, as the harbor is always open. There is a fine steamer making regular trips from this port to Newfoundland.

Nearly everybody has heard the story of Sydney's wonderful growth following the location there of the modern plant of the Dominion Iron and Steel company. Two years ago the busy world scarcely knew of the existence of the Cape Breton town, when with a sudden bound Sydney jumped to the front rank of iron-producing centres, and now commands the attention of capitalists and manufacturers of America and Europe.

Two years ago Sydney was a sleepy little town of 3,000 inhabitants. There is now a population of 12,000 or more, a new railway station to accommodate the steadily increasing traffic; there are two daily papers and five or six banks. A new city hall is in course of construction, besides a splendid brick and stone court house and other municipal buildings. Fine streets with paved sidewalks and lined by modern business premises or handsome dwellings have sprung into being. In short, in place of the stagnant Sydney of two years ago, there has arisen a new Sydney, which has already become industrially famous in the old world as well as the new. All this change, a change more sudden and more sweeping than any industrial town or city in Canada has ever before undergone, has been brought about since August, 1899, and is due solely to the installation of the $12,000,000 plant of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company, which when in full operation will be turning out between 300,000 and 400,000 tons of pig iron annually, employing 3,000 to 4,000 skilled mechanics.

We were taken in hand by the Board of Trade and citizens of Sydney, which has already been mentioned, and shown over the extensive plant of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company, and the minutest details of the work were carefully explained by the managers of each department of this wonderful industry. This plant is of such a magnitude that it would take columns of space to properly describe it. The company possess wonderful natural advantages—coal is right at their doors; ore is brought 400 miles by sea from Newfoundland, and can be laid down at the smelter at a cost of 40c. per ton; limestone at the smelter costs only 15c. per ton. This has been fully demonstrated to be the lowest cost of assembling of such materials in the world. It requires no prophet to predict a great future for this vast industry. There are many points of interest which we might describe, but space will not permit.

Just 575,000 cubic feet of Cape Breton sent away in ships, 75,000 cubic feet in cars and 25,000 cubic feet burned at home, is the daily accomplishment of the Dominion Coal Company, Limited, of Glace Bay, Cape Breton.

This 675,000 cubic feet is all coal, and a very good coal indeed, which finds a market in the United States, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland, and for which Europe now appears to be a promising market. To mine this quantity of coal and get it to the pit mouth requires one small army of men; to transport the 13,000 tons daily from the pit mouth to the consumer requires another. Coal is loaded into railway cars at the mines, transported 15 miles to International Pier, Sydney, or 35 miles to Louisburg by rail for transshipment to vessel. To do this it is necessary to load and move 860 railway cars per day.

THE GUEST OF CANADA

Britain's Heir Apparent Arrives at the City of Quebec.

DUKE AND DUCHESS WELCOMED

Royal Yacht Ophir, Escorted by British Warships, Lands Its Royal Passengers Safely at Quebec—The Scene at the Landing—The Royal Salute—The Subsequent Functions—The People Enthusiastic.

Quebec, Sept. 17.—Just 41 years ago, in 1860, the Prince of Wales, now King Edward VII., received a loyal welcome in this ancient City of Quebec. Yesterday, his son, the Duke of Cornwall and York, landed at exactly the same spot where his father first stepped on Canadian soil, and to the son, as to the father, a patriotic people extended a warm and spontaneous welcome. It is the third visit of the Duke to Canada. This time he comes as the heir-apparent to the throne of Great Britain and Ireland, and is, moreover, accompanied by his charming and accomplished wife, and the reception tendered the royal pair was such as must have impressed them.

It was well past 9.30 before the Ophir and her escort were seen slowly turning Point Lévis. Already the Dufferin terrace was lined with people standing three or four deep along the railing or clambering on the chairs and the glacis, the grand battery and every other point of vantage were occupied by throngs of eager spectators. On the north shore a fleet of nearly a dozen tugs had put out to meet her, and they fell into line behind the squadron as it turned Point Lévis.

On each side of the Ophir and a little away astern came H.M.S. Diadem and Niobe, first-class cruisers, and behind them again H.M.S. Indefatigable and Tribune, second-class cruisers. The course steered was a wide circle well over to the Beauport shore, and as they slowly and majestically proceeded up the river, a wonderful idea of strength and determination was given.

As the ships got abreast of the Custom House, the British squadron and the French cruiser ran up flags in rainbow fashion. The marines at the blue jackets forward, manned their decks, and salutes of 21 guns thundered out from them and the Citadel. The Ophir also had her decks manned and carried the Royal Standard on her mainmast, with the American ensign at half mast just below. The great rake of her funnels and spars gave her an appearance of great speed, while the four-funnelled Niobe and Diadem have a most formidable appearance. As the Ophir reached her moorings, a boat from the fleet made her fast, and the Diadem anchored alongside towards the Lévis shore, and the Niobe a little lower down, while the Indefatigable and Tribune took station in line with the Prosperine.

As soon as they were made fast His Excellency the Governor-General and Sir Wilfrid Laurier left the Citadel, escorted by the Duke of York's Hussars, and paid a favored visit to their Royal Highnesses. As they left they were saluted with nineteen guns from the Citadel, and on returning they proceeded to the King's Wharf to be present at the official landing.

Here the most excellent preparations had been made for the reception, and yet the most excellent view of all that happened could be obtained by thousands.

The marine guard was in charge of Major Oxford, R.M.A., and Lieutenant Horne, R.M.L.I., and the blue jackets were commanded by Lieutenant Hon. C. F. Voale of H.M.S. Crescent, the Crescent Band also attended. Major-General O'Grady-Hally and staff were the first to arrive, and soon the Ministers began to arrive. They were Hon. Senator Scott, Patterson, Borden, Mills, Sutherland, Tarte, Fisher, Sir Louis Davies, Dobell, Martin, Bernier, Blair and Fielding. Sir Wilfrid Laurier arrived with Lord Minto, who was attended by Capt. Graham, A.D.C., and Capt. Bell, A.D.C., and was saluted with the National Anthem. As Vice-Admiral Redford landed from the fleet the guards again came to attention, and every man saluted as the band and bugle played the Admiral's salute.

The first of the royal party to arrive were the ladies-in-waiting and the aides.

The Cabinet ministers moved down to the landing stage, and, in a few minutes, the strains of "God Save the King," from over the water, and the striking of the Royal Standard upon the opposite promenade met their Royal Highnesses had left the ship. As they crossed the intervening strip of water in a steam launch, once more a salute of 21 guns boomed out from the ships and the Citadel. As they reached the wharf, the troops came to the royal salute, and everyone stood at attention as the National Anthem was played.

His Royal Highness was wearing the full uniform of an admiral of the navy, and the blue ribbon of the Garter and the stars of his other orders.

The Duchess was clad entirely in black. After the guard of honor had been inspected, and the Cabinet ministers and officers had been introduced, a move was made up the wharf to where the carriages and escort were waiting.

The regiment to which the honorable duty of guarding their Royal Highnesses has been allotted is the Queen's Own Canadian Hussars of Quebec, commanded by Lieut.-Col. Turner, V. C., D. S. O. They are well mounted, and, with their smart uniforms and well-set-up men, present an appearance that would do credit to regulars.

H. R. H. THE DUKE OF CORNWALL.

At the Parliament Buildings a most striking scene was presented. In front was erected a semi-circular stand, from which 3,000 school children sang the National Anthem. The 8th Royal Rifles of Quebec formed the guard of honor at the door of the Parliament Buildings, and received the royal couple with a salute and "God Save the King."

The Governor-General and Sir Wilfrid Laurier had preceded the royal party from the wharf, escorted by the Duke of York's Hussars, and, after meeting them at the Parliament Buildings, His Excellency went on to receive them at the Citadel.

The royal procession entered the Council Chamber, headed by Black Rod (Mr. Hatt) and the Lieutenant-Governor and Mayor Parent. Then followed the royal suite, and last of all, the Duke and Duchess. Their Royal Highnesses ascended the steps of the dais, slightly bowed to the gathering, and took up their station standing before the thrones. The ladies-in-waiting took their places in the background, one on each side of the dais, and almost the only color in the whole scene was afforded by the officers in uniform, who stood in a semi-circle round the thrones.

His Royal Highness the Duke then read his reply. He spoke in a clear, pleasant voice, which could be easily heard all over the House. His manner was easy and natural, and he gave a most pleasant impression of sincerity and straightforwardness.

With His Royal Highness's reply, the formal part of the proceedings came to a close. Sir Wilfrid Laurier presented the four bishops, Hon. R. Turner, Mayor Guay of Chicoutimi, Lady Laurier, Miss Jette and a few others to the Duke.

Addresses were also accepted from the Society of Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, Mayor of Chicoutimi and the Lorette Indians, who were not read or replied to.

The Indian address was brought by two chiefs and a squaw. The chiefs wore great plumes of feathers on their heads, blanket coats, with wampum ornaments, and silvery bands all over the House. His manner was easy and natural, and he gave a most pleasant impression of sincerity and straightforwardness.

At 4 o'clock a visit was paid to Laval University, and their Royal Highnesses drove there under the escort of the Queen's Own Canadian Hussars.

Looking Forward to the Exhibition graciously pleased to accept it, and a splendid bouquet of York roses was presented to Her Royal Highness by one of the pupils of the Seminary. His Royal Highness then read with great clearness of enunciation and much expression a suitable reply.

Rector Mattheu then presented to the Duke A. Marquand of the Three Rivers Seminary, who had won the Prince of Wales' prize for philosophy and by J. Nadreau of College of Lévis, who had gained the like prize for rhetoric. His Royal Highness shook hands with them and gave them their awards. After the faculty had been presented to His Royal Highness by the rector the royal party withdrew. They were escorted back to the Citadel by the Queen's Own Canadian Hussars, and met with a most enthusiastic reception en route.

H. R. H. THE DUCHESS OF CORNWALL.

In the evening the state dinner was held at the Citadel. The band of H. M. S. Crescent played during the evening. The toast of the King, the only one proposed, was enthusiastically honored.

CANADA'S SYMPATHY WELCOMED.

Secretary of State Replies to Lord Minto's Telegram of Condolence.

Quebec, Sept. 17.—Lord Minto has received the following telegram from Secretary of State Hay:

Washington, D.C., Sept. 16. In the name of the Government and people of this country I beg to make earnest acknowledgment of your message. The sympathy shown by Canada in our great bereavement has been most gratefully welcome.

(Signed) John Hay.

The Hot Weather.

Now that it is all over, residents of Ontario will be proud to know that they have endured the hottest July since 1868. This is what the weather man announces, and he conveys the further information that the average temperature for month, 78, is exactly the same as in 1887, and 6 degrees above the average temperature for July since the observatory was established. The people who lived in Ontario in 1868 had to endure two degrees more, the average temperature that year being 75.

Ontario Fruit Lands.

The limit of the fruit area in Ontario has not nearly been reached, according to Prof. Macoun of the Geological Survey, who has returned from western Ontario, where he has been for the past four months examining the flora of the land along the shores of Lakes Erie and Huron. His work extended from Niagara to the northern extremity of Huron Peninsula. When the landowners of this district go in for fruit culture, Prof. Macoun says they will raise great quantities of the finest fruit in the world, and the importance of Ontario as a fruit-growing district will greatly increase.

THE PEOPLES' SHOE STORE

NEW FALL AND WINTER STOCK

We bought direct from the manufacturer and aimed to secure the best they produced this season, and we scored a point or two more than we expected. By the use of cash we got the lowest prices and our customers get the benefit.

In our Rubber Department we have the Stub and Snag Proof Heavy Gum Rubbers; also the cheaper lines. In Light Rubbers and Over-shoes we handle the World Renown Granby Rubbers. The word GRANBY speaks for itself. Ask for them. In Lined and Felt Goods our assortment is large.

Our Boys and Girls School Shoes are Models of Style and Durability. Best we ever had for the money. We will not say anything about our Fine Line of Men's, Women's and Children's Shoes. They will speak for themselves.

We invite you to call, when at Central Exhibition, or any time, and examine our Shoes and prices.

10 per cent. discount off all Trunks, Valises, etc., during Central Fair week.

FINLAY & CHANTLER,

The Peoples' Shoe Store, Blackwell's Block, Near the Market. N.B.—Bargains in all lines during Central Exhibition week. Parcels checked free.

MONEY IN ASHES

People are beginning to find that there's money in Ashes these days if they sell to my agent. That's because I've shed room for three or four carloads, and haven't to ship every few days, but can wait till the dealer hunts me up. That's why I can afford to pay such good prices. Drop me a card and my buyer will call on you.

Wood's Phospholine is sold in Lindsay by all responsible druggists.

Just as Good!

Perhaps! Don't you run the risk though, but always buy the well-tested and sure-ore corn cure—Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. Sure, safe and painless.

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, SEPT. 13th, 1901
LOCAL NEWS-LETTERS

ELDON STATION.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
The barn on the Mitchell farm was burned with its contents on Friday last at noon. The farm is run by Mr. M. McDonald. No insurance, loss about $1,000.
A garden party will be held at Eldon Station on Tuesday, Sept. 17th, under the auspices of the Ladies' Foreign Missionary Society. A good time is expected, come one, come all, and enjoy the good old time at Eldon Station.

Mr. John McArthur, of this place, met with a very sad accident a short time ago, while working with Mr. A. Campbell's horses. One of them kicked him and he received injuries about the head.

OMKEMEE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
The farmers are well pleased with the high prices paid for their grain. About 50 of our citizens took in the conservative convention to-day, (Wednesday), at Fendall Falls.

T. A. McPherson has made quite an improvement by building an addition to his store, to be used for millinery rooms.
On behalf of the Presbyterians, Rev. Professor Doyle, of Kingston, will conduct the anniversary services in October.

Jas. Graham, proprietor of the Commercial house, is about to put on a house for the accommodation of his guests.

The Division Court sittings Friday last had about five defended suits on the docket, which caused considerable fighting for the lawyers. Present, Mr. J. M. Stewart, Moore, Thompson, Wilson and Ruddy, of Millbrook. His Honor Judge Harding presided.

The local mail contract expires on October 1st. There are a number of applicants of all shades of politics and occupations.

PENEL.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Mr. Garbutt, of Fendall Falls, occupied the pulpit here last Sabbath and delivered an able discourse.
Toronto Exhibition saw a number of our men and women. Mrs. J. Russell and Arthur, Mr. A. B. Squires and Misses Wylie, Mrs. T. Squires and Miss Squires.

Walter Wilson had the misfortune to lose his entire crop of grain by fire. While threshing, sparks from the engine alighted upon the straw stack, and before it could be extinguished the whole barn was ablaze. Much sympathy is felt for Mr. Wilson, as he but lately commenced farming and carried no insurance.

Our prayer meetings are increasing in attendance and interest.

One night last week thieves entered the barn of G. W. Hardy and stole about one hundred dollars' worth of alskas from his granary. The seed was bagged and ready for market. We understand a little detective work is being done, and we sincerely hope that the seed may be traced and restored to Mr. Hardy.

CAMBRAY.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Mr. W. A. Fanning, our successful horseman, left on Tuesday for Port Perry fair with one of his speedy movers, and we expect to hear of his capturing a couple of good ones.
The Methodist church was crowded last Sunday evening, as the pastor had announced the week before to preach on the subject of "Thought." The minister divided the subject into three parts: "What thought is," "What thought does," and "The necessity of choosing high and pure objects for thought to dwell upon, as character is formed by the influence of thought."

Mr. W. A. Fanning is painting his new house, lately occupied by Dr. Smith, who has removed to Port Hope.

The usual time has arrived for the anniversary services, in connection with the Methodist church. The congregation has been very large, and we expect to have a very successful one. There will be two special services for the occasion next Sunday in the church, (morning and evening), at which the members and friends of the church are kindly asked to contribute liberally.

BOBAYGEON.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
We regret to have to chronicle the death of Mr. Hugh Conway, who kept the Reid house here for the last three or four years. Mr. Conway had been ailing for some time, but was taken suddenly with cramps of the stomach and bowels on Friday, the 6th inst., and medical aid was summoned at once, but with no avail, as the sufferer grew worse. He passed away on Monday, the 9th inst. The funeral took place on the following Wednesday, and was attended by a large number of relatives and friends, who followed the remains to the Roman Catholic cemetery on the Fendall Falls road, where interment took place. The surviving members of the family have the deepest sympathy of the whole village in their bereavement.

The most of the tourists have left for their homes, and consequently the fish will not be tempted so much with the glittering bait that another season rolls round, but withal the fishing is still good, and those who make the fish boat these fine days are rewarded with good catches.

The duck shooting has not been generally good this season, but Dr. Thorne, G. Nicholls and W. Hickson keep bagging a few of the wary. Duck decoys every few days, so if they continue they will make a pretty good lot before the lakes freeze.

The tow boats seem to be very busy these days. Large amounts of wood and timber are being brought from the lower lake.
Miss M. H. Orr proposes bringing a professor of Christian Science to lecture here in the near future, and the skating rink is to be the place where the learned disciple of that belief will expound his merits.

The Polycygonal fall show is looking up in the shape and promises to outdo former years.

LOCAL BREVITIES

—Fall fairs are in progress. Port Perry heads the list.
—The Y.M.C.A. plunge bath is growing in popularity. It is crowded to its extreme capacity every night.

—The Str. North King will make her last trip for this season between Charlotte and Port Hope on Saturday Oct. 12th.

—Very little grain has been marketed so far, but Canadian Beauty peas and various fancy varieties are coming in freely.

—The new bridge over Mud Lake, between Endmore and Chemung, will be completed in a couple of weeks. The cost will be about $28,000.

—Mr. J. W. Ivory, a former resident of Omamee, died at Mountain Grove, Addison Co., the other day. The body was interred at Omamee yesterday.

—Our citizens are indebted to Mr. T. C. Matchett, C.P.R. agent, for the excellent bulletin service furnished by him during President McKinley's gallant struggle for life.

—It is reported that a new company is being formed, with a capital of $100,000, to build a new side-wheel steamer and engage in the summer resort business in Lake Simcoe.

—They have a sea serpent 300 feet in length, with red eyes and horns, cruising off Long Island. Evidently Carle Nation's temperance crusade at Coney Island was a complete failure.

—The booths and dining hall at the Central Fair this year will be under the management of Mr. A. B. Terry, the well-known confectioner. The public may rest assured that the service will be satisfactory.

—There are a number of partially rotten and loose boards in the walk on Lindsay-st., east, which should receive the immediate attention of our street overseer. Already two or three accidents have occurred at that point.

—The Army and Navy Veterans of Toronto will have a post of honor at the approaching reception to the Duke and Duchess of York. Four Lindsay citizens are members—Sergeant Martin, R. Bell, J. Rogers and J. W. Wallace.

—Mr. Jas. McWilliams is pushing ahead the work on the terrace he is having erected near the station, as a resting place for men. We understand it is his intention to open a general store in that vicinity in the near future.

—In New York on Saturday 100 men at a dinner drank to the speedy recovery of the President, and on Sunday all the churches prayed for the same end. The prescription, though somewhat mixed, ought to prove effective.

—Tenders will be received by the Postmaster General, Ottawa, until noon on Friday, Oct. 18th, for the conveyance of mails between Lindsay and Bobcaygeon six times per week each way for a term of four years from 1st Nov. next.

—Mr. A. Y. Hopkins, general merchant, Kilmount, has been shipping large quantities of wood from north country points recently. On Tuesday last he shipped a train load of over a dozen cars to a leading coal and wood firm in Toronto.

—The boys who are in the habit of throwing peas at windows, and otherwise annoying people living on Cambridge-st., had better take warning, as the matter has been placed in the hands of the police, and if any further trouble occurs a few arrests will follow.

—Mr. A. E. Gregory, druggist, has the contract for fumigating the Collegiate Institute and Union North Ward and Francis-st. schools. He will use over 1,000 lbs. of sulphur, and the premises will be unhealthy for microbes for some months to come.

—Messrs. McEachern Bros., who for several years have been doing a private banking business in Elmvale and Barry, have decided to establish a branch in Fendall Falls, and have leased the premises formerly occupied by Mr. A. Clark, merchant tailor.

—A north ward husband was explaining to his wife that all the ho-sho-doo out there properly here. She opened the family bible at II Kings XI, 13, and calmly read: "I will wipe Jerusalem as a man wipes a dish, wiping it and turning it upside down." He always wipes the dishes nowadays.

—Mr. Sam. Champion, cutter for O'Loughlin & McIntyre, has just returned from an extensive trip to some of the largest cities in fashion in the United States, where he has been for some weeks collecting new ideas in tailoring. Young men may count on getting nothing but up-to-date work, as Sam. will have the latest.

—The Peterboro Morning Times makes the following statement: Lindsay is asking Andrew Carnegie to give them $10,000 for a library. Foolish Lindsay. Just why we are so classified may puzzle some of our readers. The fact is that our worthy people keep an eagle eye on Lindsay's progress, and a wall goes up at every fresh evidence of the fact that we're alive and kicking.

—Mr. Henry Dance, who came here with the Rider & Kitchener firm and has been their foreman ever since, will leave for West Virginia in the course of a couple of weeks. He has accepted a good position in a veneering factory in that State.

—Mr. Dance is a very competent man, and the best wishes of his many Lindsay friends will accompany him to his new home in the sunny South.
—About 30 of our young people last week accepted the invitation of a local amusement club with an unpronounceable name and journeyed to Sturgeon Point, where they were the guests for a few hours of Mrs. Gordon in the sunny South. Cherry Tree Cottage. One and all are extolling the pleasantness of the outing, the hospitality of their entertainers, and the qualifications of Mrs. A. W. Parkin for the office of chaperone.

—It was a somewhat melancholy sight. The mixture was one of mous, man, bats and baskets, with cabbage as extra baggage, and it took a Bullock to deliver the outfit at its home destination. Sam says it was a case of beautiful, cheerful, tearful, happy, cheerful and hair-fall. But Richard is himself again and would not swap his moveable wagon patch for two barrels of beer. A king once offered his kingdom for a horse, but "Pucky" had no fool. The moon only gets full once a month, but there are numbers of men who can walk all around it.

UNLOOKED FOR EVENT

A. J. GRAHAM

Leaving Lindsay

Owing to the recent death of my brother, F. H. Graham, who carried on a very successful clothing business in Grand Forks, Dakota, it has been found necessary to dispose of my present Lindsay stock as rapidly as possible, in order to assume the business formerly carried on by my deceased brother by the 1st of January next.

These are the straight facts in connection with the change which involve my leaving Lindsay within the next few months.

While I regret to contemplate removing from the town where my business has kept growing during the past two years, circumstances which are not of my own creating, have decided for me. Therefore:

NECESSITY KNOWS NO LAW.

Now for a Sensational Clothing Event—a Speedy and Positive Clearance—an Unexpected Reduction in Prices right at the beginning of the season—Now for

A SALE THAT MUST ATTRACT ATTENTION, Begins on Saturday, September 21st,

Embracing Graham's Entire First-Class Stock, including $20,000.00 worth of BRAND NEW FALL AND WINTER SUITS, OVERCOATS, HATS, CAPS, FURS, FURNISHINGS, etc. No Make-Believe Bargains. Every price a Mighty Money Saver. Every article reliable and right. The goods and prices are here to back what we say, and we can't take any of our Lindsay stock to Dakota. Must all be sold right here Regardless of Cost. Don't buy any clothing, until you see our stock and get our prices.

A. J. GRAHAM,

THE KING CLOTHIER,

LINDSAY AND KIRKFIELD.

—Miss Purser, of Port Hope, is the guest of Lindsay friends.

—Mrs. W. Morrison, Russell-st., is visiting her sister at Brechin.

—Miss Wright, Melbourne-st., left Monday to visit friends in Toronto.

—Mrs. D. Thomas, who has been visiting friends in town, returned to Kearney Monday.

—Mrs. Constantine and child, who had been visiting Mr. and Mrs. O'Loughlin, returned to Toronto on Monday.

—Mr. Edward Letcher left Monday for Magnesian, Barr's Sound district, where he will spend three months.

—Mr. Hugh Thompson, of Orillia, manager for Messrs. McCormick & McLeod, lumbermen, was in town Saturday.

—Dr. W. F. Broad has resumed his practice again, after enjoying a few holidays with friends in Rochester and Buffalo.

—Mr. Jas. Mark passed through to Kilmount on Monday, after a few holidays with friends in Kingston and Brockville.

—Mrs. J. Chambers and Mrs. May-bee passed through to Fendall Falls Monday after enjoying a visit with friends in Eastern Ontario.

—Mr. Arch. Campbell, linotype operator with Carswell & Co., Toronto, and Mr. W. McEachern, of Woodville, gave The Post a friendly call Monday.

—Messrs. Melville and Geo. Heenan have returned to Rochester, N. Y., having spent a pleasant visit with their parents, Mrs. Whalen and Mrs. Oryell.

—Mrs. D. Thomas, of Kearney, Muskoka, was the guest of her mother, Mrs. Massan, for a few days last week on her way home from the Pan-American.

—Mrs. F. Pepper, of the north ward, returned from Toronto on Monday to see her son, the famous Pepper Twins, who are filling an engagement at the Fair.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Glenn, Little Britain, returned last week from Fort William. Mrs. Glenn spent a year with her son-in-law, Mr. P. J. Pike, principal of the High School in that town, and her friends will learn with much satisfaction that the fresh air of the lakes has built her up in health. Mrs. Glenn's visit lasted about three weeks, and all thought very much she admits that she was actually homesick at times, it being his longest absence since he took up residence in Marietta some 61 years ago. We missed our old friend's smiling countenance on Saturdays.

A ONE-SIDED BATTLE.

If attacked by a wild beast a man would try and defend himself. If afflicted with rheumatism fight the disease. With Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure the battle is all one-sided.

Lockmaster at Brewer's Mills, Ontario, suffered for twelve years with rheumatism in his shoulder and at times could not work or dress himself. Eight bottles of Dr. Hall's with Climal-Front Tonic Pills, effected a permanent cure. This great blood purifier is put up in bottles containing ten days' treatment. Price 50 cents at all drug stores or The Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

BY THE HAND OF AN ASSASSIN.

The victim of a base deed which has aroused the execrations of all civilized peoples, President William McKinley succumbed soon after two o'clock Saturday to the wounds inflicted by assassin Czolgoz on Friday of last week. The sadness of the affair is added to by the fact that the bereaved wife is in very delicate health, and the shock may prove fatal.

While the deceased President had shown no particular desire to win the esteem of the Canadian people, he was respected as a high-minded statesman, and recent speeches delivered by him contain hints of a desire to improve the trade relations between the two countries. Apart from any other reason the lawlessness of the deed is alone sufficient to arouse the indignation and pity of the law-respecting people of Canada, and sincere sorrow is being expressed on every hand, because of the President's sad fate.

The Style of Hair Worn

is an important factor to produce a younger and refined face and a well shaped head to any lady or gentleman. Prof. Dorenwend, who will be at the Benson house, Lindsay, on Saturday, Sept. 28th, can demonstrate this to anyone calling on him at his show rooms. He has ladies' and gents' wigs, toupees, bangs, wavy and plain fronts, switches in every length and shade, that he will gladly adjust on any lady's head free of charge to prove this. Don't fail to see him. It is his only visit to Lindsay this season.

One teaspoonful of Pain-Killer in hot sweetened water will cure almost any case of flatulency and indigestion. Avoid substitutes, there is only one Pain-Killer, Perry Davis' 25c and 50c.

Steamer Time-Table Changes.

The Trent Valley Navigation Co. announce the following changes in time-tables of their steamers: On and after Sept. 16 the Manitoba's present run between Cobocouk and Lindsay will be cancelled and the boat will be placed on the Bobcaygeon-Chemung route, leaving Bobcaygeon at 7 a.m. and reaching Bridgton at 9:30. On the return trip the steamer will leave at 3 p.m. and reach Bobcaygeon at 5:30. Arrangements can be made by parties for a trip to Buckhorn or Burleigh at any time on special rates. On Monday, Sept. 16th, and morning of 17th, the Ogemah will take the place of the Esturion on the Bobcaygeon-Lindsay run.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY.

Take Laxative Bromo-Seltzer Tablets. At once you'll feel the effect. If it fails to cure, it will be a sign of a serious condition.

IT PAYS TO BUY AT CINNAMON'S.

WHEN FILLING PRESCRIPTIONS

We give our undivided attention to the matter in hand—that is, the only safe way.
We dispense drugs only of known purity, holding that when human life is hanging in the balance it is a poor time to economize by using "cheap" materials and trusting to luck for results.
This is an important matter and one worthy of serious thought.

—$1 for 50c. at Gough's—w1.
—The funeral of the late John Magwood took place to Eden cemetery, Mariposa, last Tuesday, and was largely attended.
—Try Gough for good Gloves—w1.
—It will be twenty years to a day between the death of President Garfield and the burial of President McKinley. An assassin every 20 years is one just 20 years too often.
—Boys' Clothing Sale at Gough's—w1.
—Fresh-mined Coal of all sizes and kinds; Dry, Soft and Hard Wood, 2-ft., 4-ft.; also Charcoal, always in stock at R. Bryans & Co., phone 56.—dw1.
—Fine Fur Coats and Caps at Gough's—w1.
—Mr. James LeRoy has decided to sell two fine building lots, located on Cambridge-st., in the rear of his residence opposite Angle's factory. The lots no doubt will be promptly picked up.
—67 doz. heavy fleeced-lined Underwear at Gough's, 20c.—w1.
—For coughs and colds the sovereign remedy is White Pine Balsam, at Higinbotham's drug store.—w1.
—Munir al Fols have provided for the safety of the Duke by arresting twenty suspicious characters. With their usual stupidity, however, they have not locked up a single alderman.—Toronto Star.
—Great Sale of Men's Suits at Gough's—w1.
—Farmers, you can't afford to be without Old English Condition Powder, the greatest thing in the world for horses, cattle, sheep and pigs. A. Higinbotham—w1.
—Although the police are after anarchists, absolutely no effort is being made to muzzle Canadian poets, who are breaking out with welcoming verse to the long suffering Duke of York.
—Gough's great sale a grand success.—w1.
—24 bright colors in Diamond Dyes just received at Higinbotham's drug store, next to Daly house.—w1.
—Mr. Hugh O'Leary, K.C., has recovered the canoe stolen from his boat house at Sturgeon Point on the evening of Labor Day. It was located at Fenelon Falls by Mr. Geo. Wilson, foreman for the Rathbun Co.
—Men and Boys' Overalls cheap at Gough's—w1.
—Just so! Mr. J. H. McClellan, of the Peterboro Fair directors, has received a letter from Hon. Dr. Borden, stating that on account of the Duke's visit, the Minister will be so engaged with military arrangements as to make it unable for him to open the Peterboro Central Exposition.
—Gough's noted all wool ribbed top Sox, 9c.—w1.
—The very best fresh mined Lehigh Valley Coal, direct from mines. Store, nut and egg at $7 per ton, delivered in town. A discount of 25c. per ton will be allowed off above price for cash orders. R. Bryans & Co.—dw1.
—Outdoing anything ever done before: Gough's Big Clothing Sale commencing Saturday, Sept. 21st, the greatest sale ever inaugurated in Lindsay.—w1.
—Postmen describe last Monday's sale as one of the worst experienced on the Kawartha Lakes for years. Luckily there are no mishaps to chronicle, as our small craft remained in shelter. Sturgeon Point residents say the boom of the big rollers against the beach could be heard far inland.
—Fall opening of millinery Wednesday, September 25th. Patterns of all the latest Paris, London, Berlin and New York styles. Dundas & Flavelle Bros.—w1.
—Mr. Elias Bowes has received instructions from H. L. Bowes to sell by auction at No. 12 Melbourne-st., west on Monday, Sept. 20th, at one o'clock, furniture and household goods consisting of parlor and bedroom suits, mattresses and springs, sideboard, secretary, tables, chairs, lamp, crockery and glassware, fruit jars, kitchen utensils, blinds and curtain poles, etc. All will be sold without reserve.—w2.
—Mr. Thos. Endicott, caretaker of the lighthouse near the mouth of the river, was in town last Tuesday and explained to The Post that the lighthouse was not in working order lately because some fool duck hunter sent a charge of shot through the lantern, completely wrecking it. Repairs have been made, but Mr. Endicott says he grows very tired every time he hears a gun fired at dusk, fearing that some Lindsay sport may again mistake the light for a red-head duck.

Single Fare Tickets

to Lindsay can be purchased on Oct. 5th (the day of the Reform Convention) good to return on 7th, at any agency of the Grand Trunk Railway, where the ordinary single fare does not exceed $2.50.

Peterborough Cheese Board.

At last Wednesday's meeting of Peterboro Cheese Board 4,558 boxes were boarded by 38 factories. The bidding started at 9c. and most of the cheese sold at 9.5c. and 9.9 1/2c. Victoria County Board will meet on Friday of next week, the second day of Lindsay Central, at 10 o'clock.

Paddy and the Pall

Some work is being done on the roof of the Benson house, and Paddy D— is the man that manipulates the hoisting of the palls of mortar to the roof. Tuesday afternoon one of the masons undertook to lower an empty pall, when it slipped from his grasp and landed on Paddy's head—some 40 feet below. The blow knocked the old man over, but did not cripple him sufficiently to put him out of business, and he was able to vent his feelings in some tremendous howls, which attracted a vast full of people in less than a minute. As Paddy gradually recovered his senses he voiced his opinion of the man aloft in language that made the air fairly tingle, and had the man on the roof been on terra firma, it is likely Paddy would have made short work of him. Paddy had a very narrow escape from death.

TO SUBSCRIBERS IN ARREARS.

By actual count there are over 900 subscribers on our weekly list in arrears for the current year, and a considerable proportion of them for two years. This delinquent list represents the large sum of $1,500. Don't you think it is too bad, in view of the large and interesting paper we are giving, that we should be worried in our financing by this thoughtlessness of some subscribers?—for it is largely thoughtlessness. With this money in hand the publisher would be able to undertake many projects he has in his mind for the further improvement of the paper. Isn't it too bad that the majority of readers should be punished by the minority in this way?—for with so much money outstanding it is impossible for the publisher to increase the expenditure on the paper.

Dear reader, if you are one of these delinquents, look at the label on your paper, note the date to which your subscription is paid, and if in arrears, sit down and write us enclosing the amount. It will be the most welcome letter we can receive. If every subscriber in arrears were to do this, the burden of life to the publisher would be greatly relieved.

Address The Weekly Post, Lindsay, Ont., and use registered letter, postal note, P.O. order, or Express order. Our subscribers or any of their friends are invited to give us a call at any time when in Lindsay, when we shall take pleasure in showing them through our printing office, where they may see the plant in operation.

OBITUARY

The Late John Magwood.
We regret exceedingly to have to announce the very sudden death, from apoplexy, of one of the most prominent citizens of this town—Mr. John Magwood—in his 53rd year. The sad event occurred last Sunday. Mr. Magwood was born in the township of Cavan, where he spent his early years. When about 21 years of age he settled on a bush farm in the township of Eldon, and soon became a prosperous farmer. Upon the building of the Toronto & Nipissing Railway he entered into mercantile business at Victoria Road, where he carried on an extensive trade with marked success for a number of years. He was afterwards engaged for some time in manufacturing at Orillia, and then in the hardware trade in this town. About six years ago he accepted the position of managing director of the Victoria Loan & Savings Company, which he held until his death. Mr. Magwood was married to Mary J., daughter of the late Samuel Staples, of Eldon, who with four children survives him. He has had in a marked degree the respect and confidence of his friends and the public generally. He had been for about 40 years a consistent member of the Methodist church, and for many years an office-holder. In politics Mr. Magwood was conservative. He was a Justice of the Peace for the county of Victoria, and was for many years a member of Lindsay Town Council. His widow and family have the sincere sympathy of the people of the town and county.

SHOT A BEAR.

Face to Face with a Bear—Neighbors Called in.

On Monday night last about 8:30 o'clock, Ira M. Smith, of Long Lake, Harvey township, when reading at home, was disturbed by his dog barking furiously. He and a farm hand went out and the dog excitedly led them to a wood near by. They were brought directly to what they supposed was a coon. It scrambled up a tree. Mr. Smith undertook to climb the tree and knock him out, but when he had made the climb he could see by the assistance of a lantern they carried that he was face face with a bear. He slid down the tree with alacrity, and sent the man for their neighbors, while he stood guard on the bear. Four men arrived with guns, axes and lanterns; they gathered around the trunk of the tree, waiting for the bear to come down or to stay till morning so that they could see to shoot him. About one o'clock brain took it into his head to come down; and when within 25 feet of the ground trees shots rang out as one, and something came down with a thud to the ground dead. Only one ball had struck the bear, but it was fatal. He was a full-grown male.

Public Ownership Notes.

—The people of Winnipeg are delighted with the successful results of civic ownership of the Water-works and Electric Light plants. Water is obtained from artesian wells at a cost considerably less than company rates, and the civic electric light plant is giving immense satisfaction. When it was established the lowest company tender was 45 cents per arc light of 2,000 can 1 power per night. The Water-works Commissioner estimated that he could produce light at a cost of 26c per light per night, but he reduced the cost to 10 1/2c, including $2,000 worth of light for the civic buildings which it charged for would reduce the cost of operating the plant to 18 1/2c per light per night. That's a good showing.

TWENTIETH CENTURY TRAGEDY.

Bullet of Anarchist Assassin Does Its Foul Work

THE LAST SOLEMN SCENES.

GRADUAL SINKING ENDS IN COLLAPSE AND UNCONSCIOUSNESS.

President McKinley's Wife and Relatives With Him to the Last—Resigned to the Inevitable He Went Sustained and Soothed by Unfaltering Trust to End of Earthly Career—Life's Peaceful Close.

"Good-bye all good-bye. It is God's way. His will be done."—President McKinley's last conscious audible words.

THE PRESIDENT IS DEAD.
Buffalo, Sept. 14, 2:15 a. m.—President McKinley died at 2:15 a. m.

THE LAST SOLEMN HOURS.

President McKinley Was Magnificent in His Heroic Death.

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 14.—Before 6 o'clock last evening it was clear to those at the President's bedside that he was dying, and preparations were made for the last sad offices of farwell from those who were nearest and dearest to him. Oxygen had been administered steadily, but with little effect, in keeping back the approach of death. The President came out of one period of unconsciousness only to relapse into another. But in this period, when his mind was partially clear, a series of events of a profoundly touching character ensued down stairs. With tear-stained faces, members of the Cabinet were grouped in anxious waiting. They knew the end was near and that the time when they must see him for the last time on earth. This was about 6 o'clock. It was an awful moment for them. One by one they preceded the stairway—Secretary Root, Secretary Hitchcock and Attorney-General Knox. Secretary Wilson also was there, but he held back, not wishing to see the President in his last agony. There was only a momentary stay of the Cabinet officers at the threshold of the death chamber. Then they withdrew, the tears streaming down their faces, and the words of intense grief choking in their throats.

A Devoted Couple.
After they left the sick room the physicians rallied him to consciousness, and the President asked almost immediately that his wife be brought to him. The doctors fell back into the shadows of the room. Mrs. McKinley came through the doorway. The strong face of the dying man lighted up with a faint smile as their hands were clasped. She sat beside him and held his hand. Despite her physical weakness, she bore up bravely under the ordeal.

The President in his last period of consciousness, which ended about 7:40 o'clock, chanted the words of the beautiful hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee," and his last audible conscious words, as taken down by Dr. Mann at the bedside were:

"Good-bye, all, good-bye. It is God's way. His will be done."

About 8:30 the administration of oxygen ceased and the pulse grew faint, very faint. He was sinking

AN HEROIC DEATHBED.

President McKinley Proved to Have Magnificent Courage and Patience During His Last Hours Here Below.

Milburn House, Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 13.—4 p. m.—The President's physicians report that he is only slightly improved since the last bulletin. The pulse and temperature remain the same as at that hour.

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 13.—5:30 p. m.—Col. Brown just hastened to the telephone office and dispatched a telegram. He said there was a change for the worse. The President's condition is very, very bad.

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 13.—The President is dying. The physicians have sent for those nearest him. They have so announced to those nearest him.

"There Is No Hope."

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 13.—5:48 p. m.—The President's family have been summoned to the bedside. Col. Brown says: "There is no hope. He is dying."

Official Bulletin, Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 13.—5:15 p. m.—The President's physicians say his condition is grave at this hour. He is suffering from extreme prostration. Oxygen is being given him. His responses to stimulation are poor. Pulse 125, respiration 40.

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 13.—Cortelyou has just come to door at 6:21 and announced the President is still alive.

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 13.—6:30 p. m.—The President's physicians report that his condition is most serious in spite of vigorous stimulation. The depression continues and is profound. Unless it can be relieved the end is only a question of time.

Buffalo, Sept. 13.—At 6:30 it was announced that the President does not respond to the oxygen and his physicians have announced that unless he does respond to stimulation it is only a matter of a short time.

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 13.—A messenger from the house at 6:57 announced that the President is still alive and there is hope. The entire staff of physicians is at the bedside.

Buffalo, Sept. 13.—7:06 p. m.—The President is unquestionably dying.

Tab not Takes Leave of Him.

Buffalo, Sept. 13.—The relatives of the dying President, the members of his Cabinet and those personal friends who are in the house, taking their final leave of him. The party has assembled in the main drawing room and one by one they are ascending to the sick room. The scene is a painful one and the silence is broken only by sobs. In the street an awe-stricken crowd awaits the coming of death.

Buffalo, Sept. 13.—The situation has developed into one of mere waiting for the announcement of the President's death.

Buffalo, Sept. 13.—Among those gathered at the Milburn House, awaiting the final awe-inspiring word from the chamber where the life of the President quickly ebbs are Secretaries Root, Hitchcock and Wilson; Senators Fairbanks and Burrows; Mr. Barber, Mrs. McWilliams, Miss Barber, Miss Duncan, Miss McKinley and Mrs. Baer, Judge W. R. Day, Colonel Myron Herrick, Col. Brown, J. G. Milburn, Harry Hamlin, John Scattergood, Lieutenant McKinley, George P. Sawyer and Senator Hanna.

Buffalo, Sept. 13.—The President is unconscious. The end is but a short time away.

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 13.—The President became unconscious at 6:40 and now at 7:40 is barely alive.

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 13.—Dr. McBurney arrived at 7:43 p. m. His carriage came at a gallop.

Called for Mrs. McKinley.
Milk House, Buffalo, Sept. 13.—Under the effects of stimulants the President has revived at 7:50 and called for Mrs. McKinley. She is with him now.

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 13.—"Not twenty minutes more to live," was the announcement from the Milburn House at 8 p. m.

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 13.—Rev. Dr. C. V. Wilson of Tonawanda, formerly pastor of the President's church at Canton, reached Milburn House shortly after 8 and demanded admission.

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 13.—Hon. Charles G. Dawes, the controller of the currency, who enjoys an intimate acquaintance with President McKinley, arrived in Buffalo early this evening and reached the Milburn House shortly after 8 o'clock.

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 13.—Sec. Cortelyou and Mrs. McKinley have been with the President for some time. An announcement from the house at 8:50 stated that the President is in extremis.

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 13.—A messenger at 9:20 announced that the President is being kept alive with great difficulty by the use of oxygen. It is added that the case is now more desperate.

Comforted His Wife.

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 13.—9:27 p. m.—The pulse has left the President's extremities and he may live until midnight. Consciousness seems to have finally left. In his recent lucid moment the President comforted Mrs. McKinley.

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 13.—9:30 p. m.—Attorney-General Knox and Chauncey M. Dapew have just been admitted to the Milburn House.

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 13.—9:32 p. m.—Secretary Cortelyou has just sent a message out to the newspapers stating that he cannot now leave the house as the President is in his last moments.

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 13.—9:35 p. m.—Dr. Myer, who has just left the house, says the President is slowly dying. The approach of death is already evident as the body is getting cold. Dr. Myer says, however, the President may last until 2 o'clock in the morning, although the end may come at any time. There is still any pulse to be felt.

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 13.—9:43 p. m.—Some of the members of the Cabinet and other distinguished callers have begun to leave the house, indicating that the end is all but here. Sec. Root and Senator Fairbanks were among those just departing.

"Nearer My God to Thee."

9:53 p. m.—The administration of oxygen has been suspended for some time. The President before he finally lost consciousness bade his wife a tender farewell. He was then heard to murmur words of the hymn: "Nearer My God to Thee," probably his last farewell words.

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 13.—10 p. m.—The last period of consciousness spent with Mrs. McKinley at the bedside of her dying husband. She bore her affliction with superb fortitude.

God's Will.

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 13.—The President's last words were addressed to his wife: "God's will, not ours be done."

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 13.—The 65th and 74th Regiments of the National Guards have been assembled in their barracks, to be in readiness should the large crowd assembled at police headquarters make any hostile demonstration. There has been no indication of a disposition on the part of the crowd to riot and the assembling of the National Guard is simply a precautionary measure.

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 13.—At 10:40 Dr. Mann said the President was still alive and might linger for an hour longer.

—10:45 p. m.—The crowds on Delaware avenue near the mansion grew larger, and the police and military sentries have their hands full in preserving the lines.

Buffalo, Sept. 13, 10:50 p. m.—The rooms in the rear of the Milburn House, hitherto darkened, have just been brilliantly lighted. There is much activity in that part of the mansion.

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 13.—The portion of the house which has just been brilliantly illuminated is the part occupied by President McKinley.

—10:55 p. m.—The awful suspense continues. The relatives and distinguished visitors are still gathered in the main drawing-room awaiting the announcement of the end.

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 13.—10:59 p. m.—The President is alone with his physicians and nurses. His extremities have long been cold and for over two hours he has been unconscious.

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 13.—11:05 p. m.—A messenger from the house announces that the President's vitality is marvelous. Conditions remain unchanged and death may come in one minute or not over an hour or more.

Might Live Several Hours.

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 13.—At 11:07 p. m. Dr. McBurney said it was possible the President might live several hours. He is scarcely breathing, the circulation has ceased in his extremities and they are cold.

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 13.—11:12 p. m.—Dr. Mann has just added: "The President is pulseless and is dying. He may live an hour."

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 13.—The personal colored attendant of the President at 11:25 announced that the President was still alive.

At 11:47 p. m. Dr. Janeway of New York, the heart specialist, arrived and was admitted to the Milburn House.

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 13.—Secretary of the Navy, John D. Long, arrived at 12:06 a. m. in time to see the President alive though unconscious.

—12:30.—Francis Baer announced from Secretary Cortelyou that the President is still alive and his condition practically as it had been for an hour.

Arrival of the Coroner.

12:30 p. m.—Coroner Wilson reached the house a few minutes ago. This led to starting reports.

The arrival on the scene of Coroner Wilson is explained by a statement that he was ordered by the District Attorney to go to Milburn House.

The District Attorney ordered the coroner to proceed to Milburn House because he had heard a report that the President was dead. Coroner Wilson's arrival was followed immediately by his departure, his presence not being necessary, as the President still lived.

Only a Slight Heart Beat.

Buffalo, Sept. 14.—At 1:30 a. m. an attendant came from the house and said the President's pulse had shown practically no activity in four hours. There was only a slight heart beat. All of the doctors were still upstairs, near at hand to the patient.

—1:43 a. m.—Secretary Long has just left Milburn House. He said: "There seems to be no particular change. The President is just alive."

Dr. Janeway was hurried away in an automobile shortly before the secretary left.

Secretary Long was deeply affected as he came from the house at 1:45 o'clock. He had seen the President and had given his hand a farewell grasp. He said there was no hope, but when some of the President's watchers asked him as to a rumor that the President was dead he said decisively: "That is not true; the President is now alive."

Buffalo, Sept. 14, 2:15 a. m.—President McKinley died at 2:15 a. m.

"LET'S FIND THE ASSASSIN."

A Crowd in Buffalo Streets Whose Motives Did Not Materialize in Action—Averted by Police.

Buffalo, Sept. 14.—The city, not only in those parts near the Milburn House, but all over, and even out in the Exposition grounds, went into a state of ferment when the news of the sudden collapse of the President early day had been somewhat softening. The news of the sudden announcement that there was a slight improvement and of this approaching dissolution came as a great surprise.

At the Pan-American grounds it was announced that he was dead, and the immense crowd as a major city turned toward the city. In the city itself the papers refrained from any anticipation, but made it understood that there was no hope.

It seemed but an instant when crowds formed at every corner, swarmed towards the newspaper bulletins, and when they found that the rumors were confirmed somebody shouted: "Let's find the assassin."

With one impulse the crowd started for the station house where Zolozog is confined. Telephones were utilized and the police notified, and when the crowd arrived they found the police out in force.

Superintendent Bull, anticipating trouble, called out the city's force, and in addition, asked the 4th Brigade headquarters to be in readiness to assist. Col. Welch in charge answered by ordering up two companies each from the 65th and 74th Regiments to the Armouries to await immediate call. Around the station at 8 o'clock it was estimated that at least 6,000 people were gathered. They were not particularly ugly, and were quiet, and when the police proceeded to drive them back there was little resistance. At 8 o'clock on each side of the police station, and before 10 o'clock, weary with waiting for definite news, they had dispersed or gone to the newspaper bulletins.

Up about the corner near the Milburn house was a picturesque but rather dangerous sight. It is remembered that the crowds gathered there were awaiting the President's death.

The hall dozen tents and the two big election booths made it look like the May day of the Fair, but the ropes stretched from corner to corner, the solemn-looking police guard, the pacing soldiers, and above all the quietness of the assembled multitude, bore evidence of the solemnity of the occasion. At intervals a carriage would drive up, and then the newspaper men would move towards it. The Milburn house was hardly discernible among the trees, the lights in the house having been dimmed but at a few minutes intervals the lights would come out some person who had information to bear, and then the eager crowd would surround him.

But from the time that Secretary Cortelyou told that the President was very weak there was nothing to encourage any belief that there could be recovery.

WILLIAM MCKINLEY'S CAREER.

William McKinley, President of the United States since March 4, 1897, was born at Niles, Trumbull County, Ohio, Jan. 29, 1843. He was educated at Poland Academy College, Niles, and when the Civil War broke out enlisted as a private in the 2nd Ohio Volunteer Infantry, June 30, 1861. He was made commissary sergeant April 15, 1862, of the same year, and gradually rose to be a captain July 25, 1864. He served on the staff of Generals R. B. Hayes, George Crook and Winfield Hancock, was breveted major in U. S. volunteers by President Lincoln for gallantry in battle March 13, 1865. He was acting assistant adjutant-general of the 1st division of the 1st Army Corps on the staff of General S. S. Carroll, was mustered out of the service July 26, 1865. He took up the study of law in Mahoning County, entered Albany Law School 1867, was a barrister and settled at Canton, Ohio, the same year. That has since been his home. He was elected prosecuting attorney of Stark County in 1869 and a member of the House of Representatives 1876, and for 14 years represented the district of which his county was a part. As chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, he reported the tariff law of 1890. In the following November he was defeated for Congress in the re-organized district.

Mr. McKinley was elected Governor of Ohio in 1891 by a plurality of over 21,500, and was re-elected in 1893 by a plurality of 80,000. He was a delegate-at-large to the Republican National Convention in 1884, and supported James G. Blaine for President; was a member of the Committee on Resolutions, and was chosen as delegate-at-large from Ohio in supporting John Sherman in 1888 and again was chairman of the Committee on Resolutions. In 1892 he was again a delegate-at-large from Ohio, and supported the re-nomination of Benjamin Harrison.

He was also chairman of that convention, and 182 votes were cast for him for President, although he had persistently refused to have his name considered. At the St. Louis convention, June 18, 1896, he was nominated for President, receiving 661 out of a total of 905 votes. He was elected President in the ensuing November by a popular plurality of 600,000, and received 271 electoral votes, as against 176 for William J. Bryan of Nebraska. He was re-elected to the Presidency in 1900 by a sweeping majority over the same opponent.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 16.—Buffalo yesterday became a city of mourners. The gay and flaming decorations of the Pan-American Exposition gave way to the symbol of sorrow. The black drapery of the city's streets muffled the tolling bell of the churches. Bits of crepe appeared on every sleeve. The sorrow was indescribable. In the morning a single service took place at the residence on Delaware avenue, where the martyred President died. A hymn was sung and prayer was offered over the dead body. That was all. Only the immediate family and friends and political associates of the late President were present. The scene there was pathetic in the extreme. Then the body was borne out to the waiting cortege on the brawny shoulders of eight sailors and soldiers of the republic. The cortege passed through solid walls of living humanity, bareheaded and grief-stricken to the City Hall, where the body lay in state yesterday afternoon. There a remarkable demonstration occurred, which proved how close the President was to the hearts of the people. Arrangements had been made to allow the public to view the body from the time it arrived, at about 1:30 o'clock until about 5 o'clock, but when the body arrived the people were wedged into the streets for blocks as far as the eye could reach. Two lines were formed. They extended literally for miles. When 5 o'clock came 40,000 people had already passed, and the crowds waiting behind in the streets seemed undiminished. It was decided to extend the time until midnight. Then for hours longer the streets were dense with people, and a constant stream flowed up the steps of the broad entrance into the hall and passed the bier. When the doors were closed at midnight it was estimated that 80,000 people had viewed the remains, but thousands of disappointed ones were still in the streets.

Assembled in Silence.

At 9 o'clock long platoons of police officers, mounted and on foot, assembled on the ground and were posted in strong details along the streets approaching the Milburn house.

Even amid the stir of the assembling a solemn and awe-like silence prevailed, and the divisions of the army came to their posts with silent bands. At 10:30 o'clock the military and naval detachment took temporary stations on West Ferry street immediately around the corner from the Milburn house.

Prominent Men.

Meantime the members of the Cabinet, officials high in the Government, and near friends of the martyred President began to fill the walks leading up to the entrance of the Milburn residence. They came separately and in groups, some walking while those in carriages were admitted within the roped enclosure up to the curb.

President Looked Grave.

It was just eight minutes before the opening of the service, when a covered barouche drove up to the house, bringing President Roosevelt, and Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox, at whose home he is a guest. The President looked very grave. Word was passed up the well filled walk that the President had arrived, and those waiting to gain entrance fell back, making a narrow lane through which Mr. Roosevelt passed along the house.

As the President passed within the house, and the services were about to begin, the long line of soldiers and sailors swung in column of fours into Delaware avenue, and formed in battalion front along the beautiful thoroughfare opposite the house and immediately facing it.

Within the house of death was woe unspeakable. In the drawing room to the right of the hall, as President Roosevelt entered the dead President was stretched upon his bier. His head was to the rising sun. On the noble face, upturned to the creator, was written the story of the Christian forbearance with which he had met his martyrdom. "His will, not ours, be done," he had murmured when the dread messenger of death touched and summoned him. A calm and peaceful resignation, not of earth, was on the martyr's features. Death had emphasized the nobility of his countenance. Only thinness of his face bore mute testimony to the patient suffering he had endured. He was dead as he always did in life. The body lay in a black casket on a black hearse rug. Over the lower limbs was flung the starry banner he had loved so well. The flowers were few, as befitting the simple nature of the man.

Two sentries, one from the sea and one from the land, guarded the remains. They stood in the window embrasures behind the head of the casket.

The family had taken leave of their loved one before the others arrived. Mrs. McKinley, the poor, grief-crushed widow, had been led into the chamber by her physician, Dr. Myer, and had sat a while alone with him, who had supported and comforted her through all those sweet years of wedded life. But, though her support was gone, she had not broken down. Dry-eyed she had gazed upon him and fondled his face. She did not seem to realize that he was dead. Then she was led away by Dr. Rixey and took up her position at the head of the stairs.

Lead, Kindly Light.

Rev. Charles Edward Locke of the Delaware M. E. Church, who was to conduct the service, gave the signal, and there welled out from the hall the beautiful words of the "Lead, Kindly Light," sung by a quartette. It was President McKinley's favorite hymn. Half of those in the room put their faces in their hands to hide their scalding tears. President Roosevelt seemed to be swaying to and fro as if his footing was insecure.

When the singing ended the holy man lifted up his voice. He read from the word of God the 15th chapter of the first Corinthians. All had risen as he began and remained standing throughout the remainder of the service. "Oh, death where is thy sting; oh, grave, where is thy victory?" repeated the minister.

Again the voices rose with the words of "Nearer My God to Thee," the very words President McKinley had repeated at intervals of consciousness during the day of agony before he died.

As the music died away the pastor spoke again. "Let us pray," he said, and every head fell upon its breast.

All present joined in the Lord's prayer as the minister repeated it. President Roosevelt's voice being audible at the back of the room. The service concluded with a simple benediction.

The casket was then removed to the City Hall, rain falling as the procession moved along. Just as the hall was reached the rain came down in torrents, but the spectators reverently stood with heads uncovered.

80,000 Grief-Stricken People.

The public reviewing of the remains began at 1:30 o'clock, and was continued until midnight, by which hour 80,000 people had gazed for the last time upon the face of him who was known in life as President William McKinley.

FUNERAL ARRANGEMENTS.

Remains of the Late President Will Be in Canton Wednesday Night.

Buffalo, Sept. 16.—The funeral procession will form early this morning and the body will be taken to the New York Central Station, where a special train will be waiting to carry it to Washington, over the Pennsylvania Railroad through Harrisburg and Philadelphia. On the same train that bears the coffin will go the members of the Cabinet and of the President's family, as well as the committee to be appointed for the journey.

The funeral train will reach Washington this evening, and the President's body will be conveyed to the rotunda of the National Capitol.

Washington, Sept. 16.—The following official statement was given to the press last night:

In compliance with the earnest wishes of Mrs. McKinley that the body of her husband shall rest in her home at Canton, Wednesday night, the following changes in the funerals of the late President will be made:

Funeral services in the rotunda of the Capitol will be held Tuesday morning on the arrival of the casket, which will accompany the remains from the White House. The body of the late President will lie in state in the rotunda for the remainder of Tuesday and will be escorted to the railroad station Tuesday evening. The funeral train will leave Washington at or about 8 o'clock Tuesday evening and thus will arrive at Canton during the day Wednesday.

English Court to Go Into Mourning.

London, Sept. 16.—King Edward has commanded the court to go into mourning for a week on account of the death of President McKinley.

The King a Mourner.

Copenhagen, Sept. 16.—King Edward, Queen Alexandra and other royal personages attended a memorial service for President McKinley held yesterday in the English Church.

Pope Wept at the News.

Rome, Sept. 16.—The Pope yesterday prayed for an hour for the soul of President McKinley. On receiving the news of the President's death, His Holiness wept in uncontrollable emotion. All audiences at the Vatican have been suspended. The Pope has telegraphed his condolences to Buffalo.

Who Will Go for Canada.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 16.—The question: Who will represent Canada at the funeral of President McKinley? is being asked pretty generally here. But in the absence of anybody qualified to speak on the subject it meets with no satisfactory answer, even in the way of conjecture. There is a new in Quebec with the exception of Sir Richard Cartwright, who remains in Kingston. The most likely suggestion ventured is that the solemn mission will be entrusted to Hon. R. W. Scott, the Secretary of State.

History of Merrill's System Tonic

This now famous remedy is not a hap hazard mixture. On the contrary it is the result of years of careful thought and experiment, having always the definite object in view of combining alternative herbs with a definite tonic for each organ in the body. Alternative herbs are medicines which assist the glands of the body to throw off waste and poisonous matter and absorb the nourishment provided by the food eaten. These glands are found in the stomach, kidneys, bowels, bladder and lungs. Besides these glands, each of these important organs is composed of more or less muscular matter, and it is upon this that tonic medicines act. A different tonic is required in almost each of these sets of muscles. After much observation the alternative mixture originated and prescribed by Walter S. McDade, of Philadelphia, and highly indorsed by Dr. F. E. Rush, of the Bellevue Medical College, New York, and J. Marion Sims, of the Chicago University of Medicine, all medical men of the highest standing on the continent, was chosen. To this compound was added the different tonics above described. Merrill's System Tonic cannot be called a quick medicine as it accomplishes four great purposes, on which ninety per cent. of disease hinges, viz., purifies the blood, builds up the glandular and muscular system, strengthens and soothes the nerves and cures constipation. It thus guarantees you a permanent cure for dyspepsia, skin diseases, kidney troubles, general debility, nervousness and female troubles.

Price 50 cents for 50 doses. Sold at ALL DRUG STORES, or sent six bottles, for $2.50, prepaid, to any address by the MERRILL MEDICINE COMPANY, Brantford, Ontario.

AT HISTORIC QUEBEC.

Royal Party Will Enter the Ancient Capital Today.

A WARM WELCOME IN STORE.

A Military Parade—Sunday Service for the Troops Assembled—Governor-General and Prime Minister Sir Wilfrid Laurier Will Welcome Their Royal Highnesses on Board the Ophir.

Quebec, Sept. 16.—The troops from outside the city kept arriving all yesterday morning. In the morning the 65th, most of the 9th Regiment and detachments from the other corps attended a grand mass at the Seminary Chapel, at which the Rev. Father O'Leary, chaplain of the 1st contingent, officiated. Detachments from the different regiments also attended the Methodist and Presbyterian services.

At 2 o'clock a parade service was held for the Protestant troops upon the Plains of Abraham. The men were formed up on three sides of a hollow square, facing inwards. On the right flank were the Army Medical Staff corps and the 2nd Canadian Infantry. On the left flank the Prince of Wales' Fusiliers, the 5th Royal Scots, the 53rd (Sherbrooke) and the 85th (St. Hyacinthe), on the left flank the Vics, and the 8th Royal Rifles.

To do fitting honor to the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York, preparations throughout the city are of a most elaborate nature. Flags and banners float from every house.

THE OFFICIAL PROGRAM.

The Canadian Itinerary of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York.

Montreal, Sept. 16.—The Canadian itinerary of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York, which begins at Quebec to-day, when the official landing takes place at noon, and ends on Oct. 21, when the Ophir sails from Halifax, will include nearly every province of this wide Dominion and many of the leading cities. At 9.30 this morning the Governor-General and Prime Minister Laurier will go on board the royal yacht Ophir and at noon the landing will take place. At 12.30 addresses will be presented to the Duke, followed by a procession to the Citadel, a visit to Laval University, dinner at the Citadel and illumination of the city, music on the Terrace and fireworks on the 17th. There will be a naval and military review at 11 a.m., presentation of decorations and medals, luncheon at Spencerwood and a garden party. At 9.45 on the morning of the 18th, the ducal party will depart for Montreal.

Sept. 18, the Duke will arrive at the Place Viger Station, Montreal, at 3 p.m., and after the presentation of addresses will present decorations to the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York. At 3.45 the royal party will proceed to Lord Strathcona's house and at 9 p.m. there will be a reception at the City Hall. The city will be illuminated and there will be fireworks displays on the mountain and at Lafontaine Park. On the 19th the Duke will receive a degree at McGill University. Other arrangements include the opening of the Medical College, a visit to Royal Victoria Hospital, a visit to Ville Marie Cemetery and fireworks and illuminations in the evening. At 8.45 on the morning of the 20th the royal party will proceed to the Windsor Station.

Ottawa will be reached at 11.45 a.m., when the royal procession will take place to the Parliament Buildings. Addresses will be presented. The Duke and Duchess will witness a lacrosse match in the afternoon and attend a dinner at Government House at 7.30. At noon of the 21st the Duke will unveil the statue of Queen Victoria, at 12.30 medals will be presented; luncheon at Rideau Club at 1 and a garden party at Government House at 4.30. On the 23rd there will be a trolley ride, luncheon's trip, with voyagers through the Renouveau Rapids. Little Chaudiere Rapids and down the timber line. This will be followed by the log rolling and canoe races and at 9 p.m. there will be a reception at the Senate Chamber. The royal party will leave for Winnipeg at noon of Sept. 24.

The royal train will arrive at the capital of Manitoba at noon on the 26th, when there will be the usual presentation of addresses to the Duke and Duchess. A luncheon will be given at Government House at 1.30 and 3.30 His Royal Highness will open Manitoba University. The royal train will depart at 5.30. The next day practically the same program will be carried out at the Capital of the Territories.

The foothills of the Rockies will be reached on Sept. 28. At Calgary the Duke will inspect the Northern Mounted Police at 8.45; at 10 there will be a grand assembly of Indian tribes and at 3 a typical Northwest-ern exhibition will be held.

Vancouver will be reached Sept. 30. Among the duties outlined are the opening of the new drill hall by the Duke, a visit to the Hastings sawmill and a drive through the park where there will be a large gathering of school children.

October 1 the Royal party will reach Victoria and drive through the city to the Oak Bay Hotel. At 1.30 the Duke will lunch with the admiral and at 4 open the Agricultural Exhibition. In the evening there will be an official dinner at Government House, and a reception at the Legislative Buildings. On Oct. 2 the presentations will take place and at 8.30 the Royal party will witness an Indian war dance. The Royal train will leave Victoria at 10.30.

The program for the return trip is not yet announced, but will include a stop at Banff and in Manitoba to allow the Duke to have some shooting, and on several occasions the state of this village has been in jeopardy.

White River, Sept. 12.—Bush fires have been raging in this vicinity lately, and on several occasions the state of this village has been in jeopardy.

Socialists Arrested in Hamilton, Hamilton, Sept. 16.—Some De Leon Socialists publicly approved of the shooting of President McKinley in Hamilton, and on Saturday night Lockhart M. Gordon, Hamilton; Fred Appleton, London; Isaac Shapiro, Alex. McKenzie, George McNeal and Isaac Sherwood, street speakers of Hamilton, were arrested. All the prisoners except McNeal were bailed out on Sunday and they will appear before the magistrate to-day.

JUST WHY

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablet Has a Record of Cures Unparalleled.

Because it is not an experiment, not a "cure-all," but a modern, up-to-date formula, thoroughly tried and tested on many hundreds of cases in private practice, hospital and outdoor clinics.

A medicine that has kept pace with the times and the advancement of medical science. A medicine confined to a particular range. One that does not promise more than it can do.

A backache, kidney, bladder, ureter, pure and simple, the same yesterday, to-day and to-morrow. This great kidney medicine is a boon alike to the young, the middle-aged and the aged.

It was the people who successfully used Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets that applied to it the term: "The Great Kidney Medicine," because it removed symptoms like the following, that were staring them in the face every day, all the result of disordered kidneys; Backache.

Pain in the back, Puffy or dark circles under eyes, Weak, sluggish circulation, Urine cloudy, milk-like or stringy, Dark in color, or offensive.

Painful, scalding sensation in passing it. Dull, heavy headaches, tired, dizzy feeling, faint spells, irregular heart beats.

Urinary weakness, compelling frequent attention during the day, and to get up many times during the night. Restless, sleepless nights. Fagged out, run down and irritable. These are some of the danger signals nature sets to show that the track of health is not clear, but kidneys clogged and Bright's disease stealing in.

If you are convinced that Pitcher's Tablets are what you want, you can purchase them at your druggist's for 50 cents a bottle. If not obtainable at druggist, mailed free of postage on receipt of price.

OUR FOREIGN TRADE

Canada's Imports and Exports for the Past Year.

INCREASES OVER YEAR BEFORE

The Total Duty Collected for the Year Ending 30th June Last Was $29,106,979, and the Value of the Free Goods Was $11,316,510—The Exports—Different Countries Where We Buy and Sell.

Ottawa, Sept. 12.—The Department of Customs yesterday handed out a statement of the imports and exports of Canada by countries during the fiscal year ending June 31st. The total value of goods imported was $190,415,525, as against $189,622,513 in the previous year, or an increase of $793,012. The total value of goods entered for consumption was $181,237,988, an advance of $433,672, as compared with the preceding twelve months, when the figures were $180,804,316. Of the total imports $105,969,759 were dutiable and $75,268,222 were free, as against $104,346,795 dutiable and $76,457,521 free in 1900. The total duty collected amounted to $29,106,979, or $217,869 ahead of the previous fiscal year. The imports from Great Britain for consumption amounted to $43,164,297, as against $44,789,730 for the year previous, a reduction of about one million and three-quarters. The reduction, however, was in free goods, to which of course the preferential tariff does not apply. The value of free goods was $11,316,510, as against $13,227,974 in 1900. The dutiable goods from Great Britain show a slight increase over the figures for last year—$31,701,654, compared with $31,561,756. The value of goods imported from the United States for consumption was $110,485,008, while in the preceding year it was $109,844,578. The dutiable goods totalled $53,600,278 in value, as against $53,897,561, whilst the free goods were $56,884,000, compared with $55,946,817. The imports for consumption from France show an increase of $1,029,519, the figures being 1901, $5,398,021; 1900, $4,368,502. The increase was altogether in dutiable goods, which amounted to $4,569,060, as against $3,503,609. The free goods from France amounted to $828,961, while for the previous year they were $864,893. Canada took $7,021,405 worth of goods for consumption from Germany last year, a falling off, as compared with the year previous, when they amounted to $8,283,498. The value of dutiable goods was $6,121,190, as against $7,465,447, and that of free goods $900,215, compared with $918,051.

The Exports.
The grand total of exports was $196,487,632. In making up these figures no account was taken of exports "short returned" to the United States, as in previous years. If the practice of making an estimate of "short returned" had been followed this year the estimate would be $6,108,789. It has been deemed advisable by the department to discontinue the practice this year, in view of the fact that a new system of recording export entries was inaugurated at the commencement of the last fiscal year, under which it is hoped that greater accuracy will be secured. It is not considered possible to devise a system regarding export entries which will insure a complete record of all merchandise exported from the country being obtained, inasmuch as a great deal of merchandise goes by road in districts remote from custom houses, and for other reasons. Notwithstanding this, it has been considered wise to base the statistics of exports for the present year and for the future on the actual figures recorded by the entries made at the ports of exit.

The exports of Canadian merchandise to Great Britain last year amounted to $92,857,625, as against $96,562,875 for the year previous, a reduction of $3,705,250. The value of foreign exports sent from this country to Great Britain was $12,471,431, as against $11,173,093. The exports of Canadian merchandise to the United States (not including estimate short) were $67,983,673, while for the year previous they were $59,666,556, including "short returned," an increase of $8,317,117. The increase of exports to the United States is accounted for largely by the bullion shipped from the Yukon. The foreign merchandise sent from Canada to the United States was $2,423,168, an increase of $456,751 over the previous twelve months. The exports of Canadian merchandise to France were $64,369 ahead of 1900, amounting to $1,436,628. In 1900 the exports of foreign merchandise to France were $2,411, last year they reached a total of $144,703. The exports of Canadian merchandise to Germany increased by over a quarter of a million, the figures being $1,374,716, compared with $1,108,163. Of foreign merchandise Canada sent $766,836, or $159,096 more than in 1900.

A Double-Ender.
"I don't believe you love me a bit," sobbed his wife.
"But I do, darling. I—"
"Don't tell me. It's unnatural you should. No man would love a woman who wears such old hats as I do."

The Poet and His Fancy.
"Last night I saw the sunset," The poet, dreaming, wrote;
"Within a liquid, crimson sea
I thought I saw my float—"
Last night I saw the sunset,
It sank down in the plain
As some great, burning ship might sink
From sight upon the main."

The poet's old father
Perused each splendid line,
And, sighing gravely said at last:
"That's most uncommon fine!
You stood and watched the sun set,
As many another's done;
Now try to see it rise some time,
For that's what pays, my son."

A Business Proposition.

We offer you a better investment than Government Bonds.

Better for three reasons.

1st.—Canada Life 5 per cent. Gold Bonds yield a much higher rate of interest than Government Bonds.

2nd.—They are paid for by instalments—thus placed within the reach of men without capital.

3rd.—They are insured. That is, should the investor die after paying only one instalment on his bonds, all his future payments to the Company would be immediately cancelled and the benefits of his investment would be at once become available.

Add to all these advantages the very material one that the investor shares in the surplus earnings of this leading Company, and you have an opportunity for safe and profitable investment rarely equalled. A handsome booklet, giving a full explanation, will be sent on request.

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, SEPT. 20th, '01
LOCAL NEWS-LETTERS

HARTLEY
(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Best 17 oz. grain bags for 25c, at Byams.—wtf.

GLENNAM.
(From Our Own Correspondent.)
A full line of school supplies at Byam & Son's—wtf. Let us go to the Lindsay Central. The Platoon children, the youngest and cleverest national dancers in the Dominion winners of many prizes, are one of the special attractions at the fair.

KINMOUNT.
(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Walton & Jones in the funniest and prettiest comedy sketch, introducing wonderful Cornet playing and the prettiest dancing by a lady ever seen in Canada, are among the attractions to be seen at the Lindsay Exhibition. Don't fail to go to the premier fair of the Midland district, Sept. 26th, 27th and 28th. P. J. & J. J. proprietors of the Kinmount flour mills, manufacturers and dealers in high patent and family flour, bran, shorts and all kinds of grains, are selling Royal Oak for $2.20, Silver Star, $2.00, and Red Star, $1.90, which is 30c. per hundred less than what they started their mill in Kinmount. Grinding and chopping carefully and promptly done. Flour and feed delivered to any part of the town.—wtf.

VICTORIA ROAD.
(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Let us all go to the Lindsay Central to see Lily Blato, the youngest Lady Cornet player, and Nellie Franklin, the clever English dancer and singer. All wheels will trundle to Victoria Road on 24th and 25th, where the great North Fair takes place. Many horses from many places are booked for the speeding on the new track. The best-looking and the most prosperous sons and daughters of North Victoria will be here in their gayest attire and carry with them their pleasant smiles and most pleasing manners, to enjoy a happy day at the Victoria Road. This year's fair will be second to none—the best ever held with new grounds, new track and many other improvements to give the people just competition. Good prizes, sure money and a jolly day will be the result. Curtis merry-go-round is to be here, also Colobcock band and many other attractions too numerous to mention. The President and directors, and all connected with the management, have done everything possible, and intend this year the great North Fair, held at Victoria Road the first in the Midland district. Your bankers, merchants, doctors, lawyers, and others, annually come to see the farmers of the north, their horses, cattle, poultry, swine, dairy produce, grain, vegetables, and especially the artistic fancy work wrought by the nimble fingers of the ladies.

OAKWOOD.
(Special to The Post.)
Come to Lindsay Fair with us to see the three year old speeding—a new feature. Nothing like bringing in young blood. Sept. 26th, 27th and 28th.

A repeat order of those nobly whippoorwill overcoats, which have sold so well this fall, expected in a few days at Hogg Bros., Oakwood.—wtf. The Wilkinson ploughs and points are the best in the market. For sale by E. Prosser, Oakwood.—wtf. One of our young lads had a surprise on Saturday evening last. He purchased a watermelon costing 10c. and let it in a friend's store while he finished his purchases. In his absence a few of the village lads called for the 'melon and a good feed was enjoyed. To say the owner was surprised when he learned of this act is putting it mild.

We are glad to learn that the condition of Mrs. T. H. King, who has been quite ill for a few weeks past, is now very favorable. Farmers in this locality rejoiced over the welcome showers of rain during the last few days. Fall ploughing is now in order. Readers, do not forget to visit our fall show. Before purchasing will you be good enough to ask to have a look at the last two shipments of Suits, just arrived at Hogg Bros. Price $7 and $7.50, special value.—wtf. The news of the death of Mr. Magwood in Lindsay on Sunday from appendicitis, was received with sadness. The deceased was in his 53rd year. His funeral took place on Tuesday and was largely attended. Farmers' attention! You will find the Wilkinson plough the best to use on the land. E. Prouse is agent. Give him a call.—wtf.

Mr. T. H. King, the proprietor of the Temperance hotel in our village, is making preparations for a great crowd which he expects on the fair days—Oct. 1st and 2nd. Ample accommodations are provided for the comforts of man and beast, and all who come will find a pleasant time with Friend King.

Over 200 pairs of pants in stock at Hogg Bros., from 90c. to $3.00 per pair. Cut right, made right, and marked right.—wtf.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Taylor, of Cambridge, are visiting at Mr. and Mrs. T. H. King's. We notice our village streets are being cleaned up and put in order so as to impress our visitors. Any make of Wilkinson's ploughs and points for sale by E. Prosser, Oakwood.—wtf.

The visitor to our village will be struck with the natural beauty of the surroundings of our town hall property. Nearby are the fair grounds and our fair directors will do their level best to make the fair grounds more attractive than ever this season. Hogg Bros. are clearing several lines—old lines of Dry Goods at 10c. a yard. B. gular prices from 12 1/2c. to 20c. Ask to see them.—wtf. At the church services on Sunday the ministers referred in their prayers to the death of President McKinley in feeling terms. The directors of Oakwood Fair extend a cordial invitation to everybody to visit their fall fair to be held

Oct. 1st and 2nd. Don't forget the date. No pains are being spared to make this the best yet. Special attractions in the ring. Special attention to the committee on sports to get up an exhibition trial of speed between Frank Reynolds' of Sunderland, team of bronchos and Dr. Chambers' bronchos, of this place, say, a trial of twenty times around the ring. It would be a novelty and would let the lovers of horsemanship see what the 'critters are capable of. Some people think if they want to see a fine animal they are not able to do so without going to the Pan-American or Toronto Exhibitions, but such is not the case. We think that Jimmy Thornlyke, of Oakwood, stands 14 3/4 hands, girths 5 feet 2 inches, weighs 700 pounds, and only a year old last May. Jimmy has it well as a load of Tawhuworth hogs, to Port Perry fair, and we trust he will bring home the red ticket for both. The colt without exception is pronounced to be one of the finest in Canada.

We regret to hear of George Hicks, one of his horses. Just now when horses are scarce, it is away up in G. makes the loss heavier. The celebrated trial—Beef Ring vs. Graham—was decided at the last meeting of court at Oakwood. A verdict was given against Graham for twenty-one cents. We understand George would not take any change out of the quarter, so there will be one cent each for the stockholders and 5c. for Charlie.

Mr. Chambers is home again from the Pan-American. The Presbyterian pulpit was occupied on Sunday by Rev. Sinclair, of Whitby. Rev. Mr. Webster was expected. We presume he will be here the next two Sabbaths. Sunday morning there was baptismal services in the Methodist church, which ceremony was witnessed by a large congregation. Mrs. D. Trumble, Mrs. Jos. Thiney, Mrs. W. H. Brandon and Mrs. Fred Brass, were among the number who had their little ones sprinkled. In the evening Rev. Mr. Munroe, of Little Britain, preached an eloquent sermon to a crowded church.

Harry Pavell is about to leave Oakwood to take up his residence in the thriving town of Midland where he understands he has secured a good situation in one of the large mills. Charlie Thomas has taken up his residence at Manilla Jct., where he will look after the interests of Hogg & Lyle in the grain buying business. At the time of writing Mr. T. H. King, who has been seriously ill in a short way to recovery.

CAMBRIDGE.
(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Byams sell the 'Erect Form' corsets and other lines of Crompton's best make.—wtf. We hear that the directors of the Lindsay Central have erected an elegant and new poultry house 100 feet long, so there will be a fine display of birds at the Fair on Sept. 26th, 27th and 28th. All kinds of farm produce taken for cash or trade at Byam & Son's.—wtf.

MANILLA.
(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Franklyn & Haite, the marvelous Lightning Change Impersonators, in realistic sketches of English characters, are engaged by the directors of the Lindsay Central to give some of their unique performances. Don't fail to go and see all the great sights. Messrs. Dan. Carmichael and Geo. Douglas spent a few days at the Pan-American last week. Mr. John DeLury went to Toronto on Friday to attend Varsity. Miss Annie McAdgen is spending a few days in Port Perry. Mr. and Mrs. Glendinning are at the Pan-American for a few days. Mr. and Mrs. Stewart left Tuesday morning to visit the Pan-American before leaving for their future home in Duluth, Minn. Miss Daniel, of Toronto, is the guest of Mrs. E. King. Miss M. Douglas has returned home, after spending a couple of weeks with friends in Peterboro and Bethany. Miss Minnie DeLury has returned to Chicago, after spending a month at home.

MT. PLEASANT.
(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Arno, the Contortionist, who performs feats which have mystified the medical profession in Canada and the United States, will perform at the Lindsay Fair on the 26th, 27th and 28th Sept.

Flats have been flying in our town at half mast, out of respect to the late President McKinley. The Rev. Wm. Kinnawin referred to his death on Sabbath last, taking for his text: "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and unto God the things that are God's." H. J. McLean with his wife and son have gone on a visit to Mrs. Nellie Greig, at Smith's Falls. They will visit Ottawa before they return and will likely have the pleasure of seeing the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall while there.

Mrs. T. Jamieson has left for Ottawa to visit her sister Mrs. Denne. Rev. Mr. Munroe, of Little Britain, preached an eloquent sermon to a crowded church. Harry Pavell is about to leave Oakwood to take up his residence in the thriving town of Midland where he understands he has secured a good situation in one of the large mills. Charlie Thomas has taken up his residence at Manilla Jct., where he will look after the interests of Hogg & Lyle in the grain buying business. At the time of writing Mr. T. H. King, who has been seriously ill in a short way to recovery.

The butter factory will be in operation very soon. The season for making cheese will end next month unless the season remains open longer than usual. We look for the best quality of butter being made here this winter, as Mr. Casey has had ample time to study up the new discoveries in the manufacture of butter. Farmers should avail themselves of the opportunity of having good butter and saving of labor to their lives, who are taxed sufficiently with work without the trouble of making butter. We hear they are offering larger and better prizes for all stock at the Lindsay Fair this year. We may expect to see a very fine display in all classes.

MILLERSMITH-EMILY.
(From Our Own Correspondent.)
The Shadow social, though a new feature in the line of money-making entertainments, was not in reality what many anticipated, notwithstanding its financial success. The next attempt will be of a different nature. Rev. M. L. High, pastor of the Methodist church, is at present confined to his bed. We hope to soon see him at his duties again. Mr. John Kennedy has lately sold his farm, (the old homestead), to his brother, David Kennedy. We are sorry to learn that Mr. Thos. Johns is unable to attend to his duties. We hope to soon see him in his accustomed health and strength. Owing to the rumor that another picnic was to be held here this fall, we might have announced that all thoughts of it have been abandoned.

WOODVILLE.
(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Come away with us to the Lindsay Exhibition on the 26th, 27th and 28th Sept. Harry Rich is to be there. See Canada's foremost comedians in a series of very funny and amusing songs and sketches. near future.

It's our fair this week, and a grand concert in Victoria hall on Friday night. All come.

Mr. W. J. Moore visited with relatives at Buffalo and vicinity last week. Secretary J. C. Gilchrist reports entries for Woodville Fair to date far ahead of former years.

The much talked-of Lambert vs. Bagg case, for damages resulting from a fight on the highway last June, was settled here on Monday night out of court. We understand the defendant pays $250 and each party pays their own costs. Mr. T. Stewart, Lindsay, and Mr. Reid, Canastota, were the legal advisers and with the assistance of arbitrators here, a settlement was effected. This fighting is both hard on the purse and dangerous to the eyes.

Miss E. Browning and Miss Barnes, of Toronto, visited with Mr. J. Barnes here for a few days, returning to the city on Saturday.

The entertainment on Friday night in Victoria hall will be represented by some of Toronto's best talent, and should bring a full house.

A number of good horses are booked for the speeding on the new track, which no doubt will prove an interesting feature. Arch Campbell, our miller, received his new 50-horse power engine a few days ago. It and the new addition to the building, and other improvements, make a decided change. Miss Maggie G. Campbell, of London, Ont., is visiting with friends and acquaintances here this week. The farmers are busy harvesting clover in this section, which is a good crop generally. Saturday morning last news came of the death of President McKinley, which was a great surprise to all, and many were the expressions of regret. In the churches the ministers feelingly referred to the death of the good President.

ARMSTRONG BROS.,

Manufacturing Furriers and Hatters, Lindsay.

Mr. John Campbell, Fairview Farm, will visit the Pan-American this week with his lot of prize sheep. We expect he will carry away many prizes, as usual.

LITTLE BRITAIN.
(From Our Own Correspondent.)
For bicycle repairing and bicycle supplies, go to Isaac McKee. He is a practical machinist and can guarantee a first-class job. Bicycles, engines and farm implements repaired promptly at reasonable prices. ISAAC MCKEE, Little Britain Foundry.—wtf.

Come with us to the Lindsay Fair to see Varin & Turanne, the celebrated Mexican axe jugglers, showing their wonderful skill in handling a perfect shower of axes, Sept. 26th, 27th and 28th.

We are very sorry to say that Mr. J. Jones has taken ill with typhoid fever. It is hoped that he will recover.

Mrs. F. Yerex presented her husband with a fine baby boy. Mr. W. E. Yerex is delivering a great many ploughs, which shows that his business is going all right. We are glad to see our former pastor, Rev. Terrill and wife, back for a visit.

On Sunday last Rev. Mr. Terrill took the pulpit and preached a fine missionary sermon in the morning, and Mr. Clare, of Oakwood, delivered a masterly address in the evening. The collections and contributions amounted to $90, or in the vicinity thereof. Our Christian pastor, Mr. Rattan, has taken a trip back north to his brother's for the benefit of his health. Mr. G. Shaver preached in his place on Sunday morning. We hope Mr. Rattan will come back feeling much and stronger.

Mr. D. Yerex, who was leader of the choir before being taken ill, is back again to fill his old position. Mr. S. Metherell is very busy at present getting his sheep ready for the coming fall. He has a fine lot this season, and we hope to see him win many prizes. He started for Port Perry fair on Tuesday morning.

Mr. J. Connors, who was recently ill with typhoid fever, is out again, and although he is very thin yet he has the same happy smile on his face.

POPULAR ENTERTAINMENT COURSE

What the Y.M.C.A. Intend Doing to Amuse and Instruct our People During the Coming Season

The efforts of the Y.M.C.A. to provide a good class of entertainments at a moderate rate met with such an expression of popular approval last year that they have completed arrangements for another course of five concerts.

The Fadettes Woman's Orchestra, of Boston, will open the course on Nov. 5th with a brilliant concert.

This orchestra, under the management of Mrs. Caroline Nichols, so captivated the audience last year that it does not need any special introduction to the music-loving people of Lindsay. The personnel of the orchestra remains practically unchanged, the players representing the finest and highest attainments on their respective instruments.

The orchestra will have the assistance of a prominent soprano whose singing will add charm to the program. For variety no greater attraction could be found than the one selected, "Little Lina" Hartman, the child impersonator, to whom Eugene O'Neill wrote, "The poems will be better for being recited by you."

The Eugene Page Concert Co. will appear Dec. 5th. Mr. Page has been for ten years identified with the best musical combinations of America, and is now conducting for the second year the company bearing his name. The company consists of a string quartet, harp, violinello, and two mandolins and a soprano soloist. They have received many words of commendation for their clever work of last year.

The third concert will be given on Jan. 1st, 1902, by Albert Armstrong, in his dramatic picture play, "The Little Minister." Humor, pathos and dramatic interest are so richly mingled in this charming love story that when seen and heard, as presented by Mr. Armstrong, is delightfully entertaining. The general secretary of the Boston Y.M.C.A., says, "I commend the Picture Plays heartily to our associations throughout the country." Mr. Armstrong appeared in Massey Hall, Toronto, last year.

The fourth concert will be unique in that it is to be given by a quartette of artists from the Valley of Auer, Bavarian Alps, Bavaria, in their native costume. Reihoffer's Tryolcan Yodlers and Concert Company, of Bavaria, has had remarkable success, not only in Europe, but also in America. Their program contains Tryolcan and American songs, yodling and echo songs, quartettes and duets, to the accompaniment of Alpine instruments, new to Canadian audiences. Not only has Franz Reihoffer earned a reputation for his ability as a singer and a performer on a variety of instruments, but also as a mimic, and during the evening will impersonate a number of well-known characters. This concert will be held March 8th.

Mr. J. Williams Macy, who closed his first series of lectures, has been engaged to do the same for the coming course, this event taking place on April 6th, 1902. Merely to state that he has appeared for 10 consecutive years in Philadelphia Y.M.C.A., and eight years in Boston Y.M.C.A. Course, is sufficient guarantee that he will be able to sustain the reputation he earned upon his first visit to Lindsay.

By combining these five events the Y.M.C.A. are able to sell subscribers' tickets for the five concerts for $1 per ticket, subject to an additional charge of 10c. for reserving of seats. Already a large number of the subscribers' tickets have been applied for.

Single Fare Tickets

To Lindsay can be purchased on Oct. 5th (the day of the Reform Convention) good to return on 7th, at any agency of the Grand Trunk Railway, where the ordinary single fare does not exceed $2.50.

Surpasses in point of Elegance, Value and Usefulness our best former efforts. We are confident it will merit your approbation. Never heretofore have we grouped together such a fine showing of headwear. If you have not already made your selection of style, you will find variety enough here to make that an easy task. Test us this season for stylish millinery.

MOVEMENTS OF ROYAL TRAIN

Provisional Time-Table Prepared by Grand Trunk Authorities

Although the movements of the royal train on its return to the city have not been definitely decided, the G.T.R., which takes charge of the train at North Bay, has arranged a provisional time-table.

North Bay will be left at 6.55 a.m. on October 10th, and after a stop of perhaps an hour at Scotia Junction and a minute or so at Grayhurst, and Allandale, the train will run through to Toronto, arriving at two p.m.

The Duke will leave Toronto at nine a.m. on October 12th, and, having stopped at various intermediate stations of a minute or so at Grayhurst, and Allandale, the train will run through to Toronto, arriving at two p.m.

FIRST DAY OF THE BIG FAIR

NUMBER OF ENTRIES WILL BE ENORMOUS.

Weather indications favorable and a record-breaking crowd expected on Friday.

As we go to press to-day (Thursday) the Central Fair grounds present a scene of unexampled hustle and hurry, directors and exhibitors being in the throes of preparation for the opening Friday. The great increase in the number of entries in all departments, and the grand special attractions secured by the management, make it certain that the Fair will prove the most successful ever held. Weather indications are favorable, and there is a general conviction that the attendance will exceed all past records. A full report will appear in next week's issue.

List of Special Attractions.

Lily Eliso, the Canadian Premier Cornet Player, and the youngest of her sex in Canada who plays that difficult instrument. She will give selection of national and popular airs.

Nellie Franklin, the clever English dancer and singer, in a pretty and picturesque song and dance sketch.

Arago, the contortionist, who performs feats which have mystified the London society.

The Bietso children, national dancers, winners of numerous prizes, and the cleverest young dancers in Canada.

Harry Ritch, Canada's foremost comedian, in a series of very funny and amusing songs and sketches.

Franklin and Hatt, the marvellous English lightning change impersonators, in realistic sketches of English characters, including the sea side resort, lady and gent, the race course swells, the English costers, London society swells.

Varin and Turonne, the celebrated Roman axe jugglers, in wonderful feats of daring and strength, handling a perfect shower of axes.

Walton and Jones, the funniest and prettiest comedy sketch ever put on any stage, introducing a wonderful cornet player and the prettiest dancing by a lady ever seen in Canada.

Arms and the Woman.

BY HAROLD MacGRATH.

"Your highness," said the prince, with a bow which entailed the sweeping of his hands, "I would marry you were you a noble."

"What?" roared Hillars in English. But he was a moment too late. My hands were around the throat of Prince Ernst of Wortumburg, and I was shaking him till his teeth chattered on each other like castanets. Surely I would have throttled him but for the intervention of the count and the cavalrymen. The count swung his arm around my neck, while the cavalrymen, their sabers points at Hillars' breast, wrenched loose my hands. I stood glaring at him, panting and furious. He leaned against the table, gasping and coughing. Finally he recovered his composure.

"Count, I was wrong; you were right. These fellows are dangerous."

"I will fight you on any terms," I said back at him.

"I shall send you one of my lackeys," he replied. "Take them away, and shoot them if they resist."

"Liberate the gentlemen," said Gretchen. The count gazed at her in amazement.

"Liberate them?" he cried. "I command it."

"You?" said the prince. "Yes. This is my principle; these are my soldiers. I command here. This was a coup indeed."

"But we represent his majesty!" cried the count, still holding me by the throat. I was all but strangled myself.

"I care not whom you represent," said Gretchen. "I am obedient only to the king, not his minions. Release the gentlemen!"

The count's arm slowly unwound. Hillars pressed down the sabers points with his hands and shook off the band of one of the cavaliers.

"If it be your highness' will," he said, "we will throw these intruders into the road. Might is right," waving his hand to the door which led to the barroom. The innkeeper and three others fled into the room grimly and silently. They were armed. For the first time the prince lost patience.

"This is all very well, your highness," he sneered. "You misunderstand the limits of your power to command."

"Not in any part," said Gretchen. "I am sovereign here notwithstanding the king's will is paramount to my own. These people are my people; these soldiers are fed of my bounty; this is my country till the king takes it back. You will act further at your peril."

CHAPTER XIV.

A bar of sunlight suddenly pervaded the room—red sunlight—lighting in its passing a tableau I shall never forget. Gretchen stood at her full height, her arms held closely on her sides and her hands clenched. On her face there was that half smile called consciousness of triumph. Hillars was gazing at her with his soul swimming in his eyes. And I—I had a wild desire to throw myself at her feet then and there. Over the hard set visage of the innkeeper the bar of sunlight traveled, over the scowling countenance of the prince, over the puzzled brow of the count, and, going, left a golden purple in its wake, which imperceptibly deepened. The prince was first to speak.

"I protest," said he.

"Against what?" asked Gretchen.

"It is the king's will that you become my wife. He will not tolerate this attitude of yours. Your principle is in jeopardy, let me tell you."

"Does the fact that I have promised the king to become your wife detract from my power? Not a jot. Till you are my husband I am mistress here and after."

"As to that we shall see," said the prince. "Then you intend to keep your promise?"

"Is there man or woman who can say that I ever broke one?"

"Your highness, what are your commands?" It was the innkeeper who spoke. His fingers were twitching about the hammer of his carbine. He nodded approvingly toward me. My assault upon the prince had brought me again into his good graces.

Gretchen did not answer him, but she smiled kindly.

"Ah, yes," said the prince. "This is that Breunier fellow."

The innkeeper made a movement. The prince saw it, and so did I. Prince Ernst of Wortumburg was never so near death in all his life as at that moment. He knew it too.

"Your highness has a very good memory," said the innkeeper dryly.

"There are some things I were best to forget," replied the prince.

"I am pleased that your highness shares my opinion," returned the old fellow. The muzzle of the carbine was once more pointed at the ceiling.

The rest of us looked on, but we understood nothing of these passes. Even Gretchen was in the dark.

"We met long ago," said the innkeeper.

"Yes, but I have really forgotten what the subject of our discussion was," said the prince, regarding the innkeeper through half closed lids.

"Perhaps he can explain."

"It is very kind of your highness," said the innkeeper, laughing maliciously. "But I am old, and my memory serves me ill."

The prince shrugged. "But we have drifted away from the present matter. Your highness, then, promises to bend to the will of the king?"

"Yes," said Gretchen. "I gave the king my promise because I had wearied of resistance, having no one to turn to—then, I shall marry you, though I detest you. But I shall be your wife only in name and not in the eyes of God."

"The latter sacrifice was not asked of you," smiled the prince.

"I shall depart this day for the capital," continued Gretchen. "I warn you not to inflict your presence upon me during the journey. Now go. The air while you remain is somewhat difficult to breathe."

The prince surveyed the menacing faces which surrounded him, then gathered up his hat and gloves.

"I see that your highness will be a dutiful wife," he said, smoothing the silk of his hat with his elbow. He blew into his gloves and carefully drew them over his hands. "A pleasant journey to your highness," he added.

"Come, count. And these?" waving his hand toward Hillars and me.

"They have my fullest protection," He smiled villainously, then walked to the door with a measured tread. At the door he turned. There was a flash of rage in his eyes, but he quickly subdued it.

"Auf wiedersehen!" with a sweeping glance which took in all of us and particularly me.

He passed out, the count following him soberly. The two cavaliers thrust their sabers into the scabbards with a clank and made as though to follow.

"Wait," said Gretchen. "I shall have need of you. You will escort me to the station. Now you may go."

They saluted gravely. They appreciated the situation. The princess was their bread and butter.

"Your highness," said Hillars, "there has been a mistake."

"A mistake!" repeated Gretchen wonderingly.

"Yes; they have made you a princess, whereas they should have made you a queen. Will you forgive me the trouble I have caused?"

"It is I who must ask forgiveness of you," she said, with a sad smile. "You may kiss my hand, sir."

Hillars remained somewhat long over it.

"And how comes it that you gentlemen know each other?" she asked.

"Damon and Pythias, your highness," answered Hillars. "We were brought up together, and we have shared our tents and kettles. I recommend Pythias to you as a brave gentleman."

Then he came to me. "You are a brave fellow, Jack," grasping my hand. "Good luck to you. I had an idea. It has returned. Now, then, innkeeper, come with me."

"With you, and where?" asked the innkeeper. If there was one thing for which he could not account, it was the presence of Hillars at the inn.

"Never mind where, but come," answered Hillars gayly. He bent and whispered something into the old fellow's ear. It was something which pleased him, for he screwed his lips into a smile and took the white hand of the whisperer in his brawny fist and nigh crushed it.

"Well, well! It doesn't matter where you came from. Here, you," to the trio behind him, "go back to the stables." They fled out. Then the innkeeper took Hillars by the arm. "Come along; time passes."

"And where are you going?" I asked anxiously. Hillars should not have passed from my sight but for Gretchen.

"We'll be back shortly," he answered. "You will know all about it then, my son."

He stood on the sill of the door, a handsome picture. His gray eyes sparkled, his face was full of excitement and there was a color in his cheeks. There was no sign here of the dispirited man of the night before. It was Hillars as I had seen him in the old days. But for his nineteenth century garb he might have just stepped down from a frame—a gallant by Fortuny, who loved the awakened animal in man. The pulse was careless, but graceful, and the smile was debonaire. His eyes were holding Gretchen's. A moment passed, another and another; then, "Long live and God bless her serene highness the Princess Hildegarde!" And he was gone.

And as he disappeared a shadow of some sort passed before my eyes, and a something dull and heavily pressed upon my heart. Presently came the sound of beating hoofs, and then all became still.

Gretchen and I were alone. Gretchen appeared to be studying the blue veins in her hands which she listlessly held before her. An interval of three or four minutes passed; still she remained in that pathetic attitude, silent and motionless.

"Gretchen," said I, "have you nothing to say?"

"Yes." Her eyes raised to the level of mine, and I saw that they were deep in tears. "Herr, I shall say to you that which I have never said to any man and that which I shall never say to any man again. I love you! I love you, and, loving you, God knows what the future without you shall be. Yes, I love you. Take me once in your arms and kiss me and let me go forever."

Then, with a smile which partly shielded a sob, her arms went around my neck and her face lay close to mine. Heaven knows which was the greater, the joy or the pain.

"Gretchen, think!" I cried distractedly. "What is a prince or a king to you and me, who love?"

"There is honor," gently. She caressed my cheek with her fingers.

"Honor!" I cried vehemently. "Is it honorable to marry the man you do not love and break the hearts of one who do?"

She did not answer, but her arms fell from my neck, and she approached the window. The passing river was reflected in her eyes. Her reverie was a short one.

"Listen, herr. I will tell you why it is honorable. The prince and the king? I fear the one as little as I do the other. It is not the prince, it is not the king, it is not the principality. Herr, I have come near to being a very wicked woman, who was about to break the most sacred promise a sovereign can make. Before I came here a delegation of my people approached me. On bended knees they asked me not to voluntarily return the principality to the king, who was likely to give them a ruler rapacious or cruel or indifferent. And while they understood that a sacrifice it meant to me, they asked me to bend my will to the king's and wed the prince, vowing that I alone should be recognized as their sovereign ruler. Since my coronation they said that they had known the first happiness in years. Herr, it was so pathetic! I love my people, who, after all, are not adopted, since I was born here. So I gave my promise, and, heaven forgive me, I was about to break it!"

"There are some things, herr, which the public does not understand. One of these is the duty a sovereign owes to the people. The woman in me wishes to follow your fortunes, though they carry her to the ends of the world, but the sovereign sees but one path—honor and duty. What is one human heart to a hundred thousand? A grain of sand, Herr, let mine be broken. I shall not murmur. Alas, to be a princess, a puppet in this tinseled show of kings and queens! It is my word and the king's will which have made my happiness an impossibility. Though I love you, I wish never to see you again. I shall be wife but in name, yet I may not have a lover. I am not a woman of the court. I am proud of my honor, though the man who is to be my husband doubts that."

"No, Gretchen," said I, "he does not doubt it, but he wishes me to do so. 'Where in your innocence as I conceive—your love.'"

"It is sad, is it not," said she, "that we must go through our days loving each other and all the world standing between? I have never loved a man before. I did not want to love you. I did not know that I loved you till I saw that your life was in danger. Yet I am glad that I have lived for a brief second, for till a woman loves she does not live. I am brave; do you be likewise. I shall go back to the world, and who shall know of the heart of fire beneath the ice? Not even the man I love. Kiss me. It is the last kiss I shall take from the lips of any man."

And it seemed to me that our souls met in that last kiss, melted and became one. Her hands dropped to her side, and she swiftly she sped from the room.

She had entered the coach. The cavaliers were perched upon the box. There was a crack of the lash, and the coach rolled away. I watched it, standing in the road. A cloud of yellow dust partially obscured it from view. Half a mile beyond rose a small hill. This the coach mounted, and the red glow of the smoldering sun engulfed it. Was it a face I saw at the window? Perhaps. Then over the hill all disappeared and with it the whole world, and I stood in emptiness, alone.

Gretchen had gone.

CHAPTER XV.

I was wandering aimlessly through the rose gardens when the faroff sound of galloping hoofs came on the breeze. Nearer and nearer it drew. I ran out into the highway. I saw a horse come wildly dashing along. It was riderless, and as it came closer I saw the foam of sweat dripping from its flanks and shoulders. As the animal plunged toward me I made a spring and caught the bridle, hanging on till the brute came to a standstill. It was quivering from fright. There was a gasp on its neck, and it was bleeding and turning the white flakes of sweat into a murky crimson.

"Good Lord!" I ejaculated. "It's one of the cavalry horses. Hillars or the innkeeper has been hurt."

I was of the mind to mount the animal and go in search of them when Stahlberg, who had come to my assistance, said that I had best wait. A quarter of an hour passed. Then we could see another horse, perhaps half a mile away, coming toward the inn at a canter. From what I could see in the pale light, the horse carried a double burden. A sheet of ice seemed to fall on my heart. What had happened? Had Dan and the prince come to blows? Alas, I could have cried out in anguish at the sight which finally met my gaze. The innkeeper held the reins, and propped up in front of him was Hillars, to all appearances dead.

"Gott!" cried the innkeeper, discovering me. "but I am glad to see you, herr! Your friend has been hurt, badly, badly."

"Heavens!" I cried. The hand and wrist of the innkeeper which encircled Hillars were drenched in blood.

"Yes; a bullet somewhere in his chest. Help me down with him. He is not dead yet. I'll tell you the story when we have made him comfortable for him."

Tenderly we carried the inanimate form of poor Hillars into the inn and laid it on the sofa. A sore neck and blood wet shirt. The wound was slightly below the right lung. The bullet had severed an artery, for I could see that the blood gushed. We worked over him for a few moments, and then he opened his eyes. He saw me and smiled.

"There wasn't any regiment, old man, but this will suffice. My hand trembled. But he'll never use his right arm again, curse him."

"Dan, Dan," I cried, "what made you do it?"

"When I am a man's friend, it is in life and death. He was in the way. He may thank liquor that he lives."

The lids of his eyes contracted. "Hurts a little, but it will not be for long. My son." I am bleeding to death inside. Jack, the woman loves you, and in God's eyes, princess or not, she belongs to you. You and I cannot understand these things which make it impossible for a man and a woman who love each other to wed. Let me hold your hand. I feel like an old woman. Give me a mouthful of brandy. Ah, that's better. Innkeeper, your courage is not to be doubted, but your judgment of liquor is. Anyway, Jack, I suppose you will not forget me in a week or so, eh?"

"Dan!" was all I could say, bending over his hand to hide my tears.

"Jack, you are not sorry?"

"Dan, you are more to me than any woman in the world."

"Oh, say! You wouldn't—hold me up a bit higher; that's it—you wouldn't have me hang on now, would you? I haven't anything to live for, no matter how you put it. Home? I never had one. The only regret I have in leaving is that the prince will not keep me company. Put an obol in my hand, and Charon will see me over the Styx."

"And when, like her, O Jack, you shall pass among the guests star scattered on the grass, and in your joyous errand reach the spot where I made one, turn down an empty glass!"

"Well, hang me, Jack, if you aren't crying! You thought more of me than I believed; a man's tears mean more than a woman's. A man must die, and what is a year or two? How much better to fold the tent when living becomes tasteless and the cup is full of lees! The prince was a true cruel, but perhaps his hand trembled too. Innkeeper, you're a good fellow."

"Herr is a man of heart," said the grizzled veteran sadly.

"Tell Jack how it happened," said Dan. "It hurts me."

On leaving me, Hillars and the innkeeper, after having taken a pair of pistols, had mounted the cavalry horses despite the protests of the owners, and had galloped away in pursuit of the prince and Count von Walden. They caught sight of them a mile or so ahead. They were loping along at a fair speed. It took half an hour to bring the two parties within speaking distance. Although the prince and von Walden heard them, they never turned around, but kept on straight ahead. This made Hillars' choler rise, and he spurred forward.

"One moment, gentlemen," he cried. "I have a word with you!"

They galloped on unheeding. When Hillars got in front of them, they merely reared to either side.

"Ah!" said Hillars, choking with rage. With a quick movement he bent and caught the bridle of the prince's horse. The count, seeing that the prince was compelled to rein in, did likewise. The prince looked disdainful.

"Well, what is it?" asked von Walden. "Speak quickly. Has your scribbling friend run away with her highness?"

"My remarks, most noble and puissant count," said Hillars, bowing sarcastically to the neck of his horse, "I shall confine to the still more noble and puissant Prince of Wortumburg."

"This is an unappreciated honor," sneered the prince.

"So it is," replied Hillars lightly. "When an honest man speaks to you, he is conferring an honor upon you which you, as you say, cannot appreciate. It appears to me that your highness has what we in America call malaria. I propose to put a hole through you and let out this bad substance. Lead, properly used, is a great curative. Sir, your presence on this beautiful world is an eyesore to me."

"One excuse is as good as another," said the prince. "Did her highness delegate you to put me out of the way?"

"Oh, no. But since you have brought her name into it, I confess that it is on her account. Well, sir, no man has ever insulted a woman in my presence and gone unscathed. In English speaking lands we knock him down. This being Rome, I shall do as the Romans do. I believe I called you a liar. I will do so again. Is the object of my errand plain?"

"As I said to your friend," smiled the prince, "I will send a lackey down here to take care of you. Count, we shall hardly get to the station in time to catch the train. Young man, stand aside. You annoy me. I have no time to discuss the princess or her lovers. Release my horse!"

"What a cur you are!" cried Hillars, losing his airy tone. "By heaven, you will fight me if I have to knock you down and spit upon you!" Then with full force he flung his hat into the face of the prince.

"You have written fairs to your tale," said the prince, dismounting.

"Your highness," exclaimed the count, springing to the ground, "this must not be! You shall not risk your life at the hands of this cursed adventurer!"

"Patience, count," said the prince, shaking off the hand which the count had placed upon his shoulder. "Decidedly this fellow is worth consideration. Since we have no swords, sir, and they seem to be woman's weapons these days, we will use pistols. Of course, you have come prepared. It is a fine time for shooting. This first light of twilight gives us equal advantage. Will it be at 10 or 20 paces? I dare say. If we stand at 20 in the center of the road, we shall have a good look at each other before we separate indefinitely."

"Your highness insists?" murmured the count.

"I not only insist; I command." The prince took off his coat and waistcoat and deposited them on the grass at the side of the road. Hillars did likewise. There was a pleased expression on his face. "I do believe, count," laughed the prince, "this fellow expects to kill me. Now the pistols."

"If you will permit me," said the innkeeper, taking an oblong box from under his coat. "These are excellent weapons."

The prince laughed. "I suppose, innkeeper, if the result is disastrous to me it will please you?"

The innkeeper was not lacking in courage. "It won't be a pleasure, I assure you. There are certain reasons why I cannot fight you myself."

"To be sure."

"It would be too much like murder," continued the innkeeper. "Your hand would tremble so that you would miss me at point blank. There goes the last of the sun. We must hurry."

With a grimace the count accepted the box and took out the pistols.

"They are old fashioned," he said. "A deal like the innkeeper's morals," supplemented the prince.

"But effective," said the innkeeper. The count scowled at the old fellow, who met the look with phlegm. As an innkeeper he might be an inferior, but as a second at a duel he was an equal. It was altogether a different matter.

The count carefully loaded the weapons, the innkeeper watching him attentively. In his turn he examined them.

"Very good," he said. The paces were then measured out. During this labor the prince gazed indifferently toward the west. The aftermath of the sun glowed on the horizon. The prince shaded his eyes for a spell.

"Gentlemen," he said, "I believe the princess is approaching. At any rate, here comes the coach. Let us suspend hostilities till she has passed."

A few minutes later the coach came rumbling along in a whirlwind of dust. The stoical cavaliers kept on without so much as a glance at the quartet standing at the side of the road. Hillars looked after the vehicle till it was obscured from view. Then he shook himself out of the dream into which he had fallen. He was pale now, and his eyebrows were drawn together as the count held out the pistol.

"Ah, yes!" he said as though he had forgotten. "There goes the woman who will never become your wife."

"That shall be decided at once," was the retort of the prince.

"She will marry the gentleman back at the inn."

"A fine husband he will make, truly!" replied the prince. "He not only deserts her, but forsakes her champion. But that is neither here nor there. We shall not go through any polite formalities," his eyes snapping viciously.

COUNTY GOOD ROADS SYSTEM

In another column will be found a synopsis of the excellent address delivered Tuesday before the County Council by Mr. A. W. Campbell, Provincial Commissioner, in explanation of the provisions and application of the Good Roads Act recently passed by the Ontario government.

The meeting was well attended by representatives from the various townships, and Mr. Campbell's clear, frank and thorough explanation of the Act made a deep impression on his hearers.

The Good Roads committee of the Council devoted Wednesday to a careful consideration of the points brought out, and may report thereon in a few days. Details may require further discussion, but everyone will certainly hope that the good roads system will be endorsed in the near future. We want modern methods in road building, as in everything else.
The country pathmaster has outlived his usefulness.

THE LIBERAL CONVENTION.

The Liberals of our County are manifesting a deep interest in the convention to be held in the Academy of Music, Lindsay, on Saturday, Oct.
5th, to select a candidate to contest the West Riding at the approaching Provincial elections.

Over-confidence, born of many successes, has in the past contributed to the defeat of government candidates in West Victoria and other ridings, and these unexpected victories have been taken advantage of by the leaders of a despairing opposition and are being held up to the view of their followers as signal proofs that the people of Ontario are growing tired of a wise, careful and progressive administration of public affairs, the object being to fan the enthusiasm of Tory offiseekers and spoils hunters and urge them to a last desperate and possibly unscrupulous effort to oust from power the party that has made our province great and prosperous.

We have no fear of the result in West Victoria if our Liberal friends make a wise selection at the coming convention. But there must be unity of feeling between the various parts of the riding, honest work along every concession line, and an ever-present conviction that any feeling of over-confidence which may induce apathy and unconcern is almost certain to result in defeat.

It is very important that there should be a large attendance of delegates and workers on Saturday, 5th Oct. Let no Liberal stay away who can conveniently arrange to attend.
The convention will open at eleven o'clock. Single fare tickets will be issued by the G.T.R.

COUNTY GOOD ROADS SYSTEM

The Project was Discussed Tuesday
Before the County Council.

MR. A. W. CAMPBELL, PROVINCIAL COMMISSIONER, GAVE A LUCID EXPLANATION OF THE GOVERNMENT ACT EXTENDING AID.

The Provisions are of an Elastic Nature, and Give the County and Municipalities Great Liberty of Action—A Majority of the Townships in Favor of the Plan.

Pursuant to the call of Warden
Graham, representatives of the various municipalities in the County of Victoria, together with the members of the County Council, met in the County Council chamber Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock to hear the address to be delivered by Mr. A.
W. Campbell, Provincial Road Commissioner, on the vital question of the Good Roads Act.

Warden Graham had visited the various councils in the County, and presented the question of the validity of taking advantage of the provisions recently made by the legislature under the title of the "Good Roads Act," one million dollars having been set aside to aid in the construction of good roads throughout the Province. Objections had been raised to the proposition by some of the representatives in the municipalities and he (Warden Graham) considered it desirable that Road Commissioner Campbell should be asked to explain away the difficulties raised, the main one being that of County control. Accordingly the meeting was called, and was a very representative one.

THE GOOD ROADS ACT.

Warden Graham took the chair and called upon Mr. Campbell to address the members and representatives.
He reviewed carefully the provisions of the Act in detail, showing the importance of good roads and the consideration that was now being given to it by the government, evincing by the fact that one million dollars had been set aside for aiding in good roads at the earnest solicitation of some of the best authorities on road-making.
He addressed them as one having an actual experience of over twelve years in road-making, such experience showing him the necessity of supplying materials and laying down some well-defined plan of action.
Some councils have started on the most expensive kind of macadam roads, and then, having gone a little way, have abandoned the enterprise because of limited capital at their disposal. They have undertaken huge works, and not looked into the little things which are of vast importance. Then the county has to come in and do the work. The county program planned and inferior work is permitted instead of talking matters over with the ratepayers and thus aiming to Secure a Uniform System.

This would enable pathmasters to work along a well-defined plan.
When trying to improve roads it should be done consistent with the amount of money on hand. We ought to spend our money to the best advantage. The most important public work being carried on in the province to-day is that of road-making.
The cry is "keep down expenses," but so long as the present system is maintained it is impossible.
A change in methods will prove a material saving to the average ratepayers.

In the matter of culverts the present make only lasts seven or eight years, and at the end of that time the repairs thereon during that period could cost more money than proper reconstruction. Some more substantial material than that now in use is necessary. Concrete pipe is a decided improvement upon timber. It is composed of Portland Cement and Gravel.

The mould for its manufacture can be made by any village blacksmith for five dollars or less; a mould is necessary for each size of pipe.
Then if you find you require still greater capacity, lay your pipe side by side. Concrete arches can also be made by mixing the material, erecting a wall of support, place the concrete therein, and then after hardening remove the wall. Then you will have concrete there for all time.
Every year's work will reduce the number of culverts.

The speaker said when he first came to Lindsay he advanced these more up-to-date methods, but the Council would not listen to what they termed extravagant suggestions.
He got into a heap of trouble, but finally he accomplished his object.
Inside of four years some miles of work had been laid down on the plan suggested, and now Lindsay is reaping the benefit of these modern methods, and is one of the most progressive and up-to-date towns in the Province. Plank costs six cents a foot to lay, concrete six, and is indestructible. Then why follow old methods? Why extract money from the pockets of the people unjustly, when you can produce better results with less taxation? You should have no money to waste in patching up old roads. The clerk of the County Council, Mr. W. J. McNeill, said that the improvement was seen by the three winters. They saw that the improvement was

All it was claimed to be,
and as every culvert required rebuilding it was made of concrete.
The expenditure really on this work was reduced; the first year it was $1,760 and in a few years the expenditure was but paltry—almost nothing. It should be a question of probable extravagance, not a question of probable economy. We can by careful study economize on building roads, and save a greater amount of labor. We should make changes in accordance with changed conditions, and these changes can only be brought about by taking matters over. We ought to have one plan and follow it—make it as complete as possible. Make your system more comprehensive. Adopt a County road system. It is decidedly unjust and unfair to ask the township adjoining the town to keep roads in good repair for the use of outlying townships. But still one-third are leading roads, one-third are used only by that neighborhood, and the remainder back roads. Let it be solution of one the interests of the other? The question is, who can keep these particular roads in the manner that

Will be Fairest to All?

The question should be considered in a business-like way. Roads must be looked after, and encouragement to municipalities is a needful thing.
The function of the government is to improve public roads at the least possible cost to the municipalities—to remove the burden resting upon them. Thus $1,000,000 was set aside to aid municipalities in keeping up good roads. Nor do the legislature care what method of plan you adopt.
The money is set apart—that is what the bill provides. If you see fit to use any suggestion placed in the Act, and cause an expenditure to the government of $30,000, (which is the amount set aside for this County according to acreage), you can do so right away. But you do not have to provide expensive roads.
There is no simpler, clearer, and that particular bill, it simply says
"An Act to aid in the improvement of roads." It doesn't say whether they are to be macadam, gravel or earth.
The County Council may, with the consent and in accordance with the expressed wish of the municipality, lay down a system of roads, as indicated by said municipality. The Act does not say that it must be a leading road. You gentlemen, as the representatives of the municipality, are in a better position to designate

What the Roads Shall Be

—the government do not care what you call leading roads. You fix them. The County Council then takes charge and can proceed with the work to the extent of $30,000, and at the expiration of such work you can draw on the treasury for the balance of the $30,000. The County Council appoint a man to superintend the work, or appoint a committee. As to starting the work, if the Council find a piece of road just outside Lindsay that should be ma-cadamized, they make a note of that, say $1,000 a mile. Further on a piece of road will only necessitate grading, which will only necessitate an outlay of $50, and possibly less.
They go on until they go over all the roads, and then make an estimate of what amount will put all these roads in good condition. It does not matter to the government if you take ten years in completing the work, nor whether you adopt a County system or not. That is your affair. If you consider it should be done by the County, then that body have till January, 1903, to take advantage of the $30,000 grant.
If you consider it should be a township system, then township councils have the same privilege till January, 1904.
After that date the money is placed in the hands of the department grants. The grant is divided into three parts, two-thirds, outside of the one-third, by the legislature, must be raised as other County funds are raised, so that the cost is levied over the whole County.

Upon the Assessable Property. towns and villages to pay eleven per cent, fifty-one per cent, to be raised by the municipalities, the balance being the percentage paid by the government. Can you see any advantage in the County taking charge?
A township alone may not be able to do it. As to the cost of superintending the work, it would be vastly better to have one man—a good experienced, competent man. There is just as much in the proper superintending of the work as there is in building
it. Dry land will not require so much work to put in good condition while the clay and swampy land will necessitate considerable expense.

Then, after you have determined to go ahead with the work, the County system whereby roads can be properly kept. Your leading roads can be maintained by your chief attention, and the money you have been spending towards maintaining them can be given to the County, and instead of there is a possibility of placing on the all such work. Do not use inferior gravel upon roads. If good gravel cannot be obtained, use stone. The County Council can provide a rock bank, putting it at your disposal when the work is being performed in your municipality. The crusher and roller,

Good Heavy Machines,

—could be supplied free by the County, or, at a very small rate per cord. It is in the interest of the towns in the County using a heavy roller, that the County should install a proper machinery. The County could send out notices to each municipality to talk over the matter of buying the road machines; then two prices, the speaker said, he knew of a reliable grinder being secured at $150 each, seven being purchased at once. This is explainable in dealing with municipalities it requires individual trips, time is lost, and the expense incurred in so doing. The County could also supply a mould or two, and have a man go out and build an arch culvert or lay pipe as an object lesson. It is not necessary to be speculating as to the building of culverts and roads in each municipality. Have a set plan, and work harmoniously. The township may designate what roads it wishes improved, and forward the report to the County Council, which body will accept the report. Then the work is performed by the report to the department, and if reasonable—if it states that the roads have been improved—

You Get Your Money.
If you only want to raise $30,000 for road-making, do so, or you can do it to the extent of $30,000. All you are asked to do is to go with the work, make the best of it, and the government will contribute its share.

FRAMING OF THE ACT.

Mr. Campbell, in conclusion, briefly explained the action which led up to the framing of "The Good Roads Act." A few months ago a meeting of the Good Roads Association was called for the purpose of considering ways and means to secure aid in improving the leading roads in the province. After a short conference with the members of the Legislature the department requested the Association to draw up a bill setting forth their requirements, promising that they would give it their best consideration and heartfelt support. This the Association did, and the bill entitled "The Good Roads Act for Aid in Improving Roads" was finally passed, provision being made therein for the setting aside of one million dollars to aid County and Township Councils.

In improving the roads within their jurisdiction. The County of Victoria possessing a very large acreage, over one-third of the amount granted would be placed at their disposal. Your own Warden, said Mr.
Campbell, spent days, weeks, in meeting with the Association and making suggestions, and further, to see that the bill, if framed, would not have Legislative restrictions, and to ensure its freedom from anything of a political nature. The bill was passed, and if it is found unworkable all that need be done is that a report be presented to the Legislature and a revision will be made. The bill has been framed in the interests of good roads and the government will always be found willing to give every possible assistance to a matter of such public importance.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Warden Graham, after referring in pleasing terms to the excellent address delivered, said he was desirous that every representative should have a clear understanding of the provisions of the bill, and would be pleased to have them ask Mr. Campbell such questions as they deemed were in the interests of the municipalities they represented.

County Councillor Geo. Johnston wished to know if any of the money granted for road improvement could be used in the building of bridges.
Mr. Campbell—"No, there is another act providing for the building and maintaining of bridges, but no part of the grant under "The Good Roads Act" could be so expended."

County Councillor Geo. Johnston asked if the portion of the roadway leading up to those bridges be considered as part of the County work?

Mr. Campbell—"Yes."
Mr. Scully—"Is the purchasing of machinery considered as part of the work of construction and can the money set aside be used for that purpose?"

Mr. C.—"Yes, no doubt about that.
The money expended on machinery can be charged up as part of the work."
Inspector Knight, in the course of his remarks, said he was surprised that any objection should be raised to the scheme. As a ratepayer in the town of Lindsay he was willing to pay his share, as he was a frequent user of County roads and was very anxious that they should be improved.

Mr. Campbell said much objection had been raised by towns because they were not included in the grant but still had to pay a percentage.
Towns being able to make use of the improved County machinery was a consideration.

Mr. C.—"No, I judge not; many will not even care for a hand roller. We use various means of getting around weak bridges. Many times a roller must be carried in a round-about way in order to avoid poorly constructed bridges."

Mr. C. (Emilly)—"Is it compulsory for a competent engineer?"
Mr. C.—"The County must employ a competent superintendent.
They should secure a man who has gained experience by being a long time in the service. The Act provides for a competent engineer, but he is deemed a competent engineer only if he is a competent engineer."

Mr. C.—"The County may trade the present machinery and get a much heavier and more serviceable crusher that would crush 25 or 30 cords a day. The County should always secure a much heavier roller so procure a much heavier roller be brought safely over all our bridges."

Mr. C.—"No, I judge not; many will not even care for a hand roller. We use various means of getting around weak bridges. Many times a roller
must be carried in a round-about
way in order to avoid poorly constructed bridges."

Representatives Heard From.
At this juncture Warden Graham asked for questions from the various representatives of the County as to what the probable course their township would pursue.

Mr. Fort, representative of Emilly, said he had given the scheme a great deal of study. He considered things were not going on as they should, and a change was desirable. His council as a whole, he concluded, were in favor of the scheme. It was high time for the County of Victoria to do something along the line of improving its roads. Emilly council had designated the roads they wish to have improved.

Mr. Hunter, of Verdham, said that nothing hearing Mr. Graham he was inclined to favor the scheme.
Warden Graham said it would be a great advantage to have roads designated at the earliest possible moment.

Mr. Walsh, of Summerville, said that so far as the council of that municipality was concerned, every member favored the scheme.

Mr. S. Suddaby, of the same township, was of the opinion that everything had gone into combines except road-building, and that should be concentrated.

Mr. Staples, of Laxton, was satisfied with the scheme. Laxton was at the farthest point of the County and he was afraid the machines would be worn out before they reached his municipality.

Mr. McKnight, of Bexley—"Our councillors are all in favor of the scheme, with the exception of one man."

Mr. Naylor, of Fenelon, said the councillors had not considered the scheme yet. He considered it the high County rate, and the placing of an extra levy, due to County control of roads, would still further increase the rate. Personally he was somewhat in favor of keeping the roads under municipal control.

Mr. J. S. McLean, representative of Ops, was the next speaker. He did not believe in maintaining roads and going to such a great expense for the benefit of other townships. He was not at all in favor of the scheme. If the townships under County control had to maintain half their roads they could make them all.

Warden Graham said it was always considered that because the leading roads of Ops are used more than those of any other township, Ops would be entitled to consideration that no other township would get.
They were entitled to three dollars of a grant to every one dollar expended in other townships.

Mr. Campbell called Mr. McLean's attention to the wording of the Act.
Concerning the granting of the money according to acreage, the wards "as far as practicable" were placed in the bill. The word "practicable" was one of great elasticity, and certainly it was nothing but just that Ops, having the larger end of the expense for road improvement, should receive a larger percentage of the grant than any other. More expensive roads were necessary as traffic was greater, and as a result it would be considered "practicable" to give a larger proportion to the township of Ops. It was so situated, with Lindsay, the County town right in its heart, that nearly all the roads leading into the town were under its control and being maintained by it.

The representative from Dalton said the council of that township was in favor of the scheme to a man. He had been sent down to hear further about the matter; they were so far back in the woods they had suspicion as to the true value of Warden Graham's statements when he visited them. However, he had proof of the correctness of Mr.
Graham's statements and was glad to give the practical address given by Mr. Campbell.

Mr. Edwin Marks, of Mariposa, was not in a position to say what the council of Mariposa thought of the scheme. He was in favor of good roads. At present there were one hundred pathmasters in the township and one hundred and one different ways of making roads.

Mr. Macfarlane, representative of Eildon—
"As far as I can find out, the Council of Eildon is in favor of the scheme.
Personally, I am opposed to it, but I am in favor of abolishing statute labor."

Mayor Ingle, Lindsay, said the council's hands were tied. He could not see that the County roller would be of any benefit to the town.
The horse roller was in use every day in the week. Lindsay was an expensive town to keep up.

Woodville was represented by Mr.
Dyck. He had not given any thought to the question. Good roads were certainly necessary.

The baby municipality—Sturgeon Point—was represented by Reeve
J. D. Flavell. It was unfortunate, he said, that Lindsay had no voice in the matter, yet was compelled to pay eighteen per cent of the cost of maintaining the roads. The scheme as a whole commended itself.
The words "as far as practicable" were words of wide latitude. Ops township must of necessity receive a much larger part of the grant than the other townships, and the word "practicable" permitted of such being done. We must look to the question from a broad standpoint.

As far as the village of Sturgeon Point was concerned, it had not very many leading roads.
Mr. McLean said the leading roads in Ops were now as good as any County system could make them.
They had in some places from 12 to twenty inches of gravel on them,
and were in good shape.

On motion of County Councillor
Chas. Fairbairn, seconded by Mr. S.
Fairbairn, Mr. A. W. Campbell was ordered a hearty vote of thanks for his excellent and informing address.

In reply Mr. Campbell said the question of the grant should be considered in the interest of good roads.
Do not consider road-making to be a burden. Every dollar would be spent right in the municipalities, and the government would be very glad to help them in any way and at any time their services were desired.
The meeting then closed.

The Weekly Post.

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, SEPT. 27th, '01

GOLDWIN SMITH ON ANARCHY.

Prof. Goldwin Smith's views on anarchy are produced in the Weekly Sun. They are hits from the shoulder, and should receive the careful consideration of every thinking man. He says:

"When the masters of the world meet in council for the repression of anarchy we all approve. But, after all, what is anarchy? It is the exaggeration of the spirit of violence and disdain of law with which these potentates are themselves filling the nations? What is it but anarchy when, instead of settling a dispute whenever it is possible by arbitration, they choose to settle it with the sword? What is it but anarchy when they vie with each other in the construction of bloated armaments, at the same time kindling everywhere the flames of international hatred and stimulating the lust of war? What is it but anarchy when one of them grasping a territory to which he has no right, lets loose his soldiery to choke the rivers with the bodies of innocent people and spit infants on their bayonets? What is it but anarchy when another of them braces the attitude of the Armenian massacres? What is it but anarchy when the act of the wretched miscreant at Buffalo and deplores the tragic fate of his victim. But had not the victim, to keep himself and party in power, made war without a cause, relying on the support of the standard-bearer, and using a manifest fiction to inflame the passions of the people? If contempt of municipal law and government is anarchy, so in its way is contempt of the law of humanity and of the moral government of the universe."

THE BEET SUGAR INDUSTRY.

(Monetary Times, Toronto.)

One of the most striking features of the Toronto Exhibition, and one manifesting the newest large development in this country in the agricultural line, was the exhibit by the Ontario government of several beds of sugar beets in all stages of growth. Few staple crops need more nicety of manipulation, more attention to detail; in a word, more scientific culture than do beets intended for the production of sugar, so that, for farmers and others who intend to become largely interested in this comparatively new product of Canadian soil, the value of the exhibit, as an object lesson, has no doubt been very great.

There is, however, another side to this question of growing beets for the manufacture of sugar in Canada. Is the business not likely to be overdone? We do not mean that there is any likelihood of the production of sugar being more than sufficient for the demand—at any rate for a long time to come, for the consumption is sufficiently enormous. We have in mind, rather, the fact that in various parts of this province alone there must be more than a dozen beet-sugar propositions being considered at the present moment. Some of these no doubt are reputable enterprises, and are backed by men not only of real worth in the financial world, but of well recognized commercial acumen, who are well aware of the truth that it takes many factors to make a real success of a business proposition that, on the face of it, looks as though it ought to be successful. Nor should it be forgotten that this industry has been attempted before, in other parts of the Dominion, and that it was a failure.

Certainly, the admission may be made that more is known now—days about both the culture of beets and their manufacture into sugar than was the case in former years, but nevertheless we think it would prove good policy on the part of people in several places just now to go ahead a little more slowly in this matter. It is very noteworthy that an Ontario beet sugar enterprise was abandoned the other day, after much money had been expended, for the reason that the farmers of the neighborhood had not kept up to their promise to cultivate the sugar beet, and therefore the factory had not the raw material to work on. Are the men who seemingly are so willing to promote these enterprises in some of our rural towns fully cognizant of all the requirements of the case? And are the farmers and others who are backing these enterprises with their dollars and their labor, prepared to make allowances beforehand for the several difficulties which are practically sure to manifest themselves as soon as their schemes leave the embryo stage? We trust they are, but fear they are not.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

An Alabama sheriff has been charged with murder for killing a member of a mob while protecting a prisoner from lynching. And yet some people marvel that Anarchy finds a foothold in America!

New York has 1,007,670 persons of voting age, of whom 547,225 are foreign born, and 264,265 of foreign born parents. Of the 823,755 native white children in New York City 556,980 are of foreign parentage.

Premier Ross is to be presented by the Ross Liberal Club, of Toronto, with a splendid oil painting of himself, by Artist W. A. Sherwood (formerly of Lindsay) on the occasion of the opening of the club for the winter months. The Mail and Empire has not yet announced that Mr. Ross bought the picture himself.

It may be a long-headed scheme for Lord Kitchener to sell the farms of the Boers who are still bearing arms, but it takes two to make a bargain, and there is not likely to be any wild rush of purchasers under present circumstances, hence the proceeds for the maintenance of the concentration camps will not be large.

The appointment of Mr. Britton, of Kingston, and Mr. Fortin, of Laval, to the Bench, will necessitate bye-elections in one Ontario and one Quebec constituency, thus giving the opposition an opportunity to test the truth of the contention that a reaction has set in, and that public opinion is against the government.

The finding of the Conference committee in the Sanderson-McMann cases is a peculiar one, but it is probably all that could be expected as the result of such an inquiry. The committee regards the two ministers as having been indiscreet and lacking of becoming gravity. It is not satisfied as to what caused Rev. Mr. Sanderson's incapacity, and in view of the uncertainty on this point it limits its finding to suspension of that gentleman till Conference meets. The obvious lesson of the affair is that ministers should not travel incognito, eat candies given them by strangers, or go slumming unprotected.

A French statistician having investigated the records of duelling in France for the last twenty years, has come to the conclusion that the practice is less dangerous to life and limb than bicycling or ordinary railway travelling. He adds with fine sarcasm that the present French duel has almost reached the Altruistic stage, since Parisian duellists have taken to the sterilizing of their swords. It is now considered as reprehensible for a duellist, as it is for a surgeon, to omit antiseptic precautions. Duels now extend over many days, sometimes weeks, any duelist being good enough for an adjournment. The object seemingly, according to the new code, is to deliver a scratch sufficiently slight to satisfy the offended honor of the parties engaged. It looks very much as though the practice was going to die a death of mere boredom, a ceremonial which cannot but result in its being laughed out of court.

W. M. Fisher, the manager of the Canada Permanent and Western Canada Mortgage corporation, has been visiting the Edmonton district, and he has opened a branch office in that town, which he says will unhesitatingly lend money to the Galicians. Speaking to a Winnipeg Free Press representative, Mr. Fisher said:

"The Galicians, against whom I was prejudiced before my visit, and of whom there are about ten thousand in the Edmonton district, I found to be a most despicable class of settlers, being hard-working, frugal people, and in their financial dealings honest to a degree. After careful personal observation, I am glad to be able to say that the abuse which has been poured upon these people is altogether undeserved. I saw the raw material and the finished article, if I may use the terms, and it is surprising in what a short time the raw material becomes as simulated and the customs of the country in dress and manner adopted. Sheep skins are soon discarded and dress selected similar to that of the ordinary Canadian farmer. The language of the country is also adopted, and it is remarkable how quickly it is learned. I have no hesitation in pronouncing the Galician of the Edmonton district an asset of great value to the country."

The trial of Czolgosz for the murder of Mr. McKinley began yesterday at Buffalo. As he openly admits his crime, it is to be hoped that the world will be spared a repetition of the spectacle presented at the trial of Guitau. For seventy days that wretched degenerate was permitted to display his consuming vanity and extraordinary cunning. During all those days the columns of the daily press in the United States were filled with the nauseating details of his sayings and doings. His ranting comments on all sorts of subjects, his doggerel rhymes, his efforts to pose as an instrument in the hands of Providence, were all minutely reported. Nor was the disgusting subject allowed to drop till the final touches were given in description of the assassin's skeleton on wires.

In the case of Czolgosz the facts are plain. Yet, though he seems to have repeatedly admitted his crime, and though it was seen of all men, the lawyers appointed for the defence by the court have entered a plea of not guilty on his behalf. Whatever course the defence may take, the trial should be a vindication of the law not an opportunity for glorifying the culprit with more than is necessary of that publicity to which many a fool would be willing to die.

"Crying for the Moon"

Has become a proverbial phrase to express the futility of mere desire. There are a great many people who think it is as useless to hope for health as to cry for the moon. They have tried many medicines and many doctors, but all in vain.

A great many hopeless men and women have been cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery; people with obstinate coughs, bleeding lungs, night sweats and other symptoms of disease which if neglected or unskillfully treated find a fatal termination in consumption. "Golden Medical Discovery" has a wonderful healing power. It increases the nutrition of the body, and so gives strength to throw off disease. It cleanses the blood from poisonous impurities and enriches it with the red corpuscles of health. It is not a stimulant, but a strengthening medicine. It contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine, nor any other narcotic.

Sometimes the extra profit paid by inferior medicine companies is due to a clever offer a substitute as "just as good" as "Discovery." If you are convinced that "Discovery" will cure you accept nothing else. I was in poor health when I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's medicine. I had a severe attack of Volga, Jefferson Co., Indiana. "I had stomach, kidney, heart, and lung trouble. Was not able to do any work. I had a severe cough and hemorrhage of the lungs, but after using your medicine a while I commenced to gain in strength and my cough stopped right away. Took about six bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' then, and last spring I caught a cold and it was my lungs leaving me with a severe cough. I had the doctor, but he didn't seem to help me any, so I commenced your medicine. I took three or four bottles of the 'Discovery' and two vials of Dr. Pierce's Peppermint Cure, and that straightened me up. I feel like a different person. I gladly recommend your medicine to all sufferers, for I know it cured me."

LOCAL PLAYERS VICTORIOUS

Lindsay Wins From Uxbridge

Those who witnessed the series of games played Sept. 20th at the tennis grounds, in the match between Lindsay and Uxbridge, were well repaid for their time. For the first time in the history of the Lindsay Club a victory has been secured over the Uxbridge team. It was only fair to the latter club to state that they came to town much weaker than ordinarily, as neither Vyvyan nor Sharpe were amongst them; their representatives, however, were expert tennis players, and the local men have reason to feel elated over the result of the match.

Kennedy was in splendid form; in his game with Dr. Bascom he won the first set quite handsily by the score of 6-1, and in the second set he was in the lead, the score being 3-2, when he fell and dislocated his thumb, thus being unable to proceed. All the other games were keenly contested. O'Connor and Dr. Clarke had each a set to his credit, and in the third set the Uxbridge man at one time stood 4-0, and later 5-2, but O'Connor struck a decidedly faster ball and won out by the score of 7-5. Sootheran's game with Egan was a hard struggle. Each player won a set, and in the third set the score stood 3-2, but Sootheran's Lawford strokes then began to tell and the next three games fell his way. The game between Bayly and Willis was most interesting, and came closest to a tie. Each player covered his court remarkably well and the general play was good. Any luck that was going certainly fell to the Uxbridge player, and this combined with the best of judgment and steadiness, gave him the event. Willis was too good for Kennedy's place in the doubles, and he and Sootheran won their event, though only after a splendid fight.

Scores were as follows: Singles—Kennedy, (L.) played Dr. Bascom, (U.) 6-4, 3-2 (unfinished); O'Connor, (L.) beat Dr. Clarke, (U.) 6-4, 4-6, 7-5; Sootheran, (L.) beat Egan, (U.) 6-3, 3-6, 6-3; Willis, (U.) beat Bayly, (L.) 6-4, 6-0. Doubles—Sootheran and Williamson, (L.) beat Egan and Willis, (U.) 6-2, 6-3; Dr. Bascom and Dr. Clarke, (U.) beat O'Connor and Bayly, (L.) 6-3, 6-4.

Police Court Calendar.

—Milton Fee, a lad about 14 years of age, and a companion named Wellington Hall, appeared before Police Magistrate Steers on Monday morning to answer to a charge of stealing a quantity of peas from the Faville Milling Co. last week. The boys pleaded guilty and were let off on suspended sentence, after receiving a severe lecture.

To-day's Market.

Farmers' wives and daughters were at the market early last Saturday with baskets well filled with farm produce. There was a large quantity of chickens and the demand was good. Following were the quotations: Chickens, 40c. to 50c. per pair; ducks, 55c. to 65c. per pair; eggs, 11c. to 12c. per doz.; butter, 20c. to 21c. per lb.; turkeys, 12c. a lb.; cream 10c. per quart.

Obituary.

—Mr. J. J. Irwin, of St. Catharines, formerly of Lindsay, died suddenly in Toronto last Saturday. Some years ago Mr. Irwin went to Vancouver, where he accumulated much valuable property. Of late years he has lived in St. Catharines. Mr. Irwin was a prominent Mason and a most highly respected citizen. Two brothers, Samuel and William, both of Lindsay, and two sisters, Mrs. Graham and Mrs. Pogue, are still here. A wife and four children survive him. The people with whom Mr. Irwin associated feel deeply about his sudden death.

Queen-st. Methodist Church.

The harvest home services in connection with the Queen-st. Methodist church was a decided success. Rev. Geo. Brown, of Omemee, occupied the pulpit and delivered two practical gospel addresses. The singing by the choir was bright. At the evening service Mrs. Strake and Mr. J. P. Cummings contributed a well rendered duet. The attendance at both services was encouraging, every available seat being occupied.

Says He was Robbed.

John Sanpillar, of the north ward, was down town the other morning for a few hours, which he spent looking for Chief of Police Netison. The latter was on a hunt after stray dogs and their owners, and although John caught a glimpse of the Chief every now and then, the latter's long limbs quickly carried him out of local territory. Finally, becoming tired of the game of tag, John sat down at the market and explained his business with the officer of the law. It seems that he sold a couple of hogs to a Toronto buyer on Wednesday afternoon, receiving therefor something over $27. While on his way home in the evening the old man was taken with a weak spell when near the corner of Albert and Kent-sts., and two young men were seen to go to his assistance. They accompanied him home, and left him lying on the grass in the back yard. When he recovered from his fainting spell he found that his money—contained in a canvas bag—had been taken from his pocket. The two Samaritans are under suspicion, and John will summon them before the Magistrate.

A SEPTEMBER WEDDING.

Sketch—Granger.

A quiet but very pretty wedding took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Skitch, 57 William-st., north, Wednesday of last week, when Miss Celia E. Granger, of Sutton-West, Ont., was united in holy bonds of wedlock to Mr. Herbert W. Skitch, of Lindsay.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. H. Harsh, rector of St. Paul's church, assisted by the Rev. Thomas Manning, of Cambridge-st. Methodist church. The bride looked beautiful in a costume of dainty and chiffon, with sequin trimmings, and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums. Mrs. Mabel Williams, of Lindsay, acted as bridesmaid, and wore a dress of white organdie trimmed with white lace and insertion; she also carried a bouquet of pink and white chrysanthemums. The groom was assisted by his brother, Mr. W. F. Skitch, of Peterboro.

The bride entered the room on the arm of her father, amid the beautiful strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Mabel Williams. The home had been artistically arranged with palms, ferns and other plants, and presented a very pretty appearance. After the ceremony a symposium wedding repast was served. Many beautiful and costly presents were received. Friends were in attendance from Gravenhurst, Sutton West, Rochester, Millbrook, Omemee, and Dunford. The happy couple left on the 8 o'clock express for Trenton and points east amid showers of rice, taking with them the good wishes of many friends.

DELIGHTFUL TRIP THROUGH THE MARITIME PROVINCES.

Over 3,000 Miles by Rail and Steamer. The Grand Service Afforded by the Intercolonial, the People's Railway.

The run from Louisbourg to Sydney over the oldest railroad in Canada was made at the rate of 70 miles an hour for almost the entire distance. It was a swift ride, and we arrived in time for supper.

We retired on board our train, and when morning made its appearance we found ourselves many miles from Sydney, and at 11 o'clock arrived at New Glasgow, N.S., after crossing the Straits of Canso at Mulgrave on a car ferry.

New Glasgow is a growing town of 5,000 population. Our train was here backed down to Trenton, a distance of three miles to the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Co's Works.

Here we were shown the mysteries of steel making. It was like a visit to the infernal regions. It is indeed a weird place, and no mistake. The plant is very compact, employing a very large staff of men. The method of steel making on modern lines has received so much attention recently that we will not minutely repeat the description. However, it strikes one as very remarkable to see the large tanks of molten metal converted into huge billets, which are passed through heavy rolls on which water is flowing in streams continually to keep them passably cool. The big block is passed and repassed through these rolls until it is an elongated rod about 75 feet long which rolls round the floor like a live serpent. It is deftly handled by half-naked men with iron tongs until it has been transformed into some marketable shape. The works cover over 25 acres and use over five miles of railway siding. The manager of the works when told I was from Lindsay, remarked that he received many handsome orders from Sylvester Bros. of our town.

Obviously ships have to be furnished promptly, and the plant allows prompt unloading of the cars in order to return them to the mines to take away the output. Equally obvious is the necessity for having cars on hand at the mines to enable the pit boxes (mine cars) to be unloaded as fast as they come from the bowels of the earth in order to have the pit boxes always on hand for loaders in the mines to load the coal into as fast as it is mined. Men do not like the pit well enough to remain there when not occupied with their work, and the mines are kept them working, are very apt to go out and stay out that day. This would reduce the output, which is a great desideratum, next to market and price.

In order to have ships at the plant at all times to empty the railway cars into, vessels must be loaded promptly and regularly, perform their voyages regularly, and be discharged promptly. In order to enable them to discharge promptly, customers must take their coal promptly and regularly, and generally, while a ship is discharging, as wharfage bins to store the 6,000 tons of cargo on, or in, are rare, especially when it is considered that that vessel will scarcely be discharged when another one arrives to be discharged. It will thus be seen that there exists a line of continuity in transportation from the moment the coal drops on the mine floor until it is landed in the back yard or storage bin of the consumer, and any failure to provide facilities to keep the output moved away from the mine floor results in decreased output and additional expense.

We were entertained very handsomely by the yacht club of Sydney, which had just received word of the victory of the club yacht in securing a trophy from the Halifax Club had been held at Halifax for years. Here we had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Ross, son of Mr. Jas. Ross, and donor of the new hospital, who is a handsome, well-built young man. He had been sailing the Sydney yacht that won the trophy.

After dinner on the 22nd we were given a trip to Glace Bay and Louisbourg, the former for its great coal mines, the latter for its great historical interest. Skirting the sea we ran down to Louisbourg, where in 1745 and again a few years later the British and French fought a battle. The English stormed the fortifications and defeated the French troops. This was the seat of government in those days and the walls of the town enclosed 100 acres. Many of the walls have been built during the siege, and those with a maul for collecting found plenty of material. An excellent article on the siege of Louisbourg may be found in the September number of McClure's Magazine.

We returned to New Glasgow, where we picked up part of our party who had been taken in hand by the citizens for a drive about town. Our next stop was at 2 p.m. at Truro, which is a very important town on the I.C.R. Here we were met at the station by Mayor Stewart and the reception committee, with the finest lot of carriages and good horses that we had been honored with as yet. The rigs were all provided by the citizens without expense to the city. The reception was most hearty, and the citizens seemed to vie with each other in making our visit as pleasant as possible. Truro is quite up-to-date in every particular, and town we visited had finer private residences, more modern architecture, better trimmed lawns or better parks. Victoria Park, for instance, has much natural beauty, being situated in a rocky gorge through which passes a pretty river. Let that tumble down over the rocks into the gorge below. Mr. Ross, who is the manager of the park, has a great artistic taste. Seats are situated in the many romantic nooks. We were driven to the model farm and finally to a large poultry farm just outside the city, where we were tendered a lunch by the proprietor, Mr. C. M. Blanchard. This poultry farm is said to be the most complete in the Dominion. Mr. Blanchard will raise over 25,000 ducks this year.

The few hours spent in Truro will be remembered by the Press party with much pleasure. While chatting with the secretary of the Board of Trade he gave us an idea of how admirably useful a Board of Trade could be made. All the Boards of Trade down by the sea are either Tourist Associations themselves or father the associations, but the Truro Board is a sort of mercantile agency. The secretary obtains about such information as to local men of business, judgments, chattel mortgages, etc., and publishes them in a small sheet issued weekly and supplied to some 100 subscribers. If a customer wants a merchant, his name is reported to the rest look out for him. Confidential reports of a special character are furnished by the secretary when required, and in other ways business men are protected. The system has been in vogue for several years and is very highly appreciated.

Leaving Truro at 6 o'clock Thursday afternoon, after a run of 60 miles we arrived in Halifax at 9 p.m. In time to take dinner at the Halifax Hotel. On Friday we were met at the Halifax Tourist Association, who made our party welcome and entertained us most royally. A large steamer was engaged to take the party around the harbor. The weather was most delightful and the citizens did everything to make the visit enjoyable. Fully 100 of the sailing citizens, with their ladies, accompanied us on the trip and were very careful to explain the many points of interest for which the grand old city is so noted. We passed in our sail about half a dozen of King Edwards' "bull dogs," which were swinging at their anchors. It was enough to make one feel proud of being a British subject to see those beautiful ships, crowded with well-dressed men, ready at a moment's notice to protect our country's interests.

As we drew alongside the flagship of the squadron, the Crescent, our party was graciously invited by the Admiral to come on board. The visit was most interesting. We found a jolly lot of men painting, cleaning, and everything was being done in the most orderly manner. The Crescent is a model of neatness, and we found her officers very courteous and anxious to show us all that would interest us. The guns were in excellent condition, and one could hardly connect these modern guns with the relics we saw at Louisbourg, which are of the pattern in vogue 200 years ago.

The visit on board was far too short. We were passed by the boat of the fleet—a lovely, low-built, black affair, but my how it did tear through the water. Our craft was making twelve knots, but we seemed to be anchored as it slipped by. The fortifications and the harbor were pointed out to us in a general way, and we were brought to conclude that the harbor of Halifax was quite safe. The sail up the North-West Arm, which is studded with many beautiful summer houses, was one of the pleasures of the sail. An excellent orchestra accompanied the party, and music made the time pass too quick.

We returned to the dock in time for lunch and shortly after were supplied with carriages and guides to visit all the beautiful sights our limited time would allow, including a short stroll through the public gardens where each member was presented with a sprig of heather and a beautiful bouquet. It would be impossible to describe the many sights we saw in that short drive, but we can assure our readers that no city will better repay the visit for than the old garrison city of Halifax.

We were dropped at the station in time for our special train for Digby up the Annapolis Valley, via the Dominion Atlantic Railway. We arrived at 9 p.m., and found the Mayor and Town Council on hand to bid us welcome. We were invited to join them in a trip about the harbor at 7:30 next morning. We slept on board our train, and at an early hour set out for a bath in the sea. About twenty-five men of the party mistook the bath for a swimming beach, and it was found that only one man was possessed of a bathing suit. The first man in, although he stepped very gingerly, threw out the hint that the water was "just lovely."

Thereupon the entire party struck the water, and the sea was soon howled with anguish—the water was found to be as cold as if it had just filtered through an ice pack. The swim was very short, but the effect of the cold plunge in salt water was very startling.

Breakfast was had at the several town hotels, after which we had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Fred Jones, Revenue Officer, who was for many years in the Press gallery at Ottawa and is well-known by all newspaper men throughout the Dominion. Mr. Jones is in charge of one of the prettiest cruisers belonging to the Ottawa government. She is built after the model of the large ships of war, and is painted white, with a red line and a black line at the bottom. She is a clean, bright as her big sisters at Halifax, and a perfect picture to look upon. The trim little ship was bedecked with all her colors, and a rocking salute was fired by her stern guns in honor of the Press party.

With the civic fathers of Digby we enjoyed an hour's sail about the harbor. Digby is most beautifully situated, being built on rising ground, which falls as it reaches the water. It is a very popular summer resort, and its hotels—of which it has several fine ones—are crowded to overflowing with American visitors. It is within 40 miles by water, across the Bay of Fundy, from St. John's, and is reached by a fast line of steamers plying each day, which are owned by the Canada Atlantic Railway. The run is made in about two and a half hours.

The town appeared to be headquarters for cod fish. There were several ships laden with fresh cod moored at the docks while we were there. It was most interesting to see with what industry the fishermen would clean and cut out the backbone of the fish—the task was accomplished with about two passes of the knife. The fish were then salted and made ready for the drying racks, and after a few hours of drying were stacked up like coals of hay all over the drying field, ready to be packed for market. We believe we saw enough fish in two hours to keep our nation eating for a month without change of diet.

Our visit was altogether too short at Digby, as we went away feeling that we had not seen it. Nine and a half miles under way through the far-famed land of Evangeline, it is a delightful country, abounding with beautiful orchards and well-tended farms. The railroad runs quite close to the shore of the Bay of Fundy for many miles and all along the view is one beautiful panorama of delightful scenery.

Our first stop was at Annapolis, where we were met at the station by the Mayor, Town Council and a number of the leading citizens with comfortable carriages for the entire party, and were driven about the town. Annapolis has a population of 3,000 and is a very pleasant place to spend a holiday, situated as it is on an arm of the Bay of Fundy. It has many fine residences and public buildings, and enjoys the distinction of being a military centre of considerable importance.

Our stay of only an hour was soon exhausted, and we were again under way for Kemptville, where we arrived at noon in time for dinner. At Aberdeen the Tourist Committee of the Board of Trade, who first put us in possession of a neat little pamphlet, telling us all about Kemptville. It is the county town of Kings, and the centre of the famous garden of Nova Scotia, just 70 miles from Halifax. It is headquarters for the Dominion Atlantic Railway, to the courtesy of the managers of which we were indebted for our trip to the famous land of Evangeline. The D. A. Railway is all right—no railway ever surpassed through a better country, and judging from the timetable, the condition of the roadbed, and the talk of its patrons, it suits the people in every respect. Its "Flying Bluesoes" train gives as good a service as can be had in Canada. At Kemptville the side of the Bay of Fundy rises from 30 to 80 feet. After dinner a majority of the Press party were given a beautiful drive of ten miles to Lookout Mountain, from which portions of four of the best counties in Nova Scotia could be seen. The drive was continued to Wolfville, where the train was again taken, and we were landed in Halifax at a late hour on Saturday night.

Sunday was spent by most of the party in resting after the hard week of travelling and sightseeing. At 10 p.m. we were again under way for St. John's, which city was reached early in the morning. We were soon located at our hotel by the newspaper men of the city, who made our stay in St. John's most pleasant. The city is too well-known to require much of a description. It possesses a park of 178 acres, which is being improved gradually, and now, after four years' care is one of the finest parks in the Dominion. The Reversing Falls is one of the sights. At one time of the day the water flows up the river channel and later on it flows downward, both movements starting at the same spot. The peculiar action is caused by the fall and rise of the tide. Two fine suspension bridges, each about 500 feet in length span the river near the Falls. The main business portion of the city is hilly and rocky. When erecting a building it sometimes costs more to remove the stone to the street level, and form a basement, than it does for the material and work on the building itself.

The pride of St. John's—as almost everyone knows—is its harbor. Ships of any size can find a safe anchorage, and its waters are open for navigation all the year round. The drive about the city was most interesting, as no city of its size possesses more residences or handsomer public buildings. Its roads are the very best, as plenty of stone is to be had.

At 8 o'clock p.m. the entire Press party were invited to a clam bake. Each member of the party was provided with a badge bearing the symbol of the Atlantic majesty and these words: "Down by the Sea, Canadian Press Association, St. John's, N.B." The clam bake was at McLarn's beach, about three miles from the city. The affair was most novel, and was an entirely new experience to nearly every member of the party.

A caterer from the city had been sent out and had built a large fire on the beach early in the morning. When the stones had become thoroughly heated some green seaweed was put over the top, after which a wooden load of clams, a dozen of chicken, a bushel of potatoes, and the same quantity of corn, were placed on the seaweed. The mass was covered with canvas and more seaweed, and allowed to steam for several hours. The result was the most delicious and appetizing cooking of the hands and hearts.

The guests were served with a paper pal, about the size of one's hat crown, and also with a knife and fork. It is not good form to give away state secrets, but if some of the friends of a few supposedly dyspeptic newspaper men had seen the pile of shells alongside them they would have expected their early demise. The inviting odor could not be resisted, and all ate the strange things with a k-e-n-rallish. The scene was a most novel one, and the friends seemed to know by instinct the proper way to give their Western friends the greatest enjoyment. A very happy and tired party wended their way back to the city in the morning.

We had the pleasure of meeting an old friend who is one of St. John's most prosperous business men—Mr. Earl of The Earl Publishing Co., and brother of Mrs. John Crawford, which falls as it reaches the water. It is a very popular summer resort, and its hotels—of which it has several fine ones—are crowded to overflowing with American visitors. The happiness of home life depends largely on the health of the wife and mother. When her strength is unequal to the daily cares and duties of home, the evening hour finds her utterly worn out, too tired to talk, too weary to read. At first even she is glad to have her husband go out for the evening. She wants rest and quiet at any price. And so the foundation for marital misery is often laid in ill-health.

But when the housewife is healthy and strong she finds in her day's duties only a sufficient outlet for her energy. She looks forward all day to the evening hour spent with her husband over a book, or in quiet conversation. And every evening so spent draws the wife nearer to the husband and knits together the twin who are "one flesh" in the higher unity of one mind.

Every woman should know that the general health depends on the local condition of the system. Irritability, weakness, indigestion, ulceration and female weakness are disorders which sap the woman's strength and destroy her happiness with her health.

In ninety-eight cases in every hundred the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will effect a complete cure of womanly diseases. It is a reliable regulator. It dries the system which is inflamed, it heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Sick and ailing women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as sacredly confidential and womanly confidences are guarded by strict professional secrecy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

In a little over thirty years, assisted by his medical staff of nearly a score of physicians, Dr. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute of Buffalo, N. Y., has treated and cured more than half a million women.

There is no similar offer of free consultation by letter which has behind it a physician of Dr. Pierce's eminence and success, or an institution of world-wide fame such as the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute of Buffalo, N. Y.

Write to Dr. Pierce and obtain a specialist's opinion absolutely without charge or fee.

WAS NEARLY CRAZY.
"I was pleased that Dr. Pierce answered my letter," writes Mrs. C. W. Young, of South Regent Street (Lee Park), Wilkes-Barre, Penna. "I was nearly crazy, and I think it my duty to let the people know what a wonderful medicine you gave me. I had been under the treatment of two doctors—had two mishaps. I was almost a skeleton, weighed only seventy pounds. A friend of mine recommended Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and when I commenced to take it my health began to improve. I had only taken six bottles and have never taken any medicine since. I am now a happy mother. I had only taken six bottles and have never taken any medicine since. I am now a happy mother. I had only taken six bottles and have never taken any medicine since. I am now a happy mother."

ALMOST A SKELETON.
"Your Favorite Prescription has done so much for me," says Mrs. Susan West, of Lardin, Cleveland, O., N. C., "that I feel it my duty to tell you how it has helped me. I had been under the treatment of two doctors—had two mishaps. I was almost a skeleton, weighed only seventy pounds. A friend of mine recommended Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and when I commenced to take it my health began to improve. I had only taken six bottles and have never taken any medicine since. PETERBORO Y.W.C.A.
What is Being Accomplished by the Women of Our Sister Town.
The Young Women's Christian Association of Peterboro has just entered upon a new era in its history. For several years there has been a Y.W.C.A. Boarding Home in the town, with a free reading room, employment bureau and general Association work.

Through the kindness of Senator Cox, however, the Association now has, in addition to the boarding home, a fine three-story building, on the principal business street of the city, where the general work will be carried on under most favorable circumstances and much more extensively.

In addition to the parlors and class rooms, the new building contains a large reading room and a gymnasium, the latter being furnished with the kind of apparatus of the Young Men's Christian Association.

The educational department, affording opportunities in music, art, English, business course, and industrial classes, also the gymnasium classes, will open about the first week in October, when a noon rest will also be established, where business women may bring their lunch and be served with tea and coffee, having the use of couch, easy chairs, papers and magazines.

Weekly bible classes and gospel meetings consisting of the most important feature of the work. To these and to the Sunday afternoon services all of which will be brought interesting and helpful, all young women will be most cordially welcome. Whether members of the Association or not, the kind and generous nature of the work has been the organization during the past week, of two self-governing clubs, for girls from 8 to 15 years of age. These clubs already constitute a junior department of 79 members.

The dedication services in connection with the opening of the new building will be held the last Sunday in September.

Through its various departments, the Young Women's Christian Association aims to meet the needs of all young women, believing firmly in the powerful influence for good and the strength of mutual helpfulness in such an organization.

The rooms are open daily from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. (Sundays excepted). Visitors will be cordially welcomed at any time.

BEET SUGAR MATTERS.

Whitby Board of Trade is Acting with Vigor, and is in Touch with the Farmers.

At the last meeting of Whitby of Trade the beet sugar factory question came up for discussion, and as a result of the action then taken the representatives of the capitalists interested paid the town a visit to take notes of the advantages claimed for it as a good location for a factory. The Chronicle, in its report of the meeting, says:

At present it is fair to say that while the conditions here are satisfactory so far as site, water supply and shipping facilities by railway and navigation are concerned yet there is very little definitely known about the two most important matters relative to the suitability of Whitby as a locality for establishing the beet sugar industry. These are (1) amount of land suitable for beet culture within economical distance for assembling; (2) willingness of the farmers to grow beets. Both these questions are answered in the affirmative at other points which these gentlemen have visited, notably the County of Waterloo. If we are to have a factory in this part of the province we must at once find out about two things. The location is to be decided within ten days or a fortnight at the least. The western people are much more advanced in this preliminary work than we are. Hence the urgency of this appeal for information. The factory proposed to be erected will have a capacity of 600 tons daily. That means, in a campaign of 100 days, an aggregate of 60,000 tons of beets, or at an average of 15 tons per acre the product of 4,000 acres. Such a factory will cost upwards of $500,000. It will employ 200 men, besides affording work for coopers and other tradesmen, whose activities are necessary in operating so large an industry as the manufacture of beet sugar. The soil best suited for sugar beets is clay loam. Manuring and deep cultivation in the fall are essential. The returns under these conditions are highly profitable. $4 a ton is the lowest price paid (guaranteed by the government), with a rising scale where the beets run over 12 per cent. in

SCHOOLS MUDDLE

Town Solicitor Hopkins Gives his Opinion.

HOLDS THAT THE SEPARATE SCHOOL BOARD HAS BEEN NEGLIGENT.

But Suggests an Adjustment, Failing which the Council should pay to the separate and Public School Boards the Amount Due for 1899 and 1900, as per Auditor's Statement.

Below we print in full the opinion handed in at last meeting of Council by Town Solicitor Hopkins, to whom had been referred the much discussed claim of the Separate School Board for arrears of school rates said to have been withheld by the town. The investigation conducted by the town auditor disclosed the fact that the Public School Board is also entitled to a large sum for the years mentioned, hence the Solicitor's opinion relative to the Council's legal liability in the premises affects the citizens generally and warrants us in devoting a large portion of our space to his report. It reads as follows:

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Lindsay.

(Re Separate School Board Claim.)

Gentlemen—I have given this matter very careful consideration. The Board claim $18,177 for 1899, and $18,177 for 1900, which they allege were collected and not paid over to them, and in a subsequent communication they say, as the same assessment roll applies for 1900 they would also be entitled to the same sum for that year, but for to assess only one year full. They are, however, mistaken in assuming that there would be the same amount for 1900 as for 1899, because while the 1899 assessment roll was adopted for 1900, when the Council made this change, the year of year for taking the assessment, it became subject to a second Court of Revision, which was held, at which a great many changes were made. They base their claim, as I understand it, on two grounds: First, that while the amount demanded by the Board and the amount actually paid to them was $18,000, still, the rate struck upon the property and separate school supporters, and collected by the town, exceeded that sum, and they claim to be entitled to the excess; and second, they give a list of names who they claim are Separate School supporters, but who are not assessed as such, and claim to be entitled to the school taxes collected from them.

As regards the first claim, in my opinion the claim is well founded, and the correct amount, whatever it is, could be legally collected from the town. Sec. 53 of the Separate School Act expressly provides that the Council shall, through their collectors and officers, collect all moneys legally imposed for Separate Schools, and shall account for the moneys collected, and when collected shall within a reasonable time thereafter, and not later than the 14th December in each year, pay the same over to the trustees, without any deduction whatever, and that the expense attending the assessment or collection shall be payable by the municipality. Sec. 53 provides that where both owner and tenant are assessed the school taxes go to the Public or Separate School according to whether the owner is Public or Separate School supporter; without reference to the owner. But it also provides that if by default of the tenant the owner is compelled to pay the taxes, then he can direct whether the taxes are to be applied to Public or Separate Schools, no matter how assessed.

Section 223 of the Assessment Act provides that in paying over any school or local rate the Council shall supply out of the funds of the municipality any deficiency arising from the non-payment of the tax, but shall not be held responsible for any deficiency arising from the abatement of or inability to collect the taxes on personal property.

Section 121 of the Assessment Act provides that any local rate or school rate, the proceeds of which are required by law to be kept distinct and accounted for separately, shall be calculated separately, and entered in separate columns, headed "Public School Rates," "Separate School Rates," or as the case may be, and Section 144 requires the Collector in paying over taxes to specify in a separate column on the roll how much is paid over on account of each separate rate.

These sections show to my mind that whatever rates are collected from Separate School supporters must be paid over to the Separate School Board, and even rates not collected, if they are real estate rates which can be charged against land, must be paid over to the general funds of the town. Of course the town will afterwards recover the same with interest, but any rates on personal property which cannot be collected the town are not liable for. It makes no difference what amount is demanded, if the amount collected by the town that must be paid over. The proper course is to strike a rate that will produce as nearly as possible the amount required, and then pay over the amount collected. It would be manifestly unfair to take and use any surplus over the amount demanded for general purposes. At the same time the town are not bound to pay over any more than the amount collected, even if it does not amount to the sum demanded, but a rate sufficient, with any anticipated reductions, to pay the amount required. If just the amount demanded were to be paid over, there would be no use in Sec. 53 providing that where an owner has to pay the taxes he can change from Public to Separate School, and vice versa.

The amount payable should be carefully ascertained. I understand the auditor has gone into the matter and reports the Separate School taxes for 1899 to be $18,799.62. The amount paid was $18,000, leaving a surplus of $799.62, which must be deducted $4,840 leaving a balance not col'd, leaving a balance of $74,82 to which they are entitled from 1899. From this also there should possibly be deducted discounts allowed for early payment of taxes, and also interest for amount advanced before the taxes were collected, but if both the Public and Separate School Boards are treated alike in this respect no injustice will be done by waiving these matters, as they would entail considerable labor. For the year 1900 nothing would appear to be payable. The total tax for that year is, as reported by the auditor, $18,025.52, the amount paid $18,000, leaving a balance of $25.52, but there is no doubt much more than this is not collected on personally. This cannot be told, as the roll has not yet been returned. I find Sec. 144 above mentioned, which requires amount paid on each rate to be set forth by the collector, is never complied with, so it is impossible for the Clerk to keep correct accounts, and I would strongly urge the Council to insist upon the rolls in future being returned in proper form and in proper time, otherwise the town, at a later season or later to get into an expensive law suit, as many matters depend upon the proper return of the roll in time.

As regards the second claim, viz., as to the list of parties alleged to have been improperly assessed by the Separate School Board, the Board have no legal claim against the town in this respect. Prima facie, every person is liable to Public School tax, and it is only Separate School supporters who are properly assessed as such, and pay Separate School taxes, and are exempt from Public School tax. These parties were not assessed as Separate School supporters, and no Separate School tax was or could be legally collected from them, consequently they are not liable to the Separate School Board for anything they have not received. Careful provision is made for appealing to the Court of Revision and to the County Judge in cases parties are wrongly assessed as Public or Separate School supporters, and in case of no appeal the roll becomes final and binding in this respect as in other cases, and neither the Clerk or any other person has any power or authority to alter the roll or to examine into it, and certify it is properly assessed. I have not overlooked that power is given to the Council under Section 50, if they see fit, even after the roll is finally revised, to make alterations, but this is entirely discretionary, and I do not think was intended to apply to the case at present when the taxes have been collected for some years. At any rate until the matter had been investigated and agreed to by the Council there could be no legal claim, and if investigated it might be found there were mistakes the other way and other matters that should be taken into consideration. There appears to be some misunderstanding as to the book of Separate School supporters required to be kept. The Clerk tells me that the book has been kept, but as he has received no notices, and there have been no entries in same for some years, and as the assessors have not asked for same, he had forgotten the fact of the book when applied to, and misunderstanding the matter said there was none.

I understand that in 1899 and 1900 no proper estimates or demand were made or furnished by the Separate School Board, and if this is correct I do not think the town could have been compelled to collect the taxes, but I think, while I am prepared to admit that there may be a difference of opinion in the matter, that the town having collected the taxes, even without proper estimates or demand, they are legally bound to pay the same over. Now everything I have stated applies with equal force to the Public School taxes, and if the Separate School Board are paid the surplus collected then the Public School should be treated in the same manner. I find the auditor reports that during the past ten years the surplus not paid over to the Separate School amounts to $123 only, while the amount paid over to the Public School during the same time amounts to $2,032, and that in 1899 the surplus not paid over to Public Schools amounts to $156, and in 1900, $760. And as the total Separate School assessment is about one-fifth of the Public School assessment it will be seen that it is the Public School supporters, and not the Separate School supporters, who have suffered by the mode adopted in the past. For the future I would advise the Council to be very careful in making their assessments, that the collector be required to make proper returns and to return his roll promptly within the time required by law, that proper accounts be opened with the Public and Separate Schools, and proper settlements and adjustments be made with each Board at the end of the year, and the amount actually collected for each paid over in respect of the amount demanded.

As regards the past, it seems a pity that an adjustment cannot be made. But if the Separate School Board insist upon the surplus being paid over, then I would advise that they be paid $74,82, being the surplus for 1899 and 1900, but if this is done, then if the auditor's figures are correct you would require to pay the Public School some $850, being the surplus due them for the same two years.

If there is any further information that I can give I shall be happy to do so.—Yours, truly,

G. H. HOPKINS, Town Solicitor.

READY TO START OPERATIONS

The Gas People will Put on a Force of Men in a Few Days.

President Burgess, of the Lindsay Gas Co., and the engineer in charge, Mr. King, of the Niagara Carbide Co., were in town lately completing arrangements for an active start on the trenching operations.

Engineer King stated that the company has been subjected to unexpected delay by the pipe manufacturing company. The first manufacturing was delivered here yesterday, and others will follow shortly. Some of the fittings arrived a few days ago, but necessary parts are still lacking, and until they come to hand trenching cannot be proceeded with. Three gangs of men will be employed, and three gas fitters, with three assistants, will follow up each force of trench cutters, so that the pipe will be laid at a rapid rate.

The gas works building will be constructed by the company's men, under the superintendence of Mr. Graham, manager of the Bradford plant, who will arrive in Lindsay in a few days. He will likely remain here permanently as local manager. The building will be frame, covered with imitation stone masonry, manufactured by the Pedlar Co., of Canada.

It may interest our readers to know that the Burgess Co. street light was tested last week in Toronto by the government inspector. The actual illuminating power of the nominal 150 cp. light was equal to 200 candles. A report of the test will be forwarded to Lindsay Council in a few days.

LOCAL BRIEVITIES

—The Hospital sewer now being constructed by Contractor Blaikie is 20 feet deep at its junction with the main hole near the market.

—The pipe being received by the Gas Co. will be given a thick coat of tar before being laid in the trenches. The object is to prevent rust.

—A St. Louis man who rescued a young woman from a burning house has now married her. The woman seems to have the hero habit bad.

—Every available bit of piling ground along the river banks is being leased by our woodmen, who are getting in very large stacks.

—The annual meeting of the W.C. T.U. will be held Monday afternoon at 4.30 in "Willard Hall." All ladies of the union are requested to be present.

—Owing to the air brake giving out on the engine, the regular morning west-bound train from Port Hope, due here at 9.05, was over 30 minutes late on Saturday. Another locomotive was attached here.

—Sturgeon Point is taking on a deserted appearance. Only a few cottages are now occupied permanently, but a number will continue to spend Sunday there while the weather remains fine.

—Messrs. McDougall, Brandon & Austin, Fenelon Falls, shipped two carloads of cattle to the Toronto markets Saturday. Messrs. W. S. Moore and R. Lynn shipped on Thursday. The prices paid in Lindsay for cattle were: Butchers', $2.50 to $3.50; export, $4 to $4.50.

—The police throughout Ontario are on the lookout for a young man named Alva Ellis, who escaped from Cobourg jail, where he was confined for theft, some days ago. He is 21 years of age, 5 feet 8 inches in height, light complexion, and his home is at Glen Miller, Hastings County.

—This will make local duck hunters feel sad. In a letter received recently by Conductor Jack Britton from his son Arthur, in Winnipeg, the latter gave some details of a two-day shoot with a companion at a spot 25 miles from the city. They returned with 168 ducks, mostly canvas backs.

—Children in attendance at several of the ward schools have complained to their parents of the chilly temperature of the rooms, and have had to wear uncomfortably heavy clothing in consequence. If the fault lies with the caretaker, the Board should so report to the Board of Education at once. There's no excuse for economy in fuel at the risk of health when the Board can draw on the town for over $2,000 of arrears.

—King Edward Seventh Anti-Cigarette Society is the name of a new organization just launched in Peterborough. The pledge is as follows: "We, the undersigned boys and girls, pledge ourselves not to use tobacco of any kind and to do all we can to help others to do the same." This is a very well and wisely conceived plan, as King Edward is known to be a fond of a certain brand of Turkish cigarette the society's title is a little off color.

—While the plumbers who are installing the hot water system of heating in the Benson house were at work last week they tapped a pipe leading to a cold water reservoir in a room over the office, and a miniature deluge resulted. The water leaked through the ceiling into Office Manager Reid's quarters, and there was a sloppy time for a few minutes, but Reid, donned his mackintosh and rescued his books and papers before they became saturated.

—The Esturgeon was delayed Saturday evening on her down trip by two crabs of logs which had blown across the channel at a point about four miles from town. The Captain went to a lot of trouble in pushing them out of the way without injury to the boats or the chains. Had he rammed and scattered the logs the expense to the owner would have been considerable, but would have gone forth to the benefit of the fish for chubs in the little cove, as he fasten their tows more securely in future. Such a lesson would serve a good purpose.

Hamilton Times: We'd rather be a barefooted boy with a healthy appetite, and a precarious way of satisfying it, than a well-dressed man with a full stomach and a full head of hair. The danger of a Shill-bill may tickle his ribs. Go it, Nicholson! Enjoy it, you can, those French chefs; few healthy-minded lads in this glorious free Canada envy you your lot.

The Measure of Watch Value

Quality must be reckoned when considering watch values.

The price of a watch is not ALWAYS the measure of its worth.

Every precaution that our long experience suggests, is taken to secure the best possible value in every watch we sell.

Our customers may rely upon getting value for every dollar invested with us.

BRITTON BROS., JEWELLERS, LINDSAY.

FUR FACTS FOR FUR BUYERS

There are almost as many kinds and qualities of fur garments as there are different kinds of people. Furs are not like cloth, there are no two garments exactly alike, and for this reason the price necessarily varies. It is therefore important to buy furs from a manufacturer in whom you have confidence. We are only quoting from many testimonials received from our patrons, when we say that we have always executed their orders conscientiously and with the utmost zeal at our command. Our furs appeal to fur buyers. We have prepared a large and varied stock for the coming season. Our fit, style and workmanship is guaranteed to give satisfaction. Our prices are alike to all, our furs are worth 100 cents on the dollar and cannot be sold for less. We realize that in order to sell furs we must quote the lowest prices on each and every article and at the same time give our customers superior value for their money. We cordially invite inspection and a comparison of values. Repairing and Remodelling furs a specialty. Now being a good time to have furs repaired, before the opening of the busy season.

CAPERINES

A Caperine is a comfort that most folks appreciate these days; wear one before the Jacket days come, we have them in all the popular furs and combinations—exclusive styles—$5.00, $7.50 upwards to $35.00.

ARMSTRONG BROS.

Manufacturing Furriers and Hatters, Lindsay.

Mr. Thos. McGill, son of Mr. Peter McGill, east ward, is revisiting Lindsay, after an absence of nearly a dozen years, spent in Tacoma and Seattle, Washington.

WHEN FILLING PRESCRIPTIONS

We give our undivided attention to the matter in hand—that is, the only safe way.

We dispense drugs only of known purity, holding that when human life is hanging in the balance it is a poor time to economize by using "cheap" materials and trusting to luck for results.

This is an important matter and one worthy of serious thought.

LOCAL BREVITIES

—Wanted: two more weeks of this kind of weather.

—Diamond Dyes, 24 bright colors, just received at Higinbotham's drug store, next to Daly house.—w4.

—A number of old friends drove out to Little Britain on Wednesday to attend the funeral of the late John Dix.

—A couple of frog catchers are making good hauls every night in the bogs between Distillery Point and Drummond's Bay.

—We pass on Czolgosz, but don't do the new President across the line province. Is Ro-z—f it, Ros-felt, Roosevelt or Ross-velt?

—Miss Vyvian Laidlaw, daughter of Mr. Sandford Laidlaw, fell off a ladder the other day and broke the small bone in her arm.

—Czolgosz refused to talk yesterday, which goes to show that he is weak on the one of the fundamental principles of anarchy.

—For coughs and colds the sovereign remedy is White Pine Balsam, at Higinbotham's drug store.—w4.

—Colonel Loucks, a popular young citizen of Peterboro, died on Saturday evening of pneumonia, following an attack of typhoid fever.

—A plank missing from the walk on Durham-st., at the foot of Victoria-ave., makes a dangerous hole, and should have immediate attention.

—A number of our citizens attended a bridge fair Tuesday and two strong contingents left town today for Peterboro and Victoria Road fairs.

—Large assortment of mattresses bed springs, folding springs, cots, children's cots and cradles at M. E. Tangney's Upholstering and Repairing a specialty.—dwf.

—Two young lads were fined $2 each Wednesday by Magistrate Steers for throwing stones at the Donoghue domicile, opposite the east ward storehouses. Served 'em right.

—Mr. John Sinclair has sold $42.00 worth of potatoes from his corner lot in the south yard this season. He is a good gardener and always secures the top price for his produce.

—The officers and directors of Victoria County Flowering Association held a meeting the other day and decided to hold the annual matches in Mariposa about Oct. 20th. The day and place will be fixed later.

—24 bright colors in Diamond Dyes just received at Higinbotham's drug store, next to Daly house.—w4.

—Mr. Lawrence Fallon, of South Ops, intends to retire from farming, and he and his wife will become residents of Lindsay in the near future. He will dispose of his stock and implements on Oct. 5th.

—The Lindsay Woolen Mills are running on white blankets for the departmental stores. Trade Blankets costing $2.25 on bargain days sell at the mills for $2 per pair. Horn Bros., 92 William-st., north.—w4 d2.

—Thomas Shagnessy, president of the Canadian Pacific railroad, and who has just been made a knight by the Duke of York, was once a poor Irish messenger boy. It is seldom that a messenger boy makes such rapid strides.

—The annual excursion from Midland to Port Hope, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church of Midland, will be held on Saturday, Sept. 28th, tickets being good till Monday, 30th. The excursionists will be carried on the regular trains.

—The very best fresh mined Lehigh Valley Coal, direct from mines. Stove, nut and egg at $7 per ton, delivered in town. A discount of 25c per ton will be allowed off above price for cash orders. R. Bryans & Co.—dwf.

—Provincial Road Commissioner Campbell visited the Queen-st. and Tuesday afternoon with Alderman Jackson. He expressed himself as being well satisfied with the plan being followed, and heartily approved of the construction of a grandiose gutter on the south side, as suggested by Alderman O'Reilly and Jackson.

—The Victoria County Rifle Association will hold their annual match at the ranges west of Lindsay on Thursday, Oct. 3rd inst., when upwards of $100 will be given in cash prizes. The members would like to see as many new rifle shots try their skill at the butts, as possible, everybody welcome to shoot with any open-sighted rifle.

—Mr. Elias Bowes has received instructions from H. L. Dance, to sell by auction at No. 42 Melbourne-st., west, on Monday, Sept. 30th, at one o'clock, furniture and household goods, consisting of parlor and bedroom suite, mattresses and springs, sideboard, secretary, tables, chairs, coal wood and oil stoves, clocks, lamps, crockery and glassware, fruit jars, kitchen utensils, blinds and curtain poles, etc. All will be sold without reserve.—w2.

Of course, he was loyal to his own town, and when informed that the town had found one empty house in all three wards he was glad, "the same state of affairs prevails in Peterboro. I honestly believe the same cannot be said of any other two towns in Canada."

The Secret of Beauty

How Anyone May Obtain It.

Thousands of people who bathe themselves with soap and water, and clothe themselves with fine hats and garments, in order to appear well, neglect the spring of beauty. A fine complexion, bright eyes and buoyant step, and vivacious spirit can be maintained only as due attention is paid to the blood, the stomach, the bowels and the kidneys. Merrill's System Tonic meets every requirement in this particular, and the use of a few bottles brings about in every instance the desired results. Merrill's System Tonic cures constipation, and thus keeps the body clean within. It purifies the blood, thus giving the health glow to the skin. As a remedy for the kidneys it has no equal, and it is the best blood, bone and tissue maker known to-day.

Use Merrill's System Tonic to keep you in perfect health, if you are already so, and use it to gain perfect health if you've lost it.

BIG CROWD IN CANTON

Pays Last Tributes of Respect to Mr. McKinley's Memory.

DAY'S MOST PATHETIC FEATURE

Mrs. McKinley Unable to Be Present at the Funeral—Wonderful Floral Tributes Impressive Decorations in the Church—Sorrowing Neighbors Gather Around the McKinley Cottage.

Canton, Sept. 20.—With majestic solemnity, surrounded by his countrymen and his townspeople, in the presence of the President of the United States, the Cabinet, the justices of the United States Supreme Court, Senators and Representatives in Congress, the heads of military and naval establishments, the Governors of States, and a great concourse of people who had known and loved him, all that is mortal of the third President to fall by an assassin's bullet, was yesterday committed to the grave. It was a spectacle of mournful grandeur. Canton ceased to be a town and swelled to the proportions of a great city. From every town and hamlet in Ohio, from the remote corners of the State, and from the east and west the human tide flowed into the town until 100,000 people were within its gates, here to pay their last tribute to the fallen chief.

The final scenes at the First Methodist Church, where the funeral services were held, and at the beautiful West Lawn Cemetery, where the body was consigned to a vault, were simple and impressive.

The service at the church consisted of a brief oration prayers, by the ministers of three denominations, and singing by a quartette. The body was then taken to West Lawn Cemetery and placed in a receiving vault, pending the time when it will be finally laid to rest beside the dead children, who were buried years ago. The funeral procession was very imposing and included not only the representatives of the army and navy of the United States, but the entire military strength of the State of Ohio and hundreds of civic, fraternal and other organizations. It was two miles long.

One of the most pathetic features of the day was the absence of Mrs. McKinley from the funeral services at the church and from the cemetery when the body of her husband was laid to rest. Since the first shock of the shooting, then of death, then of the funeral, she had borne up bravely, but there was a limit to human endurance, and when yesterday came it found her too weak to pass through the trials of the final ceremonies. Through the open door of her room she heard the prayer of the minister as the body was borne out of the house. After that Dr. Rixey remained close by her side, and, although the full force of the calamity had come upon her, it was believed by those about her that there was a providential mercy in her tears, as they gave some relief to the anguish of the heart within.

At 7 o'clock last night, President Roosevelt and the members of the Cabinet started back to Washington.

100,000 PEOPLE PRESENT.

Canton, Ohio, Sept. 20.—The streets of the little city of Canton this morning were filled with waving plumes, prancing horses and densely packed bodies of moving men, assembling here for the procession which was to escort the remains of the late President from the church to West Lawn Cemetery during the afternoon.

The biggest crowd in the history of Canton, which was here during the campaign of 1896, estimated at over 60,000, was exceeded yesterday.

At 12 o'clock the funeral procession started from the McKinley residence for the church. The body of the President was taken into the church at 140 p.m.

The collection of flowers was probably the most beautiful ever seen in the United States. The conservatories of the country had been denuded to supply them. By the direction of the monarchs of Europe, the South American rulers, the Governors of the British colonies in Australia and Canada, the Emperor of Japan—from the four quarters of the earth in fact—came directions to adorn the bier of McKinley with flowers whose fragrance might be symbolical of the sweetness and purity of the ended life. But these tributes from foreign countries were buried beneath the floral tributes of McKinley's countrymen. There were tons and tons of them, and a list of those who sent them would be almost a complete roster of those prominent in the official, commercial and social life of the United States.

Towards noon the crowds in the vicinity of the McKinley cottage had increased to tens of thousands. The vast throng was contented, however, to gaze at the curtained windows. Within the chamber of death all was intensely silent.

Just at 1 o'clock the black chieftains of the Cleveland troops swept down the streets, their riders four abreast in their brilliant Hussar uniform, with flags bound in crepe and every sabre hilt bearing its fluttering emblem of mourning. Their coming was the signal for the approach of President Roosevelt and the members of the Cabinet. The Presidential party moved up the walk to the entrance of the house and formed a group to the left.

Now the peak of the church bells began, and every steeple in Canton gave its melodious plaint. It was 1:15 o'clock, and the time had come for taking up the body. A brief private service had been held within the darkened chamber. Dr. Manchester saying a prayer, while the relatives gathered around and Mrs. McKinley listened from the half-open door of her adjoining room.

The double file of body-bearers now stepped into the room, and raising the flag-wrapped casket to their shoulders, bore it through the open entrance. A solemn hush fell upon the multitude, as the bearers advanced with measured tread. Tenderly the coffin was committed to the hearse, and the silence was broken as the order to march passed from officer to officer.

The great procession now took up its mournful journey, passing under the sweep of giant arches, robed in black, between two living tides of humanity, along the streets, covering housetops and filling the windows. The church bells still were tolling, mingling their dismal tones with the cadence of the funeral dirges.

At either side of the hearse marched the guard of military and naval honor, the generals on the right, led by General Miles, and the admirals on the left, led by Admiral Farragut. Then came the long line of carriages for the relatives and friends, and, after them, the innumerable militia and civil organizations that had assembled to pay their last honor to the fallen chief. In the line were division after division of Knights Templar, Knights of Pythias, Masons, Oddfellows and representatives of the benevolent orders, Chambers of Commerce, as well as delegations of citizens of cities and towns throughout the State and country.

It was 1:50 when the procession passed the Court House and turned into Tuscarawas street to the stately stone edifice where the funeral services were to be held. At the church entrance were drawn up deep files of soldiers, with bayonets advanced, keeping a clear area for the advancing casket and large train of mourners. The hearse halted while President Roosevelt and members of the Cabinet alighted. Again they grouped themselves at either side of the entrance, and, with uncovered heads, awaited the passing casket.

CANTON CEMETERY—THE MCKINLEY PLOT.

Then the flower-covered casket was brought from the hearse, and, as it passed within the black-draped entrance, the President and his Cabinet followed within the edifice. The mourners, too, passed inside, but the stricken widow was not among them.

She had remained behind in the old home, alone with her grief.

The scene in the church when the casket was carried in on the brawny shoulders of the soldiers and sailors was profoundly impressive. The decorations in black were very rich, but it was the floral display at the front of the church which filled the whole edifice with glory. The core of it all was a great wreath of American beauties, framing a black border in the portrait of President McKinley. From it, extending outwards and upwards, was a perfect wealth of gorgeous blossoms. The effect was as if a great rushing wave of color had broken into flowers at the foot of the bier.

Almost directly above the support for the coffin, a sunburst of lights glittered like brilliant stars in a dark sky. The light without came dimly through the stained glass windows.

The Congressional party filled up the entire east section of the pews and the rear half of the two central sections. The local clergymen occupied the seats below the organ usually occupied by the choir. All had risen for the coffin as it came. The mourning relatives occupied the tier of pews in the left of the centre aisle. Mr. and Mrs. Abner McKinley led the way, followed by the other immediate relatives.

The fourth pew from the front, that was always occupied by President McKinley, was draped in black and remained vacant. After all had been seated, the door leading into the Sabbath school was opened and the seats arranged below. All those in the balcony were soon filled with the representatives of various organizations and the fellow townsmen of the martyred President. Conspicuous among these were the survivors of the 2nd Ohio, President McKinley's old regiment, who brought into the church the tattered battle flags the regiment had carried throughout the civil war.

It was after 2 o'clock when the quartette arose and lifted up their voices with the touching words of "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." When the sound of the last line had died away Rev. O. R. Milligan, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, in which President and Mrs. McKinley were married 30 years ago, offered a fervent prayer.

Dr. John A. Hull, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran Church, then read from the Bible the beautiful 19th psalm, and Rev. E. P. Herbruck verses 41 and 58 of the 28th chapter of I. Corinthians.

With great feeling he read the inspiring words, telling of the mystery that all women now accept, and an order would be changed.

Dr. E. C. Manchester then delivered an address, which lasted 24 minutes, on the life of the late President, and the lessons taught by his noble character and death.

Bishop I. W. Joyce of Minneapolis, followed with a brief prayer, and the services were concluded with the singing of the hymn which President McKinley repeated on his deathbed, "Nearer My God to Thee." The entire congregation rose and joined in the last stanza. Father Valtman of Chicago, chaplain of the 29th Infantry, pronounced the benediction.

Then the notes of the organ again arose. The coffin was taken up and borne from the church. The relatives and those in official life went out in the order they had entered.

It was after 3 o'clock when the silent and anxious throng outside the church saw the solemn pageant tramping through the church doors. First came the guard of military and naval honor, the generals and admirals forming in double line leading from the entrance to the waiting hearse. Again the flag-draped casket, with wealth of flowers, appeared and was committed to the hearse. The President and members of the Cabinet followed, arm in arm, and stepped into the waiting carriages. The relatives entered carriages next. Then the adon of troopers broke from their battalion front, and, wheeling into platoons, took up the march to the grave.

The line of the funeral march from the church to the cemetery was about one and a half miles in length. The route was north to carrawas street from the church to Lincoln street, west on Lincoln street to West Third street, and north one square to the gates of the cemetery.

For hours before the time set for the commencement of the funeral services at the McKinley home, the streets along the entire length of the line of march was crowded with spectators.

There was not a window that commanded a view of the march that was not filled with faces, the numerous stands were crowded to their utmost capacity, and the roofs were hundreds of people. From 9 o'clock in the morning until late in the afternoon, by which time the last of the parade had passed the church on its way to the cemetery, this condition prevailed. No greater reverence has ever been shown to any man, living or dead, than was exhibited toward the dead President yesterday. As the funeral car passed through the streets the men and women sobbed convulsively.

It was exactly four minutes after four when the funeral car bore the remains of the dead President through the gateway of his last resting place. Twenty minutes after that time the brief services at the vault were over, the members of the family, and the distinguished men of the nation, who had come so far to do him honor, had passed through the gates on their homeward way. One hour and forty minutes after the hearse had entered the cemetery the place was clear, and the dead President was resting alone under the watchful care of men of the regular army.

A sentry's measured tread resounded from the cement walk before the vault, another kept vigil on the grassy slope above, and at the head and at the foot of the casket stood armed men. Before the door, which was not closed last night, was pitched the tent of the guards, and there it will remain until the doors are closed to-day. Sentries will then guard the vault every hour of the day and night until the body has been borne to its final resting place.

Washington, Sept. 20.—Yesterday the voices of the people were uplifted in prayer for the soul of William McKinley, while his mortal remains were being committed to the grave in his Ohio home.

Everywhere were to be seen badges of mourning, and on every flagstaff, the national ensign was at half-mast. Private and public business was absolutely suspended, and every face showed signs of sadness. At exactly 2:30 o'clock (1:30 in Canton), the city ceased from labor, practically from locomotion for five minutes.

As if by common consent, men, women and children, white and black, came to a sudden halt in whatever they were engaged, and sat, or stood as still as statues whosoever they changed to be. Men on foot and on bicycles, the drivers of carriages and draught wagons, chafeurs and trainmen stood in mute supplication for the dead.

The Metropolitan M. E. Church, where Mr. McKinley worshipped, was the centre of interest, and here the services were more impressive than elsewhere.

In every city and town in the United States memorial services were held and during the funeral hours business was entirely suspended.

MODERN ABROAD.

Throughout Canada the day of the late President McKinley's funeral was observed as a day of mourning and fasting. All Government departments were closed and in the churches memorial services were held.

At Pekin, at Bombay, at Berlin, at Paris, and throughout Great Britain and Ireland were memorial services held. By command of King Edward, a memorial service in honor of the late President McKinley was held in Westminster Abbey, and was attended by many Americans and Englishmen of distinction.

"GREATER ONTARIO."

Speeches at the "Soo" by Messrs. Gibson and Stratton.

WHAT THE MINISTERS SAW.

A Successful Liberal Convention During the Afternoon Followed by a Public Meeting at Night—Nomination of Mr. John Richardson, M.P.P., in East York—An Enthusiastic Party.

Sault Ste. Marie, Sept. 21.—The visit of Hon. Attorney-General Gibson and Hon. J. R. Stratton to the "Soo," one of the chief points of interest in their Greater Ontario tour, has more than met any expectations formed of the great progress of development associated with the policy of the Ross Government. They found the "Soo," not long since a moribund town, a busy hive of industry, with great industrial operations in existence and industrial expansion, one might say, rampant. General building operations are brisk, the town is installing a system of sewerage, the price of real estate is at a high level, and the last day or two having chartered hands at the urban figure of $130 per foot frontage, and that properties that were not long ago in the market at $3 are now held at $50 to $70. While it is pleasant to note the existing prosperity of the "Soo," the chief interest in its present lies in the promise of the great future it affords. This future is closely associated with the tremendous development operations of the Clergue Syndicate, whose extent and importance are particularly indicated by the fact that in the various operations now going on the monthly pay roll amounts to the large figure of $250,000. This figure is made more significant by recalling the fact that it means the enormous expenditure of $3,000,000 per year, closely approximating the expenditure necessary in the administration of the affairs of this Province, with its two and a half millions of people, and when the steel works, now nearly completed, are in operation the amount of annual expenditure will be increased to four millions.

A Public Meeting.

Following the successful convention held in the afternoon was an evening public meeting, addressed by the Ministers. There was a large attendance, many ladies being present, as well as most of the convention delegates, who will carry to every part of the riding the stimulus and encouragement derived from the capital addresses given by Hon. Messrs. Gibson and Stratton, and the assurance that the Ross Government had as much at heart the interest of the development and advancement of New Ontario as they had in promoting those of Old Ontario. The chair was occupied by Mr. W. B. Harris, President of the Local Liberal Association, and on the platform were, besides the visiting Ministers, Messrs. A. E. Dymont, M. P., J. Loughran, M. P., C. McCrae, M. P., P. C. F. Farwell, M. P., Mr. J. McKay, the Liberal candidate, and Mr. Geo. M. Reid of London.

Shoulder to Shoulder.

Confident and Enthusiastic East York Liberals Nominated Sitting Member.

Markham, Sept. 21.—One of the largest and most enthusiastic mass meetings in the history of the historic riding of East York was held here yesterday afternoon for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the Legislature in the Liberal interest. Every part of the riding was well represented, and although a keen contest ensued for the coveted honor of carrying the standard of the Ross Government to victory, there was the same unanimity and harmony which has kept East York from Confederation down to the present time within the Liberal ranks. That Mr. John Richardson, M. P., received a clear majority upon the first ballot was most gratifying to him, and speaks volumes for the popularity he has so long retained among the Liberals of East York. And while the friendly struggle furnished a gratifying proof of the solidarity of the Liberal party in the constituency, which presages another addition to the long roll of victories, the incident was useful in demonstrating the splendid array of able and staunch men which the party is able to place in the front whenever the occasion for doing so arises. In response to loud calls from the audience, Hon. Richard Harcourt, Minister of Education, addressed the meeting, his rising being the signal for a hearty cheer, which were frequently renewed during the two hours which his address occupied.

Principal Grant Very Ill.

Received a Severe Chill on His Way Up the St. Lawrence From England.

Kingston, Ont., Sept. 23.—Principal Grant of Queen's University, a passenger on the steamer Lake Megantic, arrived in Montreal on Friday night from London. On his way up the St. Lawrence he received a severe chill, and, on disembarking, found himself so seriously ill as to prevent his going to Ottawa, as previously arranged. On arrival in Kingston his condition was found to be so serious that he was removed to the hospital. During the afternoon and night grave anxiety was felt by his physician, Dr. Carrett, as to his recovery. His condition yesterday morning was slightly improved, and a still further improvement was noticed last evening, but he is still most critically ill. He has a complication of diseases.

His illness was the cause of his non-attendance at the investiture at Ottawa on Saturday.

The Very Rev. George Monro Grant, C.M.G., is 66 years of age, and, although a Nova Scotian by birth and therefore hardy, cannot be called altogether robust at his time of life.

usually suffered, take Ozone and you will experience very quick relief. We present herewith a very remarkable cure. Mrs. Harvey's daughter had an extremely bad case; the mother's way of telling the story may interest you.

The Ozone Co., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.
Gentlemen: For the past year my daughter has suffered from kidney disease. This sickness came by degrees, until she was bloated to a great size. She appeared to be growing very fleshy and every joint was full of rheumatism. We tried a good many of the patent medicines called blood purifiers, but received no benefit. We also had a good doctor, but he failed to do any good. At last we were advised by a neighbor to try "Ozone," which we did. The "Ozone" seemed to go right through the whole system and she felt worse, but we were told this was a good sign. We continued the use of it, and soon we noticed the swelling reduced in her hands and feet, and it seemed to reduce the swelling in her whole body. My daughter also had female weakness. The organs were weak and did not work regularly. The "Ozone" regulated these organs perfectly. She now enjoys perfect health, which I entirely attribute to "Ozone."

Wishing you every success, I am,
Respectfully yours,
(Signed) Mrs. C. HARVEY, 923 Dufferin St., Toronto.

A Business Proposition.

We offer you a better investment than Government Bonds.

Better for three reasons.

1st.—Canada Life 5 per cent. Gold Bonds yield a much higher rate of interest than Government Bonds.

2nd.—They are paid for by instalments—thus placed within the reach of men without capital.

3rd.—They are insured. That is, should the investor die after paying only one instalment on his bonds, all his future payments to the Company would be immediately cancelled and the benefits of his investment would at once become available.

Add to all these advantages the very material one that the investor, or shares in the surplus earnings of this leading Company, and you have an opportunity for safe and profitable investment rarely equalled. A handsome booklet, giving a full explanation, will be sent on request.

Mr. M. McArthur, of our village, was very successful at the recent fair at Woodville in securing a large number of prizes.

Miss McArthur, of Beaverton, and her cousin, Miss Lena McArthur, of Woodville, were visiting friends in this vicinity on Saturday.

CAMBRAE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Byam's sell the "Erect Form" corsets and other lines of Crompton's best make.—w1.

Miss A. Jeffers, of Lindsay takes the senior department of our public school for the remainder of the year, after this week, and Miss Nugent, of Lindsay, is to take the junior department.

The anniversary services in the Methodist church last Sunday were highly successful in every respect. The pastor, conducted the services both morning and evening. The free-will offering of the day netted very nearly sixty dollars. The congregation seems to be so well pleased with this change of a free-will offering instead of a fowl supper and entertainment. As the custom has hitherto been, that the former laborious way of raising church funds will likely be forever a thing of the past so far as this congregation is concerned.

GREENBANK.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
On Tuesday, Sept. 10th, Mrs. Alex. Lee passed away, after a severe illness lasting some weeks, and on the succeeding Tuesday was followed by her infant child of four months. Mrs. Lee was highly respected in this community, and the sorrowing husband and five small children who are left to mourn her loss, have the deepest sympathy of the neighborhood.

On Tuesday, the 17th, death claimed another from our midst in the person of Mrs. Theo. Salter, after a severe illness of some weeks' duration with typhoid fever. Mrs. Salter leaves a husband, a daughter and a son, to mourn her sad departure. The deepest sympathy of the community is felt for them in their sad bereavement.

BOLSOVER.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Miss S. F. McLean paid our village a visit on Friday last. She intends spending a couple of weeks with her sister, Mrs. Hopkins, of Egbert, before going to take up her abode at Moosejaw, in the far West.

A grand concert is to be given on Oct. 4th at the opening of our new school. A splendid time is expected. All are cordially invited.

Miss Annie Gilchrist, of Woodville, paid our village a flying visit last week.

A number of our young people took in the fall show at Woodville on Friday last, and report a splendid time.

A quiet wedding took place in our village at "The Pines" on Sept. 18th. Rev. Mr. Terrill, of Victoria Road, officiated, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Smith, of Kirkfield. Mr. Jonathan Elliott, of Kirkfield, and Mrs. D. McLean, of Bolsover, were united in the holy bonds of wedlock. After partaking of a sumptuous dinner the bride and groom left for the south to spend their honeymoon, followed by showers of rice and the good wishes of all. The presents were many and costly.

OAKWOOD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

New Dress Goods, new Tartans, new Underwear for the ladies, new, medium size, and "big ones", for both sexes, also new Clothing.—w1.

Anybody and everybody wishing a good time, don't fail to come to Oakwood fair next Wednesday and stay for the grand concert in the evening. Prof. Halpeny, of Peterborough, Messrs. Armstrong and Gamby, of Orono, and the magnificent band of Lindsay, are some of the attractions. And remember the only place in Canada where you will have the chance of seeing a half-penny by paying a quarter is at Oakwood town hall, Wednesday night.

On Tuesday evening Mr. Arthur Washington, while going home from Mr. John Dames', (where he had been working with his team) when by some means the pole of the wagon got down and a general mix-up occurred. Mr. W. was thrown out, lay unconscious for some time, got up, put things together, got home, put the horses away all right, and—strange to say—does not remember the first thing. His face was somewhat out. Dr. Chambers was immediately sent for, and at last accounts Mr. W. is doing nicely.

Remember there will be special attractions at Hogg Bros. on fair day. Mr. Hogg made another purchasing trip to the markets last week.—w1.

Mr. Lee, how a has been out at ar and Bobcaygeon, Lakefield, etc. for some days buying cattle and lambs. He succeeded in capturing about 300 head of cattle and 600 lambs. We understand they are going to dispose of a quantity of cattle in Oakwood, by public auction, of which due notice will be given. This will give a number of farmers an opportunity of getting what they want right at home, instead of travelling all over the country, as formerly.

A fine lot of cattle and sheep were shipped by Messrs. Bowers & Son from Mariposa station on Monday.

Mr. W. T. Hogg and Mrs. Hogg were in the village for a couple of days. They expect to return permanently next week.

30 pairs new Hoes, plain and ribbed, in Cashmere and Wool, from size 1/2 to 9 1/2, at Hogg Bros., Oakwood.—w1.

The Chosen Friends mailed to the Methodist church Sunday a m., and listened to an eloquent sermon by Rev. Mr. Clare. The church was crowded. Mr. Clare also delivered a fine address in the evening to a large congregation. Next Sunday the pulpit will be occupied by Rev. F. W. White. Miss Lottie Bowers and Miss McLean have returned from Port Perry and other places, where they had been visiting friends.

Miss Lillian Armstrong has gone to Peterboro for a few days.

We notice a very attractive sign in front of E. Prouse's place of business. Now, Bro. Woods get a goat on.

Rev. G. R. Clare, wife and family, are on a 10 days' visit with Peterboro friends.

We are pleased to be able to say that Mrs. Joseph Pentose, who has been seriously ill, is somewhat better.

Hogg Bros. have just received a lot of Tea, direct from Japan. They will tell you more about it later. Ask about it when in the store, or send for sample and particulars.—w1.

(Special to The Post.)

M. McGowan, Woodville, and G. A. McKinnon, of Lorneville, were visiting friends in this village Saturday last.

Farmers' attention! You will find the Wilkinson plough the best to use on the land. E. Prouse is agent. Give him a call.—w2.

Any make of Wilkinson's ploughs points for sale by E. Prouse, Oakwood.—w2.

John Short, license inspector, and Charles Silver, sheriff's bill, of Lindsay, were in our village on Friday last.

Detetive Browne, of Lorneville, was in our village one day last week on business.

The Wilkinson ploughs and points are the best in the market. For sale by E. Prouse, Oakwood.—w2.

As our fair draws near a deal of interest is being taken in it.

Several of our farmers took prizes for live stock at the Woodville fair.

LITTLE BRITAIN.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
For bicycle repairing and bicycle supplies, go to Isaac McKee. He is a practical machinist and can guarantee a first-class job. Bicycles, engines and farm implements repaired promptly at reasonable prices. ISAAC MCKEE, Little Britain Road.—w4.

The Bell Telephone Company have a gang of men overhauling their lines from Oakwood to Lindsay and Cambridge.

Mr. James Rooks is erecting an addition to his house, which will give them much more room.

It would be known by the pleasant smile on Mr. Metherell's face on his return from Port Perry fair that he must have struck it lucky out there, and so he did, we think, because he brought home eight red tickets and two blue ones. Not so bad for clumsy Britains, after all.

We were very sorry to say that our jolly telephone men have left us, and no more we hear their witty expressions or merry laughter. We trust they will have occasion to visit here again soon.

Mr. D. Beecroft has employed a couple of painters from Oakwood to paint his house and verandah, and I tell you, they are making a fine job of it.

One of our most esteemed friends and christian workers, Mr. J. D. Sturk, passed away quite suddenly on Sunday last. Everyone will miss his encouraging words and sincere prayers very much, and regret the loss of one of their fellow workers greatly. The funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock.

Mr. D. Sturk, one of our grand old citizens, who was residing at Smith's Falls, lately died quite suddenly. His remains were brought to Mariposa Station and from thence were taken to the Christian church, where they were interred on Monday.

Mr. W. E. Yerex has bought a fine span of white Indian ponies. We hope to see them at some of the fairs.

Mr. G. Stankos is erecting a fine new dwelling house, and we hope to see it soon occupied.

We are very glad, and much surprised also, to see our Deering agent, Mr. J. Jones, out again so soon after his attack of sickness.

Mr. S. H. Metherell departed on Tuesday to try his luck once more at Victoria Road fair. We trust he will bring home several red cards.

Mr. G. Shaver departed Tuesday morning for Buffalo, where he will attend the Pan-American.

Everyone is glad to welcome our new married couple, Mr. and Mrs. J. Glass, into the village.

Mr. R. S. Robertson met with the misfortune, while at Woodville fair, to have his driver kicked, but it is not as bad as was at first thought.

Mr. R. S. Robertson is able to enjoy himself once more out in the fresh air, after recovering from his severe operation, and is spending a happier life than he has for some years back.

FENELON FALLS.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Mr. John Duggan, of Edmonton, N. W.T., is on a week's visit to his father, Mr. John Duggan, of Verulam. The West has agreed with John, as can be seen, and he is also one of the few who has been favored with a handsome reward for his diligence since leaving here ten years ago, as he has a snug competence at his command.

Thomas Shankland, of Somerville tp., died on Monday last after a few hours' illness.

The Presbyterian, Baptist, Methodist and Episcopal ministers of Fenelon Falls, are on a memorial service to Pres. McKinley in the Presbyterian church here last Thursday night. Mr. Garbutt, of the Methodist church, preached the sermon on this occasion.

Honorable rivalry is commendable in many walks of life, but when rivalry exists between religious denominations the effect is unwholesome to the public, if not disgusting.

At the time religious bodies have a stand which they should maintain and this they can easily afford to do without being offensive to anyone. The slight difference is so trivial that a person seldom hears anyone attempt to belittle any one denomination to the advantage of another.

The good feeling existing here was well exemplified when four churches were represented on one platform and held a united service last Thursday night. But there is always exceptions to the rule, and the most notable of these is the Latter Day Saints represented by Elder Henley. This man has held services on the street here for a month or more on Saturday and at each and every service he has come little but try to heap odium on other christian denominations. This to our mind is both unchristianlike and ungentlemanly, and we believe that our opinion is shared in by the general public. Patience sometimes ceases to be a virtue, and Saturday night last this was very well demonstrated when the Captain of the local Salvation Army corps told an enthusiastic crowd of spectators on the street that Elder Henley was preaching false doctrine and leading people astray.

The poorly Henley shrugged his shoulders as he heard the deliverance and probably clinched his teeth as he thought of what he would say when turn would come, but it was not to be, as the army evidently were determined to hold the street—and hold it they did during all of their service, which was wholly conducted in the open air, and lasted until 9.30 p.m. At about 8.30 Elder Henley, after a short consultation with his companions, opened his meeting a few rods down the street from where the army were located and again we had the old realists—every church was wrong only the Saints—and the Salvation Army came in for a good share of criticism. But this occasion was to be a memorable one for brother Henley, and his smooth sailing of the past was to be turned into a tempest. His course remarks brought forth hisses, groans and jeers from the crowd and Colborne street presented a scene of pandemonium seldom, if ever witnessed in this usually quiet town. The Elder's attempts to be heard at last proved fruitless and he called on Felix for assistance, but Felix no doubt thought discretion the better part of valor and remained silent while the rebuked and roaring Elder withdrew, perhaps a sadder but wiser man. It is to be hoped that the curtain will now drop, that the last scene has been enacted, and that this disciple of the Latter Day Saints will figure no more on our streets in a drama which is at once as unnecessary as it is disgusting.

West—Mrs. Robinson and Hazel to British Columbia to visit the former's daughter, Mrs. James, and Miss Maud to Winnipeg, where she has secured a position.

Master Willie Sedgwick is home from Kinmount now. Mr. Harper again resuming his duties.

Miss Ella Herron is spending this week visiting friends in Stathope.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Bowhey visited friends here last week. They came from Lindsay to attend Mr. Bowhey's sister's funeral.

Mr. and Mrs. Garret and Mr. and Mrs. Prior were the guests of Mrs. Haight Lindsay.

MANILLA.
(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Your correspondent called at the Public Library one afternoon last week and was surprised to find no daily papers, so he wandered if the inhabitants were not interested in the daily events which are happening around them. A reading room is the best educator any village can have. John Moore has done a rushing business in implements this past season.

The farmers are busy threshing, and fall ploughing is being pushed in this section at present.

NORTH NAVYERS.
(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Mrs. Jas. Bushnell and son Ernest has returned home, after spending a very pleasant visit with Emily and Mount Pleasant friends.

Mr. David and Miss Maude Thornton spent Saturday and Sunday with Cavanaugh friends.

Miss L. Laidley, who has been spending the summer with friends in Port Hope, returned to her home on Friday.

Mr. Benson Drinn, of Port Hope, was a visit at the home of his uncle, Mr. Robert Porter, last week. He returned home on Monday, accompanied by his cousin, Miss Edna Porter.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hickson, Ops, paid their friends in this locality a visit last Thursday.

A dear little lady visitor arrived at the home of Mrs. John Henderson on Friday, Sept. 13th. This is why Jolie smiles.

Miss Edith Stinson, of Lindsay, is at present visiting her cousins, the Misses Maud and Mabel Stinson.

GELERT.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
The cold weather is gone and the bright sunshine brings the smile back to the peoples' faces.

Mr. Wm. Blair, thresher, has finished in this part and did splendid work.

Mr. R. Henderson was around here buying pigs and cattle last week.

Mrs. Henderson visited her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. John Sedgwick, Tuesday and Thursday evenings, spending the intervening time with her sister, Mrs. Austin, in Fenelon.

Mr. Gail and Mr. Bowhey have the sympathy of the community in their bereavement—the death of Mrs. Gail, formerly Miss Bowhey. The deceased leaves three little children, as well as her husband to mourn her loss. The funeral was largely attended on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Hughes, with master Roy are visiting friends in Lindsay and Peterboro this week.

Mr. John Sedgwick and his daughter, Miss Minerva, are away visiting friends. Miss Minerva intends staying a couple of weeks.

Mrs. Ritchie and Master Hume, of Markham, are holidaying here and calling on old friends.

Mrs. Robinson and Misses Maud and Hazel left Monday morning to travel
